It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

The effort to destroy or cripple the American Federation of Labor and the constructive trade union movement started before the world's war. This campaign was interrupted by the war and has been renewed with feverish ferocity since the signing of the armistice. This assertion is easily proved by the fact that at New York, December 17, 1920, in the testimony before the Lockwood Joint Legislative Committee of the State of New York, it was testified that a certain National Manufacturers' Association had as early as 1912 advanced money to the I. W. W., presumably to finance its campaign of boring from within in the constructive trade unions.

This is only one of the many vicious means employed by the manufacturers to establish what they call the open shop, the real name of which, however, is the non union shop. The woods are full of evidence to this effect. Hirelings are working in our own trade. We all know that the business agent of Union 527, Chicago, which recently seceded and formed a dual union, was on the payroll of the hostile manufacturers, that evidence to this effect was produced and the fact proved. We now understand that by his own admission another cigar-maker who worked with Winfield in some of his dealings, was on the payroll of a certain non union manufacturer as well as on that of one or two detective agencies.

Just how desperate this fight is, is shown by the Tampa strike and lockout. The manufacturers of Tampa have really sacrificed a year's business in this fight and have not been able to whip the union at that. This conspiracy and onslaught against the union extends through many trades. The battle is not over yet and won't be for some time. It is necessary for the workers to close up the ranks, sit tight, and shoulder to shoulder defend our position. If this is done and all stand courageous and true there can be no doubt as to the successful outcome of the struggle. In the meantime there will be some suffering. This we can not avert. Much depends upon the solidarity, determination, and stamina of the workers themselves. The one big job just ahead is maintaining our organizations intact. Those who will not do this or who persist in disruption are strengthening the enemy and helping this unrighteous conspiracy to destroy or cripple the union. Humanity, justice and fair dealing, and our constructive trade union movement are on one side; viciousness, greed, the privileged few, and the predatory rich are on the other side of this controversy. This is a time when real union men must stand up and be counted.

The overhead charges and actual running expense of the International Union are less per capita than any other labor organization in existence. This is proved by the actual figures. The per capita cost is about 3 9/10 cents per week. The great bulk of the expense of the International Office is fixed by the Constitution, which expenses the International President has to pay without question or choice.

It should be borne in mind that the great bulk of the printed supplies, etc., are furnished to local unions absolutely free. Note should be taken of the fact that the supplies for which a charge is made, such as day-books, ledgers, treasurer's account books, label cancelers, type, factory numbers, electro cuts for advertising the label, letterheads, envelopes, treasurers' vouchers, dues cancelers, label order blanks, etc., are included in this cost of 3 9/10 cents per week per member. If we were to deduct the cash supplies, and we could rightly do so, because this is a receipt and an expenditure, and counted in the 3 9/10 cents per member, it would reduce the sum to considerably less than the 3 9/10 cents per member. The free supplies consist of the Journal, labels, all due stamps, due books, traveling cards, loan cards, transfer cards, withdrawal cards, postal loan receipts, monthly reports, constitutions, strike blanks, organization circulars, supply order blanks, etc.

Other items fixed by the constitution are rent, printing (which includes the monthly Official Journal and the Union Label), the fixed tax to the American Federation of Labor, and Label Department, postage on Journals, letters, and supplies; express charges on supplies, labels, etc.; telegrams.

telephones, legal expenses, etc., etc.; and the salary of the International President; and the salaries of the clerks and stenographers, fixed by the International Executive Board; and the salaries and expense of the organizers and financier, fixed by the Constitution and the Board.

The actual expenses, which are in all instances absolutely necessary, that are controlled by the International President, do not amount to $\frac{1}{2}$ cent per member per week.

Just bear in mind that for this 3 9/10 cents per week per member you are getting the Official Journal, labels, your constitutions, your due books, your stamps, and many other things that make this small sum that it costs seem insignificant, and makes the oft-repeated libel or charge of extravagance ridiculous.

While the Union shop is never closed to the workers, the Manufacturers' Association of Los Angeles, Calif., no doubt a part of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, is not so broad.

The Brownstein-Lewis Co. of that city recently let a contract for the erection of an $800,000 factory building. The contract was based on union shop conditions and all firms fair to organized labor were given opportunity to bid on same.

The Manufacturers' Association immediately passed a resolution requesting the resignation of the Brownstein Co. from the association on account of their having based their contract on fair union conditions.

This comes from the organization that prates of their Americanism and loudly decries the activities of labor organizations as being something foreign to American ideals.

In starting the New Year and bearing in mind the momentous questions so fraught with ill or good to mankind and civilization, let us resolve that justice must take the place of viciousness and greed and that hatred of our fellows shall find no lodgement in our minds and hearts, and that thoughts conceived in righteousness and dedicated to the uplift of mankind shall not perish.

During this serious period of readjustment and rehabilitation, in which mankind is struggling to find a proper place in the sun, opportunity knocks at the door of all courageous, right-thinking men and women. May all such enlist in the great cause, and have the heart, determination, and fortitude to battle for justice, the right, and a square deal for all concerned.

The amendment of Union 3, Paterson, which proposed to do away with the organizers, has been defeated by an overwhelming vote of local unions, hence there is no necessity of defense of the proposition to maintain the organizers.

Organizers are a necessary part of our institution; they function in a manner that is helpful, useful, and necessary. The organizers, or some of them, may not suit many of the member, and probably don't, and it is probably true that no organizer could be secured who would suit everyone. There are some reasons why a great many members, who perhaps would make fairly good and satisfactory organizers, can not be obtained. In the first place, they have to spend their time on the road away from home. They are out at night, in all kinds of weather, rain or shine, hot or cold. They are up against the abuse of all non-union haters and defamers, hired sluggers, employed by cheap-John manufacturers, plug-uglies, and bulldozers, perhaps members but secretly on the payroll of the bosses; and often in danger of physical violence; and withal for small pay. Not only this, but some of the captiously-inclined of our own members find fault with whatever they do, whether it is good, bad, or indifferent. We are always looking for someone who really knows the trade union movement, the situation, the pay allowance, and the conditions under which he must work, the dangers and hardships, and the thankless tasks, and who can successfully fill the position of organizer.

Spies employed either by the manufacturers direct, or, as in most instances, through detective agencies, are in all trades and in most of the big unions.

One by one these parasites, who for downright rottenness surpass even Judas Iscariot, are being found out and exposed.

These spies are so careful in their movements and actions that it is hard to detect them. On general principles, however, it is always well to beware of the chap who is preaching the use of violence and making exorbitant demands. All men who do these things are not spies, informants, and traitors, but those who are of that type will give some indication that will warn the honest and real union man to be on the alert. One of this gentry has already been exposed. There are some others.

Sound economic principles and their constant dissemination are vitally important to the well-being and advancement of the great mass of our people. A correct knowledge of economics, spoken and written, is of the utmost importance. Newspapers or individuals who pervert or suppress the truth are guilty of a crime against civilization. People fed on false issues and falsehoods develop a state of mind which, being predicated upon a false foundation, nevertheless develops false thoughts which become a habit. This is just as deadly and as hard to cure as the drug habit. Newspapers that knowingly or unknowingly publish false statements about labor are creating a condition that will some day be a curse to mankind. Our republic can not grow, thrive, nor endure on poisonous nourishment. As we sow so shall we reap is as true of the soul and mind as it is of the soil. Those who belittle the law-abiding, constructive trade union movement are carrying a mighty responsibility. The privileged few have tried for ages to keep the masses in ignorance. As we develop in the art of self-government it will be found that ignorance is in reality more destructive and dangerous than knowledge.

Truth and Knowledge.

The spirit of greed, profit, and lust for power, which followed the close of the war, still lingers in our midst. So also does the determination of the masses for better working and living conditions. The great war was fought for the purpose of maintaining civilization, justice, and democracy. It should never be said that those who gave up their lives on the battlefield did so in vain. Those who made great sacrifices for the preservation of these worthy objects are not going to tamely submit to seeing them sacrificed on the altar of greed, viciousness and Mammon.

Justice vs. Greed.

History will chronicle the present age as one of organization and concentration. Industrial, commercial and financial interests are organized. There is no "open shop" in so far as organization in their ranks is concerned. They know that little can be accomplished without organization and they hold at its full worth the lesson of past experience. Their wisdom precludes the necessity of either organizers or missionaries to induce them to defend their economic interests behind the fortress of solidarity.

Not so with some of the workers, a large percentage of whom remain unorganized. They are deluded into either relying on the strength of their own individuality or the generosity of their employer. It appears they have yet to learn the lesson from the book of experience that the employer has accepted as gospel. They refuse to lend a receptive mind to the organizer, who after all is but the teacher who points out from the book of labor's struggle the necessity for concerted effort.

Liberty is the inos' priceless heritage of humanity. Liberty was never gained by individual action. If the masses of the workers have hope of realization there is but one road that leads to the goal and that road is plainly marked ORGANIZATION.

"Can't Strike, Open Shop" advocates, generally speaking, are those who are inclined to place property rights and the dollar sign above human rights. They hold that labor is nothing more than a commodity and as a commodity should be purchased in the open market, and as a commodity it should also come under their manipulation with their self made laws of "Supply and Demand." They are unanimous in agreeing that when business is run at a decreased profit it may cease to function and that factories may be closed tight when such conditions arise. On the other hand they deny the wage worker the right to cease work to redress grievances or to enforce a demand for a wage that will meet his normal requirements to say nothing at all of showing a profit.

If a factory can be closed by the owner and workers forced into idleness and starvation because his business is not showing a suitable profit, it is logical to reason that the same factory may be closed by the workers when the wage is insufficient to provide the necessities of life. The day must come and come soon when this principle shall be recognized and generally applied to business as a whole.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue in his annual report relative to income derived from the tobacco

Tax on Tobacco. industry says:

"The total receipts from all tobacco taxes during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1920, were $295,809,355.44, an increase of $89,806,263.60, or 43.6 per cent, over the preceding year. These receipts were the largest ever collected, and they exceeded the total internal revenue receipts from all sources for any fiscal year prior to 1911 except 1901 and 1866."

The largest increase over the preceding year from any one item is shown on cigarets, which since 1917 have furnished the greatest revenue of any tobacco product with the exception of 1903 to 1907, inclusive, when cigars led as a revenue producer.

Last year's cigar production was practically the same as the year previous and the leading cigar states are Pennsylvania, New York, Ohio, Florida, New Jersey and Virginia, in the order named.

In 1914 Internal Revenue receipts from tobacco products were $79,986,639.68. In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1920, they totaled $295,809,355.44, an increase of approximately 290 per cent in the six years.

There have been many inquiries and much speculation as to "Who is Who" in the lately formed dual

Actions Talk.

Amalgamated Tobacco Workers.

From the best information obtainable and from the fact that their activities are marked, it appears that leadership insofar as Chicago is concerned is vested in Jake Billow and Albert Lingenfelter.

Jake Billow, who was the delegate from the Chicago "Local" to the late dual convention held in New York, will be remembered as one of those instrumental in organizing the dual I. W. W. cigarmakers' union in Butte, Montana, a few years ago. After that organization, widely heralded as the salvation of the cigar trade, blew up within less than one year after its blatant birth, we find Billow in Chicago, working always in non-union shops. He played some minor part in helping to organize the Progressive Cigarmaker's Union of Chicago, which afterward amalgamated with the International Union at their own request. On the deposing of Chas. Winfield, Billow became the leader of that local, 527, and remained their leader and guiding star until he steered them out of the International and into his newly hatched "Amalgamated."

He boasts of his principles and loudly talks "Solidarity of the working class." To show how much he really practices his preachings we find that he never paid a single one of the $1.00 International Assessments levied in aid of the Tampa strike. We feel that no better illustration of his principle or his stand for solidarity can be depicted than this fact, that a man who is forever preaching "Class consciousness," "Solidarity," etc., etc., and then deliberately turns a deaf ear and a chilled steel pocketbook to the cry of his brothers on strike in Tampa is of little worth in any society.

Albert Lingenfelter, who plays second fiddle in the discordant anvil chorus, is notorious for the many fines against him for various offenses against the International Union.

It appears from his record that his inherent and all absorbing desire to talk has been the cause of much of his trouble. In 1906 he was fined $50.00 for revealing official business of No. 118, Peoria, Ill., to the I. W. W. and was later fined $30.00 for scabbing, by the same union.

We find Lingenfelter, too, long on "class consciousness" talk and woefully short on honest-to-goodness help to his fellow craftsmen, although he did pay one of the $1.00 International Assessments in aid of Tampa.

Further space would be wasted in enumerating more of the activities of these heroic leaders who now propose to "Emancipate the cigar and tobacco workers of the world."

During the transitory period following the war and during the rehabilitation that must take place before normal peace time conditions are reached, we must expect

The Burden. strenuous times. Following all great wars the survivors must suffer in peace as others did in the war. This can not be avoided. Labor will cheerfully shoulder only its fair share of the burden, and will resolutely insist that the big interests, financiers, and profiteers shall pay their full share as well.

NOTICE!

The election of International officers and delegates occurs Saturday, February 12th, 1921.

Official ballots, registry lists, and inspectors' reports were mailed or expressed to all local unions from the 7th to the 14th of January.

The attention of presidents, secretaries and inspectors of election is directed to the law, Section 11 to 42 inclusive. Secretaries are charged with, and should mail ballots to all jurisdiction members who have been such for one year, and in time to allow such members time to return their votes so that they will reach the secretary of the union on or before February 12th. Jurisdiction members mark their ballots with a cross opposite the names for which they wish to vote; inclose the ballots in an envelope addressed to the secretary of the union, with the word "Ballot" plainly marked on the envelope. The secretary preserves these envelopes unopened and hands them to the inspector who deposits them in the ballot box on February 12th.

Those holding retiring cards, including forty-cent members, are not entitled to vote. All thirty-cent and sixty-cent weekly dues paying members, who have been such for one year are entitled to vote, and under the law subject to a fine if they do not vote. Sick members who are reported as sick are excused from fine for failure to vote. Forty-cent members who have been admitted by retiring cards to full dues paying membership are entitled to vote provided their total membership since initiation covers a period of one year. Traveling members can vote without depositing their cards, but must be registered on the registry list by showing their due books and cards. As all members vote, they must have the word "voted" stamped or written on their due books by the inspector. Members have to mark the ballot with an indelible pencil, that is, mark a cross, thus (X) opposite the name or names they desire to vote for.

Each local union must provide booths or some convenient arrangement whereby the members can prepare ballots in secrecy. In some of the larger unions in previous elections, the inspectors have been able to and have borrowed the booths and ballot boxes from the election commissioners or officials in their town or city. The sample ballots must be placed in a conspicuous place in the hall or room where all voters may consult them before depositing their ballots.

Section 19 provides that local unions may regulate the hours of voting in their respective localities, but not to exceed six hours. Unions with a small membership may in regular or special meeting designate the hour or number of hours in which the polls shall be kept open. The place of voting and the hour or hours fixed for voting shall be made known to all members.

The attention of the inspectors is directed to the law, especially Sections 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30 and 31. Section 28 provides that the inspectors shall within forty hours of the close of the polls forward by registered mail or if the packages are too large, by express, the registry list, the voted ballots, the unvoted ballots, and their report, addressed to the International Canvassing Board, care of G. W. Perkins, 940 Monon Bldg., Chicago, Ill. Section 29 provides that the inspectors shall fill out three election return reports, and forward one to First Vice-President Samuel Gompers, this report should be sent to his Washington address, which is A. F. of L. Bldg., Washington, D. C., include one in the reports sent to the International Canvassing Board, care of the International President, and the third to be kept on file by the local union.

In the election of delegates, each member may vote for four candidates, that is, mark a cross opposite the names of four candidates they desire to vote for.

Certain interested unions or individuals persist in circulating the false and malicious statement that their communications are not published in the Journal. As a matter of fact, the record here in this office shows that in the last twenty-nine years about 25 communications have been refused publication. Some of these that I refused to publish were communications sent for the last Journal before the International election, boosting me for President and attacking my opponents. These letters I refused to publish as they were, to say the least, unfair, as they could not have been answered before the election. I have never refused to publish a letter containing an attack upon myself. I will not, however, knowingly publish a communication that contains misstatements calculated to injure the International Union.

Section 202 of the Constitution reads as follows: "Members feeling themselves aggrieved by a refusal of the President to publish their communications shall have the right to appeal to the International Executive Board, whose decision shall be final. The President shall return to the sender one copy of any unpublished manuscript, providing it is sent in duplicate, with reason for declining the same." Mighty few appeals have ever been taken, but when they have been the President's action in refusing to publish lying insinuations about and attacks upon the International Union have been unanimously sustained by the International Executive Board.

Be a booster; don't knock. Kick if you will; a good honest kick is often helpful. Don't destroy anything except injustice, greed, and informers. To build up, strengthen, and create is the surest and best mode of procedure.

Rumors are constantly being circulated that the Tampa strike is settled. Pay no attention to these rumors. The minute the Tampa strike is settled a special circular will be promptly mailed to all local unions.

Don't forget the election for International Officers and Delegates, February 12, 1921. Members who are entitled to vote are fined if they fail to do so.

CORRESPONDENCE

Chicago, Jan. 5, 1921.

My attention has been called to a circular letter recently issued by The Amalgamated Tobacco Workers, Chicago, in which they indulge in their usual attack on the C. M. I. U. and President Perkins.

They head their circular with the quotation "Lies succeed for a short time only. The light of truth shatters lies and destroys the liar." They then proceed to accuse President Perkins of falsifying in an editorial which said in substance that "Progressive" Local, 527, Chicago, had turned in their charter and withdrew from the International Union to evade payment of dues and assessments to the C. M. I. U. and then attempt to substantiate their charge by showing the amount they have sent to Tampa.

They close their circular by referring to me to verify "the above statements" which includes of course everything contained in their scurrilous circular. Let me say in "verification" that the only part of the circular I can subscribe to is the quotation. I am fully satisfied that time will prove the aptness of this when applied to the life of the "Amalgamated" for its propaganda is based on lies, lies and still more lies.

They claim to have sent to Tampa a total of $2,536.00. Let us accept this as stated, but had they remained members of the C. M. I. U. they would have paid to Tampa $14,000.00 in the assessment being paid regularly by Chicago members since the inception of the strike in the form of a local assessment to say nothing of the $10,400.00 which the $1.00 and the 50c International assessments would have amounted to. This makes a total of $24,400.00 and is based on a membership of 400. They claim to have had more. There is quite a difference between $2,536.00 and $24,400.00 and that difference of $21,864.00 represents exactly what they are short when compared with 400 regular union men who have paid or are paying that amount. This difference would represent a good deal to Tampa, too, and had they had it I am sure it would have done them more good than has the many circulars sent there by this band of disruptionists.

I have a letter on file from the Secretary of 527, in which he confirms a notice served on the J. A. B., Chicago, that 527 would not pay any more of the Chicago assessment levied in aid of the Tampa strikers but that their intention was to send their money to the dual organization there. This notice was served on the J. A. B., Chicago, shortly after Chicago in an enthusiastic joint meeting had decided on the $1.00 per week local assessment that has been running since May 3, 1920.

Trusting my "verification" meets the approval of all members of the C. M. I. U. who believe that "the light of truth shatters lies and destroys the liar," I am,

Fraternally,

Kalamazoo, Mich.

No greater necessity has presented itself than at the present time for us to bestir ourselves. To take from our small earnings to pay a strike benefit that they cannot exist upon, while they idle and starve back into the factory, is to become conscious that we cannot stand this sort of thing forever. Money spent in strike benefits is gone. Money put in the shop means you are working while on strike. You are earning a good living and the money is not gone but returns to you. The Bricklayers' Union started a shop in their line in the southwest. It proved to be such a success that another will be started near Chicago. Remember, brothers, these shops are yours, with possibilities endless. Ownership from factory to field. Your own jobs and the setting a price on your own labor. The absorption of the industry. The magnetic pull of all labor of the craft to the union. The dwindling of women and children and replacing man as the breadwinner of the family in our trade. Our labor and capital against capital. The first war of labor against capital without privation. The diminishing of the trust and final elimination. Then emancipation of ourselves to the end that we may get the product of toil. This idea should appeal to us all. This is a step aside from the beaten path, but what of that? As it is we struggle along without apparent aim or object until we are old to discover the goal is charity or the poorhouse. Let us get out of this hypnotic state. Capitalists use brain but no brawn; they look to us for brawn. Why not use our brain and cheat them out of our brawn? We urge the adoption of the proposed amendment of Union 208 of Kalamazoo, found elsewhere in this Journal, pertaining to the establishing of International shops in the strike zone.

W. O. CORY,
F. A. GALLAGHER.

Washington, January, 1921.—Active work on controlling the venereal diseases (gonorrhea and syphilis) is now being done in every state of the Union except one (Nevada). The campaign is carried on by a special division of each state board of health with a representative from the United States Public Health Service as director.

The work of the states has been possible through financial assistance given by the Federal Government. When it became known that at least five-sixths of the cases of these diseases found among men drafted into the army were brought by them from their home communities, the people of the country realized that something must be done to combat this evil in the cities and towns from which the men were coming. Congress, therefore, passed a law setting aside $1,000,000 to be divided among those states which complied with certain requirements for controlling this menace.

Each state, to secure its share of this $1,000,000, passed a law requiring that physicians and health officers report all cases of venereal infection to the state board, just as scarlet fever, tuberculosis and other contagious diseases are reported. In most states these reports are made by number, however, and the name of the individual is not used unless he refuses to take treatment or to observe the precautions necessary to prevent his passing on the infection to others. Surgeon General H. S. Cumming of the Public Health Service says that at the close of the first two years' work over 500,000 cases of these diseases have been reported.

In order to secure their allotments the states have also established clinics where free treatment is given. They are distributing pamphlets, posting placards, showing exhibits and sending out speakers to tell the people of the dangers of these diseases. Furthermore, in 1920 and 1921, each state set aside from state funds an amount equal to that received from the government for use in financing the work.

Los Angeles, Calif., Dec. 20, 1920.

Please insert in the next month's Journal a notice notifying all cigarmakers to stay away from Los Angeles. This should have been done some time ago, but better late than never. The cigar business is something "ferce." All the non-union shops are closed. About thirty union members are working, so you see it is pretty bad.

Yours fraternally,

D. O. DEANE.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 4, 1921.

The holiday season which is usually marked in the cigar industry by business taking on renewed color of activity, was not so favorably distinguished in this section of the country for the past few weeks. In fact, conditions just to the contrary prevailed in many of the factories, and there was a tendency to "soft pedal" on the output when manufacturers should have been skidding along at full blast and the earning capacity of cigarmakers rewarded by increased envelopes.

But there has been a pronounced lull in the industry following close on the heels of the National election last November, occasioned by a deep seated wave started over the country by "Big Business" to retrench, and large employers of labor in various lines of industry falling in step in rapid succession with the announcement of reductions in wages from 10 to 33 per cent, and in connection therewith, the discharge, or laying off thousands of employees in nearly every industrial center in the United States.

That was sufficient cause to throw a spectre of fear and cast a shadow of alarm over the minds of all branches of business even though they were not yet affected by the pinch of stagnation in trade, but they accepted the warning of and impending slump to avoid a possible clash, and if they were not already secretly a party to the program to cut wages, and establish the non-union shop, by their acts they have materially contributed to the desire of those who hope to realize that expectation—by placing the burden of a heavier load on the backs of the workers, and destroying the organized labor movement.

Many of the factories here have not resumed work, and several of the trust shops it is understood are revising their scale of prices preparatory to large reductions in wages when operations commence again in their factories. There is no justification whatsoever for even the contemplation of reducing wages of the cigarmaker in this, or any other part of the country, for manufacturers of cigars have reaped a fat harvest from flourishing business and handsome profits in the past several years, while the increase in wages to the workmen in proportion has not been in keeping with the cost of living. But the trust factories are a heartless institution, and their slogan is "greater output for less pay" so that their profits will be more and more, and their employees will become more subjugated.

The surest way to offset that condition is to organize under the banner of the Cigarmakers' Union, and the time to begin is now. There should be no hesitancy or delay on the part of the unorganized workers to come in and join hands with the members of our union to strengthen the circle of resistance against the cheap wage, and union-busting employer, so that an equitable wage can more readily be maintained and a basic standard of compensation be established in the industry.

The trend of the times seem to indicate that there will be lean days ahead of us, and a greater depression will set in before a change for the better will take place. But as yet, there is no grave cause for alarm, the financial condition of the country is sound, confidence will soon be restored and the equilibrium of industry mounted on a well balanced pedestal. Our Union is intact and sound to the core; it is bound to endure. The bubble inflated by the "Dual or Rival Union" recently attempted at convention in New York has been pricked and the noxious gas cozed out, the balloon now lies flat. The propagandist league, too, are floundering for words to explain, or an idea worth while to spring on the craft as the result of their much advertised conference for industrial unionism, or the O. B. U. bug under their hats.

R. S. SEXTON, General Organizer.

London, Ont., Jan. 6th, 1921.

Mr. G. W. Perkins,
President C. M. I. U.,
Monon Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:—

At a special meeting called by Local 278 on Tuesday, Jan. 4th, for the purpose of taking action on the local situation, I made it plain to the members that I attended at the request of Union 278, that the situation was in their hands; and I would willingly give my service in an advisory capacity.

I explained the conditions of our trade both in Canada and the U. S., and went into details regarding the automatic machines, and the position taken by the International in this question. I also explained the policy of the open shop proposition and what it would mean to the organization. I did not hesitate to let them know that there was a movement on foot to wreck the C. M. I. U. by the non-union manufacturer and some of the members who are boring from within.

As the information given at the meeting was mostly consisting of rumors I advised them to appoint a committee to visit the different firms in question and get a statement from them. The following committee was appointed: Mr. J. McGuire, Mr. B. Hertel and T. Navin. I was invited by Union 278 to accompany the committee.

Jan. 5 the committee received the following statement from J. McNee and Son: Statement, that in order to meet competition he has installed four automatic machines. He intends to operate these machines with girls who are unfamiliar with the cigar industry. He told us plainly that he would not allow the union to butt in and make an attempt to organize the machine operators. He wants union men to work in the shop with non-union machine operators. His contention was that some men would always be employed on hand work but if the machines proved successful he would use more machines and thus release cigarmakers as the machines were put in.

Mr. Brenner, of Valens Co. Statement was as follows: That he was through as a cigar manufacturer and that he has sold his factory to the General Cigar Co. of Canada and they would operate in Montreal under non-union conditions. The building is now for rent.

Mr. M. Collazo, statement was as follows: That he would not open his factory until everything was settled. He strongly objected to the union allowing cigarmakers to work in the McNee, as it would be a detriment to his and other Union factories.

Jan. 6th, Committee called on the firm of McLeod & Nolan Co. Statement of Mr. Nolan, that they would have to reduce cigars on hand and would set no time when they would open the factory. Cigarmakers were all discharged except one, who is still working. Would give no definite statement under what conditions they would reopen but strongly hinted that it would not be under present union conditions.

Jan. 7th, special meeting was called by Union 278 and the report of the special committee was read. It was the contention of the members that in order to maintain their organization it would be impossible to accept the proposition of the various firms as stated above and by a unanimous vote decided to ask for lock-out benefits.

JAS. A. SULLIVAN,
Int. Organizer.

LETTERS OF ACCEPTANCE.

Nearly all of the members who were nominated for the various offices to be filled at the coming election and who have declined requested that the unions nominating them should be thanked, through the Official Journal, with assurances of appreciation for the honor conferred. This notice, then, may be accepted as such letter of thanks and appreciation for all concerned.

Sec. 16. Within three days after the nominations have been closed the International President shall issue a circular letter to all the eligible candidates, notifying them of their nomination and the office to which they have been nominated. In the circular he shall also require the candidate to send a letter within twenty days accepting the nomination, and in said letter to give his views of the methods and aims of the International Union. These letters shall not contain more than 500 words each, and shall be published in the December and January issues of the Official Journal, immediately succeeding the nominations. Should any candidate not send in the letter as prescribed herein, and within the specified time, his name shall be stricken from the list of eligibles for the election.

Agreeable to the foregoing constitutional proviso, the following sent letters of acceptance:

INTERNATIONAL PRESIDENT:

Chicago, Ill.

Fellow Workmen: With deep appreciation and a stern realization of responsibility, I accept the nomination for President. Periods of readjustment impose tremendous responsibilities. Trade unionism is attacked upon all sides. A mighty task lies just ahead. To successfully bear the burden requires stout hearts and an abiding faith in our movement.

The economic problem is the greatest problem, and doubly so during times of rehabilitation. The paramount issue is sound organization and a formidable structure to maintain it. A firm determination to adopt and maintain fundamental principles is essential, and an equally firm determination not to be led from the path of duty by false issues. Organization of the workers is not an easy task. There is no rosy pathway to success. Those who think otherwise are doomed to disappointment. Work, confidence and faith in the justice of our cause, with a realization of proper economic organization leads to success. Lasting values were never obtained without hard work. I believe in righteous discontent and in progress but not in destruction.

High dues are necessary for permanent, effective organization. Fraternal benefits constitute one of the strongest links that hold us together. Anything that is cheap is worthless. Cheap dues make for ineffective unions. The higher the dues the stronger the union.

I oppose repudiation, the separation of the funds, and an optional sick and death benefit membership class, which means final repudiation of benefits.

We should have more effective arbitration laws, such, however, as will maintain the fundamental right to strike as a last resort.

Conventions at least every three years are necessary in order to make laws to keep us in step with changing conditions.

The majority should rule. Leadership should always courageously stand for principle and real progressive advancement and should accept the will of the majority regardless of personal consequences.

Our membership is composed of men and women holding various political opinions, and since the indisputable necessity is industrial organization it would be the summit of folly to declare for partisan politics of any kind. We can agree upon wages, hours of labor and conditions in our economic organization, and should leave our membership fancy free on the political field of endeavor.

Justice must take the place of viciousness and greed. Constructive trade-unionism points the way to success. Confusion, conflicting emotions, hatred and passion should have no place in our movement. Social justice follows industrial equity. The only potent force standing between tyranny and greed and the producing masses is the trade-union movement.

Experience has demonstrated the necessity of united action and proved the efficacy of trade-union activity.

I believe in the International Union, its principles, aims and objects, and declare it the means by which we can function best in our efforts to obtain a realization of our just hopes and aspirations.

Our union, conceived in righteousness, born of necessity, and dedicated to love of mankind, can not perish. It will grow in proportion to correct methods applied.

Yours fraternally,

G. W. PERKINS.

New York, Dec. 1, 1920.

Fellow Members of Cigar Makers' International Union:

I hereby accept nomination for International President.

The purpose of our union is clearly stated in the preamble to the Constitution, to which I subscribe.

To realize that principle, you must elect as your officers those who have the vision, the knowledge and the conviction as well as the confidence of the members.

Our organization is losing members daily; the unorganized will not join as long as we retain our present official staff. The unorganized does not only question the ability, but the honesty of the present staff.

I want to say emphatically no man is qualified to serve as an officer who has not been employed at the trade in the past five years, for it has undergone extensive and intensive changes that disqualify an officer from a true expression of conditions who has not personally participated in the changed condition.

I have worked continuously at the trade for 30 years in the U. S. and Canada. I know from personal experience the extreme difference in shop conditions, east and west, north and south. I know the cigar makers want an organization that will protect in raising their environment to civilized standards which they do not occupy today.

Our organization is a joke in many localities today because of the apathy of the cigar maker, the treachery and lack of executive ability of the official.

Our organization is bankrupt financially and mentally. To make it function financially we will have to radically change our beneficiary system, to appeal to the unorganized. The death benefit will have to be reduced to not over $100.00.

We should immediately make provision for co-operative shops to be owned by organized labor.

I stand unconditionally for industrial organization of the tobacco industry, cigar makers, bunch makers, right and left handed rollers, suction table rollers and bunchmakers, machine workers, packers, strippers, casers, banders, and stampers, and all employees handling tobacco in any form in a tobacco factory.

My experience in the past general strike in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Boston proves the trade can be organized if you elect officials who have vision and the confidence of the unorganized, and unless we do proceed at once to organize the unorganized, our organization is not worth the paper it is written on.

Should you select me as your next president, you can expect a complete change in policy and principle, and should I fail in my first term to produce more practical benefits to the industry than has been accomplished in the past 25 years, it is up to you to remove me at once.

Mr. Cigar Maker, whatever your decision is. I will stay with the ship until it sinks.

Fraternally,
JAMES A. De BELL.

Comrades of the C. M. I. U. of A.:

There are a number of questions within our organization which await a proper solution, and probably the most pressing one of all is the organization of the unorganized men and women in our industry.

Though many attempts were made in the past to bring them into the fold, so far but little has been actually accomplished. For many years it has been our dream that some day we may succeed in this, but instead we find ourselves farther away than ever before. Surely there must be something wrong somewhere. Either the form of our organization fails to appeal to them or else we have failed to win their confidence. If it is the fault of our organization that keeps them from casting their future with ours, I believe we should lose no time in making the necessary changes in the benefit laws that we may fully conform to their desires. If it is the latter, then I believe that if approached with a spirit of true comradeship we will have no trouble in gaining their confidence.

I have an all abiding faith in the men and women of our industry outside the organization. I believe that their hearts beat true to the principles of unionism if only shown our willingness to stand or fall with them. I shall leave nothing undone that may hold us from welding the workers in our line into a living and compact fighting force, because if there is strength in unity there must be more strength in larger unity. If elected I shall bend all my energies to smooth away whatever difficulties may stand between us, as I consider the full organization of our craft as of the highest importance.

Of course, it is but natural that to maintain the International Office it is necessary that funds be provided to carry on the work, but I believe that the president should not be permitted to spend such funds to the point of extravagance. Our International Office is costing the organization entirely too much. I am utterly opposed to reckless expenditure of the hard earned money of the membership unless the returns shall warrant it. I shall always consider it a crime to spend more than is absolutely necessary so long as the growth of our union remains stationary.

I hold that it is not in keeping with the democratic form of our organization for the president to assume autocratic powers. I am not a believer in the idea that a president may with impunity insult members by calling them traitors and cowards simply because such members may hold an opinion upon matters of laws or amendments to the laws. I believe that the humblest member shall have the right to freely submit his views upon any question and be helped by the president, rather than hindered, in submitting views or opinions to the judgment of the membership. The initiative and referendum was embodied into our laws for this purpose and no officer must be permitted to vilify a member and use coercion to deny him this most fundamental right.

A presiding officer is valuable to an organization only when he is willing to co-operate with the membership in every way and stand ready to accept the advice and judgment of their intellect. Such a communism and co-operation of officer and membership can not fail to bring strength and unity into our organization.

Nothing has hurt us so much in the past as the total absence of a spirit of good will and comradeship in our ranks and nothing is so sadly needed just now when we find ourselves so beset by problems of organizing the unorganized, finding a solution of the question of benefits to overcome the objection of those whom we must have within our body and provide better facilities to finance the struggles we will encounter in so doing, as well as our own strikes.

If elected I shall either make good or give way to some one who will.

Fraternally yours for a higher and nobler life for the workers.

JAS. S. SMITH.

Janesville, Wis., Nov. 26, 1920.

FIRST VICE PRESIDENT.

Washington, D. C., 1920.

To the Officers and Members of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America.

Fellow Cigar Makers:

If ever unity of action and spirit was necessary by every person working at our craft, that time is now. The forces of reaction are endeavoring to drive back the advantage ground which the workers have won in recent years.

The Cleveland convention laid the plans for the thorough organization of every worker in our industry. Every facility should be used to bring all of them into the International Union, and it can be done and will be done if we are all true to each other and to our own interests.

Progress is not made by leaps and bounds. Our International Union affords the ways and the means by which the lot and condition of the cigar makers and of all the workers in the cigar industry can be protected and promoted.

As a member of our International Union, as one of its officials, as its representative in the great labor movement in America, I have endeavored to carry the principles of our organization to the fullest fruition. If elected by the membership I shall deem it not only an honor, but a mandate to help carry on the work of organization, education, the attainment of the justice to which we are all entitled, and the abolition of every wrong which we have too long endured.

Fraternally yours,

SAMUEL GOMPERS.

First Vice President.

FIRST VICE PRESIDENT.

New York, N. Y., 1920.

Fellow Trade Unionists:

In accepting the nomination for First Vice President, I have to say that one of the burning questions is the fraternal benefit feature in our organization—the sick and death benefit.

I believe that we have reached a climax, and that something must be done. I do not believe in doing away with the benefit because I feel that the members who have paid so many years into the union and who have been told through law that they will reap the benefit have the right to receive same, but what I do claim should be done is, that a sufficient fund should be created in the International Union so that the members who are entitled to the endowment should receive same.

I do not deny the fact that it is a beautiful feature to assist our fellow men, but we have been trying all these years to do something that is impossible—which is to serve two masters at one time. We have been trying to function as an economic organization, also a sick and death benefit society, and we find that both cannot be run with success—either one may suffer and the possibilities are that in the end both will suffer, and therefore I maintain that there must be a division of funds—one to serve the economic interest and the other to protect the members that are entitled to the death benefit feature. We must not forget that the cigar makers have been organized into an International Union for their economic interest first, and that should be uppermost in the mind, because it is only through our economic strength that we can combat the economic enemy of labor.

I believe also there should be home rule for all large cigar centers. What I mean is, if there are any grievances in a factory or factories that a competent committee of the Joint Advisory Board should investigate the matter, and that after all had been done or could be done through negotiating with the employer, and if all this has failed and a strike is called through a referendum vote and when regulated, then the members would get their strike benefit from the day the strike had been declared by a referendum vote in the locality where the trouble may exist and same to be reported to the International President.

I also believe that the International President and the Executive Board of the C. M. I. U. of A. should outline plans for education along industrial lines, and I also believe that our Official Journal should not only be used for trade statistics, which I realize are of vital importance, but also to give sufficient space for the members to learn where real economic interest lies. It may be, then, through those sources that they will understand that the organization is really for their interest as far as wages and conditions are concerned, more so than for sick and death benefits—so we would become a militant organization.

Yours fraternally,
JACK MELHADO.

SECOND VICE PRESIDENT.

Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 27, 1920.

Fellow Members:

In accepting the nomination for Second Vice President of the C. M. I. U. of A., which has been tendered me by so many of the local unions, I wish to repeat my views as expressed in past elections for International officers.

Five more years have been added to the history of the labor movement, not without results. We may not see them as yet, but I am firmly convinced that these results are in the making, and that before many months we will see our industry organized as it never was before. The idea of a proper organization was given to the Cleveland convention, but the majority of the delegates voted it down. I believe that the membership eventually will put the idea into action. The destinies of the industry from the employers' point of view are shaping on a co-operative basis. Why should not the destinies of the employees' point of view? Just compare the psychology of the custom tailors with the garment workers and later the amalgamated clothing workers. Let's take heed from that. Why should the balance wheel of a watch be the only part to consider? Other parts of a watch are just as necessary. Other parts of our trade are just as necessary to our welfare.

I favor a 100 per cent organization, but if I see we can not get it with our high dues and assessments, then let us make these reasonable to them. Let us make the inducement to them such that they can not refuse to come in. Then in a co-operative spirit emancipate our craft, our industry.

In this spirit should all crafts be fully organized and through this we would find the means for the final emancipation of labor.

Fraternally,
L. P. HOFFMAN.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 20, 1920.

Fellow Craftsmen:

I accept the nomination of Second Vice President and thank the local unions who have honored me by placing my name in nomination for that office.

In stating my views of the aims and purposes of our organization, I desire to say that upon the completion of my apprenticeship I became a member of the Cigar Makers' International Union because I believed in its principles. Today my faith in our organization remains unchanged, for, although we have met with some reverses, history proves that through our organization we have increased wages and decreased the working hours of our craft, fulfilled every obligation to our members and contributed much toward the advancement of the labor movement. Moreover, the only successful labor movement is built upon the solid foundation of trade unionism, hence my firm belief in our present form of organization. Although our union has been and is of incalculable benefit to our members, the full measure of its possible benefits cannot be enjoyed until all workers in the trade are within our ranks, for the unorganized members of our industry selling their labor for less than the union rate constitute the chief obstacle to our complete success.

Therefore, I favor conducting an intensive campaign of education and agitation among the unorganized and I believe in admitting to membership all workers engaged in the cigar industry, because it is by solidarity and unity of action alone, such as has been shown by the Tampa strikers, for example, that we can enjoy the full benefits of trade unionism.

I favor a continuance of the sick and death benefits, because experience has shown that many members have remained such in times of business depression and adversity only because they valued these benefits. Again, in time of sickness and infirmity, thousands of our members have been entirely dependent upon the sick benefit received from our union and without it must have asked for charity to furnish medical aid.

Still further, in many instances deceased members would have been buried in Potter's field and their families subjected to humiliation and distress had it not been for the receipt of their death benefit from our unions. Among the chief obligations of humanity are to care for the sick and to bury the dead. Therefore, I favor the continuance of our sick and death benefit plan until a better one has been proposed and adopted.

In addition to our regular strike benefit feature, I favor the maintenance of a special strike fund to be used in lockouts and prolonged strikes.

In conclusion I would say that I believe we are facing the most critical period of our history, for the enemies of organized labor are even now making war against us to the end that they may destroy the only barrier that stands between the workers and wage slavery. Therefore, let us resolve that we shall face the enemy with a united and increased membership, firm in our conviction that trade unionism cannot and will not be destroyed.

Yours fraternally,
I. M. ORNBURN.

Hammond, Ind., Dec. 2, 1920.

Dear Sir: For the last 30 consecutive years I have acted to the best of my ability trying to organize the cigar makers and other workers with whom I had the opportunity to associate and address.

The future policy of our organization depends upon the knowledge of the majority members. Before we can evolve to idealism mental laziness must be abolished. It is not in accord with the intellectual welfare of our craft, or the import of our union. To free ourselves mentally will reduce our physical efforts to the minimum. Therefore, the study of economics and history, biology, astronomy, geology, sociology and metaphysics, should be encouraged if we wish to harmonize with future civilization.

Knowing that poverty and crimes, wars and revolutions, mental confusion and strikes, are born of an economic division, I favor a vigorous campaign among the people, hoping to organize them strong enough to eliminate the economic division that has caused so much anxiety in the past. To guarantee supremacy to the people, we must educate and make them economically secure. To do it we must lay our foundation upon the invulnerable rock of industrial democracy. Stupendous as our task may be, it is the solution of the labor problem.

I will accept the nomination for Second Vice President of the C. M. I. U. of A., with the hope that our union shall be in the vanguard of industrial democracy. Yours truly,

WILLIAM KELLY.

THIRD VICE PRESIDENT.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 22, 1920.
To the Officers and Members of Our International Union.—Fellow Craftsmen:

In accepting the nomination for Third Vice President, I wish to tender thanks to my nominators and to express a few thoughts which will, in my opinion, assist in maintaining the prestige of the International Union and assuring greater strength for the future.

I strongly favor our laws which provide the machinery to levy International assessments whenever any portion of our members are assailed by a combination of vicious employers, such as are now waging a war against our Tampa brothers.

I also approve of a rate of dues sufficient to pay all our present chain of benefits, because I believe the beneficial features have greatly assisted in maintaining the stability of our international while undergoing the strain of the Tampa struggle. All honor to the Tampa strikers for their determination to win. We must continue to supply the ammunition, because the fight of the Tampa members is also our fight.

The individual and collective status of our local unions will determine just what effective work may be accomplished to uplift our craft on the American continent, because our democratic laws give every opportunity to the members to strengthen our International Union.

We must not only talk, but we must practice "co-operation." If we expect greater results we must have greater "cohesion"; we must therefore avoid and beware of any proposed "dual movement."

We must also have a greater "continuity of action" in our label agitation to overcome the increasing power of the trust made products.

Our present laws, or more properly the lack of same and up to date laws, to advance the sale of union label cigars, is to be regretted. I have the greatest respect and admiration for the brilliant advertising work of Boston union and several other locals in the "eastern states," because they practice, with good effect that "continuity of action." How many score of smaller locals have failed to obtain advertising results from the International funds expended? The present method of individual local action is responsible. The local interest is contracted instead of being expanded. State or provincial label leagues are doing good work, but many large districts under our International jurisdiction are without label leagues, some times by reason of the scattered small locals and also by the indifference shown by larger locals.

Therefore, I would strongly advocate the creation of an International Advertising Bureau, to issue and circulate up to date label advertising over the North American continent.

Fraternally yours,
D. W. KENNEDY.

Toronto, Nov. 20, 1920.

To Members of C. M. I. U. of A.

Having received the nomination for Third Vice President, I take the constitutional method of informing the membership of my opinion in regard to our present International Union.

There seems to be a great amount of dissension among our membership, and sorry to say our organization has been made the "goat" of and held up as the real reason for the dissension. There are some who seem to think that we need a new union. I wish to point out that unless we have more solidarity we will in a short space of time have no union.

I believe, and I am absolutely certain, that we have at the present time the most democratic organization in existence. It is true our union is not quite what we would like it to be. But remember the majority of the members have the power to change the Constitution and make the organization just as they want it. What more can an organization offer its membership?

Our benefit system has been held up to ridicule by large numbers of our membership as being responsible for big dues and assessments. The International President has pointed out to the membership several times in our journal that it was the large number of members out on strike that was responsible for heavy assessments. Nobody can deny this statement. Look up the financial statements for the past two years and see amount paid out in strike benefits.

Fellow members, above all let's have unity, and with a thorough campaign to organize the unorganized and the return of normal times, I firmly believe the time will come when the workers in our industry will stand second to none. I appeal to you members, no matter what officers you elect this time, give them your respect and support and our organization will again push onward. If I am elected to your International Executive Board or not, I will always fight for solidarity and the International Union.

Yours fraternally,
A. McDONALD.

FOURTH VICE PRESIDENT.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 2, 1920.

Fellow Craftsmen:

Having been officially notified by the International President of my nomination for the office of Fourth Vice President of the C. M. I. U. of A., I herewith accept the honor conferred upon me by the unions that have placed my name in nomination. My views as to the aims and objects are expressed by the preamble of the constitution, which says organization being necessary for the amelioration and final emancipation of labor, etc., in order to ameliorate our lot we must endeavor to thoroughly organize our craft not only along protective and fraternal lines, but also as class conscious wage workers to take advantage of all opportunities to improve our conditions and educate ourselves in order that we may realize our final emancipation, i. e., the final abolition of wage slavery.

The paramount issue confronting our organization at the present time should be uniform bills of prices and uniform interpretation of them. This could be done by dividing the country into sections and have one bill of prices for each section, with a board of control to interpret them. This would eventually lead up to a universal bill of prices instead of a multitude of bills of prices, as we now have throughout the country.

Again thanking those unions that have placed me in nomination and assuring the members that should I be re-elected that I will use my best efforts to fulfill the duties of my office in a fair and impartial manner, strictly in accordance with the constitution adopted by the Cleveland convention and ratified by a referendum vote of the members of the C. M. I. U. of A.

Yours fraternally,
JOHN REICHERT.

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 22, 1920.

Fellow Members:

Having been nominated by 44 local unions for Fourth Vice President, I deem it my duty to accept these nominations and I do so with a feeling of gratitude, and I thank the unions for the honor conferred upon me.

I have been a member of the Cigar Makers' International Union for 19 years, and I am a firm believer of the policy of our organization, and the only organization that can and that will better our conditions. I feel satisfied that without our chain of benefits our organization, and no other, would exist any length of time.

I believe in amending our constitution when necessary, but do not believe in destroying our organization to afterward try and construct another. I do not believe in fooling my fellow workers with dreams of cheap dues and large benefits—this cannot be done.

I believe that our trade should be completely organized, and that this should be done at the earliest time possible. A special campaign should be continued, especially in the cheap districts. This will give the organized cities a better opportunity of maintaining their conditions and bettering their standard.

If elected, will do my best to advance the welfare of all members of our International Union, and not particularly a section or district. I will always comply with our constitution. We should respect our laws.

I wish it to be understood that I will be and will act as a true blue member and officer of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America.

With best wishes for all of our members, I remain, yours fraternally,

MANUEL GONZALEZ.

Eau Claire, Wis., Nov. 24, 1920.

Dear Sir and Brother:

In reply to your notification of my nomination for Fourth Vice President, would advise that I will accept same, and in compliance with Section 16 I am writing these few lines.

I am making no criticism nor suggest any changes at this time, but to accomplish any great purpose in the cigar and tobacco industry there must be organizing efforts under competent leaders, sympathetic co-operation from all organized trades and a due regard for the rights and welfare of all engaged in the undertaking are important elements of success, but organization must be maintained and responsible leadership acknowledged.

Fraternally yours,

GUY J. JOHNSON.

Tampa, Fla., Nov. 19, 1920.

Having been honored by Local No. 17 of Cleveland, Ohio, with the nomination to Fourth Vice President of our International Union, I hereby beg to inform you that I accept to be a candidate.

I regret that it is almost impossible for me to comply with the constitutional provisions for this case, as I have not time to devote in writing my viewpoints regarding the development of our International Union.

The strike in which I am directly affected has taken and is still taking all my time, and it will be a very hard task for me to turn my attention over to any other matter just now, so I hope that my position will be fully understood.

As a member of the ranks I am fighting since April 14th last and have devoted all my will and little knowledge to the betterment of our class as an organization, and will continue to do so to the utmost of my ability, no matter what the result of the election may be.

Fraternally yours,

NICHOLAS LARA

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 25, 1920

Dear Brother:

Having been placed in nomination by Local No. 46 of Grand Rapids, Mich., for the office of Fourth Vice President, I wish, in compliance with Section 16, to notify you of my acceptance of same.

I have been a continuous member of the cigar makers for 30 years, consequently I know that I am in a position to realize the aims and objects of our supreme body and all of its locals. It has always been my contention that affiliation with the Cigar Makers' International has always meant the betterment and uplift of our craft. It also means that being a member and living up to the oath taken at time of initiation leads the way to better manhood, both physically and mentally; better workers, brotherly love, sanitary shop conditions and assisting our officers, both local and international, in every way possible.

In this immediate jurisdiction I feel that we are sadly in need of organization, and in case I am fortunate enough to be chosen Fourth Vice President I will do everything in my power to remedy the situation here and will at all times be ready to submit to the will of my superior officers.

The organizing of girl cigar makers seems to be the hardest nut to crack here. They seem to be satisfied with present conditions and remain in "scab" shops, completely ignoring all appeals made by officials of No. 46. As a remedy, I would suggest that all locals elect or appoint a delegation of live wires to each central body and that that delegation ask for a committee to visit all locals affiliated with said central bodies and insist that union men refrain from buying cigars, tobacco, cigarettes and wearing apparel that do not bear the union label. I believe a campaign along the above line would mean a greater demand for Blue Label cigars, consequently a greater demand for men to make them, and an increase in membership. I have also noticed, by close observation, that a number of members of other unions pay no attention whatever to the Blue Label when purchasing a cigar. Those men should be taught to respect all labels, and thereby prove that they are union men in the true sense of the word.

In conclusion I wish to thank the members of No. 46 for the great honor they have conferred upon me by selecting me as its choice for the Fourth Vice Presidency of the International.

Wishing all members of the Cigar Makers' International Union, together with its supreme officers, a prosperous and successful holiday season, I beg to remain,

Fraternally yours,

ADRIAN E. PICKETT.

FIFTH VICE PRESIDENT.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 25, 1920.

Dear Sirs and Bros.:

Yours of recent date advising me of my nomination as Fifth Vice President by a number of unions received, and in accepting same it is with the realization of the responsibilities which devolve upon me, if elected.

As in the past, I assure the membership that I am a trade unionist and believe in not only the officers being active in every line of endeavor that will bring to the worker that which he is entitled to, but that every member should be the same. "Activity of all is what is most needed in every organization." I am for a thorough organization of the industry and know that it can be done with the co-operation of all—this from observation through my work as chief organizer of the State Federation of Labor.

I maintain that the sick and death benefit should be maintained, not only for the present membership, but it is an inducement, if properly understood, and put to the unorganized. And the same applies to a large percentage of the membership, who I am sure do not realize that it is just as important to insure themselves for a little income should sickness overcome them, and in providing their dependents with enough to defray funeral expenses, and at a cost of a fraction of little over 3 cents a day. These benefits are, in my opinion, just as important as strike benefit, which is, of course, necessary in our industrial struggles, both in protecting our conditions as well as establishing newer or better ones.

There is no reason now, or has there ever been any danger, as to the future of our International Union, unless it be the lack of interest upon the part of the membership, i. e., agitation for the patronage of the label, or from the boring from within by certain elements who are opposed to our trade union form of organization that has weathered every storm in the past and will do the same in the years to come. I believe in progress in every sense of the word, but that progress that will add to and build up permanently, not that which will give today and take away that gained and more too on the morrow, by destroying the machinery that made it possible—"the union."

The movement of labor of our time has no apologies to make; it has done wonders considering the obstacles it has had to overcome, i. e., the inactivity and lack of interest of fully 75 per cent of the membership. The great army of unorganized workers that are unwilling to co-operate and give, and at all times the united opposition of the employer. And still we have gone on and on, and I am hoping from day to day that the awakening will come, at least among the workers in our own industry, the obligation that they owe their dependents, as well as fellow workers, the need of affiliating with our International Union. And it will be my aim, if re-elected to this important office, to bring about as near a 100 per cent organization as possible.

Thanking the many unions and members for their confidence reposed in me by their nominations. I am, with personal wishes to all:

Fraternally yours,

E. G. HALL,
Fifth Vice President.

Cleveland, O.

Fellow Members:

Having accepted the nomination for Fifth Vice President my views in reference to our International are as follows:

The present laws as adopted at the last convention and sanctioned by the majority vote of the members stand for the same principles as when first organized, to benefit the workers in obtaining better wages, shop sanitation, stock conditions and through collective force and solidarity to make this life more worth living.

I am therefore heartily in accord with the constitutional laws, believing them to be the best presented thus far.

Internal differences and dissension in our union is a menace to our organization and could and should be eliminated for the best interest of all. All questions can be settled by our own referendum provisions.

I am in favor of our laws being changed at any time by amendments submitted—that spells progress—but am opposed to any proposition that will, in my opinion, retard if not actually disrupt our union. I am opposed to the methods of the self styled propaganda league; it is but giving ammunition to our enemies, and in my opinion it has helped to prolong the Tampa, as well as other strikes in the country. Our enemies read these pamphlets and use them accordingly. I am opposed to any laws or benefits being taken out of our constitution until something tangible is submitted to take its place.

I will not discard my old clothes and go in a nude state until I get new ones. I will get the new ones first and then do the discarding.

I surely am not in sympathy with any of the secession moves now in progress; moves of this character cause only disruption and accomplish nothing; it is music to the ears of the open shoppers and American plan bosses. In voting on appeals my judgment will be based upon the evidence submitted and not upon friendship and bias.

I wish to thank the locals that nominated me for Fourth Vice President, also for delegate to the A. F. of L. convention. I surely appreciate the honor of having their confidence and good will.

A member 28 years May 26, 1921, and in all these years have believed in that old saying but slightly changed, "My union, may she ever be right, but right or wrong, my union."

The verdict is in your hands.

Fraternally submitted,

WM. D. DAWSON.

Denver, Colo., Nov. 28, 1920.

Your notification of my nomination for Fifth Vice President received and am highly gratified, and will say that I will accept it.

Will say that am for a greater, better and far more effective unionism. I think this statement covers all salient points.

Yours fraternally,

CHAS. HORNBERG.

Oshkosh, Wis.

Local 168 of Oshkosh, Wis., nominated me for the office of Fifth Vice-President, which I have accepted, and wish to say that I have been a member of the Cigarmakers' International for the past 17 years and a member of the Executive Board of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor, now serving my third year. If elected to the office of Fifth Vice-President of the C. M. I. U. will assure the members that I will do all in my power to serve our members in the future as I have in the past. The drive that is being made by the organized employers of this country for their open shop system is very vital to the workers in all trades. It is only to bring down the wages and lengthen the hours and to create unemployment of the American workers. To prevent unemployment in this country it is the duty of every organized worker to agitate unemployment insurance in every state in the union. When once unemployment insurance becomes a law in every state it will take away the hardship and suffering among the working classes of this country and give them more steady employment. Closing with best wishes. Candidate for Fifth Vice-President.

Fraternally yours,

F. J. JANDA.

SIXTH VICE PRESIDENT.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 28, 1920.

To the Officers and Members of the Cigar Makers' International Union.

Greeting:

In accepting the nomination as a candidate for Sixth Vice President I do so with the knowledge that great changes are taking place affecting our trade and organization. It is scarcely necessary to repeat the things that every member of the Cigar Makers' Union knows regarding the aims and objects of the International Union, because they are set forth in a few words, namely, better working conditions, more adequate pay, full and complete organization of all workers in the industry and co-operation with all other trade unions, looking to the final emancipation of wage workers. I desire to be very frank in stating my position, as it may have a bearing upon the views of the various members of locals affiliated with the Cigar Makers' International Union. I have not for some time worked at the bench, although I have been in close connection with the labor movement as an officer of the State Federation of Labor. I mention this because many have said that members of the Executive Board should be men or women who are actually engaged at the trade.

If elected to succeed myself, I will endeavor at all times and places to further the interest of the Cigar Makers' International Union.

Fraternally yours,

E. J. STACK.

Nevada City, Cal.
Fellow Craftsmen:

In accepting the nomination for the office of Sixth Vice President I do so with the hope that the great Pacific slope may continue to be represented on the International Executive Board, and with nothing but the best interests of the International Union at heart. I believe the most sought for characteristic in selecting either local or International officers should be the real trade union principle, regardless of political views or affiliations.

In compliance with the constitution I submit as briefly as possible my views of the methods and aims of the International Union. I wish to call your attention to a few things which I consider of grave importance if our International Union is to be continued as a healthy, fighting, militant organization.

The first and most essential factor is the complete organization of all workers in the tobacco industry, including cigar machine operators, under one head.

The establishment of a minimum day's pay for all cigar makers and packers. A shortening of the term of apprenticeship, with a graduated minimum day's pay also, and a uniform bill of prices throughout the jurisdiction of the International Union.

I also believe the hours of labor could and should be reduced from 48 to 44 hours per week, followed by a rigid enforcement of the eight-hour law.

But above all things am I opposed to the separation of funds or a division of membership, and I believe we can best build up our union by preserving or increasing our present chain of benefits, rather than reducing or destroying any of them.

I am satisfied all these things and even more may easily be accomplished by united effort or co-operation on the part of the members by pulling together instead of pulling apart, and by boosting our International Union and its officers instead of knocking them, which seems to be the favorite pastime with a good many of our members today.

And as a parting shot, let me say I am always willing to work with the construction gang, but never with the wrecking crew.

Yours Fraternally,

ALEX. RAMSEY.

Nov. 18, 1920.

SEVENTH VICE PRESIDENT.

Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 18, 1920.

I am pleased to accept the nomination for Seventh Vice President, and in accordance with Section 16, Constitution, C. M. I. U., I herewith submit my declaration of principles:

I have implicit confidence in the officers and members of the C. M. I. U. I am in hearty accord with its policies and I am in favor of continuing its chain of benefits, knowing that it has been of great benefit to its members, has strengthened the organization and kept it intact.

No man nor set of men has shown me anything better. When he does I shall be for it and him.

Fraternally yours,

C. H. STEVENS,
Seventh Vice Pres.

Philadelphia, Pa

Fellow Workers:

With appreciation and gratitude I accept the nomination of Seventh Vice President, and in giving my opinion pertaining to conditions as I see them in our industry, I desire to state first of all, I have always given the first consideration to the interest of our International Union, and after a thorough study I find that on account of the changes in our industry we have gone backwards with leaps and bounds because we have not kept pace with the changes. The result is we have not been able to organize the unorganized workers in our industry and we have not only remained stationary, but we have actually went backwards to an alarming state.

Now, there must certainly be a reason for such a state of affairs when we have approximately about 150,000 workers in our industry unorganized, although the workers in our industry are no different than others.

First of all, being in an unorganized section, I find that the high dues and numerous high assessments are one of the main causes. While I am in favor of reasonably high dues, I am not in favor of prohibitory dues. Secondly, it is imperative that we change our fraternal features so that a cigar maker can choose whether he wants to pay for insurance or not. In other words, we must have a fraternal feature separated from the economic feature; that shall be optional with an applicant.

I desire to state at this time that on account of the top heavy condition of our beneficiary system we have forced good old members out of the union because they could not bear the terrible heavy burden. Some may say that when we had cheaper dues it was also hard to organize the cigar makers, and I believe the statement to be a fact. However, we can not look at the past, but to try to get them into our organization in the future, and I am firmly of the belief that if our present high dues and assessments are to continue, and I am sure we are going to have assessments continuously if we only have a small strike, because it takes all of our present income to pay our fraternal obligations, and any other expenses, namely, organizers and the running of the International office, and anyone having the interest of the International Union at heart can see where we are drifting to.

I am also opposed to the present system of placing our organizers. When conditions warrant the same, I am a firm believer in local autonomy. That is, in a locality where an organizer is needed, the locality shall have the right to say whom they want for that most essential work.

Therefore, I can assure my fellow workers that if elected that I will do everything in my power to work and strive for legislation that will enable us to organize those outside of our International Union and for the ultimate goal—industrial freedom.

Yours for an effective and a greater International Union.

Fraternally yours,

L. HERNFELD.

Hartford, Conn., Nov. 20, 1920.

Fellow Craftsmen:

In accepting the nomination for the Seventh Vice President I do so with a knowledge of the responsibility of an executive officer.

The period of reconstruction is bringing us face to face with an opposition which threatens our very existence and the consolidated forces of our organization will be needed to hold our present position.

The special strike fund created by the March and September assessment is a step in the right direction and while the amount is limited to $5 per capita for this purpose, I am of the opinion that the larger such a fund the less liable we are to need it for the purpose specified.

In the event of opportunity this fund might be diverted toward the gaining of the control of our industry, by what method is a matter of detail and should be worked out if possible by the Executive Board. The control of the raw material, the introduction of the machine, the large distributing agencies and the declining profits of the independent manufacturers are slowly but surely strangling union factories and I feel that the opportunity for many of our members to continue in the trade is growing smaller unless they resort to working for the very agencies who are crushing them. Thus the money, instead of being used for strike, should be used for control.

I am a strong believer in our chain of benefits, but I also believe that certain amounts should be set aside for investment so that the fund of the International Union might help pay the cost, instead of assessing all of it on the membership, as at present. Our funds as at present arranged draw very little interest, and certain sums should be invested to assist in paying our obligations and at the same time gain a larger and larger influence in the control of the industry.

As to the aims of our union, it is stated very well in the preamble of the constitution. When the final emancipation will take place "God only knows," but the amelioration is taking place and must continue, but can go no faster than the conditions and the membership will permit.

I believe that the Journal should be the medium for exchanging ideas in relation to trade affairs, but should be free from personal attack in such discussions.

The organized attack by the National Chamber of Commerce, manufacturers' associations and kindred associations, should be met by all of our purchasing power being used for union label goods and employing union men and women, and that the International Executive Board should employ the organizers in advertising work during their spare time, as strangers often help the home efforts.

In 34 years of continuous membership I have seen many changes for the better and we have given inspiration to others, and by a solid front we will not only break down the efforts of our enemies, but will continue to advance under the banner of the C. M. I. U. of A.

Fraternally,

JAMES F. MANEE.

Los Angeles, Calif., Nov. 24, 1920.

Yours of the 8th inst. received and contents noted regarding the nomination of International officers, and in answer will say I accept the nomination for the office of Seventh Vice President and if elected I promise to work for the best interest of the International Union, and when called upon to vote on any question of appeals or otherwise I will do so to the best of my ability without fear or favor to anyone. I believe it should be the duty of the International Executive Board to make every effort in trying to bring about such legislation that will enable the International Union to more completely organize the vast number of unorganized workers of the craft. I also believe that this section of the Pacific coast should be represented on the International Executive Board for several reasons. One in particular is that this section of the country has been the dumping ground for many years for the trust made non-union goods and now some of these firms are contemplating opening branch shops in this locality. So by having a member on the International Executive Board we would be able to meet direct with the other members of the Executive Board and thereby be in a position to fully explain and discuss existing conditions here, and which might be a great help to us in forming some plan whereby we might more fully organize the workers in this section of the country.

Thanking the members for my nomination, and wishing everyone the compliments of the season, I beg to remain,

Yours fraternally,
WM. HESLOP

TREASURER.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 22, 1920.

To the Members of the International Union.

Greeting:

Having received from Union No. 1 and 326

other locals the nomination for International Treasurer, so in compliance with Section 16 of the International constitution I am to give my views of the methods and aims of the International Union. "It is not a theory that confronts us, but a condition"—and a condition that will require the wisdom of the ablest minds to meet and overcome, in the struggle that is now going on, in order to find the best methods in this crisis, to hasten our movement to its final goal—the emancipation of labor. Of course, we will meet all obstacles that confront us with a steady courage and a will to conquer which will end in victory, but the gravity of the situation must be met calmly and the means to be taken to avoid disaster.

Had the International Union had the foresight and taken the steps advocated by the International Treasurer in his letters of acceptance of 1895, 1900 and 1905 the present conditions would not be confronting us now. The old saying is, "Opportunity knocks once at every door," so in these years now gone by it knocked at the door of the International Union, but the knock was not answered and Opportunity passed us by and knocked at the door of the "trust," who opened and are now reaping the harvest that should have been ours. We are still striving for our aims with the same obsolete weapons that should have been discarded long ago. We are still wasting millions in strike benefits which never will bring our aims to fruition.

The "talk" of raising a million dollar defense fund is an abortive measure, as our oppressors can raise ten millions to defeat us. It were a million times better to raise that amount and invest it in establishing International Union factories and jobbing houses.

Twenty-five years ago, when the above method was advocated by the International Treasurer we had within our ranks about three-fourths of the skilled hand and mold workers and we would have had a monopoly of the trade, and would have steadily advanced from then on, until the International Union would have become one grand co-operative association, with all the advantages accruing thereto, and our aims would long since have been reached. As we let Opportunity pass by, we are now confronted by a combination of capitalists whose sole aim is to squeeze the last cent out of labor by its monopolistic power, so it is self-evident that there can be no industrial emancipation without political unity, so in our onward march to our final aim and goal let united labor stand together politically and industrially and the doom of capitalistic tyranny will be sealed, labor's emancipation proclaimed, and a new era dawn on earth.

Thanking the members for their generous endorsement of my course, I will, if elected, discharge the duties of the office with fidelity.

Fraternally yours,

GIBSON WEBER.

FOR DELEGATE TO A. F. OF L.

Washington, D. C., 1920.

To the Officers and Members of the Cigar Makers' International Union.

Fellow Cigar Makers—it is a great compliment and honor to be nominated by so many local unions as delegate to the convention of the American Federation of Labor. I accept the nomination with a full appreciation of the responsibility which goes with it.

The modern labor movement of America expresses the best thought and highest ideals for the attainment of the rights and the promotion of the interests and welfare of the toiling masses.

Impatient as I am with the progress made, yet I realize that it is the fastest which can be made continuously, to the attainment and realization of all that to which earnest and enlightened men and women aspire.

in the American Federation of Labor we have four and one-half million organized trade unionists. Perhaps a half million more in the railroad organizations will enter the ranks at no distant time. The most important task before us is the organization of the yet unorganized, to instill the spirit of unity and solidarity and to press forward day by day, year in and year out, for improvement in the standards of life and work, making for the betterment of all and the cultivation of that spirit that shall make for the universal brotherhood of man.

Fraternally yours,

SAM'L GOMPERS,
First Vice-President.

Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 25, 1920.

In accepting the nomination for Delegate to the American Federation of Labor and in compliance with Section 16 of the constitution, I herewith submit the following:

To the Officers and Members of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America.

Fellow Members:

Our country—the world—just now is in the midst of an unusual governmental and industrial condition. Cool heads, strong hearts and experience are more than ever needed to lead us. We have them. In my opinion the American Federation of Labor stands out and above any other labor organization that now or ever did exist in this or any other country. Has helped to bring into our lives many of the things necessary for our comfort and is today in better condition than previously (and just as willing) to lead labor's forces as nearly to a safe harbor as the human family will permit. Our good old union can and will weather the storms from within or without. Industrial struggles of the past are ample proof of this. An instance, the 1892-4 panic. We came out of that panic with an increase of more than 4,000 members—and besides maintained our bills of prices. Not another national or international union can say as much, and yet at this time we are facing an element in our trade that is doing more to divide our ranks—before present day issues—than any combination of employers would hope to accomplish by themselves. Industrial conditions of today lead wise men to prepare for a storm. If that time comes those who now are feeding up on fanciful theories and ever ready scandal, attempting to tear down the only organization that ever benefited the workers in our trade, will come back—as they did in a previous progressive movement that some of us lived through and will remember. They failed then, as they will now, because of faulty structure, while our Cigar Makers' International Union, with a constitution made by a referendum vote of our members—its financial system—benefits-wise leadership and our loyal union members, can and will land our grand old ship into harbor safely. We have the structure and a foundation that endures—the rocks of fair dealing, bound by the bonds of unionism.

I believe that union members should elect union men to apply our referendum made union laws—not men in sympathy with other movements possibly in opposition to our International Union—and if I be elected a delegate to the American Federation of Labor it will be with the understanding that thoughts and feelings such as these will govern my actions.

I want to express to Union No. 1, Baltimore, and the 168 other locals my appreciation for the nominations so generously given me.

Yours fraternally,

W. A. CAMPBELL.

Int'l Financier, Member of Union No. 53, New Orleans.

Washington, D. C.

Fellow Workers:

I am in receipt of notification informing me that I have been placed in nomination for Delegate to the A. F. of L. convention, by Union No. 1, Baltimore, and 168 other local unions.

I accept the nomination with full appreciation of the honor conferred by the unions, and mindful of the deep responsibility that is incumbent on him who is chosen to represent the International Union in that capacity. In compliance with Section 16 of the constitution, I herewith set forth briefly some of the principles that shall guide my course in the event that I am returned to office as one of the delegates.

In the reconstructive period that lies ahead of us, and the onward march of civilization, it has become obvious to the enlightened workers that organization is most essential to their welfare, and that it is necessary to extend the scope and possibilities of the organized movement so that it may embody all of the workers in every field of labor and industry, and become a greater potential force and beneficent safeguard in protecting the rights of collective bargaining, as well as the individual against the exploitation of unjust employers and the tyranny of greed and oppression.

The standard of fair compensation must be maintained by the worker, and the basic wages paid to labor not be permitted to descend below the purchasing power of the dollar—or that which is equivalent in compensation to the procuring of necessities and comforts of life, in accordance with the American standard of living.

"In union there is strength." The Cigar Makers' International Union is an integral part of the parent body—the American Federation of Labor, the recognized labor movement, which holds among its fundamental principles the amelioration and alleviation of the burdens of the workers.

It should be the endeavor of those who represent our union to at all times strive to build up and broaden the general labor movement, and especially promote and strengthen the hand of the Cigar Makers' Union in gathering into the fold the unorganized in all branches of the industry.

There should be no hard and fast rule which would destroy a better understanding between the employer and employee, towards the accomplishment of that end, but the militant work of organization and educating the public, and stimulating the ranks of labor by molding them into a more cohesive and formidable body, along co-operative, comprehensive and constructive lines of trade unionism should be diligently pursued.

We are confronted with stern realities in the economic plan of industry, and no amount of theorizing or chasing the "will-o-the-wisp" under the guise of "progressivism" or some new and untried plan which is heralded as a panacea can extricate the worker from the task which involves his labor. The issue must be met in a formidable way and combatted by practicable methods through economic and legislative efforts which will insure permanent relief and a lasting benefit to humanity on its triumphant march to a better plane of equality.

Respectfully,

R. S. SEXTON

Local Union 110, Washington, D. C.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 25, 1920.

Dear Sirs and Brothers:

This will advise you that in accepting the nomination as Delegate to the American Federation of Labor that I do so at the request of many friends, and that if elected it will be my aim to bring together all of the interests of labor as closely as possible, that the producer may get a greater share of that which he produces than they receive now under our present system.

I believe in organization of the workers in their various trade unions, but believe that there should be closer affiliation of all those unions, i. e., the building trades, metal trades, mining trades, railway workers, as well as miscellaneous trades, and shall work to that end; as well as work to that end of a most thorough organization of all of the workers, and having at all times the interest of our International Union and its membership.

Thanking the membership for their confidence in behalf of my candidacy and assuring all of my best efforts at all times in behalf of the Cigar Makers' International Union of A., I am

Fraternally yours,

E. G. HALL.

Fifth Vice President.

Chicago, Ill.

Fellow Members:

With deep appreciation I accept the nomination for delegate. I have always held to the view and advocated that the American Federation of Labor should be a close bound organization of workers for offensive and defensive purposes. The need for such unity was never more apparent, with open shop campaign of the Chambers of Commerce in full swing. The bosses fight en masse, so must the workers.

However, we can be honest and say it is a fight between the producing class and the job owning class; while the profiteers, always hypocritical, call the open shop the patriotic American plan of industry.

As a delegate I have always opposed the Civic Federation, which happily, I think, has now been exposed to all as a crafty servant of the interests. I opposed the League of Nations, holding it to be a major organization designed to defend profits and the profit system and to provide an international police force to take care of unruly workers wherever found.

I have opposed the policy of labor's representatives bowing into and being bowed out of capitalistic political party conventions. The promises made to labor during the war and the subsequent actions of "political friends of labor" should, in my judgment, put a stop to such foolishness forever. In the above positions, most times I have been in the minority, yet happy to be so, believing that I was making a stand against the forces of mammon in the interest of the working class.

The tide of reaction is now at its flood, but the age-long fight for freedom cannot fail, and moreover the renewed war will be for control of the world by the workers. With the end of that war, will be peace.

Fraternally yours,

J. MAHLON BARNES.

Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 27, 1920.

Fellow Members:

In accepting the nomination for Delegate to the A. F. of L. given me by so many of our locals, I wish to say that I believe in energetic organization of all branches of labor into a closer knit industrial form of organization. The employing class is showing you that it is a more effective form for them. So it is to us. Therefore, I favor revision of the basic laws of the A. F. of L. so as to make it an effective central organization, not merely an advisory one.

Whether a man is English, Russian, French, German or any other nationality, his labor is needed in the co-operative social thing he works at. His mind has been neglected, in that he has been told that it is radical, foreign, to think of organizing industrially; that he must join the union of his craft, but ignore rights of others in intercourse with employers. That is how we have lost so many strikes. Let experience teach us to get away from this and start building an industrial organization which is to occupy its rightful place in the labor movement. For my part I do not care to be a delegate to conventions just to have a good time and without a real interest for the uplift of my class. I am for real progress, and will work for it if elected.

Thanking the members for their support,

Fraternally,

L. P. HOFFMAN.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 28, 1920.

To the Officers and Members of the Cigar Makers' International Union.

Greeting:

I am herewith accepting the nomination as Delegate to the American Federation of Labor to represent the Cigar Makers' International Union in that body. The same rule that applies to the accepting of a nomination for any other office in the International seems to hold good in regard to a delegateship to the American Federation of Labor, and in response to the requirements that my views shall be given as to the aims and objects of the American Federation of Labor, I have this to say, that I believe that the American Federation of Labor should continue its policy of organizing into trade unions all the workers within its jurisdiction, and its objects should be the closest federation without interference with the autonomy of Internationals or local unions. I am in favor of eliminating wherever possible jurisdictional lines by the amalgamation of organizations within an industry, but am not now, nor do I believe that shall be convinced, that there is any logic or reason in the one big union idea. I believe that education is the chief means of raising the standards of the American working people, and I consider the greatest mission that the American Federation of Labor has is to continue in spite of all opposition to educate, agitate and organize until the wholesome and necessary changes affecting the lives of working people will be consummated.

Fraternally yours,

E. J. STACK.

To the Officers and Members of Cigar Makers' International Union of America.

Dear Sirs and Brothers:

I herewith accept the nomination for Delegate to the American Federation of Labor conventions of the Cigar Makers' International Union.

I am heartily in accord with the aims and objects of the American Federation of Labor and the trade union principles of organization as expressed.

I believe in adhering strictly to the trade union principles as now advocated by the American Federation of Labor, with such changes from time to time as may be deemed necessary.

If elected, I promise to represent the interests, laws and policy of our International Union as expressed by the constitution and resolutions adopted, and assure the members that I will use my best efforts to further the trade union movement in general and the interests of the Cigar Makers' International Union in particular, if I should be elected and have the honor to represent our organization at the American Federation of Labor conventions.

Fraternally,

HENRY F. HILFERS

Chicago, Nov. 20, 1920.

In accordance with constitution, I am hereby notifying you of my acceptance of the nomination for Delegate to the A. F. of L.

Permit me to express sincere appreciation of the honor bestowed by the various locals who have seen to present my name as their choice as one of the Delegates to the A. F. of L.

To be deemed worthy to serve the interests of your fellow craftsmen in any capacity is an honor. To be deemed fit to serve in the capacity of delegate to what I consider the foremost labor council in the entire world becomes a distinction.

The C. M. I. U. has played more than a passing part in the formation and perpetuation of the American labor movement. It should be our aim, and it would become my duty, if elected, to lend our best efforts toward the expression through the A. F. of L. of those ideals of constructive trades unionism that has put American labor in the forefront of the world's progress.

We must provide for the expansion of our hopes. We must legislate to retain the good things so far accomplished. We must inaugurate new and better things for the future. This can be accomplished only through solidarity and my efforts in any capacity I may in the future serve will be to the end that makes for but one union in our industry. Our policies must be so shaped that we may serve the best interests of all those who work in our industry and our goal must be the organization of every person in the industry under the banner of the C. M. I. U.

Yours fraternally,
R. E. VAN HORN.

San Juan, P. R., Nov. 22, 1920.

Realizing the responsibility involved, I gratefully accept the 26 nominations so spontaneously tendered for the office of Delegate to the American Federation of Labor.

I firmly stand for the preamble of our constitution and will continue to strive to make effective such principles by enlisting in our union all the workers of our industry, regardless of the branch in which they are employed. Class B members legislation shall powerfully help in the accomplishment.

If we want to perpetuate our organization we should maintain undividedly all the benefits we enjoy at the present, and also grant the unemployed member an out of work stamp in lieu of the weekly due and assessments from the first week of unemployment and until such member shall have secured employment.

I believe in an adequate due without splitting up our strength so that we can meet all our obligations and spend our money when and where more urgently needed.

In my letter of acceptance for this same office in the last election, published in the issues of our Journal for December, 1915, and January, 1916, I stated, among other things, what follows:

"I have a strong conviction that we shall enjoy much more progress and that this will be much better if the necessary efforts are made to succeed in organizing the cigar makers in Cuba."

Such efforts were made with splendid results. Cuba has at this time a strong national organization of the trade firmly based upon trade union principles. The ideals cherished by me were accomplished.

In May of this year I was appointed by President Perkins to visit Cuba for the purpose of negotiating an agreement with the Cuban Cigar Makers' Federation and it was my pleasure and privilege to draft and negotiate the "Covenant of Friendly and Reciprocal Relations for the best protection of the trade and the practice of solidarity," as published in the September, 1920, issue of our Journal, and which was unanimously approved by our International Executive Board. Kindly read it.

Results of this covenant have been already felt. Thousands of our members on strike in Tampa have been welcomed in Cuba and work provided for them by the Cuban Cigar Makers' Federation because of membership. Those reading our Official Journal for June to September of this year know how the Cuban Federation of Cigar Makers is practicing solidarity. Those Journals briefly tell you that in the neighborhood of $125,000.00 have been generously donated by them to the Tampa strikers up to that date.

Now, why should we not intend connection by similar bonds of solidarity with Cigar Makers' Federations of South and Central America and Mexico for general defense of the trade, and a simultaneous action with the United States, Canada and Cuba to abolish piece work?

Don't you care for the always increasing importation of millions of cheap cigars from the Philippine Islands, where the trust controls? Wouldn't you favor with me a resolution in the A. F. of L. convention to make a thorough investigation of the cigar industry in the Philippines by a competent committee appointed and paid by the A. F. of L.?

P. RIVERA MARTINEZ.

Danbury, Conn.

In accordance with the constitution, in accepting the nomination as a delegate to represent the C. M. I. U. of A. at the conventions of the A. F. of L., will briefly state my views on three important things necessary to success—Organization, Education and Legislation.

Organization.

First we must organize all the workers in our craft. And in order to do this every member of the C. M. I. U. of A. should become an organizer and build up that which is ours and ours alone, the C. M. I. U. of A. We have too many tearing down our organization. They should cease, as we have enough on the outside; until this is done all efforts will be in vain.

Education.

We should educate our members as to their duty to their organization and also other organizations. As we do not live by ourselves alone, as we produce something but do not consume it, and we depend on others to help in making our conditions. The Union Label Department should be a greater factor than they are at the present time. We should all demand goods bearing the Union Label. And some plan should be adopted to regulate the use of the Union Label. We should not only look for shop conditions and the bill of prices but should also pass on the quality of the goods that are to bear the Union Label and that we are to ask our friend to purchase same. This holds good for other organizations, but we should remedy this at once if we hope to make our Union Label the factor it should be.

Legislation.

Legislation beneficial to the C. M. I. U. of A. can only come when we are thoroughly organized and our members educated, when they know their strength and have a good organization at their back. Not till then can we hope to accomplish the things we organized for. Our present bill of prices is not all, shop conditions and a minimum rate of wages, or in other words, an earning power. When we can show those outside our organization what can be done by becoming members of the C. M. I. U. of A. A union shop should have a greater earning power than those not entitled to the Union Label. The Union Label has class in many sections of the country and the goods should have class also if they carry the Union Label.

Respectfully yours,

JOHN H. RILEY.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 16, 1920.

I accept the nomination for Delegate to the American Federation of Labor and thank the locals who have placed me in nomination.

In order to improve the conditions of the worker the first step is organization; next, the shorter work day. The raising of the school age and the maintaining of an American standard of living. The A. F. of L., realizing we are all links in the same chain, was organized for the purpose of promoting unity of action and is the only force in the labor movement that has accomplished anything. It is evolutionary. It changes with changed conditions. Its laws are those enacted by the majority. Every organization of wage earners should affiliate with it. It is composed of the representatives of American labor. We are part of it. Its success means ours. It is democratic. It is what we make it. I believe in its policy and if elected will do what I can to promote the interest in organized labor and the union label, which is the keystone of the arch.

Yours fraternally,
HENRY ABRAHAMS.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 22, 1920.

I accept the nomination as Delegate to the American Federation of Labor for the following reasons: Its motto is "Labor Omnia Vincit," which means in plain English, "Labor conquers all." For labor to conquer all it must do so economically and politically. The first it is doing. The second it must begin to do. Organize a national labor party along the lines of:

1st. To make the trade union state the state of the nation as a whole.

2nd. That all the land and workshops and public utilities be conscripted for the control by the A. F. of L. in the interest of all the people.

3rd. That the hours of work be six per day, or in proportion so that all male and females, 18 years of age or over, shall have the right to work, who so desire.

4th. That each respective national union shall designate what shall constitute an average day's work, when working day work. Piece workers to so decide for their own best interests what shall constitute a day's work, or their bill of prices.

5th. That the remuneration shall be $1.00 per hour.

We must put human rights above property rights in the fields of wealth production. We must organize a state where the youth of the nation will be able to enter the married state with a guarantee of steady work, so that prostitution and all diseases flowing from it shall cease, giving us a nation of strong men and women, intellectually and physically. We must stand for the complete elimination of poverty, with all its woes and anguish and suffering. The A. F. of L. must be the only positive force opposing war with all its horrors and destructiveness to the people. We are the only great force in the nation today which carries within our unions the great co-operative spirit of the working millions of all the ages. Seeing in every man and woman a part of the supreme being of the universe, we should organize to usher in to the very life blood of the nation health, joy, justice and plenty for all, the whole nation smiling in happiness and contentment. These must be some of the aims of organized labor through the A. F. of L. to bring into daily existence "Labor Omnia Vincet." For labor to conquer all the A. F. of L. must be made the vanguard of labor's highest aspirations. Thanking the members of the various locals for the honor bestowed in nominating me as a delegate, I ever remain, yours in the great cause of labor.

Fraternally,
CHARLES F. CLAUS.

Denver, Colorado.

Having been officially notified that my name has been placed in nomination for Delegate to the American Federation of Labor, beg to say that I accept the nomination and declare a general adherence to the policies of the A. F. of L. as set forth in its platform, which, among other things, stands for the shorter work day with adequate pay, sanitary work shops, the right of collective bargaining with the employer, protection of women in industry, more stringent immigration laws, compulsory educational laws, the elimination of children in factories and mills as employees, arbitration of difficulties with the employer before the difficulty starts, with the aim of avoiding long drawn out, disastrous strikes, if possible, yet reserving the right to strike on short notice when unfair advantages have been taken of the working men and women. Better and more thorough preparation for strikes and more deliberation on matters that lead up to strikes. I believe that the question of strikes should first be referred to a competent committee, whose duty it should be to investigate every phase of the situation or grievance, after which it should be submitted to a referendum of the members involved and their decision be final. I favor any workable system of co-operation in the production and sale of the necessities of the working men and women and their families. The restriction of any class of immigration that there is not hopes of raising to the American standard of citizenship. I do not look with favor on the so called progressive ideas that would tear down what we have built before having better material to replace it. Nor do I favor the one big union idea that would destroy the autonomy of craft unions. I advocate more loyalty on the part of the members of organized labor in the purchase of label goods or goods that are known to be the product of organized labor, and that less perfection should be required of our officers and more aimed at by the critics.

The foregoing remarks are a few of my sentiments relating to the labor movement and are herewith submitted for the consideration of the membership at our coming election for International officers and delegates to the A. F. of L., Feb. 12th, 1921.

Fraternally,
J. W. SANFORD.

Reading, Pa., 1920.
To the Officers and Members of Cigarmakers' International Union.

I have accepted the nomination for delegate to the A. F. of L., and in compliance with the constitution, I hereby state my views on policies that should govern the A. F. of L. I have attended several conventions of the Federation and my observation has been that the Federation is "top-heavy." The officers and the Executive Council make reports and recommendations that are referred to committees, who in turn report, and in nearly every instance recommend that the policies and recommendations and even changes in the constitution be adopted by the convention. Many questions that should be settled by action of the convention are referred to the Executive Council. This has resulted in placing a great deal more power in the hands of the Executive Council than I believe that body should have. I believe that the A. F. of L. should be a democratic organization not only in name but in fact and that the policies and activities of the organization should be changed from time to time as conditions change. That more time and attention should be given to the educational work, so that the members of the various unions will have a clearer understanding of just why they are trade unionists. This, I think, could be accomplished by reducing the number of organizers and appointing men who are qualified to teach and lecture on economic subjects. I think that more attention should be given to the development of the co-operative movement. That the departments of the Federation should be reorganized and the various unions grouped on the basic industry plan.

I am in full accord with the present position of the Federation in the matter of dual organizations. Every delegate representing an organization should be given the fullest opportunity to assist in defining and fixing the policy of the organization, and when a policy has been agreed upon, all members of the organization should support that policy. I have no sympathy with the element that stands for a fixed, definite thing, and if they fail to have it adopted, refuse their support, and in some cases actually knock and create dissension within our ranks. We should all be democratic enough to support the opinion of the majority.

If I am elected to represent the Cigarmakers International Union, I shall consider it my duty to support the constitution of the American Federation of Labor and to work for the cause of labor through that organization.

Yours fraternally,

A. P. BOWER.

Buffalo, 1920.

Fellow Craftsmen:

While the views expressed below may not be in strict accordance with Section 16 of our constitution, calling on me, as a candidate for Delegate to the A. F. of L., to express my views as to the aims and objects of the C. M. I. U., I wish to state briefly that:

If the C. M. I. U. would live and thrive as it should, the element of destructive membership must be eliminated in its entirety.

The constitution provides benefits, all of which I approve, that will be cast to the four winds unless the conservative forces within our organization exercise extreme caution.

Some of the questions that have recently arisen have accomplished the only result they so richly deserve—defeat. I have no patience with the man who would destroy me, and whatever influence I may possess I shall use in an effort to defeat him; for ultimately it is either he or I who must be wiped off the books.

I stand with the conservative element of the C. M. I. U., and have so stood ever since my initiation in 1890. I have always voted "yes" on all constructive measures and always will until such time as it can be proved to me that I may be of some benefit to humanity by voting for destruction.

It is my firm conviction that the influence exerted by the A. F. of L. upon the labor movement is of a highly beneficial character, tending always to the uplift of the man who toils, and I am just as firmly convinced that without that influence the plight of the working man would indeed be a sorry one.

Fraternally yours,

JOHN HADIDA.

St. Louis, Mo., 1920.

In accepting the nomination as Delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention permit me to state that I have been a member of Cigar Makers' Union No. 44 of St. Louis, Mo., since Jan. 10, 1886, and have had and still have the honor of being secretary and treasurer of the said local since April, 1898. My principles are trade unionism first, last and all the time, but I think the time has come when organized labor must organize in the political field as well as in the economic field. I believe in organizing the unorganized and I believe in the American Federation of Labor, and I think some great changes can be made in the said body. For instance, the creation of a strike fund of at least $5.00 per capita so the said body will be in a position to fight the battles of organized labor with the same weapon that capital is using, namely money. It is my firm belief that if organized labor had a backing of this kind we would have less strikes to contend with. Some say this can not be accomplished because a great number are not willing to stand the gaff. This may be true in the beginning, but it will be overcome. I hold a cock that is not willing to stand the gaff has no business in the pit. Some say, how are you going to handle and regulate this strike fund? Answer, let us get the law creating it and we will get the laws to govern it. I do not believe in the manner and the mode of the A. F. of L. at the present by approving a strike and sending out begging letters in its support, as the willing ones come to the assistance and others pass it up. The feeling of the cause of one should be the cause of all and all stand the burden alike.

Respectfully yours,

ED. H. HEILMAN.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 27, 1920.

Fellow Members:

The notice of my nomination for delegate to the convention of the American Federation of Labor impressed me deeply, and whether successful or not in the candidacy, it will stand as an inspiration to me of a great duty by everyone to do his part to the extent of his ability in promoting the welfare and standards of his fellow human beings. With this ideal in mind the nomination is accepted.

If elected my actions will be in accord with my positive belief that the American trade union movement, as typified and co-ordinated under the American Federation of Labor, has been, is now and will continue to be the one sane, effective and progressive movement promotive of the best interests of the working class. This because it is never revolutionary, but always evolutionary, by taking into consideration ever changing conditions of industry and of human needs, ambitions and standards, legislating with the purpose in view of expanding opportunities for the acquirement by the man and woman of labor of all things material and otherwise that enter into enlarged and fuller lives.

At this time I am fully conscious of the organization of the reactionary part of employers and financiers to nullify all of the past successes of the trade union movement, so that their greed and selfishness may be fully satisfied without hindrance, in the control not only of industry, but of the lives and standards of living of the working people. Their activity is carefully timed to the period of readjustment incident to the recent greatest destruction of human life and property known to mankind. The trade union movement, and no other, can successfully meet this powerful organization; so if elected I will firmly stand for every right, benefit and advantage thus far acquired in the interest of the working man and woman, and I will work and vote for every change found necessary, after full and free discussion, to place the trade union movement in position to defend and promote the welfare of the men and women of labor.

Fraternally yours,

CARL KRAEMER.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 25, 1920.

Dear Brothers and Sisters:

Having been favored with the nomination of Delegate to the American Federation of Labor, it becomes my duty to say a few words giving my views and methods in which to still further push forward the movement of the International Union and its constant partner. It has been my privilege to have been a member of the Cigar Makers' International Union for upwards of 23 years and during that time have done in my humble way those things which would assist our organization and organized labor as a whole. Through my affiliation with the Central Labor Council of Cincinnati I have been enabled to enlist the services of some 50,000 trade unionists of this city in our behalf. That my efforts have not been in vain is attested by the fact that at the present time non-employment of our members is the lowest for many years. The work of educating the general public along the line of asking for and demanding the union label upon all products has met with signal success in Cincinnati, and the assistance given by myself in the movement has materially assisted in the creating of a greater demand for the union label upon our product. I have been an active member of the Trade Union Label League and have received the unqualified support of all the trades unions of this city and thousands of men who do not hold membership in the ranks of organized labor.

Should I be elected to the position to which I have been nominated it is hardly necessary for me to say that it will be my privilege to do my utmost to still further spread the gospel of greater opportunities for all men and, and especially those who are affiliated with our International Union to forge ahead. Eight hours for work, eight hours for recreation, eight hours for sleep and a wage which will permit the enjoyment of all three. In the 28 years with which I have been associated with you and the labor movement I have found that co-operation with other organizations has been of great value and that in giving publicity to conditions as they affect the unorganized worker has shown hosts of men that the men and women affiliated with the Cigar Makers' International Union are worthy of the support, and in the Queen City of the West we have received the support to a very considerable degree.

If elected I will do all that is in my power to further the cause of all affiliated organizations of the A. F. of L. That means his freedom, his liberty and his union rights to work as a free man. Fraternally yours,

JOHN L. GILLIAM.

New York, 1920.

Fellow Workers:

In accepting the nomination for Delegate to the A. F. of L., I desire to state that my sole aim and object is to try my utmost to help perfecting the organization in accordance with modern views and ideals that we have been confronted with in the last few years. I believe that the A. F. of L. should have the power to supervise agreements entered upon by unions under its jurisdiction wherever more than one craft is involved, to the end that the interests of all concerned are safeguarded, and not allow a single craft to sign up with the employer to the detriment of the others.

Furthermore, the same principle should also apply to strifes and struggles within a national or international organization, to the end that the wish of the majority of its members should prevail. This would prevent the many secession movements that have occurred from time to time.

I do not believe that justice to the toiling masses can, nor that it was ever achieved, at the banquet table or at social gatherings. Events of the last few years have proven conclusively that whatever promises were made to labor by those in power when they needed labor, support were all repudiated the moment they had to make good their promises.

Organized labor must fight on for its existence at all times and should never expect anything from others nor surrender any of its achieved rights upon the request of others.

Labor has no friends outside of its own ranks, therefore the policy "to reward your friends and punish your enemies" politically is absurd. The existing political parties (excepting the socialist) are all subsidized by the employing class—friends and foes alike must do their bidding.

The example set forth by the British trade union movement in establishing a labor party should be encouraged and followed by the American labor movement.

Space will not permit me to go into details about the many changes necessary to make the A. F. of L. the aggressive and abreast of the times organization it should be. Suffice it to say that if elected I will endeavor my best to work to that end in conjunction with the numerous others already there. In conclusion I thank the locals that honored me with this nomination.

Yours fraternally,

JACOB RHINE.

The following became eligible as candidates, by reason of the declination of nominees with a greater number of nominations, after the issuance of the November Journal:

For International President.

*John Van Vaerenewych, Boston, Mass.....	1
*W. D. Willson, Troy, N. Y.....	1
*R. S. Sexton, Washington, D. C.....	1

*Declined.

Members who became eligible as candidates by reason of the declination of some of those on the eligible list, published in the November Journal, were notified and given an opportunity to qualify by writing letters of acceptance for publication in the December and January Journals in compliance with Section 12, paragraph 4, and Section 16, of the Constitution. Those who sent letters of acceptance are the eligible candidates and their names will go on the official ballot.

Those who were eligible but did not qualify by sending letter of acceptance, decline with thanks and appreciation to the unions that nominated them.

CORRECTION.

Union 329 states that through an oversight on their part, Mr. Samuel Gompers was recorded as one of the delegates nominated as delegate to the A. F. of L. instead of H. Abrahams.

Correction—The number of nominations received by Mr. L. P. Hoffman for Second Vice-President was erroneously published in the November issue as 376; it should have been 276.

It has occurred in a few instances where a member was nominated and the place of residence plainly given on the nomination blank, and a notice of nomination and eligibility mailed to the nominee in care of the secretary of the local union, that the notice has been returned to this office, just before the Journal went to press, with the statement written on the envelope, "Not here."

GIBSON WEBER, 1710 N. Gratz St., Station C, Philadelphia, Pa., Treasurer.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 131 distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out of work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

Official Notice.

In compliance with Section 180 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment of 50c to replenish the General Fund, on each sixty-cent, forty-cent and thirty-cent member.

This assessment takes the place of the $1.00 assessment, which is discontinued Sept. 25.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

James S. Smith appealed against 290 Janesville for paying 13 weeks' sick benefit to a member who was not reported sick in compliance with the Constitution, and in which case no sick cards were filled out. The appeal was sustained.

Charles Specht appealed against the Joint Unions of St. Louis reference the construction of the bill on certain kinds of cigars. The appeal was not sustained.

James Coffey and R. N. Davis appealed against 4 Cincinnati reference permitting members to work in a certain shop. The appeal was not sustained.

J. C. Farrell appealed against 97 Boston for suspending him for nonpayment of dues and assessments. The member shows that he ran over the limit four days through uncontrollable circumstances. The appeal was sustained.

Chas. W. Morris appealed against 44 St. Louis for refusing to fine certain members for an alleged offense in a certain shop. The appeal was not sustained.

Abe Fried appealed against 17 Cleveland reference recognizing the bunch breaking and roll up system. The union replied that it had not refused to accept to membership those who were bunch breakers and rollers; that no demand had been made by the employers in any of the strictly union shops for this system; that a few members who were full-fledged cigarmakers sought the permission of the union to work under the bunch break and roll up system in shops in which the system did not prevail. The union declares that any time a bunch breaker or roller applies for admission to the union he will be promptly admitted and permitted to work in any union shop. With this understanding the appeal was not sustained.

C. W. Pulver appealed against 97 Boston for compelling him to pay assessments on an unauthorized strike. The appeal was sustained.

R. H. Rosenberg, secretary, appealed against Union 130 Saginaw for deciding that a member had paid an assessment which his books, the shop collector's lists and the general evidence showed had not been paid. The appeal was sustained.

N. J. Fuss appealed against 41 Aurora for fining him $50. The fine on the recommendation of the union was reduced to $10.

Chas. H. Davis appealed against 442 Cape Girardeau reference the secretary. The appeal was not sustained.

UNION BUSINESS

Don't forget the election for International Officers and Delegates, February 12, 1921. Members who are entitled to vote are fined if they fail to do so.

Important.—Between January 7th and 14th we shipped to all local unions a sufficient number of official ballots, sample ballots, three inspectors' report blanks and registration blanks, to be used in the election of International Officers and Delegates, February 12, 1921. Secretaries who failed to receive them should immediately notify this office and duplicates will be forwarded.

In accordance with Sections 58, 59, and 60 of the Constitution, the following unions are hereby notified and requested to remit the following amounts for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the office of the International Union:

338 Eureka	100	399 Vincennes	100

INTERNATIONAL FINES

International Executive Board approved the application of 37, Fort Wayne, to fine E. E. Wy-song, 93338, and Roy Leonard, 112402, suspended members, each $100 for taking jobs in the non-union C. A. D. cigar factory when there were plenty of jobs in union shops. Vote: Affirmative, 6; one member approved $50, and one member approved $25.

Approved the application of 87, Brooklyn, N. Y., to suspend Ernest Grotz (76616) and fine him $50 for refusing to leave the Central Cigar Company factory after it was declared closed to union members. Vote: Affirmative, 7; negative, 0.

Fines of $10 or Less.

Union No. 22, Detroit, Mich., has fined the following members $10.00 for going to work in non-union shops: Tillie Zink, No. 55164; Francis Jankosky, No. 6735; Anna Radtke, No. 57968; Josephine Joswiak, No. 33319.

DECISIONS OF EXECUTIVE BOARD

December 23, 1920.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by certain members of Union No. 16, Binghamton, N. Y., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Hoffman, Garlepy, Reichert, Hall, Stack, Stevens and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was Union No. 16 fined certain members for working in a strike shop. These members appealed to the International President against the action of the union. The International President sustained this action. The members, thereupon, appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President. Members of the union claimed that their trial was illegal and that they were not permitted to be present.

They claim that the strike was not a union strike and that said shops should have been legally declared "closed shops" before union workers could be called out.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds:

That the union had legally ordered out its members in these strike shops. That these members failed to respond to the call and consequently the penalty exacted by the union seemed to be justified by the evidence. The fact that the strike was composed largely of unorganized cigarmakers can have no bearing, since the union by vote had ordered the strike. Those who failed to respond to this call naturally deserved the penalties imposed by the union.

In accordance with the vote cast and above reported, the decision of the International President is sustained.

Fraternally,
SAMUEL GOMPERS,
First Vice-President.

December 13, 1920.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by certain members of Union No. 218 of Binghamton, N. Y., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Hoffman, Garlepy, Reichert, Hall, Stack, Stevens and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was Union No. 218 fined certain members for working in a strike shop. These members appealed to the International President against the action of the union. The International President sustained this action. The members thereupon appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President. Members of the union claimed that their trial was illegal and that they were not permitted to be present. They claim that the strike was not a union strike and that said shops should have been legally declared "closed shops" before union workers could be called out.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds:

That the union had legally ordered out its members in these strike shops. That these members failed to respond to the call and consequently the penalty exacted by the union seemed to be justified by the evidence. That the fact that the strike was composed largely of unorganized cigarmakers can have no bearing, since the union by vote had ordered the strike. Those who failed to respond to this call deserved the penalties imposed by the union, and its action should be sustained.

In accordance with the vote cast and above reported, the decision of the International President is sustained.

Fraternally,
SAMUEL GOMPERS,
First Vice-President.

December 23, 1920.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by Walter C. Roesser of Union No. 49, Springfield, Mass., against a decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—Hoffman.

Negative—Garlepy, Reichert, Hall, Stack, Stevens and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was the appellant secured a retiring card from Union No. 49 with the intention of entering the military service. Upon being called for this service the appellant did not respond and was published by the War Department as delinquent. The member made application for reinstatement by War Retiring Card privilege, but for the above reasons the union refused to reinstate him. He thereupon appealed to the International President, who sustained the action of the union. He thereupon appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds:

That the International Union made every provision to protect the rights of its members who entered the service during the war. That no technicality has been allowed to stand in the way of such members receiving absolute justice. That according to the evidence this member was not entitled to a War Retiring Card and that since he performed no war service should not be allowed to avail himself of a War Retiring Card privilege. That the action of the union in refusing to grant this card is constitutionally correct.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained.

Fraternally,
SAMUEL GOMPERS,
First Vice-President.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

(Do not endorse two or more amendments on the same sheet of paper. Send in a separate endorsement for each amendment, as they have to be filed separately.)

Union 141, New York, proposes the following amendment to Section 117, referring to O. of W.:

Add after the word "stamp," on line 2, the following: "And International or local assessments that may be in force." Section to read: Section 117—Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out-of-work stamp, and International or local assessment that may be in force at the time of such unemployment, which shall be credited to member in lieu of weekly due stamp on International or local assessments of the denomination and in class to which said member belongs.

Balance to read the same in all sections pertaining to the out-of-work stamp. The words "International and local assessments" to be placed after the word stamp, section to read accordingly.

Amendment proposed by Local Union 429, Niagara Falls:

Amend Section 50 of the Constitution by adding the following: "Whenever a local union forwards to the International President a communication bearing the seal of the said local it shall be the duty of the International President to publish the same in the official Journal, and upon failing to publish the said communication or communications within sixty days from the date of mailing communication it shall be considered a breach of trust and the International Executive Board shall discharge the International President. Upon proof of any local union that they have forwarded two communications by registered mail and have receipts as proof, and upon the removal of the International President the International Vice-President shall take the office in their order and an election shall take place at once to fill the vacancy of the International President in the usual manner."

Union 39 of New Haven, Conn., proposes the following amendment to our International Constitution:

Amend Section 117 by inserting after the words "weekly due stamp," on line 3, the following: "And International assessment stamp." Section to read:

Section 117—Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out-of-work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and International assessment stamp of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of employment for at least two weeks, etc.

Union 39, New Haven, Conn., proposes the following amendment to our International Constitution:

Amend Section 64, Class B, fourth paragraph, by inserting after the words "Class B," on line 5, the following:

"In localities where the tobacco strippers and bookers are thoroughly organized in federal locals of the American Federation of Labor it shall be optional with them to become members of the International Cigarmakers' Union. Fourth paragraph to read:

Fourth—In all other respects the laws and rules governing arrearsages of dues, suspension from membership, limitation as to time in payment of benefits and all other laws governing the members paying regular dues shall apply to members enrolled in Class B. In localities where the Tobacco Strippers and Bookers are thoroughly organized in Federal Locals of the American Federation of Labor it shall be optional with them to become members of the Cigarmakers' International Union. All who are already members of the American Federation of Labor may deposit their cards with the International Union without payment of the initiation fee.

Union 208, Kalamazoo, Mich., proposes the following amendment:

That a weekly assessment be levied on each member of the Cigarmakers' International Union of 50 cents for the purpose of establishing International cigar factories to be placed in strike zones.

That a board or commission, the members of which shall be appointed by the International President, to devise means to create a business board for the establishment and management and operation of the factories.

That the assessment shall be continuous until the return of money from the sales afford its release, and such release to be determined by the business board.

The amendment of 353, Brooklyn, as published in the November issue, as follows: To levy a 50c assessment on all 60c, 40c and 30c members for one week, in aid of the Tampa strike.

Received the endorsement of Unions 92, Worcester; 402, Quakertown; 179, Bangor; 144, New York; 248, Jacksonville; 357, Vancouver; 383, Chicago; 168, Oshkosh; 337, Key West; 130, Saginaw; 129, Denver; 474, Tampa; 274, Pekin; 218, Binghamton; 312, Livingston.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it will not be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of 37, Fort Wayne, as published in the November issue, as follows: Add to Section 150: It shall be optional with local unions to compel union cigar manufacturers to place the union label on all cigars manufactured in such shops.

Received the endorsement of Unions 92, Worcester; 218, Binghamton; 168, Oshkosh; 130, Saginaw; 281, St. Louis.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it will not be submitted to popular vote.

The amendment of 353, Brooklyn, as published in the December Journal, as follows: As soon as any amendment in aid of Tampa strike is endorsed by the required number of unions, it shall be put to a popular vote under the same regulations as govern strike applications.

Received the endorsement of 218, Binghamton; 274, Pekin; 383, Chicago.

The amendment of 74, Poughkeepsie, as published in the December Journal, as follows: Amend Section 117 by adding after the words due stamp on third line, or assessments levied, so as to read:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out of work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and assessments levied, of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of work for at least two weeks. No other change.

Received the endorsement of 215, Logansport; 149, Brooklyn; 248, Jacksonville; 201, Rock Island; 218, Binghamton.

The amendment of 97, Boston, as published in the December Journal, as follows:

Union 97, Boston, offers the following amendment to the constitution: Strike out Sections 117 and 118 and insert the following. Section 117 to read:

Any member having paid weekly dues and assessments and in good standing for a period of one year losing his or her job shall report to the secretary of the local union at least twice a week and said member shall be exempt from all dues and assessments until such time as the member shall be again employed. No benefit will be granted for the first week of unemployment.

Section 118 to read:

But in no case will a member receive other benefits provided for in the constitution until he or she has paid 52 weeks' dues and assessments.

Received the endorsement of 447, Kenosha; 218, Binghamton; 215, Logansport; 353, Brooklyn; 160, Milford; 23, Detroit; 321, New Britain; 149, Brooklyn; 333, Chicago; 201, Rock Island.

UNION NOTES

Union 182, Madison, Wis., advises all union men to keep away from Madison as there are at present no union factories in that city.

Union 312, Livingston, Mont., would like to hear from A. J. Hamp, 8379.

Union 27, Toronto, Canada, states that trade is bad and members are out of work, and that traveling members will save themselves a lot of inconvenience by staying away from Toronto.

Union 133, Richmond, Va., reports that business is fair and jobs are open.

G. R. Kehm, 14963, is notified that where there are charges filed against him he should correspond with Union 4, Cincinnati, or appear in person; that time will be given him until March 15, 1921.

UNION NOTES BY H. ABRAHAMS, 97, BOSTON.

Don't you think, with the great number of strikes in the early part of last year financed by our Int. Union and the expenditure of $900,000 for Tampa is sure proof that our organization is a militant body?

Does personal abuse of Int. Officers in the labor movement have a tendency to strengthen the movement—or to improve our conditions?

No official objects to honest criticism, nor does it follow because a man does not agree with him that the official is a knave.

Yes, we gave our usual donation to Carney, also to the Free Home for Consumptives.

Label Committee did their usual holiday advertising in all the daily papers and distributed the usual number of calendars.

I wonder who inspires the various tobacco journals?

Fewer Boston manufacturers are trying to sell their nonunion goods in the middle west.

There is no law that can compel me to buy what I don't want or to patronize any merchant I don't like.

If all the trades who do not use a label would demand the Union Label on all the commodities they buy, there would not be anyone loading or such decisions from the Supreme Court.

Some of our legislatures want a state constabulary like Pennsylvania.

What we need in every locality is a Peter the Hermit who will arouse the worker from his apathy.

The only force that has improved the condition of the worker is the trade union.

While the radical is growing more radical, the conservative is growing more conservative—a little too much so.

Boys, stick to Tampa.

One for all and all for one.

LOST CARDS

8062 Susano Diaz, Init. July 5, 1913, at 148; lost Dec. 31, 1920.

E. P. Dutton and Company announce the publication of the following interesting and timely books by Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor.

In two volumes his writings and addresses under the general title,

Labor Movements and Labor Problems in America, compiled and edited by Hayes Robbins, who has long been connected with the labor movement and is in close association with Mr. Gompers.

The first volume, under the title of "Labor and the Common Welfare," will deal with the philosophy of trade unionism, labor's relation to the community, government and law, labor's view point on national and civic issues, the political policy of organized labor, labor's share in modern progress, labor and the world war, and organized labor's challenge to socialism, the I. W. W. and Bolshevism.

The second volume, to be called "Labor and the Employer," will include topics dealing with the historic, philosophic and practical relations between employer and employed. Among its subjects will be the history of the American Federation of Labor, the controversy over the union and the non-union shops, the economic basis of higher wages and the shorter working day, child labor, women in industry, collective bargaining, co-operation, the labor view of profit-sharing, the true democratization of industry.

Killed in Industry.

The battle of the Marne was only a skirmish compared to the every-day hazards of peace, according to members of the health and accident underwriters' association, at their meeting in Chicago.

It was stated that 105,000 persons are accidentally killed every year. During the war 31,000 Americans were killed in battle, whereas here at home, with no battle going on, 126,000 Americans died of accidents during the same period.—Exchange.

"What's all this that's in the papers about the open-shop?" asked Mr. Hennessey. "Why, don't ye know?" said Mr. Dooley. "Really, I'm surprised at yer ignorance, Hennessey. What is th' open-shop? Sure, 'tis where they kape th' doors open to accommodate th' constant stream av' min comin' in t' take jobs cheaper than th' min what has th' jobs. 'Tis like this, Hennessey: Suppose wan av these freeborn citizens is workin' in an open-shop f'r th' princely wages av wan large iron dollar a day av tin hours. Along comes another son-av-gun and he sez t' the boss, 'O! think O! could handle th' job nicely f'r nety cints.' "Sure," sez th' boss, an th' wan dollar man gets out into the cool world to exercise his inalienable rights as a freeborn American citizen an' scab on some other poor divil. An' so it goes on, Hennessey. An' who gits th' benefit? Thru, it saves the boss money, but he don't care no more f'r money thin he does f'h his right eye.

"It's all principle wid him. He hates t' see men robbed av their independence. They must have their indipendence, regardless av anything else."

"But," said Mr. Hennessey, "these open-shop min ye menshun say they are f'r unions if properly conducted."

"Shure," said Mr. Dooley. "Iv properly conducted. An' there we are: An' how would they have thim conducted? No strikes, no rules, no contracts, no scales, hardly iny wages an' dam few mimbers."

Tampa Strike.

At no time in the history of the International Union has there been a more determined and prolonged strike and lockout than that of Tampa, Fla. Never has there been fighting against more desperate odds. The strikers returned without a reduction of wages, with the exception of the Selectors, who had to return from the piece system of selecting to the per day work system. The spirit of organization is stronger today there than ever before. Not one single member of the International Union had to wait one minute more or less for the strike benefit due him. We paid out in strike benefits more than a million dollars from the General Fund, besides hundreds of thousands in voluntary contributions.

While the strike may not have terminated to the satisfaction of the unions, it can not by any stretch of the imagination be considered a lost strike. It demonstrated the solidarity of the workers there in the first place, and in the second place the ability and willingness of the International Union to meet its financial obligations.

The real purpose of the open shoppers who tried to hide the real object of their onslaught against the "Americanization" Smirched. American plan of employment, is to cripple and if possible destroy the unions, and in the attempt to accomplish their selfish aims they drag the sacred name of "Americanism" into the mire of sordid, selfish propaganda. The real purpose, stripped of its spurious disguise is to place the shops, mines and mills of our country under the European plan, and conduct them upon the system of starvation wages and long hours of labor

If they should succeed (but they won't) it would usher in with it the former Russian plan of secret organization, such as nihilism, syndicalism and communism, with their underground, secret, oathbound plans of propaganda and action. Society can well afford to take note of the attempt to destroy the constructive trade union movement, which stands for advancing, enlightened civilization along constructive lines as against the extreme, destructive radicalism.

To all of this some may say "All-bunk." That is what the Czar of Russia and his followers and advisers said, and he reaped the harvest of his short-sightedness and criminal folly of brutal oppression and repression of all open and constructive movements.

During this period of reconstruction and rehabilitation it becomes the duty of all loyal Americans and true friends of human rights and liberty and justice to consider the whole question in the calm light of reason and justice. Selfishness, greed, hatred, and profiteering should not enter into the solemn duty of adjustment of this mighty question. The period of cheap labor, long, oppressive hours, and brutal disregard of the rights of the worker has passed, and forever. The workers, generally speaking, are fair and will be found responsive in all plans conceived in righteousness and worked out on the broad principle of justice, equity, and equal opportunities.

We publish herewith in full an address delivered by William J. Cannon of Cleveland, Ohio, who was Strikes.

President of the International Union during the long period of industrial and commercial stagnation commencing in the early seventies. Many of the things he said then, especially concerning arbitration, are as true today as they were then. Our laws, however, reference strikes and financing them have been materially changed and to the advantage of the organization and the members thereof.

At that time there were practically no fraternal beneficial features except the strike benefit, and with the low dues prevailing and the absence of a law automatically levying assessments as we now have, there were no funds with which to pay even the strike benefit, and as there were no means of applying the principles of mediation, conciliation, and arbitration, confusion, chaos, and disintegration followed in rapid succession.

What Mr. Cannon said forty-eight years ago reference arbitration applies with considerable force at the present time. His views expressed in connection with arbitration, were written during a crisis and were predicated upon the stern facts and happenings that were the result of a lack of any means at that time whereby we could protect ourselves.

If all labor organizations today, when we are passing through another crisis, were equipped with workable, well-defined laws of mediation, conciliation, and arbitration, which would have to be put into operation before a strike took place, some wrecks would be averted and much lost time and money saved, and without any material loss to the members and workers involved.

Any cause that is just will not suffer because of the application of mediation, conciliation and arbitration. A just cause, backed up by facts and dispassionate argument advanced in a spirit of co-operation, wears down bitterness and the spirit of hatred and vindictiveness, and is always helpful in reaching mutually satisfactory adjustments.

Mr. Cannon's address follows:

The Question of Strikes.

(Address delivered by President William J. Cannon, Cleveland, Ohio, in 1873.)

"In conformity with the terms of said resolution, we desire first to call your attention to the change in the laws relating to strikes. It was fully admitted by all members that the alarming frequency of strikes was fast reducing the number of our members, and destroying the usefulness of the International and local unions; and that some change whereby useless strikes could be restricted, if not entirely avoided, was imperatively demanded. At previous sessions of the International Union, several plans looking to arbitration as a peaceful means of preventing strikes have been submitted, but it was not until the last session that the system of arbitration was engrafted in the Constitution as a means to which we could resort in time of difficulty. The plan is perhaps crude, but that it affords a basis for future legislation will be evident to all. Any method of settling disputes by arbitration is highly commendable, and the first efforts of the International Union in this direction should be hailed with delight by all.

"We have learned by the bitter experience of the past that strikes are as a two-edged sword in the hands of those who resort to them, and are not productive of the amount of good their advocates claim for them. We are opposed, utterly opposed to strikes, except in cases where a proposition to submit a question in dispute to arbitration had been rejected by the employers, and all other means have failed to bring about a just and peaceable settlement of the questions in dispute. Let any member of our organization look at the rise, the progress and termination of the various strikes in our trade for the last two years, and what are the results? In nearly every instance the same. Large sums of money expended, and invariably the dissolution of the union engaged in it. We do not wish to be understood that we are hostile to those unions who engage in strikes; but to the principle only, simply because we know that if persisted in it will inevitably work destruction to our organization. Shall we continue, then, to employ such a ruinous system for the redress of our wrongs? We sincerely hope our fellow-craftsmen throughout the country will never again have recourse to anything of the kind, as they only engender bitter feelings and hatred in both parties. Let us, then, try and supersede them by a more peaceful mode of redress, one calculated to preserve the utmost good feeling between the employer and the employee. We earnestly hope that our fellow-craftsmen will ponder and weigh this matter carefully in their minds, and give us their aid and support in bringing about the reform which our trade imperatively demands. But that strikes can always and entirely be avoided, we do not assume. There are occasions when it is absolutely necessary (when all other means have failed) in order to preserve our principles of right, justice and manhood, to resort to a strike. Then our action should be short, sharp and decisive, in order to insure success. The required assistance to sustain such strike should be promptly forthcoming. No delay, no dilatory action on the part of those from whom support is expected, should be permitted. We have had too much of this in the past, and we now desire to impress upon all local unions the necessity of rendering the necessary assistance promptly to aid an approved strike. By withholding the assistance called for, you not only violate your obligation to the International Union, but it is a gross breach of faith to those Local Unions who render assistance, and those who stand in need of it while struggling for their rights. Who will deny that if many of the strikes of the past year had been properly sustained, the results would have been different, and that our organization, which now languishes, would have been vigorous and strong?"

The organization of American Employers' Association, Inc. (open shoppers) has the following departments:

Mutual Support. Legal, Reference, Open Shop, Contract System, Publicity, Co-operative

Support in Industrial Troubles, Discipline, and Power.

Under the caption "Open Shop" it says: "This corporation favors the open shop. It denies no man the right to work." This does not jibe with the admissions of Mr. Grace, that one of the biggest steel corporations in the country would not sell steel to a contractor or builder who employed union labor.

Under the caption "Co-operative Support in Industrial Troubles" it says: "In the event of a strike or similar trouble, financial support should be given to the one afflicted, and also moral support. This is an important factor in the hour of trouble."

This furnishes a concrete example for the workers, of the solidarity and co-operative spirit of the manufacturers, of support in case of strikes, and one that can profitably be followed by the workers.

The following International Unions hold conventions as follows:

Sept. 19, Cincinnati, Ohio, Metal Polishers' International Union.

Oct. 3, Toronto, Canada, The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

Local unions where these conventions are held are urged to appoint a committee to visit the convention (the first day is the best time) and urge the delegates to patronize union label cigars.

One of the most vicious, wilful misstatements advanced by the open shoppers against the strict union Misrepresentation. shop is wherein they seek to convey to the public, and especially the non-union workers, the false notion that a strict union shop is closed against all non-union workers. The real facts in the case are that all journeymen in practically all trades are eligible to membership in the unions. In our own particular case our constitution, under the caption "Membership," distinctly says "All persons engaged in the cigar industry, regardless of color or nationality except Chinese coolies and tenement-house workers, shall be eligible to membership." This means that the local union must accept to membership any journeyman cigar-maker regardless of color, race, nationality, or sex, with the exceptions noted.

The unions rightfully hold that in shops where, through trade union activity, they have at great sacrifice and the expenditure of large sums, succeeded in establishing a fair rate of wages, reasonable hours, and good working conditions, that if the non-unionists want to enjoy these advantages, by working in these shops, they must at least contribute their small share toward the maintenance of the organization that has been instrumental in improving their working conditions. It is their privilege to quit these union shops or join the union. There is no compulsion in either event.

Despite these indisputable facts some employers are industriously circulating the false statement that non-unionists can not work in union shops, and they are unfortunately making a portion of the general public believe their statement. All union shops are wide open for any journeyman or qualified workman to come in on an equality, sharing with all others equal burdens, rights and responsibility.

The "stand and deliver, take no prisoners" attitude of the open shop bitter enders is not at all conducive to industrial peace and can lead only to disaster. Wherever their effort to annihilate the constructive trade union movement is successful it will prove costly in the long run to themselves, to posterity, and to enlightened civilization.

The North American Review, in a recent issue, asks "Has Trade Unionism Failed?"

The answer is that no organization has ever been fought more viciously, ambitiously, persistently, and consistently by the privileged few profiteering manufacturers and big interests generally, in any time or country than is the trade union movement right now. If the trade union movement has failed why this terrific onslaught against it?

Wherever the working people have manifested their desire for improvement by organization, there improvement has taken place. Wherever the working people are the poorest, most degraded and miserable, there we find the greatest lack of organization; and in the same degree as the basis of the organization is improved, we see the greater improvement in the material, moral and social conditions of the people. There are some who believe it is necessary that the condition of the people shall become worse in order to move them to action, to bring about the best results. How far from the truth, how illogical this proposition is can easily be seen when we follow it out to its legitimate conclusion. If the poverty of the working people of the world was the factor that moved them to action and more prosperous conditions, China ought to be at the head of civilization. On the contrary we see that it is through the gradual process of evolution, the improved habits and customs, that there is instilled into the minds of the people a recognition of the wrongs from which they suffer. The more the improved conditions prevail, the greater discontent with any wrongs that may exist. It is only through the enlightenment begotten from material prosperity that mental advancement becomes possible.—
From Labor and the Common Welfare by Samuel Gompers.

Manufacturers organize in their associations and affiliate and co-operate with the Chamber of Commerce and financial organizations for collective action, while seeking to deny the right of association, affiliation, and collective bargaining on the part of the workers.

The amendment of Union 97 having received the required number of endorsements will be submitted to popular vote. While we are in full accord with the object sought by Union 97, that is, to permit members out of work to be exempt from dues and assessments, we are compelled to call attention to the reading of the Boston amendment. They propose to strike out Sections 117 and 118 of the Constitution, and in the substitute they propose they make absolutely no mention of the out-of-work stamp, while in every other one of the twenty-eight sections, with the exception of two, the words, "Out-of-work stamp," are used. The whole law in every other section is predicated upon the use of the out-of-work stamp, which Union 97 has overlooked or neglected to insert in Sections 117 and 118. If it was their purpose to do away with the out-of-work stamp they should have also proposed to strike it out of the other twenty-six sections.

However, a more serious objection to their amendment is that in Section 118 it provides that members must pay fifty-two weeks' dues and assessments before they can receive any other benefit provided for in the Constitution. This directly conflicts with Section 79 of the Constitution, which in part says, "No member of the International Union shall be entitled to any strike benefit unless he is a member in good standing for at least three months." This section makes a member who has been such for three months, entitled to strike benefit. The Boston amendment provides that he shall not be entitled to any benefit until he has paid fifty-two weeks' dues and fifty-two weeks' assessments.

The really insurmountable mistake in this amendment is the provision for the payment of fifty-two weeks' assessments before a member is entitled to any other benefits. There have been times and will be in the future when few International Assessments will be levied for a whole year. Nevertheless the Boston amendment provides members must pay fifty-two weeks' International Assessments before they are entitled to any other benefits. It could so happen that there might not be fifty-two International Assessments levied in two, three, or five years. We feel sure that Union 97, Boston, did not intend what they have really stated in their amendment.

While under the law we are compelled to submit this amendment, at the same time we call your attention to the amendment of Union 74, Poughkeepsie, which seeks to accomplish the same results, and is so worded as to be workable. It has the required number of endorsements and will also be submitted to popular vote. This amendment we heartily endorse and hope will be adopted.

In the propaganda peddled out to the unsuspecting, prejudiced public by the open shoppers they are loud in the declaration and profession that they don't discriminate in the hiring of labor; that they don't ask nor do they care whether the workman belongs to the union or not. This carefully dusted and highly polished declaration with its thin veneer of plausibility is effectually disputed by the testimony of Eugene C. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, who, testifying before the Lockwood Legislative Investigating Committee at New York, admitted that the Bethlehem Steel Company refused to sell steel to contractors to be erected by union men. This disclosed the real attitude of the open shopper and confirms our oft-repeated statement that their real objective is the complete non-union shop.

The immortal Abraham Lincoln, real all wool and yard wide American said:

"I am glad to see that a system of labor prevails in New England under which laborers can strike when they want to, where they are not obliged to work under all circumstances." . . .—[Speech at New Haven, 1860.]

And again:

"Labor is prior to and independent of capital. Capital is but the fruit of labor, and could never have existed had labor not first existed. Labor is superior to capital, and deserves much the higher consideration."—[Message to Congress, 1863.]

Contrast the foregoing with what the open shoppers say, who term their campaign to establish the non-union shop the American plan of employment, and in whose propaganda, which is spread broadcast, great stress is placed upon the words "American" and "Americanism."

Chicago, Ill.—Private gunmen and city police of Hammond, Ind., who shot and killed four members of organized workers in one of the coldest blooded murders on record, also shot and seriously wounded twenty other members of labor unions, will not get away from the courts as easy as they think. The killing of these four, two of whom were carmen, one blacksmith and one a laborer, occurred at the time the steel strike was on. All of these men belonged to the bonafide organizations affiliated with the A. F. of L., and had been on strike for some time to resist unbearable working conditions and a low rate of wages, forced upon them by the Standard Steel Car Company of that place while the officers of that concern were then being investigated and questioned by a congressional committee in which a war graft scandal involving the sum of $27,000,000 was charged.

One of the murdered men, Lawrence Dudeck, had been a returned soldier from over seas, saw active duty in France, fighting for this country, then came home, joined the organization after securing employment, and was with the strikers when they were attacked by a portion of the police and private gunmen, at a place six squares from the plant, was shot in the back and killed outright. The authorities did not investigate the murder, but the coroner did hear a part of it and referred the case to the grand jury. Now the court prosecutions are a certainty.

A committee of International representatives of the organizations involved was at once selected, and M. W. Martin, editor of the Journal printed by the International Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers, was made chairman. To him fell the task of seeing that funds were provided with which to bring about the prosecution of the guilty parties.

Acting in that capacity Chairman Martin has been very busy with the attorneys who have the cases in charge. Joseph R. Roach, of Indianapolis, Ind., one of the kind upon whom organized labor can depend for deep probing and untiring efforts to send the guilty ones to prison, is the chief counsel. He has filed eight suits in the courts, and four of them are to be called during the latter part of the week of Feb. 7th. He also has promise from the courts that his plea for a rigorous investigation into the method employed to bring about this shooting, shall take place.

Some sensational developments are expected during the hearing. Attorney Roach will prove that the weapons carried by the gunmen on the morning of the shooting were Winchester Automatic shot guns, then the property of the United States Government. Other developments that will startle the broad minded thinking citizens of this country, people who are not ready to accept everything that capital prints in the kept press as being absolutely true, will be brought to light. Congress will be asked to investigate certain features of the murder, and perhaps the records of congress may contain some reference to the shocking tragedy.—Journal Brotherhood of Blacksmiths, Drop Forgers and Helpers.

CORRESPONDENCE

Portland, Ore., Jan. 18, 1921.
I was instructed by a unanimous vote at our regular meeting to submit the enclosed amendment to Section 150 of our constitution; you will find it self-explanatory in its intent.

We find ourselves unable to thoroughly organize those eligible for membership under the Class B clause, and entirely due to the lack of authority to force the manufacturers to respect our attempts in that direction. They inform us that we can not force them to pay a decent wage to strippers and others whom we wish to organize, because our International constitution will not sustain us in the action. However, our amendment makes it optional with locals and we had in mind in so doing that perhaps some locals would find themselves in no position to force the matter, but our local and I presume many others are in a position to organize these workers if the proper authority to enforce it is given them. Personally I hope our amendment is looked upon with favor by the membership, as the way it stands at this time it leaves us practically on an open-shop basis, and I'm sure with the amendment offered voted into our constitution we of the Pacific Coast at least are in a position to organize the Class B eligibles.

TOM J. ESTABROOK, Secty.

Springfield, Mass., Feb. 1, 1921.

Regarding our amendment we wish to have published in Journal following:

We believe that a member should not be penalized to the extent of possible suspension because he or she has quit a job. In many cases men or women are morally forced to take that step rather than tolerate unbearable conditions or abusive treatment.

Dull times is often taken advantage of by certain unscrupulous manufacturers or foremen by way of handing the men or women stock that is not workable and by way of making it disagreeable well knowing that these men and women are at their mercy with jobs scarce.

It takes men and women with exceptional courage to protest and quit a job under such conditions and it seems rather inconsistent that they should be deprived of the benefits that members ordinarily are entitled to.

We have done away with the out-of-work benefit as far as monetary considerations are concerned but we are still maintaining all the restrictions and safeguards against the misuse of same.

There is no reason to believe that a member will quit a job in order to receive the out-of-work stamps.

This amendment will enable such members to remain in good standing within the eight weeks' limit and avoid their eventual suspension.

This amendment especially under the present industrial depression will tend to avoid the loss of a number of good courageous members who at all times are essential to further the progress of the organization.

Fraternally,

UNION 49, Springfield, Mass.

Sioux City, Iowa.

One of this country's prominent physicians probed into the question of why men smoke. He turned a deaf ear to glib prejudices and to accepted but half-thought-out notions. He based his conclusions upon a careful study of the use of tobacco by our men during the war. He diagnosed smoking as being clearly a diversion, which helped rather than interfered with a man's performance of his duty. Smoking is not a vicious practice, but a happy sport. If it were not, this expert declares, men would long ago have begun taking "My Lady Nicotine" in form of pills or tablets. A man lights up his cigar for a little relaxation, not to interfere with but to improve his work. He feels in need of a moment's let-up which will add to his power. Back he throws himself in the most comfortable position in the old chair; he scratches his match slowly, carefully, not nervously; he lights up the fragrant weed, not in haste, but lingeringly; he watches the smoke curl away from his lips with the same peculiar happiness with which he watched Babe Ruth knock a home run, and then—he plans best to do what he has to do. A good smoke—a good sport. A good sport—a good doer when things have to be done. Smoking is the sport of doers. JAS. WARD.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Jan. 27, 1921.

At the regular meeting held Jan. 27 the amendment proposed by Union 97, Boston, reference Sec. 117, Out-of-Work Benefit, as proposed in the December Journal, was seconded as far as the out-of-work benefit is concerned, but not Sec. 118 as proposed. As it is understood to mean that in case a member should be unfortunate to apply for the out-of-work dues and assessment exemption, no matter if but a week, and they should get sick or pass beyond in death within the fifty-two weeks from said out-of-work benefit they would not be entitled to any other benefit as provided in the constitution, viz.: Strike, sick or death. That appears plain and cunningly drawn. The other one is a very fair one and can safely be adopted.

Yours fraternally,

GEO. F. HITZ, Sec'y.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

London, Canada, Feb. 6, 1921.

I continued label agitation in Toronto until the holidays, when I received a wire to go to London. While in Toronto I visited the various union meetings and talked on the benefits of union label. I was well received and was promised support for our label cigars. Unemployment here is quite serious in all trades and an attempt is being made to establish the open shop policy in the various trades. Cigar trade is very quiet and our members may expect a depression for some time to come. And this fact should urge us to be more persistent in label agitation, for when a union man realizes his purchasing power there will be more union factories, and if ever there was a time when the principle of solidarity should show itself it is at present. I feel from my experience in my visits to the various unions that if the members will keep up this label agitation there will be steady work for union cigar makers. In London the situation was covered in my last report. As Local 278 was sustained in their application they are now receiving benefits, which should prove to those who are trying to disrupt the movement that the C. M. I. U. is prepared at all times to meet its obligation.

A publicity campaign by Union 278 is being conducted and will cover all parts of Canada. Union 278 will endeavor to bring about an honorable settlement of the present difficulties. While here I have attended the various meetings in the interest of the label.

Yours fraternally,

JAS. A. SULLIVAN.

Allentown, Pa., Feb. 5, 1921.

Conditions of the cigar industry in Pennsylvania since my last report show no encouragement, over-production cannot be found, and the enforced idleness upon the cigar makers and tobacco workers cannot be explained otherwise than a determination of the manufacturers to reduce wages.

One of the largest corporations in the state is far in the lead in this game. They reduce everything in sight with the exception of the sale price to the consumer and dealer.

They are opening new shops in the most remote localities among the foreign American-born inhabitants in small coal mining towns, where they early exploit the children of the miners for their own aggrandizement, and in this wise force their employees in better paid districts to a reduction in wages. They employ hundreds of these girls, whose ages range from 15 to 19 years of age, who they can take advantage of because of the fact that they have or cannot grasp the importance of organization, which is essential whether in depression or the so-called readjustment period.

This corporation referred to in the latter localities are operating full time, while in other jurisdictions where women and men are employed they are limited to as low as 150 per day and four days per week, while many are thrown out of work entirely, limiting production and affording them an opportunity to further profiteer from the consumer and dealer, or, as it were, the public.

This has been such a success that the disease has spread to the independent manufacturer as well, as it is reported they have been offering jobs at reductions ranging from $1 to $4 per M.

How strange it is that nearly all these diabolical schemes are perpetrated upon the unprotected, unorganized and helpless. For instance, the cigar girls in Pennsylvania, in a state that is reputed to have the best disciplined manufacturers' association in the United States, who in their last issue of their bulletin take a fling at New York state in the following article: "New York accidents increasing; Pennsylvania accidents decreasing." Think of their stupidity; but it is no doubt in line with their regular routine of business.

And after it is all summed up all this reverts back to the drastic open shop, American plan, movement advocated by these self styled normalcy projectors, fathered by the United States Chamber of Commerce and its affiliated subsidiaries.

The open shop American plan fostered by the referred to bodies will only be successful by and with the assistance of those who are trying and hope to disrupt the trades union movement, which has taken years of hard work by day and many sleepless nights by those who dared to take the initiative to build it up. Out of which unionists and non-unionists, organized and unorganized, have reaped untold benefits in shorter hours, increased wages and better conditions, and last, but not by any means the least, increased the life of the worker, his wife, his children, and in education which the community as a whole has been benefited.

I still believe and do contend that it is possible to organize these all worthy workers who are as yet not in the union. Dear members, do you not realize that eventually it must be done? "Why not now?" We have a right to think and believe that you have not forgotten those few words which are all important in our dilemma, that self preservation being the first law of nature it behooves us, one and all, who have been converted in the trades union movement to work now as you have never worked before to spread achievements of the American labor movement broadcast. The principles of the trades union movement are nothing less than pure Americanism, and I further say that it has and will bring further blessings to all the people.

I have visited the following localities since my last report: Scranton, Reading, Lebanon, York, Williamsport, Lock Haven, Warren, Erie, Pittsburgh, Rothville, Pottsville, Sellersville, Perkasie, Ephrata, Akron, Quakertown and Allentown, all of which have a determination, I believe, to discourage the open shop movement at once wherever possible to do so.

J. F. KEENEN,
Gen. Organizer.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 4, 1921.

A lull in industry with broad and sweeping effect, occasioned largely by enforced idleness of the workers brought on by captains of industry and big business, joining forces with the Wall street financiers, the United States Chamber of Commerce, the Steel Corporation and lesser satellites who seem bent on the rigid enforcement of the non-union "open shop" program for reasons so glaring and obvious that it does not require the keenest perspective or the greatest acid test of analysis in economics to discern its purpose, for it stands out like a mile-post to the wayfarer, "primarily and fundamentally it's for the reduction of wages," to accomplish the chief aim it is necessary to create a near-panic.

The unemployment in the United States, made by government survey, places the number something over 3,000,000. We are aware that the international exchange in commerce, due to the stagnancy of trade and unsettled condition in Great Britain and Europe have some direct effect on the employment in our country and would no doubt under normal state of affairs aid in absorbing more of the products manufactured on this side of the Atlantic.

The depression in this locality in the cigar industry is continuing with systematic persistency and manufacturers are not overlooking an opportunity to take advantage of the situation, whatever the cause of the condition may be, real or fictitious. They are striking the anvil in chorus while the iron is hot, using sledgehammer blows to beat down the wage scale to the lowest minimum, and all of this is being carried on through the compact of "Manufacturers' Association," an organization as such that enjoys the privilege and exercises it of getting together and fixing prices and yet seeks to deny the right to the worker to organize.

No one is in position to foretell how long the present conditions will prevail, but we are disposed to view the situation optimistically in hope that the tide of affairs will soon change for the better. But during this transitory period of unsettled conditions in industry, while attacks are being made from all quarters to reduce wages, those best able to resist are the organized groups in the trades union movement. They are holding in check the onslaughts of the employers, and are maintaining more nearly the standard which they gained through the strength of organization. Every effort should be lent at this time and every energy devoted in marshaling our forces and organizing into a compact body all of those engaged in the cigar industry so that the rights of the workers may be protected and they be permitted to enjoy the comforts of fair compensation for labor performed.

R. S. SEXTON,

Denver, Colo., Feb. 3, 1921.

I addressed a very well attended meeting of the Trades and Labor Assembly of Denver on Tuesday evening urging on the delegates the necessity of getting every member of their particular trade now on the outside into the union, and also that an extra effort at this time be made on the part of the members of organized labor to purchase only goods made by the members of labor unions and that carry the union label of the craft. This I believe to be the strongest weapon in the hands of organized labor if properly used.

The cigar trade in Denver appears to be fairly good, judging from the fact that there are only a few members out of work.

I assisted at a meeting held last evening called for the purpose of bringing together an organization known as the Retail Clerks' Club into the regular organization of the Retail Clerks' Union. A second meeting will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 9.

I have heard much talk recently of our ability or inability of organizing the women and girls in the cigar trade into the International Union. I have to say that if the members persist in efforts to keep them out (as has been done in several places), and driving them out after we get them in, it is going to be a much more dif-scult task to get and hold this class of membership. If the members would give us their wholehearted support and assistance these people can be organized. If I may be permitted to call attention to a happening that occurred recently: Just prior to my going to Porto Rico in March, 1919, we had, after a period of hard work, succeeded in organizing between 400 and 500 women and girls in Union 146, New Brunswick, N. J. This organization took on the appearance of being a good lasting membership. Shortly thereafter the unauthorized strike took place in New York and Chicago. Committees were sent out from New York to New Brunswick and got the girls out on strike. I find we have not one of those over 400 members that continued their membership in Union 146.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL FINANCIER.

Springfield, Dec. 7, 1920.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz.:

38, Springfield, Ill.

Conditions in this local are not what they deserve to be. Local unions in results obtained reflect the attitude of their membership. For instance, fourteen monthly reports could not be located, including the year 1918. Expense vouchers have not been endorsed by whoever receives the money, neither are they all on file. Even the benefit cards are not properly filled out. The attention of this union is also called to Section 172—do business now or the Constitution will be applied. The amount due to International Union is donations and flowers reported as sundries in the International expense. If ever I see such items in the accounts again it will mean that I shall make application to have the $25 fine imposed in compliance with Section 172. Expending International funds in this manner is an old habit here, but it will be stopped—must be. Left written instructions in the day book regarding necessary changes to be made in the manner of entering accounts in day book and ledger.

Three hundred and seventy-five dollars and sixteen cents of this deficiency is balances not replaced on amounts expended over percentage, and other items such as donations, etc., dating back many years. Brace up, fellows, get in the game, for you might as well be regular members of the union if you continue to pay dues. You are liable to need every help the International Union can give you in the coming year or more. Storm signals are out. Our trade is liable to get into turmoil before this so called reconstruction period is over. The retail trade in Springfield needs attention.

No. 114, Jacksonville, Ill.

This local certainly has had troubles of their own, and it is all the fault of the members. They have cared so little about their "own" business that it has as usual caused much to think about. They are now fairly straightened out, so far as finances go, and they have a man for secretary that is capable and willing. All he needs is that the members stand behind him, insist upon all your officers doing their duty, your finance committee and trustees in particular. Do this and there will be real harmony, instead of confusion and you can work together. Make work for 20 or 25 more men in Jacksonville by stimulating the patronage of home made cigars. The prominence of the cigar trade in Jacksonville would induce an ordinary business man to encourage the industry, not go all over the country to buy cigars made by people that never can spend a dollar with them. You must build up your union—be union men, men among men. Let the public know what the industry requires. They do not want less men employed in Jacksonville. You should help them to understand what is necessary. Quite likely before reconstruction is accomplished some of you will need employment—prepare for that day by making employment for yourselves making the cigars consumed in your home city. The money the cigar makers place in circulation every week in the year in Jacksonville is one of the best assets your city enjoys. Do not let them forget that you can benefit the trade immensely in Jacksonville if only you will make an honest effort.

Lack of interest in the Union is demonstrated here. Where once we could only find a part of one 50 box of non-label cigars in the whole town, there are now more than a few—and less members, and most of those here in Buckeyes. It will take some real hustling to put Havana where it was, but it can be done if a real try is made. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense all on file; books in fair condition. This local and the few left in the trade here are certainly up against it. It is hard to imagine the condition here, anyhow in our trade. Extremists in labor organizations have given the employers pretty nearly what they wanted for the purpose of breaking up the union labor movement in Kewanee and they are making the most of it. Result so far as our trade is concerned, not one journeyman employed at the trade here, and it was not labor troubles in our trade that brought about this condition.

The books and accounts here are in nice shape. Their trouble is a bosses' notion to operate with bunch machines and girls. So far he is still strong for the "girls," and if he has money enough he may last for a while. It must be rather confusing to have men bring back to his shop cigars they had been there to get. But when they found out what he was trying to do with several men he had employed, men that have raised families and are well known citizens of Madison, they simply brought back the cigars and wanted their money. Not quite the way to either increase your business or build it up. Statement as follows:

The books and accounts of Ex-Secy. Topham were sadly neglected. The new secretary, with the help of Ex-Secy. Haley and other members, will have a job getting the dues accounts of the members adjusted. They will have to have the due books, as stamps given out were badly mixed and perhaps not all given to them—especially the $1.00 assets.

OFFICIAL

EXECUTIVE BOARD.

G. W. PERKINS, President.

Monon Building, Chicago.

SAMUEL GOMPERS, 318 W. 51st St., New York City, First Vice President.

L. P. HOFFMAN, 729 N. Diamond St., Jacksonville, Ill., Second Vice President.

A. GARIEPY, 238 Ave. Hotel De Ville, Montreal, Canada, Third Vice President.

JOHN REICHERT, 1070 12th St., Milwaukee, Wis., Fourth Vice President.

E. G. HALL, 4124 Bryant Ave., S., Minneapolis, Minn., Fifth Vice President.

E. J. STACK, 412 Stock Exchange Bldg., Portland, Ore., Sixth Vice President.

CHAS. H. STEVENS, 530 Broadway, Buffalo, N. Y., Seventh Vice President.

GIBSON WEBER, 1710 N. Gratz St., Station C, Philadelphia, Pa., Treasurer.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140-g distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 146, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show.

If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

Official Notice.

In compliance with Section 180 of the Constitution, the International Executive Board levied a running weekly assessment of 50c to replenish the General Fund, on each sixty-cent, forty-cent and thirty-cent member.

This assessment takes place of the $1.00 assessment, which is discontinued Sept. 25.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 15, 1921.

We, the undersigned auditors of C. M. I. U. do hereby certify that we have examined the financial statements and accounts of the International President, Mr. G. W. Perkins, for the period of six months ending Dec. 31, 1920, and have found them correct, with the following result:

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of Union 24, Muskegon, to fine Henry Dornbush, 95953, $100 for working in the unfair shop of F. Jirochi. Vote: Affirmative—5, one member approved $50, and one member approved $25.

Approved the application of Union 22, Detroit, Mich., to fine Wand Behrendt, 63976, and Anna Drozden, 67880, each $200 for quitting union jobs and going to work in the non-union Little factory; also to fine Tille Sonora, 1894, $25 for going to work in a non-union shop. Vote: Affirmative—5, one member approved $50 instead of $200, and one member approved $50 on each of those fined $200 and $10 on the member fined $25.

Approved the application of Union 248, Jacksonville, Fla., to fine J. B. Smith, 121113, $100 for dropping a 16-year card and discharging members who refused to work an unfair job; and to fine Harvey Baggett, 33129, and John O'Rourke, 9082, $100 each for withdrawing their cards and obtaining illegal loans and going to work in the strike shop of J. B. Smith; and to fine Wilbur Woods and Anna Carpenter $50 each for strike breaking in the Smith shop; and to fine George Riebold $50 for working against the interests of the union. Vote: Affirmative—6; one member approved $25 on the first three members, and $20 on the other three.

Approved the application of Union 4, Cincinnati, Ohio, to fine David Burtanger, 47798, $100 for allowing himself to become suspended and taking a job in the closed shop of the General Cigar Company. Vote: Affirmative—5, two members approved $50, and one member approved $25.

Approved the application of Union 225, Los Angeles, to fine members as follows for strike breaking: $250 each on A. Copeland, 97,858; J. O. Gray, 77,696; Matt Bretz, 71,984; Jock Miller, 4,629; Sam Kahn, 81,283; Louis Aldelman, 37,479; Harry Leinhardt, 101,916; O. IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted a resolution of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 72, Burlington, Ia.—Robert Gill, who died Jan. 29.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

(Do not endorse two or more amendments on the same sheet of paper. Send in a separate endorsement for each amendment, as they have to be filed separately.)

The amendment of Union 141, New York, reference to Section 117, referring to O. of W., as published in the January Journal, as follows:

Add after the word "stamp," on line 2, the following: "And International or local assessments that may be in force." Section to read: Section 117—Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out-of-work stamp, and International or local assessment that may be in force at the time of such unemployment, which shall be credited to member in lieu of weekly due stamp on International or local assessments of the denomination and in class to which said member belongs.

Balance to read the same in all sections pertaining to the out-of-work stamp. The words "International and local assessments" to be placed after the word stamp, section to read accordingly.

Received the endorsement of Unions, 218, Binghamton; 168, Oshkosh; 90, New York; 12, Oneida; 118, Peoria; 215, Logansport; 54, Evansville; 44, St. Louis; 69, Three Rivers; 481, Bayamon; 38, Springfield.

Amendment proposed by Local Union 429, Niagara Falls, in the January Journal, as follows:

Amend Section 50 of the Constitution by adding the following: "Whenever a local union forwards to the International President a communication bearing the seal of the said local it shall be the duty of the International President to publish the same in the official Journal, and upon failing to publish the said communication or communications within sixty days from the date of mailing communication it shall be considered a breach of trust and the International Executive Board shall discharge the International President. Upon proof of any local union that they have forwarded two communications by registered mail and have receipts as proof, and upon the removal of the International President the International Vice-Presidents shall take the office in their order and an election shall take place at once to fill the vacancy of the International President in the usual manner. Received the endorsement of Unions 187, Covington; 90, New York; 168, Oshkosh.

The amendment of Union 39, of New Haven,

Conn, as published in the January Journal, as follows:

Amend Section 117 by inserting after the words "weekly due stamps, on line 3, the following: "And International assessment stamp." Section to read:

Section 117—Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out-of-work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and International assessment stamp of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of employment for at least two weeks, etc.

Received the endorsement of 215, Logansport; 39, New Haven; 49, Springfield.

The amendment of 39, New Haven, as published in the January Journal, as follows:

Amend Section 64, Class B, fourth paragraph, by inserting after the words "Class B," on line 5, the following:

"In localities where the tobacco strippers and bookers are thoroughly organized in federal locals of the American Federation of Labor it shall be optional with them to become members of the International Cigarmakers' Union. Fourth paragraph to read:

Fourth—In all other respects the laws and rules governing arrears of dues, suspension from membership, limitation as to time in payment of benefits and all other laws governing the members paying regular dues shall apply to members enrolled in Class B. In localities where the Tobacco Strippers and Bookers are thoroughly organized in Federal Locals of the American Federation of Labor it shall be optional with them to become members of the Cigarrakers' International Union. All who are already members of the American Federation of Labor may deposit their cards with the International Union without payment of the initiation fee.

Received the endorsement of Unions 49, Springfield; 218, Binghamton; 44, St. Louis; 168, Oshkosh.

The amendment of 208, Kalamazoo, as published in the January Journal, as follows:

That a weekly assessment be levied on each member of the Cigarmakers' International Union of 50 cents for the purpose of establishing International cigar factories to be placed in strike zones.

That a board or commission, the members of which shall be appointed by the International President, to devise means to create a business board for the establishment and management and operation of the factories.

That the assessment shall be continuous until the return of money from the sales afford its release, and such release to be determined by the business board.

Received the endorsement of Unions 274, Pekin; 118, Peoria; 239, Lyons; 44, St. Louis; 481, Bayamon; 38, Springfield.

The amendment of 353, Brooklyn, as published in the December Journal, as follows: As soon as any amendment in aid of Tampa strike is endorsed by the required number of unions, it shall be put to a popular vote under the same regulations as govern strike applications.

Received the endorsement of 218, Binghamton; 274, Pekin; 383, Chicago; 49, Springfield; 474, Tampa; 179, Bangor; 69, Three Rivers; 132, Brooklyn; 389, New York.

Not having received the required endorsements, it will not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 74, Poughkeepsie, as published in the December Journal, as follows:

Amend Section 117 by adding after the word due stamp on third line, or assessments levied, so as to read:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out of work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and assessments levied, of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of work for at least two weeks. No other change.

Having received the required number of endorsements, it will be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 97, Boston, as published in the December Journal, as follows:

Union 97, Boston, offers the following amendment to the constitution: Strike out Sections 117 and 118 and insert the following. Section 117 to read:

Any member having paid weekly dues and assessments and in good standing for a period of one year losing his or her job shall report to the secretary of the local union at least twice a week and said member shall be exempt from all dues and assessments until such time as the member shall be again employed. No benefit will be granted for the first week of unemployment.

Section 118 to read:

But in no case will a member receive other benefits provided for in the constitution until he or she has paid 52 weeks' dues and assessments.

Received the endorsement of 147, Kenosha; 218, Binghamton; 215, Logansport; 353, Brooklyn; 160, Milford; 22, Detroit; 321, New Britain; 149, Brooklyn; 383, Chicago; 201, Rock Island; 4, Cincinnati; 16, Binghamton; 389, New York; 39, New Haven; 179, Bangor; 192, Manchester; 130, Saginaw; 337, Key West; 57, Champaign; 53, New Orleans; 331, Crookston; 381, Watertown; 74, Poughkeepsie (Section 117 only); 44, St. Louis (Section 117 only).

Having received the required number of endorsements, it will be submitted to a vote of local unions.

Proposed amendment of Union 202, Portland, Ore., to be known as Section 150a:

Section 150a—It shall be optional with Local Unions to withhold the union label from any shop within its jurisdiction wherein there are employed any persons eligible to membership under the Class B Clause, who are not members of the C. M. I. U. of A.

Union 46 of Grand Rapids proposes the following amendment to the International Constitution:

Amend Section 67 by striking out the figure 5 on line 2 and insert in lieu thereof the figure 15, the remainder of section to remain the same. Section to read in part:

"Any member suspended by any local union can be reinstated by payment of $15, which may be paid in five weekly installments, or all at once, at the option of the union."

Union 49, Springfield, proposes following amendment to the International Constitution:

Amend Section 127 by inserting after the word "stamp" "until seven weeks thereafter."

Section to read: "Section 127: Any member quitting a job shall not be entitled to out-of-work stamp until seven weeks thereafter."

UNION NOTES

Notes by Union 97, Boston: Yea, we stuck to Tampa to the end. The Tampa boys were heroes. For the time being they have lost, but don't be discouraged; the trade union is here, and here to stay; I take off my hat to them.—Do you think it would be practical to run a number of chain cigar stores in the various cities, selling nothing but union cigars, tobacco and cigarettes? In the window a display of home industry made by the various manufacturers, while in the case leading brands of the popular union-made cigars. Marketing your product is the problem to solve.—Yes, we donated to the Children's Hospital.—As when this appears in print the election will be over, some of the candidates believe in the old saw: "When you have no argument, abuse your opponent."—If all members of organized labor would insist on union label goods, look for union shop card and union card the miscellaneous trades would not be tendered a wage reduction; they are not class conscious.—I have been trying to find out how we can defeat the trust while members of organized labor buy non-union cigarettes and tobacco. I have not solved this problem.—New England Conference has and is justifying its existence. Their new window poster is just the right thing.—Springfield conference realized the value of the slogan, "All for one and one for all."—Henry Abrahams.

Dear Sir and Brother:

The Denver Labor Defense League requests the editors of all Labor papers and trade journals to give full publicity to the membership of Labor Building Trades and miscellaneous trades and crafts. Employers are trying by insidious propaganda to create the impression that lots of work and better conditions can be had somewhere else than their local district. The intent is to flood first this locality and then other localities with an excess of union or card members and thereby wreck our dearly-earned conditions.

The conditions are much the same throughout the United States and if you spend your last dollar on transportation you become subject to competition with the strikebreaker with this difference: The employer must pay return fare to the RATS and you can walk.

Stay where you are now. If you must move, first write to the local secretary of that district for facts concerning employment.

Pay no attention to so-called news items that are misleading ads concerning employment.

W. E. SHUTTS, Secy.

Single copies, 10 cents.

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 23, 1894,
March 3, 1879.

The Executive Board has declared the 50-cent weekly assessment shall cease after March 19th. Notwith-

Proof standing that we expended Piles Up. about $1,000,000 in the Tampa strike, aside from the regular amounts for strike benefits in other places and the payment of all benefits of all kinds, the general fund shows more money than we had when the Tampa strike commenced and this fact constitutes an irrefutable argument in favor of the financial stability of the International Union and the willingness of all real union men to meet all financial obligations.

The propagandists and hirelings are still quoting, parrotlike, the old lying canard first promulgated by Daniel De Leon, when he said in his newspaper twenty-five years ago, and in a circular distributed at the Detroit Convention the same year, 1896, that the Cigar Makers' International Union was bankrupt.

The International Union has never passed through a more trying ordeal. Despite the open shop drive conducted by the United States Chamber of Commerce and its satellites with a blind persistency grounded upon dollars and more dollars and a brutal disregard of human rights, together with the secessionists, paid hirelings, and those boring from within, the International Union has met all of its financial obligations, and can well feel proud of its achievements. This stands as an everlasting monument to the stability and ability of the constructive trade union movement.

There is absolutely nothing new in the "Individual bargaining between employer and employe" system that Individual is at present being pushed Bargaining. to the front under the misnomer "American plan" by the open shoppers who hope to destroy organized labor.

Individual bargaining was the method used for centuries, and until the dawn of the day when labor began to organize into trades unions the workers felt its full force and knew its fatal result. It was in full sway when skilled mechanics worked ten, twelve and often fourteen hours a day for whatever the employer saw fit to hand his "individually hired" man. It was in the height of its glory(?) when the worker's home held neither comfort nor convenience of any kind and when eighty-five per cent of the workers' children were deprived of an opportunity to obtain even a grammar school education. These miserable conditions, and many others as bad or worse, generally prevailed until labor through the power of organization put them forever out of its life.

These conditions which for so long a time made of the worker no more than a chattel are behind us. We do not propose to see the march of progress stopped in its upward swing and forced backward to gratify the desires of an industrial autocracy as bad if not worse and more ruthless than the political autocracy against which the entire civilized world protested and in its rebellion spilled the blood of millions of workers.

Let it be known now and forever that we have tried individual bargaining and know the dregs the cup contains. We do not propose to drink again of its poisoned contents be it labeled the "American plan" or anything else.

The battle for human liberty is age long.

The early settlement of America was the result of the desire for liberty on the part of those hardy pioneers who braved unknown seas and unbroken wildernesses in this desire to be free of oppressive forces, religious, political and economic.

The desire for liberty from a despotic and autocratic monarchy resulted in the Revolutionary War, the Declaration of Independence and finally in the establishment of the United States of America.

The need of organization is manifest through all of this endeavor. First those who desired to throw off the yoke of oppression organized themselves into a company and proceeded to immigrate to unknown shores. Once here they organized themselves into a colony and under this form of organization carved out a home in the wilderness. With the resolve to break the bonds that tied them to a hated autocratic monarchy, they organized into an army and loyally gave battle for the principle of political and social human rights.

So on through history's pages we find that only through organized effort have the things held to be worth while been achieved. It is so today and our aim must be, organization for industrial liberty.

The wanton waste, the nerve racking uncertainty, the unstable demoralization of industrial conditions due in

Our Keynote part to the great war are

We face the future with the unshaken confidence of all right thinking people in the belief that with our affairs again in our own hands, our destinies unhampered by foreign affairs, we shall soon be able to overcome any domestic tribulations that may for the moment appear to be hazardous.

Labor's fundamental rights are safeguarded in the United States by the constructive trade union movement and the reaction of certain unscrupulous dollar grabbing corporations will ultimately fail.

While it is true that no element can escape its part or burden in the common task that faces the nation it is also true that labor will not submit to crucifixion on a cross of greed.

The future is largely what the workers make it, and with our spirits unbroken and our eyes on the dawning day of peaceful pursuit there is no reason for pessimism to dwell within our midst.

Our own immediate affairs are in good condition. While there is at present an attempt, and there will no doubt be in the near future further attempts, in certain districts to cripple the International Union we can with consistent action based on logical trades union reasoning surmount these difficulties as they arise.

We have successfully met the crisis. Our treasury remains intact, our membership have proven themselves invulnerable to the test of oppression and repression, and are ready and willing to battle loyally to gain their objective.

Our goal is the organization of the entire cigar industry. We have provided the machinery with which to carry on the work. We are well on the road to ultimate success. We know our needs and our aim is to achieve them.

Let each and every one of us unitedly resolve to make for the things we hold to be paramount. Let us further resolve to put aside the petty jealousies that hinder and hamper and to pull together with the teamwork that is essential to consummate better and bigger things.

A feeling of distrust on "general principles" among ourselves and between employer and employe does not make for industrial peace. For the good of all concerned we have had too much of gorilla warfare. We stand for a just industrial peace. We stand for the Cigar Makers International Union and its constructive policies and are ready to fight for both.

It has been said, and proved, that experience is the best teacher.

marked trail through the tangled forest of human endeavor.

A careful analysis of the Tampa strike, finally settled, is rich in experience and pregnant with valuable lessons. Among the more forceful and momentous and one that we should give especial consideration is the lesson of the need of organization.

The only cause for worry during the entire Tampa struggle was the ways and means of financing those who were not members of the C. M. I. U., and were therefore not entitled to its regularly paid and constitutionally provided benefits. This problem of financing, to the extent of several thousands of dollars each week, those not entitled to regular benefits finally proved the weak link in the chain. Its weakness was shown the membership and a decision was made to relieve the strain rather than suffer the chain of organization to be broken.

The lesson taught and the proof supplied through this unfortunate condition are plain and comprehensive. In order to successfully carry on a strike of any considerable magnitude we must COMPLETELY ORGANIZE THE CIGAR INDUSTRY.

During the entire Tampa strike all members of the International Union received their full benefit on the day it was due and the Tampa local had more than twice as much money to pay benefits with on the day the strike ended than they had on the day it started. Had every stripper, bander, caser, factory helper, etc., been members of the International Union and entitled to benefits, the struggle could have been carried on indefinitely and must have terminated in a complete victory. More important, and as forcefully true, had the entire industry been organized under our present laws and had each worker been entitled to International benefits as provided for in our constitution, the struggle would perhaps never have started and in any event would not have lasted for the length of time it did.

Our path is now marked. We have learned the way from the book of experience. It is now our duty, and should be our aim, to turn our steps into the well defined pathway of complete organization as provided for in our laws and to march with ever forward step toward the goal of our ambitions.

Secretary R. J. Poole of the Committee on the High Cost of Living, of the City

Mr. Eaton.

Council of Chicago, in a written statement to the committee, submitted March 9, says that he found as high as 809 per cent profit on food. In a list of sixteen articles of food sold in restaurants the lowest gross profit was 81 per cent, and the highest, 809 per cent. The average gross profit for the sixteen articles named was 287 per cent. These are the figures of an official of the City of Chicago.

In the same paper in which these figures were printed and on the same page we find that the Reverend Mr. C. A. Eaton, formerly pastor of the Rockefeller church in Cleveland, Ohio, in an address to the Chicago Association of Commerce, says: "The closed shop is obviously un-American, and the open shop is industrially necessary. It is American." Then he ventures this wonderful economic opinion "and we shall have the real open shop when the employer is the leader and when he does voluntarily what labor unions now force him to do." This follower of the lowly Nazarene, in all seriousness, asks us to disband our unions and place our hopes, our aspirations, and our destinies in the hands of our employers and trust to their tender mercies to do the things the union now insists they shall do. This ought to make Jesus weep scalding tears of shame. It is pure bunk and subterfuge. If the truly honestly inclined employer of labor wanted to give decent living wages and reasonable working hours, with fair shop conditions, he would be confronted with the fact that a dozen other get-it-all, grasping, greedy, profiteering employers would be paying, if they had the power as suggested by the Reverend Mr. Eaton, a much lower wage and working their men long hours, and would force the decently-inclined manufacturer to follow suit or go out of business. The "good"

Reverend Mr. Eaton is not quoted by the papers as saying anything against the profiteering brought out by the secretary of the High Cost of Living Committee of the City Council.

In a letter dated March 6, Organizer Gazzella, writing from Ludington, says, "The Consolidated Factory has two Polish spies on the payroll. . . . Mr.

Mack, the chief spy, deserted his wife and baby and skipped the town."

The woods are full of these payroll spies. Watch for and beware of them. They are in all big industrial centers and in many local unions. Their chief business is to keep the workers divided on religious, racial, and political lines. They are especially active at present in our trade in boosting the dual Amalgamated Tobacco Workers' Union, and keeping our members divided and fighting each other over the form of government that shall prevail in Russia. The main idea is to keep the workers' minds and thoughts and actions on anything except the bill of prices, the hours of labor, and decent working conditions.

Everywhere we hear of rents going up to unprecedented, outrageously profiteering heights. An apartment consisting of two rooms which could be had for $35.00 a month, two years ago, has been raised to $65.00 per month. All other apartments have been raised in proportion.

Rents.

This constitutes a very serious menace to the future well-being of mankind. Actuaries, professors of economics, and trade union and government officials have all agreed in declaring that only a certain portion of man's income can be safely expended for rent, and that every cent expended over that fixed sum robs the family of food, clothing, education, and amusement, and all other necessary things that go to make life bearable. The experts slightly differ in the amount that can safely go for rent. These amounts vary from fifteen per cent to twenty-five per cent. The profiteering landlord today is exacting double and more the amounts that can safely be paid out of the average man's income for rent. This forces millions of people to resort to cheaper places in which to live, and crowd together and double up in a manner that destroys privacy and is destructive to good health, morality, strength, usefulness, and longevity of the present and coming generations.

THE CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.

By a Conference of Representatives of National and International Trade Unions, Washington, D. C., February
23-24, 1921.

We ask the American people to give solemn consideration to this declaration. It is the pronouncement of a movement that is consecrated to the cause of freedom as Americans understand freedom. It is the message of men and women who will not desert the cause of freedom, no matter what the tide of the struggle.

The American labor movement in this crucial hour here lays before the people the full story and asks them to rally with labor to the defense of our imperiled institutions.

Labor speaks from no narrow or selfish point of view. It speaks from the standpoint of American citizenship. And the indictment it lays is an indictment of the enemies of freedom and progress.

American labor battling for the preservation of American democracy and American institutions today stands between two converging destructive forces.

Standing between two opposing forces, uncompromising toward both, the American trade union movement today finds itself and every American institution of freedom assailed and attacked by the conscienceless autocrats of industry and the followers of radical European fanaticism. If either of these wins, the doors of democratic freedom and opportunity can never be reopened in our time.

Though inspired by vastly different motives, these two unrelenting forces work toward the destruction of the same ideals, each using the other as a tool in the struggle to overwhelm democracy and put an end to American progress, politically and industrially.

On the one hand Labor is compelled to meet in a wide variety of manifestations the determination of reactionary industrial autocrats, autocrats who would destroy the organizations of labor and remove from the field of industry the only agencies through which the workers may protect themselves from aggression and the only agency through which they may offer to industry their co-operation in the improvement of industrial processes and the expansion of productive energy with that improvement of the product and lowering of prices justly demanded by the public.

Reaction Casts Off All Pretense.

Reactionary employers have joined their might in a campaign which they are pleased to call a campaign for the "open shop," which they have been waging vigorously since the signing of the armistice. Compelled by the pressure of public opinion to accept Labor's co-operation during the war, when the utmost conservation of productive energy was necessary to the life of the nation, they cast off all pretense immediately upon the passing of the emergency.

This entire campaign on the part of the combined reactionary employers is in no sense a campaign for the "open shop," no matter what definition may be given to that term. The campaign is (distinctly and solely) one for a shop that shall be closed against union workmen. It is primarily a campaign disguised under the name of an "open shop" campaign, designed to destroy trade unions and to break down and eliminate the whole principle of collective bargaining which has for years been accepted by the highest industrial authorities and by the American people as a principle based upon justice and established permanently in our industrial life.

Not only during the war, but during every year since the labor movement has had a place in our industrial life, it has justified its existence and proved the necessity therefor, by making possible the necessary co-operation between employers and workers, on the one hand, and on the other hand by rescuing the workers from autocratic domination and developing for them a standard of living and of working conditions fitting to American citizenship. The American trade union movement is here because it is a necessity.

Unscrupulous Financial Speculation.

The unscrupulous pirates of finance, having squeezed the consumer throughout the period of the war, are now broadening their field and enriching themselves by squeezing both the producer and the consumer. Fortunes are being made today by commodity and financial speculation.

Flagrant Profiteering Continues.

It is astounding, but true, that even after so great a lapse of time since the ending of hostilities there is, so far as the average family is concerned, practically no reduction in the high cost of living. It is admitted freely that in some commodities there has been a reduction of price in the wholesale markets, but there has been no appreciable reduction in the retail prices at which the working people must make their purchases.

Labor has time after time indicted the employers and the commercial interests of the country for wanton profiteering. We declare again that the government has been and continues impotent in the face of the criminal operations of profiteers and must therefore accept the responsibility for a great portion of the indignation and resentment of the people against those who have filched their pockets for no reason except that they have had the power to do so.

Going hand in hand with profiteering there has been, and is, a shameful and undoubtedly unjustified overcapitalization of industrial and commercial projects, compelling the consuming public to pay interest in the form of inflated prices on vast sums of money, back of which there is no foundation of intrinsic value or productive capacity.

Curtailling Consuming Power.

Due to the maladministration of industry, and principally and primarily because of the studied and calculated arbitrary policies of reactionary employers, there has come upon us a state of unemployment which is depriving fully three and one-half million working people of the opportunity to earn a living. That there should be this tragic situation at a time when hardly any portion of the world has a sufficient supply of the necessities of life is a commentary upon the methods of those responsible for the conduct of industry which they can not justify. It is a rebuke to their methods which only prompt and fundamental remedial action can remove. The condition of unemployment has been accentuated by keeping open the flood gates of immigration, which has added to the confusion and given employers an additional weapon in their efforts to reduce the American standard of living.

One result is the effort to lower wages. The stupidity of such policies as these, whether or not apparent to employers inspired only by a desire for monetary gain, is a matter which should give the most serious concern to the American people as a whole. Every reduction of wages is a reduction in the consuming power of the wage-earners and a direct blow at the prosperity and well-being of the country.

Labor not only insists upon maintaining the present standards of wages and working conditions but declares its solemn purpose to continue its struggle to further improve those standards. Where the unorganized workers are concerned, while they benefit by the protests and progress of the organized workers, they find themselves unable to meet properly the present crucial situation. Their recourse is to join the organizations of their trades or callings, and we demand for them the right freely to follow such a course and to exercise all of the powers and privileges which that implies. Collective bargaining is one of the great stabilizing influences in industry in the relations between employers and workers. It is censurable that employers have in too many instances dissipated these friendly and mutually advantageous arrangements. We strongly urge upon both employers and unions to keep inviolate the instrumentality of collective bargaining.

Tragic Penalties of Maladministration.

Another manifestation of the unscientific and inhumane policies of industrial autocracy is found in what is commonly known as "labor turnover," which means the repeated hiring and discharging of individual workers without any opportunity for an expression on the part of those workers in determining the terms or the conditions under which they shall give service.

This endless movement of workers from shop to shop, with its inevitable burden of idleness and loss of production, is the individual protest of the unorganized against conditions of employment which they have no power to remedy. Where there is organization of labor and the opportunity for negotiation and agreement, labor turnover is eliminated as a check and drain on industrial life.

Those manifestations of autocratic policy in industry already cited are almost entirely of a purely industrial character. There remain other abuses equally serious, if not more so, finding expressions more often through our political machinery. Through reactionary decisions of courts, through the unwarranted and reckless use of the writ of injunction, through laws establishing industrial courts and boards, through compulsory arbitration laws, and through the utter failure of Congress and of state legislative bodies to attempt anything which might serve as a stimulus to labor in these trying times, the welfare of the entire country and, in fact, the stability of many of our democratic institutions are most seriously menaced. These are matters of paramount interest to every American.

Industrial Courts Destroy Freedom.

Through the establishment of industrial courts, employers are seeking to inject into American industrial life a device through which they may annul constitutional guarantees and deprive workers of freedom and of the right to function through their organizations. Aside from the denial of guaranteed rights brought about by the establishment of industrial courts, these instruments serve to create in industry a disharmony which inevitably must result in a chaotic industrial condition and consequent loss of production.

The joint relationship between organized workers and employers which exists when these two industrial forces meet in voluntary conference to reach voluntary agreements is a relationship of negotiation; that which exists when industrial courts are established to determine the conditions in industry is a relationship between litigants—litigants never voluntarily yield a jot. Trade unionism establishes a condition of harmony through mutual effort toward a common purpose, while the industrial court establishes a condition of antagonism, each party in hostile suit against the other and each inevitably hostile toward the court itself when the decision is unfavorable. Industrial courts and the like, created by law, are pernicious devices, the fundamental error of which must become more clear as time passes. The paradox of the situation is that those employers who look upon them as devices for their benefit and who are propagating the idea with the zeal of faddists will, in the long run, suffer equally with labor as a penalty for their short-sightedness.

Injunctions Restore Feudalism.

The revival of the unrestrained use of the injunction also imperils the stability of our economic structure. For six years the Clayton Act, accepted on all sides as the established law of the land, to an appreciable degree checked the abuse of the writ of injunction. A majority of the justices of the Supreme Court have swept away this strong barrier against a feudalistic legal concept and labor finds itself again at the mercy of an unlimited use of judge-made law. The injunction as it is now used and abused in labor disputes is without sanction either in the constitution or in the fundamental law of the land. It is a pure usurpation of power and authority. The only possible and practical remedy in the face of a power so usurped and so completely unjustified lies in a flat refusal on the part of labor to recognize or abide by the terms of injunctions which seek to prohibit the doing of acts which the workers have a lawful and guaranteed right to do, or which seek to compel workers to do those things which they have a lawful and guaranteed right to refuse to do. This is the only immediate course through which labor can find relief and this course it purposes to pursue. Labor realizes fully the consequences of such a course but in the defense of American freedom and of American institutions it is compelled to adopt this course, be the consequences what they may.

The workers maintain that the constitution of the United States is a living document, its provisions and guarantees as applicable today as when they were adopted. The workers maintain that in their everyday life and work rights which the Constitution declares to be inalienable should in practice, as well as in theory, be inalienable. Among these rights is the right to liberty—freedom from involuntary servitude or compulsory labor, except as punishment for crime. This guarantee of the thirteenth amendment lives, and the workers are determined that it shall not be denied them. Nor shall this guarantee of their freedom be so distorted as to compel a group slavery in modern industry as reprehensible as was the individual chattel slavery of old. Slavery, compulsory labor, the tying of men to their jobs, will be no more tolerated now than was chattel slavery then. It has no more right to exist and is just as repugnant under our democratic form of government as it would be under a monarchical, bureaucratic or any other form of government.

The Clayton Act was made law by Congress and by the signature of the President for the express purpose of correcting a condition under which cases such as the Danbury Hatters' case were possible. It was made law for the express purpose of instructing judges in the limitation of their powers. Shortly after placing his signature to the Clayton Act with its labor provisions the President of the United States made the following declaration:

"A man's labor is not a commodity but a part of his life. The courts must not treat it as if it were a commodity, but must treat it as if it were part of his life. I am sorry that there were any judges who had to be told that. It is so obvious that it seems to me as if section 6 of the Clayton Act were a return to the primer of human liberty; but if the judges have to have the primer opened before them, I am willing to open it."

Trade Unions Defend Liberty.

The greatest force in American life capable of restraining predatory capital and to that extent capable of maintaining the democratic institutions of the country is the trade union movement. The trade union movement would be false to its trust, false to the ideals of our Republic and false to the great public whose confidence it must have, as well as false to its own members, whose interests it is organized to protect, if it neglected any proper effort in behalf of the liberty or well-being of the great masses of our people.

To that end this movement of the organized workers sets its face against all forms of compulsion, including such devices as so-called industrial courts the un-American and repugnant idea of compulsory arbitration and the vicious, tyrannical abuse of the writ of injunction. Through such devices, in addition to the great danger which they constitute to the general public welfare, legislative enactments are set aside so that the organizations of labor may be mulcted, crippled or destroyed. Through such devices voluntary, democratic and constructive organizations of labor are practically outlawed.

Labor Resists Reaction.

However great may be the determination of the institutions of reaction to destroy the organizations of labor by these means, the resistance of labor will be uncompromising and unrelenting. The organizations of labor must not and will not be destroyed. Trade unions foster education, uproot ignorance, shorten hours, lengthen life, raise wages, increase independence, develop manhood, balk tyranny, reduce prejudice, protect rights, abolish wrongs, and make the world better.

It should be the purpose of government properly to stimulate our industrial processes. It should be the purpose of government to make voluntary negotiation more easily entered into. If, on the other hand, all of the safeguards set up in our constitutional and legal structure for the protection of the workers are to be destroyed by judicial construction, as the vitality of the Clayton Act has been destroyed, then labor demands the immediate and sweeping repeal of all of that body of laws known as anti-combination and conspiracy laws.

Labor is anxious to serve. It has made this declaration repeatedly. It has lived and practiced that determination. It has done this in the face of most wanton and brutal opposition. Government has given little assistance. It has even destroyed the simplest and most obvious beginning of what might have been an effective employment service. Labor repeats it is time for the immediate and comprehensive restoration of this service.

Fanatical Propaganda and Intrigue.

Converging upon labor from the extreme right is autocratic reaction, while from the opposite extreme is the insidious propaganda of radical European fanaticism, which is particularly and peculiarly deadly in its hatred of the American labor movement because of its democratic character and its steadfast refusal to adopt revolutionary destructive policies. It is a curious and startling fact that this propaganda of fanaticism has the sympathy and support of many of those in our country who style themselves as liberals, but who do not distinguish between that which is truly liberal and that which is destructive and fraudulent.

Because of its opposition to the American labor movement, this overseas propaganda has even secured in the United States the support, at times secret, of some of the most reactionary American employers because of a common antagonism to the trade union movement. There is an unscrupulousness and a natural aptitude for intrigue in this fanatical propaganda which makes it a most subtle menace to every democratic ideal and institution in our country.

This propaganda, this constant effort to undermine the constructive organizations of American labor, this constant poisoning of the very foundation of our democracy, finds its expression everywhere and through countless agencies. It is assisted in its work of destruction not only by the publications devoted to a perverted expression of "liberal" thought, but it is assisted as well by many of those who speak from our platforms and who write and edit our periodical publications and our daily newspapers. Much of this assistance is involuntary and unconscious, which testifies to the subtlety of the propaganda and to the need for constant study and alertness on the part of all those who have at heart the preservation of democratic life in America.

Labor's Purposeful Determination.

In face of the situation here set forth, which is still further embittered by the activities of private detectives and agents provocateur paid by many employers, the American trade union movement, speaking through its duly authorized representatives, offers on the one hand constructive practical suggestions for relief and remedy, and on the other hand utters its uncompromising protest against the injustices and the autocratic policies which reaction seeks to impose. It declares in measured and emphatic tones its unalterable determination to resist at every point and with its entire strength the encroachments both of industrial tyranny and fanatical, revolutionary propaganda. The American labor movement is determined at all costs to maintain that freedom and those liberties which constitute American democracy. The labor movement believes this policy to be one embodying the highest statesmanship, as the only policy that can preserve and maintain and develop that harmonious relationship in industry without which our productive processes must be sacrificed to a reign of chaotic disorganization. The labor movement offers those voluntary and conciliatory methods of negotiation, arbitration and agreement through which it is possible to develop in our industrial life the highest degree of good will and the highest degree of productivity, in order that there may be for all of our people the fullest enjoyment of life and the loftiest standards of life.

Voluntary Principle Is Vital.

The effort to crush the voluntary organizations of the workers may be designed by employers as an effort to secure their own immediate enrichment, but no such effort can stop at that point. Whether its sponsors will it or not, it is an effort to bring upon our whole national organization of society unprecedented disaster and retrogression. The principle of voluntary agreement is the kernel from which has grown the success of this country as a democracy. If that is destroyed in our industrial life, it can not exist in any other phase of our life, and the social organization that has made America must crumble and disappear. Neither the principle of state dictatorship nor the principle of private autocratic dictation in industry can be permitted to gain a foothold in America, for where either of these comes in freedom and democracy must cease to be.

American trade unionists have long since made their choice of principles. Their movement is founded upon the principles laid down in the foundation stones of the republic. It is now for the American people as a people to make a choice. We are confronted with a supreme crisis. Not even in the days when the nation hovered on the brink of war was the situation more critical. The path of progress and constructive peaceful achievement and evolution is laid down by the trade union movement. The road to autocracy, unfreedom and chaos is laid down by its enemies. The choice is now before the country.

This conference calls for public support and recognition of:

The right of the working people of the United States to organize into trade unions for the protection of their rights and interests.

The right to, and practice of, collective bargaining by trade unions through representatives of their own choosing.

The right to work and to cease work collectively.

The right collectively to bestow or withhold patronage.

The right to the exercise of collective activities in furtherance of the welfare of labor.

This conference proposes and urges public support for:

Enactment by Congress of legislation which shall protect the workers in their organized capacity against the concept that there is a property right in the labor of a human being.

No application of the use of injunctions in industrial disputes where they would not apply in the absence of such disputes.

Prohibition of immigration for a period of not less than two years.

More general application of the initiative and referendum in the political affairs of the United States and of our several states.

Removal by Congress of the usurped power of courts to declare unconstitutional laws enacted by Congress, Election of judges.

Immediate restoration of exemption from or the repeal of all anti-combination and so-called conspiracy laws.

Restoration of an adequate federal employment service.

Administration of credit as a public trust in the interest of all the people.

Repeal by the states of all industrial court laws and all restrictive and coercive laws, including the so-called open port law of Texas, and freedom from decisions of courts holding trade unions and individual members thereof liable in damages for the unlawful acts of others.

Enactment by Congress of a law declaring that labor organizations are not co-partnerships and shall not be so treated in law or in equity.

Investigation by Congress of the activities of so-called private detective agencies in the field of industrial relations.

We urge upon the unorganized workers the urgent necessity of joining the unions of their trades and callings, their haven of refuge and protection.

We call upon the workers to resist the efforts to destroy trade unions, whether by the false pretense of the "open shop," the usurped authority of courts through writs of injunction, or otherwise.

We call upon the trade unions for a closer banding together, a greater solidarity and unity of purpose.

We call for united support in the protection of standards of wages and conditions already gained and we summon the workers to continued efforts to increase the consuming power, raise the standards and improve the conditions of life and work.

We call upon the workers and all of our people to give their support, their effort and their combined strength of righteous purpose to this appeal for the preservation of the spirit and the letter of that great declaration which was written to guarantee to all Americans "the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" and freedom from involuntary servitude.

To the above declaration and appeal we, the officers and other representatives of the national and international trade unions of America, assembled in the Executive Council Chamber of the American Federation of Labor, Washington, D. C., February 23, 1921, pledge ourselves and those whom we represent.

Signed by President Samuel Gompers and Secretary Frank Morrison, the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, the Executive Officers of the A. F. of L. Departments, and 151 delegates representing Nat. and Int. Trade Unions.

CORRESPONDENCE

Education Lack, Cause of "Outlaw Strike."

By Matthew Woll
Vice-President, The American Federation of Labor.

The issue presented in the Smith-Towner bill, which provides for a federal Department of Education with a secretary in the President's cabinet, is easily understood. There may be a difference of opinion as to whether the President's cabinet should be enlarged, but aside from this question, if you believe in public education, universal education, you are in principle for the bill. If you do not believe in education for the masses or if you believe that just any education is good enough for the average American boy or girl, whose parents can not afford to send him or her to a private school, then, on principle, you are opposed to this bill.

The American Federation of Labor believes that every American boy and girl should have an equal opportunity at the start and the American Federation has endorsed the Smith-Towner bill.

It is our boys and girls, together with the millions of children from middle class homes in city and country, who will be its chief beneficiaries. There can be no question—our children today go out into the world of competition handicapped at the start both in mind and body. This is due to our national neglect of education.

The army statistics showed this only too plainly. The nation was amazed when it learned that hundreds of thousands of Americans, unable to read or write, had to be painfully taught the meaning of such simple commands as "halt" and "forward" and that hundreds of thousands more were rejected because of physical disabilities that might easily have been corrected in the schools.

These facts did not surprise us in the labor movement. We had known them all along. Those were "our boys," the soldiers, who, in spite of physical and educational handicap, that made them unfit for service in France, were fit enough to serve in the army behind the army, in steel mill and munition plant, in lumber camp and shipyard.

There is a special significance in this for Mr. Hoover's committee now studying the question of industrial waste in an endeavor to bring about an understanding between capital and labor. Illiteracy has more to do with the so-called "outlaw strike," the question of turnover and with accidents in industry.

Remember, please, that the rookie, you saw at Camp Lee, Upton or Funston, with his second lieutenant in the role of first grade teacher, in peace time, is the operative in the silk mill, the steel plant or the coal mine. In the "outlaw strike" he follows some fellow, no matter how irresponsible, who speaks his own language and who, because of that fact alone, naturally has his confidence. Our men, trying to bring about order, are as badly off as the young lieutenant with his awkward squad. If every workman were an educated American, the path of the Federation would be comparatively smooth.

As to industrial accidents, the report of Mr. Van Manning says that 1,000 miners lose their lives each year and 150,000 more are injured each year. By far the greater proportion of these accidents, he says, are due to the inability of the miner to read safety warnings.

"The statistics given by the Immigration Commission," says Mr. Manning, "show 620,000 foreign-born miners in this country. It is roughly estimated from the experience in certain states that about 75 per cent of these 620,000 foreign-born miners are non-English speaking foreigners, or 465,000 immigrants with no knowledge of the English language. The best estimates from a number of the larger mining states show that foreign born miners suffer twice the fatalities that the English speaking miners do. This means an excess of 930 non-English speaking foreigners killed each year, and I may say unnecessarily. If the average state compensation is $3,000, which is a fair figure, the total economic loss each year to the country through the excess of deaths of non-English speaking miners alone amounts to $2,790,000. On the same basis, it is estimated that the excess of non-English speaking miners injured each year amounts to 69,750 men. This is a loss in wages alone of $1,743,750. Taking the excess of deaths and injuries together due to non-English speaking foreigners the economic loss each year reaches $4,533,750. This is entirely aside from other costs to the industry in production lost."

The Smith-Towner bill authorizes Congress to appropriate $100,000,000 for the aid to the states to be used in improving the schools, increasing teachers' salaries, promotion of physical education, illiteracy and Americanization—all of them national problems which we, as a nation, can no longer afford to ignore. The enemies of the bill object to what they term this "extravagance," purposely ignoring the fact that this is only a working plan, that any Congress can give as much or as little for the promotion of these various objects. For my own part, considering our national bills for wars, past and future, even if we look at it from the militarist standpoint, that of creating fit soldiers, $1,000,000,000 seems entirely too modest a sum to ask for the proper training of our children.

To those who fear that the Smith-Towner bill will give the federal government control over education, the fact that this bill has been given the endorsement of the American Federation of Labor ought to be sufficient assurance. The last thing that the Federation desires to see is bureaucracy enthroned at Washington. As I said at the beginning, the whole thing simmers down to whether you believe in the public school or whether you don't.

Chicago, Feb. 1, 1921.

Fellow Craftsman:

The committee composed of H. R. Chapp and R. Laurido, who recently investigated conditions in Tampa on the invitation of the J. A. B., Tampa, made the following report of their findings to International President Perkins and the J. A. B., Chicago:

The J. A. B., feeling that the report was due the membership, and that it would be more generally received through a circular letter than through a joint meeting, take this means of acquainting the membership with the findings of the committee which follow:

"On our arrival in Tampa a mass meeting of the strikers was called immediately, which your committee had the honor of addressing, in conjunction with other speakers. The meeting was attended by some 3,000 strikers, every inch of space being occupied by an interested and enthusiastic audience. Many were unable to gain admission to the theater where the meeting was held, and remained outside until the meeting was adjourned to learn from those fortunate enough to gain admission what transpired.

We find the morale of the strikers after over 9 months excellent indeed. During the progress of the mass meeting above referred to, many in the audience arose and renewed their pledge of fealty to the cause and the C. M. I. U.

Desertions from the ranks of the strikers have been very few, not more than 300 all told in all departments having returned to work in the strike bound factories. In fact, a conservative estimate based on actual count shows but 1,243 employed in strike shops in all capacities.

To further illustrate the spirit of the strikers and their families, mothers arose in the mass meeting with their children in their arms and stated that neither they nor the child she bore in arms nor any of their family would return to the strike bound factories until a settlement was made in keeping with the aims of solidarity.

It would be impossible for us to picture the want and misery of many of these loyal strikers in a communication of this nature. It is enough to say that hundreds have been evicted from their homes, finding shelter where they can, oftentimes in the most despicable hovels. Hunger is with the vast majority at all times, many not having enjoyed a real meal in months, and many not having more than a crust of bread and a cup of coffee to break their fast from day to day. Clothing in many instances consists of barely enough rags to cover their half-starved bodies.

Despite this picture of horror that no one can truthfully portray, we find a cheerfulness and an optimistic feeling that victory will finally award them the full measure of happiness that is their due.

Since the inception of the strike the manufacturers have disregarded many of the agreements made and in force at the time the people went out. For example, they now demand a reduction in the wages of the strippers, packers and selectors, and an increase in the hours of labor of the dependents, or factory labor, besides declaring for the "open shop" plan of operation, which means, of course, absolute non-union shops.

To further illustrate the wonderful solidarity of the workers, we offer the following comparative statement: At the inception of the strike there were employed in the cigar industry in Tampa 11,218, of which 8,125 were cigar makers, 472 were packers, 213 were selectors, 1,750 were strippers, 330 were banders and 328 were dependents or factory laborers. Today we find but 1,243 persons employed in the strike bound factories in all capacities. Of this number, less than 400 are cigar makers, about 26 are packers and 6 are selectors. The balance are apprentices and factory laborers imported in the main from other localities to break the strike."

International Unions, State Federations of Labor, Central Labor Unions and Labor Papers:
Dear Sirs and Brothers:

At the Montreal convention a resolution was introduced by the representatives of the Metal Polishers' International Union requesting that affiliated organizations be informed in regard to the antagonistic attitude of the Excelsior Motorcycle Company, manufacturers of the Excelsior and Henderson motorcycle, and the Arnold Schwinn Bicycle Company, manufacturer of the World bicycle, located in Chicago, Ill., toward organized labor.

The resolution provided that the Executive Council of the A. F. of L. endeavor to secure an adjustment of the controversy, and, failing in this, that the request in regard to sending out notification of the controversy be complied with.

Pursuant to the action of the convention, an organizer of the A. F. of L. was delegated to take up the matter. He was successful in arranging a conference between the representatives of the Metal Polishers' International Union and members of the firm, but they were unable to change the attitude of the firm with reference to the recognition of the Metal Polishers' Union, the firm reserving the right to maintain what they term an "open shop."

The resolution adopted by the Montreal convention reads as follows:

Whereas, The Excelsior Motorcycle Company, manufacturers of the Excelsior and Henderson motorcycle, and the Arnold Schwinn Bicycle Co., manufacturer of the World bicycle, located in Chicago, Ill., owned and controlled by the same parties, have for the past nine months, and are at present, waging a fight against organized labor. They have refused to grant the shorter workday, and the union scale of wages, and have secured an injunction which prohibits our members or their friends and sympathizers from in any way conducting peaceful picketing, or from telephoning, writing or speaking to any of the strike-breakers employed by these concerns. The members of the Polishers' International Union and their officers have done all in their power to bring this unfair firm to a sense of fairness, but they have been unable to do so. Also attempts have been made by the Chicago Federation of Labor to adjust these differences, but have also failed; therefore, be it Resolved, That the delegates to this convention condemn the arbitrary stand of these two concerns, and that the Executive Council be requested to endeavor to make an adjustment of this affair; failing to do so, that the Secretary of the American Federation of Labor be instructed to notify all central labor unions, all state federations of labor, all labor papers and all internationals of the action of these concerns.

Yours fraternally,

FRANK MORRISON,

Secretary, American Federation of Labor.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 23, 1921.

Union 25 of Milwaukee has endorsed the enclosed letter and asks you to publish this letter in the Official Journal at the earliest convenience. Hoping our request will be granted, I remain,

Yours fraternally,

JAC. HOLM, Cor. Sec.
Editor of the Cigar Makers' Official Journal:

One of the strangest results of the late war is that, two years after its close, many political prisoners are still confined in the prisons of the United States. Most of these men were punished for speaking or writing in defense of the workmen's interests. All of them were imprisoned only for expressing their opinions; not one for any overt act.

This is something new in America. It is also a very dangerous thing to American liberty in general, and especially to workmen. Now that a determined fight against organized labor has been started in this country, what chance have we to win out against our powerful enemies, unless we have free speech?

The fact that American men are being punished for having exercised freedom of speech will naturally have the effect of discouraging all who express sentiments that do not please the powerful interests. Today the radicals are punished for expressing their views; tomorrow any man who speaks or writes against the open shop may be considered a radical and punished accordingly.

Keeping these political prisoners behind the bars, now that the war is over, is a dangerous precedent and a disgrace to our country. A movement should be started at once to release them, and abolish the laws under which they are held. All union men should join in such a movement.

The new administration should be urged to grant a general amnesty to all these prisoners, and Congress should be petitioned to rescind all laws against free speech immediately.

No self-respecting citizen, no true union man, no freedom-loving American should rest until this has been accomplished.

We address this communication to the Journal in order that all affiliated unions may take action in this matter. We recommend that the unions send letters, telegrams and petitions to the President and Attorney General of the United States, and to their representatives in Congress, asking for the immediate release of all political prisoners and the repeal of all laws against freedom of speech and of the press.

Fraternally yours,
JAC. HOLM, Cor. Sec.
Union 25 of Milwaukee, Wis.

Chicago, Ill., March 4, 1921.

Kindly give the following article space in your official publication. It is of vital interest to every member of organized labor.

Fraternally,
M. W. MARTIN,

Chairman, Hammond, Ind., Defense Committee. Attorney Joseph R. Roach, chief counsel representing organized labor in its effort to secure conviction of the guilty parties who shot and killed four workmen and seriously wounded twenty others, members of their respective unions and employees of the Standard Steel Car Company, Hammond, Ind., has appeared before Judge Smith, of the Lake County Criminal Court and presented arguments to show why a special prosecutor should be named to conduct the investigation at the grand jury hearings.

The assistant prosecutor, Mr. Thomas, has issued a fiat that he will conduct the hearing and will not permit any person in the jury room to represent the prosecution other than himself.

According to previous arrangements and understanding with Prosecutor Kinder, a special assistant prosecutor was to be selected to conduct the investigation. The regular assistant, Mr. Thomas, has now stepped into the limelight, demanding that he alone be the only person to handle this hearing. Attorneys on both sides will try to adjust this important issue.

Rochester, Ind., Feb. 28, 1921.

Does the present O. of W. stamp law apply the same as the former law to 30c members? We have a 30c member who thinks he is entitled to O. of W. stamp, but I have made the ruling that the present law means the same as the former and that the stamp is an O. of W. benefit and that said member is not entitled to same. However, he is not satisfied with my ruling and wants the opinion of the International office.

Yours Frat.,
CHAS. SCHOLDER
March 3, 1921.

Mr. Chas. Scholder,
Secy., Union 379,
Rochester, Ind.

Dear Sir:—

Replying to your favor reference a 30c member being entitled to the out-of-work stamp, I have to say, your ruling in this case if predicated wholly upon Section 64 would be correct. However, I call your attention to the fact that the old law, Section 117, formerly read, "Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of two years shall be entitled to an out-of-work benefit of $3.00 per week." The new law reads, Section 117, "Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out-of-work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of weekly due stamp of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs."

The use of the words "denomination in the class to which said member belongs" implies that it was meant that all regular dues paying members are entitled to an out-of-work stamp. There is no moral reason why a 30c member should not receive a stamp for out of work, and in addition the ruling in this case has the constitutional advantage quoted in the foregoing.

Yours fraternally,
G. W. PERKINS, Int. Pres.

Chicago, March 19, 1921.

A writer in a pamphlet issued by the newly hatched dual organization, The Amalgamated Tobacco Workers of America, uses much space and many misstatements to bolster up a sentiment for the dual and against the regular cigar workers' International Union.

He goes on at great length to picture the trade as it is today in the hands of trusts and the system of work as having changed from straight hand or mould work to the team system and machinery. He says: "The old school of unionists—C. M. I. U. of A.—turn a deaf ear to these facts." This is a misstatement that amounts to an absolute falsehood and it relegates his entire efforts to the scrap heap when held up to the light of truth and reason. The truth is that the C. M. I. U., instead of turning a deaf ear to these facts, as the writer so glibly falsifies, has pointed them out repeatedly. The "governing head" of our organization, to whom the writer refers as being "case hardened," in his address to the Cleveland convention covered these conditions in a manner that brought the entire situation directly before the membership. He showed the trend of combination, the change in the method of making cigars, the advent of modern machinery, and RECOMMENDED REMEDIAL LEGISLATION. For proof see our Journal, April, 1920, "Address of the President."

This writer also raves over the canard that we are a "craft union." Again he is either ignorant of the actual facts or wilfully lies in an attempt to further his own dual organization. Any one who knows what happened at our last convention, or who cares enough to find out what was done there, can easily see that we became an industrial union in the fullest sense of the word insofar as our own industry is concerned. We provided laws under which it is possible to organize in the C. M. I. U. any person working in the cigar and tobacco industry in any capacity whatsoever who is not eligible to membership and who would not rightfully belong to another legitimate trades union. Of course we do not include the fireman and the engineer nor did we make of the C. M. I. U. an I. W. W. organization, as some would like to see it and as has been proposed on at least one occasion by the local union of which our 2nd vice-president is a member.

This writer, who appears to be the main contributor to their sheet, asks that we compare the A. T. W. policy and constitution with that of the C. M. I. U. It can't be done. There is no comparison. Our constitution, based on a policy of constructive trades unionism, is a document of intelligent force, plainly stating in detail the course of our policy as applied in the handling of matters pertinent to any well regulated trades union. The constitution of the A. T. W. is a conglomeration of bad English that says nothing and means less. Section 3 of their constitution, "National Officers and How Elected," says:

SECTION III.

National Officers and How Elected.

The National Officers of this organization shall consist of Secretary-Treasurer, General Organizer and Executive Board consisting of seven members.

The National Secretary-Treasurer and Organizer are to be the only paid officers.

I have quoted the entire section under its caption and if you can figure out by reading the section how their national officers are to really be elected I will hand you the first prize, which is a cast-iron wrapper cloth.

Space will not permit comment on their entire constitution, but let us take a look at a few of the more pertinent provisions. Section 13 (unlucky number) follows:

SECTION XIII.

Art. 1.—A uniform dues of 25 cents weekly shall be charged, to be divided as follows: Locals shall retain, when the membership is 20 or less, 50 per cent for local expenses; 40 per cent to locals having from 20 up to 200 members, and 30 per cent to those locals having more than 200 members.

Art. 2.—Members out-of-work for more than three consecutive weeks shall receive out-of-work stamps in place of dues stamps.

This leaves 12½ cents per member in unions of 20 or less, 15 cents per member in unions up to 200, and 17½ cents per member in unions of more than 200 going into the general fund or treasury from which to pay their national secretary-treasurer, organizers, in fact all salaries and to carry all overhead expenses as well as to meet the financial support guaranteed members on strike. A very few minutes with a pencil proves how far this residue will really go toward financing a trades organization. Taking the maximum paid into their general fund, 17½c. and not allowing a single penny for salaries or overhead, we find it would take the dues of 28 20/36 members to pay one striker $5.00 per week benefit. (Proponents of this dual outfit find much fault with our strike benefit as being too low, even at the present rate of $8.00 per week. And if you will remember not so long ago demanded we raise our strike benefit to $15.00 per week unlimited. Judging from their financial provisions they must have had in mind 15 cts. instead of $15.00.) Low dues are pet theories and may catch a few who do not take the pains to think for themselves, but low dues will not provide the wherewithal to do business.

To get further into the meat of their organization and to determine what they really intend doing for their membership, especially in the way of strike benefit, this being the only thing they really care for, if we are to believe what their spellbinders tell us, let us examine sections 15 and 16. They both follow verbatim:

Section XV.—Strikes and Lockouts.

The Amalgamated Tobacco Workers' Union guarantees its moral and financial support to all members in difficulties that may arise between them and their employers.

Section XVI.

Art. 1.—The Amalgamated Tobacco Workers of America will pay strike and lockout benefits, in accordance with the financial standing of the organization.

Art. 2.—Any local shall have the right of calling strikes.

Art. 3.—Before any local general strike takes place, it shall be submitted to the membership for a vote.

Art. 4.—All localities involved in a strike or lockout shall be constantly in touch with the N. E. B.

Note carefully that at no place is there a stipulated strike benefit mentioned. They guarantee "Moral and financial support to all members" in accordance with the financial standing of the organization. It naturally follows that if the financial standing of the organization is poor those on strike must content themselves with "moral support" or depend on voluntary charitable contributions from their more fortunate fellow workmen.

The pamphlet says: "The Constitution . . . while a marvel of simplicity—not written to confuse the workers, but compiled in such a manner that all who read can understand . . . causes one to marvel."

I'll say it does. Just read articles two and three of section 16, as above quoted, and as this is a fair sample of the simplicity of their Constitution, I now ask that you join me in marveling.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

McSherrystown, Pa., Mar. 21, 1921.

To the Journal:

Since my last report I visited Albany, N. Y., and there found a very disturbed state of affairs. The only shop of any size using the label has discontinued manufacturing cigars and placed their brands with a big non-union factory in New York. The principal brand made by this firm is the Seal-Skin cigar.

I found many of the other industries in a very bad situation from the fact that many workers were laid off and did not know when they would start to work again. Hundreds and even thousands of men were put out of employment by the railroads and the street railroad was trying to force a reduction upon its employees, which resulted in a strike, and may still be pending.

After leaving Albany I was directed to take up a matter in New York affecting an organized shop of that locality. While investigating this shop I found that many shops in the City of New York were laid off, either for the want of orders or in an endeavor to bring about a reduction of prices. Some stated that they only had work for a part of their employees if they started up and would start that way without a reduction, but the employees felt that all of the workers should go to work and divide the work among all, and that if the manufacturers would not agree to this that it demonstrated that the employers wanted to reduce wages.

A difficulty arose in McSherrystown and I was instructed to proceed there. The question involved was the manufacturers had given small increases during the year of 1920 over the adopted bill of prices. These increases were given by some manufacturers, while others had only paid the standard bill.

The employers were going to write a bill of prices of their own and would possibly try to run an open shop. After conferences with the manufacturers and the committee, brought about with the assistance of some of the citizens of the town, an agreement was reached which resulted in the union and the manufacturers settling and agreeing to return to work at the standard bill of prices of Union 316.

It is quite apparent that the cigar business is somewhat disturbed at this time, from the fact that a revision of the tariff is threatened and also a revision of the internal revenue may be brought about in the near future, which will force an increased cost on the manufacturers, while the jobbers in many cases are requesting a reduction of prices on cigars. This is inducing some manufacturers to go to the very cheapest districts to have their cigars made and if they can get away with these kinds of goods they will continue selling these cheap made cigars and lay off in the higher paid districts.

These manufacturers may wake up after it is too late and find that their brands of cigars are dead ones on the market, after it is known by the consumer that these manufacturers are looking for profits and disregard quality. The manufacturers who keep some quality in their cigars during this readjustment will have a trade when it is all over, but the ones who think they can get all profits and no quality will have to scramble for trade.

Ludington, Mich., March 4, 1921.

The story of the conditions of the cigar girls as they are in Ludington, Local 530, Cigar Makers' Union, and a brave bunch of women are fighting against the Consolidated Cigar Corporation.

While working in Grand Rapids I received word to go to Ludington and proceeded to go. Upon my arrival I took the situation up and took a quiet inquiry as to what was needed for a campaign against the conditions as I found them. Early last summer these girls came to a realization of the fact that they were making cigars for several dollars per thousand below the scale for similar products in nearby cities. For instance, the price for making a 5-inch Perfecto, Porto Rico filler, Java wrapper and fancy workmanship, is generally $25 a thousand. For this the Consolidated offered $9. For 5 1/4-inch cigar, ordinary shape and thickness, same materials as foregoing, the Consolidated wanted to pay the girls $8 for making, although the price to retailers was from $76 to $110 per thousand. The girls demanded $12.15, which was refused, and a strike followed. The girls have stood staunchly behind their demands to this date and have had the hearty support of all the unions in the city. The fight has been an uphill one, especially as the business men have lacked sufficient business to grasp its significance for themselves. Somehow they cannot or will not see that if the girls win this battle for a decent wage it means just as much more money to flow over their counters from this source, not alone, but other firms must follow the advance and thus swell the total of their business. Probably a principal factor in the blindness of the business element is due to the fact that labor has no means of publicity in this city. The Daily News is not only not open for a presentation of the workers' side of the controversy, but it is actually and actively engaged in opposition. Beginning about February 1st its publishers took up an appeal to the girls to go back to work to their former good jobs, going so far as to open its office for the registration of such as would forego allegiance to the union and loyalty to the cause of decent working conditions and signify a willingness to go to work. The result was not altogether satisfactory to the News, and probably much less so to the Consolidated, which is presumed to be behind the publisher's activities. Ludington workers are quite generally broad minded enough to grasp the significance of this fight in their behalf. Instead of "signing up" for a return to work under old conditions, 125 girls have since put their signatures to an agreement to refrain from cigar making until the battle of the union girls is won.

This fight goes to show that the girls of Ludington are fighting a battle which deserves comment for their stand for justice and the right to earn a living at their calling, and deserve the co-operation and assistance of all fair minded citizens in that vicinity.

Denver, Colo., Mar. 5, 1921.

Since my last report I have been continuing label agitation work in the city of Denver, Colo., and have visited and addressed the following labor unions: Two meetings of the retail clerks, the Tobacco Strippers' Union, Carpenters and Joiners' Union No. 55, Trades and Labor Assembly of Denver, Brewery and Soft Drink Workers' Union, Printing Pressmen's Union No. 40, Bricklayers' Union No. 1, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen No. 30, Painters and Decorators' Union No. 79, Railway Carmen of Denver. In addition to this have acted with Secretary Sanford on several committees, on request of the Executive Board and the Agitation Committees of Union 129, the most important of which was a committee composed of about 30 cigar manufacturers and dealers in cigars who waited on the district attorney in an effort to have him rescind an order previously given to stop the 26 dice game in cigar stores on March 1st. If the order could not be rescinded the committee asked for an extension of time. This is a wonderful cigar seller. An extension of 30 days was granted.

Up to the last two weeks the cigar trade has been fairly good in Denver. It now appears that some of the general depression has struck this locality, for in the last two weeks the two large factories have discharged between 30 and 40 cigar makers.

In checking up the label account of Union 129 for the last five years I find that the year 1920 was the banner year for Union 129. There was issued to manufacturers for that one year 623,630 union labels. Figuring on a basis of one label to each fifty box of cigars, this would give us 31,281,500 cigars manufactured in Denver for the year 1920, a very good showing.

The Minneapolis Tribune of September 20 says: "Labor leaders not in sympathy with Bolshevik ideas are to be 'eliminated' from the labor movements of all countries, according to Soviet plans announced by British trade union leaders and reported by Sidney Case, special correspondent stationed at London."

L. P. HOFFMAN, 729 N. Diamond St., Jacksonville, Ill., Second Vice President.

A. GRIEPEY, 238 Ave. Hotel De Ville, Montreal, Canada, Third Vice President.

GIBSON WEBER, 1710 N. Kratz St., Station C, Philadelphia, Pa., Treasurer.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140-g distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member. If he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

All told, including March 19th, there were twenty-five 50c assessments levied. Each 60c, 40c and regular 30c members must have twenty-five 50c assessments up to and including March 19th, excepting those who are exempt as per paragraph two of Section 70, which reads as follows: "New initiates who have not been such for four months shall be exempt from all assessments. This shall not be so construed as to exempt reinstated members from payment of assessments."

The foregoing quoted section provides that newly initiated members are exempt from payment for the first four months. The first 50c assessment was levied Sept. 27, 1920, and was due Oct. 2nd. Any member initiated for the week commencing Sept. 27th and ending Oct. 2nd, is exempt from the payment of assessments for the first four months, and his first 50c assessment stamp would be due Jan. 29th, and such member would have to show nine 50c assessments. A member initiated on Oct. 4th would have to show eight 50c assessments, and so on. The 50-cent weekly assessment ends March 19.

PRIVATE LOANS

All members owing private loans to Local No. 83 must pay up in 60 days or they will be published in Journal.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of 46, Grand Rapids, Mich., to fine B. E. Weaver and Charles Wienkauf $200.00 each; Weaver for turning the shop of which he was foreman into a non-union shop, and Wienkauf for strike-breaking and other conduct unbecoming a union member, but they did not favor the expulsion of these members for five years. Vote: Affirmative 3; four other members approved the fines, but not expulsion.

Approved the application of 129, Denver, Colo., to fine Rodolfo Haystrong, 17765, $50 for selling non-union cigars as a side line while working at the bench during the day. Vote: Affirmative, 6; one member approved $25.

Approved the application of 129, Denver, Colo., to fine J. J. Cooper, 13671, and L. D. Cheely, 72054, $50 each for putting the union label on a brand of cigars that they knew was being made in a non-union shop in the East. Vote: Affirmative, 6; one member approved $25.

Approved the application of 25, Milwaukee, Wis., to fine the following members $50 each and annul their cards for going to work in a strike shop: Isaac Brill, No. 8894; Harry Bierman, No. 8287; Aug. Brunow, No. 8311; Chas. Baetke, No. 8297; Anna Baetke, No. 8298; F. Cherwenka, No. 8328; John R. Clark, No. 8321; Theo. Grabhorn, No. 8885; Herm. Ganger, No. 8358; Edw. Gaulke, No. 8782; Herm. Henning, No. 8369; Jos. King, No. 72260; Sam Krasnitz, No. 8386; Robt. Knaesche, No. 8389; Aug. Kleist, No. 8784; Harry Lipschutz, No. 8857; Jac. Labowitz, No. 8415; Jas. McMullen, No. 8827; Wm. E. Redlich, No. 17368; Chas. E. Smith, No. 8567; Ed. Stein, No. 8576; Wm. Stradtman, No. 8780; Aug. Schwibinger, No. 8908; Ben Schneider, No. 3240; Clara Smith, No. 17332; Ed. Voss, No. 8643; Max Wachs, No. 18667; Emma Witten, No. 8880; Jul. Zwerg, No. 8643. Vote: 5, two members approved the fines but not annulment of card.

Approved the application of 77, Minneapolis, Minn., to suspend and fine A. P. Burns, 69550, $100 for working at the J. W. Pauly strike shop. Vote: Affirmative, 6; one member favored only $50.

Approved the application of 20, Decatur, Ill., to fine Fred Brink, 72300, $200 and expel him for going to work in the F. H. Pahmeyer shop, that had locked out the union cigar makers. Vote: Affirmative, 4; one member approved only $80 fine, and two other members disapproved the expulsion.

Approved the application of 46, Grand Rapids, to fine G. Studly, James Watt and Donald Craig $100 each for working as strike breakers in the H. Schilmer factory, but did not approve their expulsion for three years. Vote: Affirmative, 2; affirmative on fine but not expulsion, 3; one member approved only $50 fine.

Approved the application of 314, Jackson, Mich., to fine Fred D. Parks, 96101, $200 for taking the foremanship in the A. Dolan strike shop and working below the bill, and $50 additional for enticing two members to work in this shop; and to fine the following $100 each for working in this strike shop: B'anche Monroee, 50274; Flossie Wetzel, 108409, and Joe Hagen, 1843. Vote: Affirmative, 5; one member approved $200 on Mr. Parks and $50 on each of the others.

Approved the application of Union 384, St. Augustine, Fla., to fine Guseppe Conte $100 for strike breaking in Tampa. Vote: Affirmative, 6.

Approved the application of 41, St. Louis, Mo., to fine Alexander Fahrendorf $15; $10 for working overtime and $5 for holding two jobs. Vote: Affirmative, 6.

Approved the application of 46, Grand Rapids, Mich., to fine Felix Bednarek $25 for taking the foremanship in the non-union shop of the General Cigar Co. Vote: Affirmative, 6. Approved the application of the Joint Unions of St. Louis, Mo., to fine Alex Fahrendorf $25 for misuse of the union label. Vote: Affirmative, 6.

Fines of $10.00 or Less.

Union 470, Portland, Me., fined E. DeCaster, 58557, and R. Willems, 33055, each $5.00 for writing for a job.

Union 114, Jacksonville, Ill., fined H. A. Johnson, 8476, $10 for allowing himself to become suspended and taking a job in an unfair shop.

Correction:

"In the February issue of the Journal we published the statement that the International Executive Board had approved the application of 248 Jacksonville, Fla., to fine Harvey Baggett, No. 33129, and John O'Rourke, 9082, $100.00 each. The Board also approved the application to annul the cards of these two members, which fact was inadvertently omitted from the February Journal."

Decision of the President.

William Rowley appealed against 129, Denver, for refusing to accept a bona fide traveling card issued by the Cigar Makers' International Union. The union replied that some of the shops were on a limit and that they were refusing to accept cards for this reason. The decision is that while unions have a right to provide that no new help shall be taken on while a shop is on a limit they have no right to refuse to accept a genuine traveling card, unless they are engaged in an authorized strike.

B. Baer appealed against 97 Boston for suspending him for non-payment of International assessments. The appeal was not sustained.

B. Brown appealed against 278 London for suspending him for non-payment of dues and assessments. The appeal was not sustained.

J. C. Meiss appealed against 168 Oshkosh reference the packing being done by non-members. The decision is that the union must enforce the law reference packers being members of the union in label shops, as per section 150 of the Constitution.

W. and M. Tucek appealed against Union 427 Perth Amboy for suspending them for non-payment of assessments. The appeal was not sustained.

Chas. L. Adelberg appealed against 10 Providence reference notice not allowing members, during a depression, while members were walking the streets, to work three or four days in one shop and then the balance of the week in other shops. The appeal was not sustained.

David Rothman appealed against 10 Providence for prohibiting card members of the union who were manufacturers, handling non-union cigars in their retail stores. The appeal was not sustained.

A. Beirach appealed against 39 New Haven for refusing to allow him local out-of-work benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

A. Netzer appealed against 187 Covington for fining him for failure to vote for International officers. The appeal was not sustained.

H. Johnson appealed against 97 Boston for levying an assessment in aid of unemployed members. The appeal was not sustained.

The Executive Board of Union 114, Jacksonville, Ill., appealed against the action of the union in reversing an action taken by the Executive Board. The controversy between the board and the union arose over the question of fixing the hours of work. The board held that the union could not reverse its action where a constitutional question was involved. The decision is that the appeal is not sustained; that neither the Executive Board nor the union has any right to act contrary to the plain letter and spirit of the constitution; that the union at all times has a right to review and reverse any action taken by the local Executive Board, whether it is a constitutional question or otherwise, that under the law the union itself can be appealed against; that neither the Executive Board nor the local union has any right to extend working time beyond eight hours in any day; that the union has a right to limit the working time to less than eight hours per day. The Constitution, Section 195, says: Each local union shall have the power to regulate the hours of labor in its respective locality, but in no case shall they exceed eight hours per day." This section names the local union as the authority to act and gives the local union the right to regulate the hours, but in no case to exceed eight hours per day.

UNION NOTES

Union 129, Denver, Colo., notifies Julius Kratz, 112523, that the books of the Cuban Cigar Co. show that he went to work on Wednesday, Jan. 5, and worked four days that week, and that this would make him subject to one more of the Tampa assessments, as the rule of Union 129 is that members who work over two days must pay local assessments for that week.

Under prevailing conditions Union 228, San Francisco, Calif., will not accept Blue cards for a period of six months.

Secretary knowing the whereabouts of John Wessels is requested to communicate with Union 97, Boston.

Union 478, Juana Diaz, P. R., wishes to inform the membership of the International Union that, due to a clerical error of the acting secretary, the vote on the amendment of Union 383, Chicago, to destroy the beneficial features of the union was sent in and published "14 votes for and 1 against"; it should have been "1 vote for and 14 against."

The secretary holding the card of Edward Hiltz, 43762 is requested to collect 50c fine for failure to vote for International officers February 12.

The secretary holding the card of Peter Burkman, 8206, is requested to communicate with Union 53, New Orleans, La.

Union No. 335, Hammond, Ind., wishes to thank the following locals for kind donations to J. Ebert fund: No. 250, $2; 141, $2; 39, $2; 73, $1; 242, $1; 247, $1; 44, $2.50; 97, $2; 149, $2; 426, $1; 470, $1; 431, $1; 212, $1; 129, $2; 157, $1; 425, $1; 228, $2; 118, $1; 209, $1; 305, $1; 307, $1; 294, $1; 54, $1; 162, $2; 92, $2; 68, $2; 289, $1; J. A. B., Chicago, $2; 179, $1; 114, $3; 76, $1; 138, $2; 98, $1; 9, $1; 146, $1; 32, $2; 337, $2; 83, $3.88; 38, $2; 332, $2; 5, $1; 111, $2; 367, $2; 266, $2; 321, $1; 122, $1; 80, $5; 192, $2; 150, $1; 42, $1.60; 221, $2; 290, $1; 334, $1; 239, $1.50—M. Maler.

Over twenty years ago I advocated working by the week and was considered a visionary, but it is coming.

Chain retail stores operated by the union with the same design all over the country will follow the co-operative scheme of manufacturing.

Boom the label; boom all labels.

Piece work is the curse of the labor movement.

Now a strong pull, and all pull together.

Nothing in the constitution of the A. F. of L. prohibits an industrial form of organization.

Strippers ought to be affiliated with the C. M. I. U. of A.

I look for improvement in trade from now on.

We will never return to pre-war conditions.

The pioneers in the labor movement had more to contend with than we, yet they succeeded and if we possess the same staying quality we will win.

Boston is a great place to stay away from now.

Fraternity, the brotherhood of man. "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you," is the spirit that must be exercised now by all members of the trade union movement. "The injury of one is the concern of all."

Executive Board donated $50 to the waitresses who have been locked out at the Quincy House in Boston and bought tickets for the benefit of the Iron Workers. Also $5 to help the leather workers take their case to the supreme court. Our vice president will represent this union at a meeting of the co-operators.

Donated $25 to the boys in 278.

Pres. Van Varennyck and Vice Pres. Collins of the New England Conference are visiting all the heads of our craft in the East in the interest of the label.

Human rights are greater than property rights.

Labor is not a commodity—supreme court to the contrary.

Vol. XLV. APRIL 15, 1921. No. 4.

Subscription price, $1.00 per year.
Single copies, 10 cents.

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 23, 1894,
March 3, 1879.

The International Canvassing Board's report, published elsewhere in this issue, shows the result of the balloting of the membership at large in the election of February 12. I appreciate the action of the membership in re-electing me to the office of International President, and thank you for your confidence. I accept the responsibilities and duties insofar as they apply to myself, which are multiplied and diversified and the seriousness of which I fully realize, and to these I pledge you my entire time, strength, ability and experience. I shall fearlessly discharge the duties of the office, but without malice or favor. I expect the membership at large to do its full share in the mighty task that lies straight ahead.

At the Cleveland convention the jurisdiction of the International Union was extended so as to cover the industry. At that time we claimed jurisdiction for the International Union over all departments employing wage earners in the cigar and tobacco industry. This extension of jurisdiction, duly ratified by popular vote, was granted by the American Federation of Labor. This additional self-imposed task requires the united, heroic support and activity of all real trade unionists. I accept without reservation my share of the responsibility, and I ask your co-operation to carry to successful fruition this effort, to better the working conditions of all, regardless of their particular calling, employed in our industry.

With renewed faith in the International Union, I am

Yours fraternally,

G. W. PERKINS.

The number of American soldiers killed in battle is placed at 50,151. During the same period the number of American workers killed in their line of duty was 126,664.

Horrors of Peace.

On the battle front men laid their lives on the altar of patriotism and gladly sacrificed themselves for an ideal. In the mines and mills, on the railroads, wherever industry turns the wheels of progress men, women and little children lay their lives on the altar of necessity and die in striving for the wage that means shelter, food and clothing for themselves and those dependent on them.

The mutilations of modern warfare are not to be compared with the mutilations of high speed industrial endeavor. For every man blown to pieces by gun-fire we find two or more have been blown to pieces in our mines and quarries by premature blasts or the deadly mine gas.

We accept as a matter of fact the horrors of war. They are a necessary adjunct to war. In fact, war means only annihilation of life and limb and the destruction of property. We should not accept with the same nonchalance the horrors of peace. They are largely unnecessary and are only tolerated by the workers because they lack the organized resistance necessary to wipe them forever out of our industrial life.

Human life is said by some to be cheap. It will be held cheap by the employer just so long as the workers accept his valuation of it. There is one factor that is doing more to enhance the valuation of life and limb than any other and that is the trade's union. This power for good is continuously on the job forcing the betterment of conditions under which we work and live. Its power will grow and its results be more manifest as the workers realize its power for their betterment and as they see its necessity, and become a part of it by joining the union of their own particular industry.

The associate editor of a propagandist's sheet finds much fault with the officials of the Constructive Trades' Unions.

C. M. I. U. for "insisting that the C. M. I. U. of A. is a part of the constructive trade union movement."

To quote him further that we may get his view point and thus attempt to arrive at a definite conclusion as to why he is peeved. He says: "The C. M. I. U. of A. has never been a trade union in the generally accepted meaning of the term, but is and always has been a craft union of the old school. The attitude assumed by all craft unions make them seek their power in a kind of bargaining partnership with capital. They have no quarrels with the fundamental of Capitalistic Society. They acquiesce in the right and recognize reasonable profit and dividends on honest investment."

Webster defines a trade union as "A voluntary association of working people organized to further or maintain their rights, privileges and interests with respect to wages, hours and conditions of labor, efficiency, education, mutual insurance, customs, etc." This, too, is the generally accepted meaning of the term and these principles form the concrete foundation of and the fundamental aim of every organization affiliated with the American Federation of Labor.

We know, of course, that some propagandists hold the entire labor movement as it functions at present through the A. F. of L. abortive because it does not endorse the I. W. W., O. B. U. and soviet plans that they and a very small minority of the workers in this country worship with the zeal of fanatics. The propagandist tips his hand as to just what kind of a trade union he wants when he finds fault with us for "bargaining with capital" and scolds us because we do not continuously quarrel with "capitalistic society," and in his denunciation refers to the "socialization of industry." In the words of a song popular in vaudeville during the war, "They are all out of step but Johnnie."

We who are, and have been, actively engaged in the trades union movement in America for so many years and have seen it grow from nothing into the wonderful power for good that it is; we who have seen the wages of workers increased from the dead line of less than a bestial existence to a point where the worker is able to provide a comfortable home for his family; we who have seen a continuously increased number of our children in the schools instead of the sweat shops; we who have seen the hours of labor lessened that we might have more time for needed recreation and rest, all of these things and more, accomplished by the constructive trades union as we understand and accept it, have nothing to apologize for. We hold that our comprehension of the movement, based on actual results accomplished, stands as the Rock of Gibraltar as compared to an ant hill when measured along side of the A. E.

of Propagandists conception of what the movement should be, a conception wholly theoretical and at present absolutely impossible.

He says further, "Gompers' conservative movement is the one to be feared and not the so-called radical movement." He does not say by whom it is to be feared but if he has in mind the employing class he is right. The very fact that unscrupulous capital has entered into agreement with the I. W. W. on numerous occasions proves it. Here in Chicago we have a case in mind, covered by a confession wherein certain officials of a self-styled progressive cigarmakers' union entered into an agreement with certain manufacturers in our industry to wreck the C. M. I. U. of A.

Certainly the constructive trade union movement is the one they fear, and in fearing it they fight it, even going so far as to enlist the help, unconsciously, perhaps, on the part of the members, of dual organizations whose cry is always for "Direct action, socialization of industry," etc., etc. Do you ever find the employers objecting to the formation of organizations dual to the C. M. I. U.? Certainly not. They welcome them as a means to the end of disrupting the one organization that they fear because of the things it has accomplished. The pity of it is that some of our own members for reasons best known to themselves play right into the hands of the employers by endorsing these same dual organizations as has been done by the propagandists when they virtually endorse the dual Amalgamated Tobacco Workers.

CONVENTION CALL.

American Federation of Labor.

March 19, 1921.

To All Affiliated Unions, Greeting:

You are hereby notified that, in pursuance of the Constitution of the American Federation of Labor, the Forty-first Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor will be held at The Coliseum, Denver, Colorado, beginning at 10 o'clock Monday morning, June 13, 1921, and will continue in session from day to day until the business of the convention has been completed.

It is, of course, entirely unnecessary here to enumerate all the important subjects with which our forthcoming convention will concern itself, but the reminder is not at all amiss that every effort must be made to broaden the field and means for the organization of the yet unorganized workers; to strive to bring about more effectually than ever a better day in the lives and homes of the toilers; to defend and maintain by every honorable means in our power the right to organize for our common defense and advancement, for the exercise of our normal and constitutional activities to protect and promote the rights and interests of the workers; to assert at any risk the equal rights before the law of all workers with all other citizens; to aid our fellow-workers against the effort to entangle the workers in the meshes of litigation before the courts in the several states; to restore and make effective in our every day lives the principle declared in the law of our Republic (the Clayton law), "that the labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce"; to arouse our fellow-workers and fellow-citizens to the danger which threatens to curb and take away their guaranteed rights and freedom; to meet and help solve the vexatious problems of peace and reconstruction; to emphasize the dominating and determining economic character of our movement and to carry on such political action as the interests of labor will warrant and the trade union movement has directed; to withstand and overcome the bitter antagonism now so rampant to undermine and to destroy the greatest constructive force in our Republic, the American labor movement, for indeed now, more than ever, "this is the time that tries men's souls"; these and other great questions of equal importance will of necessity occupy the attention of the Denver convention.

SAM'L GOMPERS, President.

CORRESPONDENCE

New York, April 1, 1921.

There is practically no change in the conditions of the cigar business in New York City. Manufacturers that layed off their force as early as November and some in December of last year, among whom are quite a few that still have their factories closed. This means that we have cigar makers out of work for the past five months. Where I have been given the opportunity to confer with a manufacturer in conjunction with a committee representing the cigar makers of a shop I have done so. We were confronted with almost the same thing at each conference. While some of the manufacturers were frank enough to say that they must have a reduction of prices, there were others that sidestepped and maneuvered in attacking the working conditions, and when forced through fair arguments to lay their cards on the table it finally concluded with an offer for a reduction of prices. I wish to state that the cigar makers of New York City have struggled and sacrificed in order to effect and maintain working conditions that would make it possible for a cigar maker to earn a living wage, and have at least the recognition and fair treatment that every human being that produces is justly entitled to. The cigar makers of New York City are enlightened to these facts, that they are not willing to be imposed upon, nor are they ready to go back to the conditions of slavery that had existed for years in the cigar factories in New York City. I might say that they are good and patriotic Americans, who believe in the elevation and betterment of their brother and sister citizens, so that there could be a mutual feeling that the citizens should be proud of their country, and that the country be proud of its citizens. For these reasons it is necessary that the cigar maker—the same as any other human worker—must at least earn enough to meet existing conditions, that would make it possible for him or her to hold their heads up as a good citizen should. We are being told that we are entering into an era of readjustment, and the cigar makers are heartily in favor of a readjustment, providing for a fair and proper readjustment. For instance, can anyone say that a cigar maker is overpaid? Surely anyone that has any knowledge of the earnings of the cigar maker knows that he or she has been much underpaid. In view of this fact, would you call it a readjustment or an imposition when the cigar maker is told by the manufacturer that he must give back something that the cigar maker really needs for himself? On the other hand, if the manufacturer would go to the tobacco man who has raised the tobacco to almost prohibitive prices and could demand a readjustment, or if he would go to the box maker, who has increased the price of boxes 300% and also the lithographer, who has increased the prices of labels and bands without much ceremony, and if there could be readjustment of taxation on cigars and tobacco, we would find that the manufacturer could adjust his business to meet future conditions very easily without imposing on the cigarmaker, who needs every dollar he earns. Through all this time of unemployment the cigar makers in New York City have shown the best of spirit and whenever the members of the International Union were appealed to in sustaining applications they have responded loyally. I might say that having the confidence of the Joint Advisory Board and the membership of New York City, and given personal charge for the best interests of the International Union and its members, and to best qualify for the confidence placed in me, I am given the best that is in me to see that every detail and want of the cigar makers are properly attended to, and using every safeguard for the future destinies of the cigar makers, so that their loyalty can be rewarded with success, which they so justly deserve.

Yours fraternally,

MAURICE SIMONS,
Organizer New York.

Toronto, Ont.

Local No. 27 of Toronto, Ontario, is submitting an amendment to the constitution asking for a weekly assessment of 50c to be put in force after the Tampa strike is settled and times become normal, the said assessment to be used to organize the city of Montreal and district. In asking for this assessment, brothers, we realize we are asking for something out of the ordinary, but circumstances force us to do so. We believe, in fact we are certain, that unless Montreal becomes organized that the Cigar Makers' International Union is done for so far as Canada is concerned. Montreal is the cigar center of Canada; easily 65% of the cigars made in this country are manufactured in Montreal and district; and, sorry to say, the factories in that city are scab or open shops; only one or two Buckeyes use the label. Now, how did Montreal get all the factories she has? A few years ago Toronto, Ont., had 500 cigar makers in our local. We were 100% organized. We endeavored to raise our bill of prices $1 per M and the manufacturers, the largest ones, moved to Montreal and ran a scab shop ever since. Today Toronto has only five small Buckeyes employing about 35 members. The cigar makers in Hamilton, Ont., in 1918 asked for an increase in their bill of prices and the largest firm there closed their factory, stating they could get all the cigars they wanted made in Montreal. Today Hamilton has only one fairly large shop employing about 100 members, and there are also a couple of Buckeyes in London, Ont., practically all the cigar makers are locked out, some of the firms moving to Montreal to run scab shops, while others say they will open up under a different system, meaning, we believe, the non-union shop. And what few union Buckeyes we still have, complain all the time that they can never develop or continue long as the non-union shops of Montreal, with their advantage of cost in labor differences, are able to smother the union factories. Brothers, we ask you to consider this amendment seriously. Please don't ignore it. It is an absolute necessity; with the organization of Montreal we believe we can make Canada 100% organized. We ask your support in seconding this amendment. Remember, this assessment will not be levied until the Tampa strike is settled and times become normal.

Trusting our brothers will stand by us, we remain,

Yours fraternally,

Mr. G. W. Perkins.

Dear Sir: All the members suspended in February report, with the exception of Mrs. Eva Hevey, were fined $100.00 for working in strike shop of John McNeess & Sons, by Local 273, pending ratification by Int. Executive.

Rochester, N. Y., March 21, 1921.

Mr. G. W. Perkins, Int. President.

Dear Sir: Am instructed to ask about the International monthly financial statement of February, 1921.

Reference the ten organizers and salary list and expenses. The attention of the mover of the motion was called to the power of president to appoint special organizers. Objections were also made to the lack of reports of organizers.

Please give information reference reports, expenses, what the specials were appointed for, whether or not the bills of expenses are for the current month.

Fraternally yours,

HUGH HACKETT.
March 24, 1921.

Mr. Hugh Hackett,

Sec'y, Union 5, Rochester, N. Y.

Dear Sir:

Replying to yours of the 21st inst. in which you state that you were instructed to ask for some explanation reference to the organizers and their salaries and expenses, I have to say:

The Constitution, Section 56, authorizes the President to appoint, subject to confirmation, label agitators and organizers. Section 57 of the Constitution says: "The Executive Board shall have power to regulate the salaries of organizers from time to time, but in no case shall the same be less than $30.00 per week, and the allowance for expenses shall be $3.50 per diem, and railroad fare." The Constitution arbitrarily fixes the salary and expense of the organizers and that is the salary and per diem expense that they get, no more and no less. They are also allowed railroad fare, official street car fare, and postage.

You will notice in the statement in the February Journal that some of them drew $300.00 and that one drew as high as $375.00. The salary and per diem alone for a month of four weeks amounts to $213.00. If there is a fifth week in the month it amounts to $272.50. Out of this amount they must pay their hotel and living expenses, and everybody knows that that is one of the things that count in the high cost of living. So far we have taken no count of the railroad fare, street car fare and postage. Everybody knows, too, that the railroad fares have practically doubled in the last five years. Sometimes an experienced organizer has to be moved quickly some distance, especially where strikes and lockouts are threatened.

You will notice that four of the organizers drew only $300.00 each, which is considerably less than they had coming. Those who draw $200.00 one month may draw $300.00 the next month and in that way catch up with what is due them and which they did not draw in the month previous.

One of the organizers in the month of January, through no fault of his own and acting on orders and instructions of this office, which were absolutely necessary, expended about $100.00 in railroad fare.

Organizers make regular itemized reports to this office and submit bills for every penny received, which are scrutinized and passed upon by the International Auditors, whose report is also published every six months in the Official Journal.

Any member of the International Union or any union is entitled to the fullest explanation of every penny that is handled, and they are invited to make inquiry whenever they are in doubt or want an explanation of any item.

One of the organizers has recently been dropped. It seems, however, necessary to keep these men on the road at this particular time when the Amalgamated or dual organization are doing everything in their power to disrupt the International Union and when all employers, chambers of commerce, etc., are making a persistent, determined drive to cripple or destroy our unions.

I again repeat that I have no say in fixing the salary and expense of the organizers. Of one thing, however, I am absolutely sure, and that is that the amounts paid them are not excessive. No man can live decently on the road, for one penny less than $3.50 per day. A room in a hotel that could formerly be had for from 75 cents to $1 or $1.50, now costs $1.50, $2 or $2.50. The most of you know what it costs to eat in a hotel or restaurant. In reality the organizer does not get decent wages. I don't know of another union that pays so little as we do for the salary and expense of their organizers.

Yours fraternally,

G. W. PERKINS,
Int'l President.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

Williamsport, Pa., April 3, 1921.

Since my last report I have covered nearly the entire state of Pennsylvania with but very few exceptions, and find no material change in the conditions of the cigar makers, at least none for the betterment, and occasionally found some localities contemplating reducing their bills, which is hoped will stimulate business and give more and steadier employment, but this hope must yet be realized.

The onslaught of cutting prices of the non-union cigar makers in these districts have not abated, but continue unmolested, without objection on the part of the unprotected who are without organization.

I have been informed in one of the remote localities that one of the largest corporations manufacturing cigars had been working their girls and women nights in violation of the state laws pertaining to women in industry. I took the matter up with the proper authorities of the labor and industry department and succeeded in having it discontinued immediately.

As directed, I proceeded to Meadville, Pa., the seat of the defunct Union No. 82 and succeeded in having the remaining funds of that organization, which the officers failed to forward, together with other International property, to headquarters, thereby closing out the accounts of that union. The facts are that there was not enough members left to function as an organization as they, with but a few exceptions, had secured employment at other than cigar making and left the trade and decided to forward the books and charter. The few left had their cards transferred to other locals.

In visiting other localities, respectively Easton, Warren, Corry, Pottsville, Wilkes-Barre, Scranton, York, Allentown, Quakerstown, Akron, Pa., Lebanon, Mannheim, Lancaster, Rothville, Ephrata, Williamsport, I have been persistent in advocating label agitation and organization, also the attendance by the members at their meetings, for without the interest of the members to their business the movement lags and the accomplishments go by default, injuring the whole structure of the only medium at hand for the betterment of all concerned.

The opening of a label shop in Quakertown seems to be an assured fact and will no doubt stimulate our movement in this locality. I participated in revising the bill for Union 402, which was satisfactory to the employers, who predicted that once they get going they will be able to employ from 6 to 25 hands in a short time.

Since my last visit to York, marked progress has been made in placing union label cigars on the market in retail stands, clubs, grocery stores and many other places which handle cigars and tobaccos, through the efforts of a few energetic members of 242, to make jobs for the membership. This is good work and I complimented them on their undertakings and further it will stimulate agitation for union label product. As I understand it, it is contemplated to organize a "Union Label Club or League," comprised of representatives from each local trades union in York, for the purpose of advancing all union labeled products.

Organization work is at a very low ebb, due to the fact that many cigar makers are out of employment and the remainder are on very short time, and on a limit at that, with very few exceptions. Many firms who opened factories in Pennsylvania the past 12 or 13 months have closed down entirely and others indefinitely closed up.

Yours fraternally,
J. P. KEENEN,
Gen. Organizer.

Ludington, Mich., April 4, 1921.

While working in Ludington I made visits to the homes of the girls in the downtown district and also had a conference with the merchants to show them why the girls would not agree to go to work in which I succeeded in convincing some of the larger merchants that their stand was a just one. While working in this district I found that the spies paid by the firm which we are fighting have been working in the fourth ward. I immediately got busy and visited the homes and made my reasons clear to them why they should not go to work. I addressed two special meetings in behalf of the fight we were putting up against this firm. Also visited the retail stores, calling their attention to the fact and urged these firms to handle union label goods. The fourth ward is about one and a half miles from the main part of the city, where the Polish, Hungarians and Russians are chiefly located, in this ward. I also organized a label league composed of members from all the locals in Ludington and they are all a bunch of live wires, actually on the job. I instructed them in the work, also told them what this organization meant to them in demanding the labels on the products. Through the activity of the label league I was successful in having another shop consent to put the label on their cigars. The Stewart Bros. shop, which at the time employed about 16 girls and did not see fit to use our labels and which at the present time is not working, and the sale of union label cigars is increasing. I assisted our secretary, Miss Hoffman, in checking up labels, also assisted her with her books. I assisted the girls in disposing of tickets, which is bringing in fair returns. I also addressed the Trades and Labor Council and every local affiliated with it also. On special occasions attended all meetings of our local. While in Grand Rapids I visited the Schneider Cigar Company and took the matter up with them in reference to using our label. The factory at present is not working. The matter is now in the hands of Local 46. I also called on the girls' and women's homes employed in the Consolidated General & Tegle Cigar Companies and found a great number are out of work in the factories, while those who are working are on short time. They have started to organize a Polish Federal Union and in this movement there is yet an opportunity to reach the girls working in these factories. This organization is the outcome of a movement which was planned some time before and the meeting was held while I was out of the city. The cigar business in the unfair factories is very bad, while the union shops practically are holding their own. The fight in Ludington is still on. These girls are appealing to you for financial aid, which they are justly entitled to; they have been fighting this battle for the past ten months; not one of them have deserted the ranks. Are we as men going to desert them in this fight? I say no; then let's come across and help them win it.

MICHAEL GAZELLA,
Special Organizer.

Detroit, Mich., April 9, 1921.

To the Journal:

Since my last report of March 2 from McSherrystown, Pa., I visited York, Pa., and addressed the Central Labor Union of that city on the use of the union label. Went from there to Lancaster, Pa.; spoke at meeting of Union 257 and the Central Body of Lancaster. Held several conferences with officers of Union 257 and was arranging to hold a meeting to try and organize some of the workers into Class B when I was directed by President Perkins to proceed to Warren, Pa., to assist Union 122 which was out on question of reduction. After several conferences with strike committee and officers of Union 122, a meeting was arranged between employers and strike committee. I endeavored to reach a compromise pending the time the application of Union 122 was awaiting approval. We were unable to get any agreement and waited until application returned when Local 122 accepted proposed reductions and factory returned to work March 24.

Received instructions from President Perkins to proceed to Detroit, Mich., where the employees of the R. G. Dunn shop are out against a second reduction. This local accepted a reduction and the proprietor of the R. G. Dunn shop promised the employees of that shop steady work for one year and no further reduction but in February of this year he came with a demand for another reduction of $3 per thousand, and this the members of Union 22 refused to accept and are now out on strike. This firm, like all the employers of labor in this section, are resorting to the usual tactics of arresting girls on the picket lines and by trying to break the spirit of the men and women in asking the courts for injunctions restraining everybody from doing anything but breathing. One injunction was dissolved on an error of law and the second is now pending. This we all expect will not be granted. I have worked with strike committees on court cases and with officers and committees and have endeavored to get conferences with manufacturers to induce them to run union shops.

Fraternally yours,
WM. A. McCABE, Organizer.

London, Ont., April 5, 1921.

The situation in London has been such that at the request of Union 278 I have remained here since my last report. From day to day I have worked with local strike committee during February and March in an effort to reach a settlement. During my time here I have covered the various union meetings in the interest of label campaign; also distributed advertising matter furnished me by the J. A. B. when visiting cigar stores.

The unions in this city are giving their moral and also financial support to Union 278 in the present difficulties. I have made two trips to Hamilton in the interest of local situation.

March 6th I attended a meeting of theatrical stage employees' union and asked that action be taken against two of their members who are working in cigar factory that locked out union members. These two men can no longer be members of this union.

I also assisted in organization meeting of International Garment Workers and mass meeting of machinists and boilermakers. During the week of March 12th we had two conferences with cigar manufacturers, but was unable to reach a settlement.

March 14th Union 278 gave the first of a series of dances to raise funds for those members not entitled to benefits. The hall was crowded. I gave a talk on the label and the local troubles the cigar makers are having with manufacturers. Week of March 19 we had more conferences with cigar manufacturers. Two special meetings of 278 were called to deal with the various propositions, but owing to the severe demands made by the firms Union 278 by a large vote refused to accept them. Manufacturers so far are determined to have the open shop. They want a wage reduction that would mean from $6 to $10 in wages per week. At special meeting March 22 Union 278 decided to give committee power to negotiate on the 1919 bill, which was adopted Sept. 16th, 1919.

We again on April 2nd and 4th held a conference with several of the smaller firms, with the result that six of the firms will continue to operate union shops. At a conference with M. Collago Co., an agreement was reached whereby this firm will also operate union shop. This firm will in the course of a couple weeks employ 50 or 60 cigar makers.

Special meeting Union 278 proposition submitted by committee was accepted.

I attended a conference April 5th with Mr. Compton, representing the Minister of Labor, from Ottawa. We explained the situation to him and he will use his good office in effort to reach a settlement with the one large firm here. Business is quiet and there is a drive on by the firms to establish the open shop.

Yours fraternally,

JAS. A. SULLIVAN,
Int. Organizer.

Since my last report I have addressed the following labor unions of Denver, Col., on the question of a closer affiliation and of more strictly adhering to and patronizing union label goods in all lines and especially the cigar makers union label. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers No. 186; the Tobacco Strippers Union; the Amalgamated Sheet Metal Workers No. 66 (R. R. men); Queen City Lodge No. 2009 Machinists; International Steam Engineers No. 1; Union Label League; a very large meeting of the Maintenance of Way Employees No. 14; Electrical Workers Union No. 68; Bakers and Confectionery Workers No. 27; Barbers Union of Denver. In addition to attending all regular and special meetings of the cigar makers of Denver the meetings of the executive board, and the agitation committee, assisting that committee in visiting dealers in cigars in Denver, Col.; Golden, Col., and Cheyenne, Wyo., at the last meeting of union 129, a proposition of a reduction of 10 per cent on the present bill of prices was offered by the two large manufacturers of Denver, a strike committee was elected to resist this reduction. They have had several meetings which I took part in to assist them. In the state of Colorado they have industrial laws governing all disputes between employer and employee, by the provisions of which the employer must give 30 days' notice of a proposed reduction in wages, and the employee must give 30 days' notice of an increase of wages or strike. They have a regularly appointed commission consisting of three members to enforce the law, our cigar manufacturers have given notice of the 10 per cent reduction to this commission and we have been notified that the question will be given a hearing before that body some time in the 30 days. The strike committee and myself are holding conferences with the manufacturers in an effort to settle the dispute without the use of the industrial commission, and it is the hope that it will be over before this letter is printed.

Yours fraternally,
(Signed) J. E. FARRELL,
General Organizer.

UNION PIANOS AND TALKING MACHINES.

Union-made pianos, player pianos, grand pianos and talking machines, in all that the word "union" applies, are now within reach of all who desire such instruments.

Dec. 4, 1920, a number of members of the Piano, Organ and Musical Instrument Workers' International Union organized and incorporated the De Luxe Piano Co., located at Chicago, Ill. This company manufactures upright pianos, player pianos, grand pianos and talking machines and is operating along co-operative lines. A liberal discount will be allowed to all good standing members of local unions, to trade unions and central bodies.

Report of International Financier.

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 5, 1921.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz:

No. 53, New Orleans, La.

The cash and stamp accounts here are really correct. Benefit cards and expense vouchers all on file. The treasurer made a deposit on Jan. 7th. There is nothing done here but the best they know how. Some of the members will either have to keep inside the limit in dues, etc., or they will be out of the union. Section 73 means each one of you. When you get over the limit twice inside of 90 days while you are at work, you suspend yourself. The local union cannot take action to prevent this. The secretary must report you to the International office as suspended. You can save yourself and the rest of us trouble if you will do the right thing—either become real members of the union or get out entirely. You will need the union in the days to come. Be reasonable and be one of us. Statement as follows:

Int'l balance for May 1, 1919 $ 232.01
Int'l receipts to Jan. 1, 1921 3,869.85

Total $4,151.86
Int'l expense to Jan. 1, 1921 $3,584.92
Due to Union No. 53, on examination 58.00

Total $3,642.92

Int'l balance for Jan. 1, 1921 $ 508.94

Funds of Union.

In possession Treas. G. Kammer 125.66
In possession of Sec'y Katie Sheehy 70

Total $ 508.94

No. 127, Mattoon, Ill.

The books and accounts here are in very nice condition. Cash and stamps correct. Vouchers on file for every item of expense.

Statement as follows:

Balance for April 1, 1917 $ 136.41
Receipts to Jan. 1, 1921 984.60

Total $1,121.01

Same as at date of last examination. Sec'y Hawkins has deposited in bank since Jan. 1st, $100.

No. 220, New Orleans, La.

The books and accounts here are at this time in the best condition I ever found them in No. 220, New Orleans. They have refunded $32.63 deficiency since last examination. One serious fault here is some of the members are irregular in the payment of dues, etc. Section 73 means each of you. You will have serious trouble over 90-day suspension from benefit, and besides, you suspend yourself when you get over the limit inside of 90 days where you are at work. Watch your step—either become real members of the union or get out.

No. 266, Memphis, Tenn.

The books and accounts here are in nice condition. Benefit cards and expense vouchers nicely filed. Cash and stamp accounts O. K. Ledger indexed and posted to show members' standing complete. The last four men holding the office of secretary at No. 266 are the sort of men that command respect of all who meet them. Memphis has been fortunate.

No. 344, Atlanta, Ga.

So far as the books are concerned, they are nicely kept. Vouchers, etc., for expenses all on file. Only two members entitled to suspension for non-payment of dues, but the money is gone. C. B. Reeves, who has really been secretary, was short in money $624.20 and $45.80 in other amounts due to the International Union; total amount due, $670. We received 22 notes to cover this amount; notes were endorsed and are held by the Atlanta Nat'l Bank for collection, made payable to the International Union.

No. 471, Macon, Ga.

The books and accounts here are in very fair condition, but the trade is not. The wholesale and jobbing trade of Macon should be able to handle the work of several hundred cigar makers. The wages of these men put in circulation here in Macon would make a decided improvement in general business conditions, as it would be a continuous addition to the money on the street. As it is, all they invest in cigars for wholesale or retail purposes is spent away from Macon—never to return. Trade with the men that trades with you, when circumstances will permit, is good business, develops your city, increases your population with real bread winners, the sort that make prosperous any community in which they labor.

Union 31, Connersville, Ind.

The books and accounts here show that honest men have handled them. A real attempt to have everything as it should be. Cash and stamp accounts correct. The only fault I find here is that they have not refunded the $2.20 expended over percentage during the year 1916. Other than this they are in fine shape. Statement as follows:

The books and accounts of this union are in better condition now than they ever were in before. Benefit cards, expense vouchers and original bills for all death benefits, tax to International Union and assistance to other locals all on file in the rotation in which the expense occurs. Stamp and cash accounts correct and as clean a day book and ledger account as can be found in any union. The money claimed in possession of secretary really is in the Meyer & Kiser Bank. This bank is open on Saturday evening, and Secretary Brinkman as a matter of safety first takes his money over there, both local and International, and deposits it. He then transfers to the International account by check. I verified this account just the same as the International account. Statement as follows:

The expense vouchers and benefit cards here are all nicely filed. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Explained to the secretary how to balance every member's dues account with each credit given; also how to balance and verify the accounts at the end of each month in the day book. He agreed with me that this was the best way to do the work and that he would do it continuously in the future. The secretary and finance committee here are accurate—no mistakes in figures. Statement as follows:

Benefits paid during 1920, excluding loans, $1,403,981.63.

Total benefits paid in 41 years and 2 months, including loans, $16,906,912.76.

The weekly dues were 10c. The weekly dues were 15c. The weekly dues were 20c. The weekly dues were 25c. The weekly dues were 30c.

The foregoing table is one of the most complete historical resumes of the financial transactions of the International Union ever issued. It presents a bird's-eye view of the benefits paid, the cost per member per year and the cost per member for the given number of years according to the state of trade. The highest cost per member per year for Out-of-Work benefit was $6.43/10 in 1896, and the lowest cost per member per year for Out-of-Work benefit was $3.29/10. The Out-of-Work benefit has been paid for a period of thirty (30) years and 7 months, commencing Jan. 1, 1890, and the average cost per member per year for the first ten years was $3.29/10. This is instructive information, as the ten years in question were about equally divided between periods of normal trade conditions and industrial stagnation. The average cost per member per year for the thirty years and seven months in which the benefit has been in operation was $1.74/10.

Special 30c members are those who join at 50 years or over and other constitutional reasons. They receive strike and not more than $75.00 death benefit. The 40-cent beneficiary retired members receive sick and death benefit, hence both are included when figuring the cost per member per year in the payment of benefits in which they participate, although in the tables they are given separate columns of membership and affiliation. Class B members receive strike, sick and death benefits.

NOTE.—The following explains the different kinds, periods and amount of benefits paid:

Loans: One-year members are entitled to a loan for transportation to the nearest union in whatever direction he or she desires to travel, but in no case shall the loans exceed in the aggregate $20.

Strike Benefit: For the first sixteen weeks, $8 per week is paid, and $4 per week until the strike or lockout shall have terminated. Class B members receive $4 for the first sixteen weeks and $2 per week until the strike or lockout shall have been for at least one week or seven days, but no member shall be entitled to any sick benefit for a longer period than ten weeks in any one year. Class B members are entitled to $3.50 per week.

Death and Disability Benefits: These benefits are graduated and are as follows: A member who shall have been such for two years, the sum of $75 is paid towards defraying funeral expenses. Including the said $75 funeral expenses, the International Union pays upon the death of a member the following sum: First—if the member has been such for at least five consecutive years, a sum of $125. Second—if the member shall have been such for at least ten years, $275. Third—if the member has been such for at least fifteen consecutive years, $475. If the member has been such for twenty consecutive years, $550. The total disability benefit was adopted in 1902. This benefit is paid direct to the applicant or guardian, and is the same amount as in the case of death, less $75.00, which is retained and paid towards defraying funeral expenses at time of death. A benefit of $40.00 is paid in the event of the death of a wife or widowed mother of a member. Class B members are entitled to one-half of the death benefit provided for by the constitution for the regular dues-paying members.

To the casual observer it may appear that there was an unusual heavy increase per capita on all benefits paid. The large increase in strike benefits was, of course, due to the heroic struggle of our Tampa members—involving thousands of members and costing nearly $900,000.

To fairly understand the general apparent increase it is necessary to know upon what basis the figures are computed. The membership Dec. 31 is taken to compute the pro rata payments per member.

Under ordinary conditions and heretofore the membership on Dec. 31 fairly represents an average, hence forms an equitable basis of computation.

In the year just closed, owing to abnormal conditions of trade, to strikes and lockouts, and the necessity of raising our dues and levying heavy assessments to meet our promised obligations and constitutional requirements we had to apportion the cost per member on less than the average membership for the year.

State of Trade April 1, 1921.

Chicago, Ill., March 19, 1921.

To the Officers and Members of Local Unions.

Fellow Workmen: The International Election Canvassing Board met in accordance with the Constitution in the Headquarters of the Cigar Makers' International Union, Monon Building, Chicago, Illinois, February 22, 1921, where they proceeded to count the ballots cast at the election held February 12.

All ballots, reports and so forth, addressed to the International Canvassing Board, were given to us by the International President, G. W. Perkins, in the order in which he received them. We were furnished a room, where without molestation or interference from any source we proceeded to count the ballots and to verify the results.

The result is as follows:

We found the returns, the ballots and so forth, in very good condition. We counted all ballots in which the intent of the voter was unanimously agreed to. That is, in some cases where the mark "X" was placed after the name on the ballot instead of in the square in front, we held the vote to be a vote, and so counted it. However, our count and verification does not materially change the reports made by the local inspectors, and in no instance and in no case does it change the result or the standing of any candidate.

On March 5 Mr. Henry Wegener, the Canvasser from Union 72, Burlington, Iowa, was taken sick and had to return home. Union 72, Burlington, sent as his alternate Mr. A. A. Koett, who finished the count.

Union 72, Burlington, Ia.

PAUL RICK,

Union 77, Minneapolis, Minn.

JAS. F. BURCUM,

Sec. of Board,
Union 394, Sycamore, Ill.

According to the vote cast, canvassed, and reported by the foregoing signed statement of the International Canvassing Board, the following were elected:

International President—G. W. Perkins, Chicago, Ill.

First Vice-President—Samuel Gompers, New York, N. Y.

Third Vice-President—D. W. Kennedy, Niagara Falls, Ont.

Fifth Vice-President—E. G. Hall, Minneapolis, Minn.

Sixth Vice-President—Alexander Ramsey, Nevada City, Calif.

Treasurer—Gibson Weber, Philadelphia, Pa.

Delegate to the American Federation of Labor—Samuel Gompers, New York, N. Y.

A second election will have to be held for the purpose of electing a Second Vice-President, Fourth Vice-President, a Seventh Vice-President, and three Delegates to the American Federation of Labor. The second and next election occurs on the second Saturday in July, which falls on July 9, 1921.

Note.—The ballots of Unions 502 Pittsburgh, Pa.; 109 Hoquiam, Wash., and 341 San Bernardino, Calif., reached this office March 21. The International Canvassers finished their work and returned to their homes on March 19, hence these ballots were not included in the foregoing count. However, even if these votes had been received as per Constitution and on time they would not have changed the result.

G. W. PERKINS.

CHAS. H. STEVENS, 350 Broadway, Buffalo, N. Y., Seventh Vice President.

GIBSON WEBER, 1710 N. Kratz St., Station C, Philadelphia, Pa., Treasurer.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140-g distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal will" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

All told, including March 19th, there were twenty-five 50c assessments levied. Each 60c, 40c and regular 30c members must have twenty-five 50c assessments up to and including March 19th, excepting those who are exempt as per paragraph two of Section 70, which reads as follows: "New initiates who have not been such for four months shall be exempt from all assessments. This shall not be so construed as to exempt reinstated members from payment of assessments."

The foregoing quoted section provides that newly initiated members are exempt from payment for the first four months. The first 50c assessments was levied Sept. 27, 1920, and was due Oct. 2nd. Any member initiated for the week commencing Sept. 27th and ending Oct. 2nd, is exempt from the payment of assessments for the first four months, and his first 50c assessment stamp would be due Jan. 29th, and such member would have to show nine 50c assessments. A member initiated on Oct. 4th would have to show eight 50c assessments, and so on. The 50-cent weekly assessment ends March 19.

FINES OF $10.00 OR LESS.

Union 218, Binghamton, N. Y., fined Anna M. Dayton, 63589, $10.00 for working in the closed shop of I. Kall and Company.

Union 132, Brooklyn, fined Frank Marchand, 16253, $10.00 for conduct unbecoming a union man in taking part in the Amalgamated Tobacco Workers' Union of America.

Union 248, Jacksonville, rescinded the fine of $50.00 imposed on Wilmer Wood, and published in the February, 1921, Journal.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

C. Tappe appealed against Union 153, Sioux Falls, for placing him on the ninety-day list. The union replied he was over the limit on assessments. The appeal was not sustained.

F. Haas appealed against Union 4, Cincinnati, reference permitting members to work in open shops not using the label. The appeal was not sustained.

C. L. Halbleib appealed against Union 240, Norfolk, for compelling him to refund $20 illegally drawn sick benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

Julius Lechner appealed against Union 144, New York, for suspending him for non-payment of assessments. The appeal was not sustained.

The Joint Advisory Board of New York appealed against Union 132, Brooklyn, for failing to suspend Harry Mitchell, a superintendent in a non-union shop. Since there are more than six journeymen employed in this shop, the decision is that Mr. Mitchell is not constitutionally permitted to be a sixty-cent member, and that he be given a retiring card, and that his case then be disposed of as a retiring card holder.

J. H. Robinson and five members of the Executive Board of Union 165, Philadelphia, appealed against the union for failure to suspend, in compliance with Section 61 of the Constitution, J. Levitsky, whom they charged with being a member of a dual organization, the Amalgamated Tobacco Workers. The union denies for Mr. Levitsky that he was a member of the Amalgamated. All evidence shows that he was. Unless Mr. Levitsky shows by May 20, 1921, by indisputable evidence over his own signature, that he is not and was not a member of the Amalgamated Association, then the appeal is sustained and the action of the union reversed.

J. F. Harmon appealed against Union 218, Binghamton, for suspending him for non-payment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

DECISIONS OF EXECUTIVE BOARD

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by Union 129 of Denver, Colo., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.
Negative—Hoffman, Garlepy, Reichert, Hall, Stevens, Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was, Union 129 fined and suspended two members for alleged violation of the laws of the Union during a strike. The Union claims that these members were seen in the building of a strike shop and were accordingly fined and suspended.

The International President refused to approve the action of the Union, whereupon the Union appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That there is nothing in the evidence submitted which shows that these members violated any rules of the Union which would warrant the drastic action sought to be taken; that Section 87 of the constitution in part says, "No member or union shall be considered on strike unless such strike shall have been approved by the proper authorities of the International Union." Accordingly if these members were seen in the building of a cigar company in which there was an unauthorized strike it did not constitute an offense against the written law of the Union; that the Union admits in this case its action was irregular and not in accordance with the strict letter of the law. The Union also states that no charge in writing was made, and that the action taken was on heresy evidence; that these members have a long record of membership, and the files of the secretary's office do not show anything against this record. Even if an offense had been admitted, the fining of these members $100 and suspending them from the Union and refusing to permit them to work in a union shop is much too drastic in view of the facts noted. The Local Union has an undisputed right to discipline a member by fine or expulsion, but has no constitutional right to refuse to work with him or to permit him to rejoin the Union. The courts have uniformly ruled that while the Union may discipline a member it has no right under the law of the land to refuse to permit him to earn a living at his chosen occupation, provided he complies with its rules. The decision in this case is strictly in accordance with the law, and this seems to be the only one that could be made in accordance with justice.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained.

Fraternally,
Saml. Gompers,
First Vice-President.

UNION NOTES

Union 129, Denver, Colo., notifies Julius Kratz, 112522, that the books of the Cuban Cigar Co. show that he went to work on Wednesday, Jan. 5, and worked four days that week, and that this would make him subject to one more of the Tampa assessments, as the rule of Union 129 is that members who work over two days must pay local assessment for that week.

Secretary holding card of Julius Kratz and Mrs. Anna Kratz, 27805, collect the above amount and forward to 129, Denver, Colorado. Union Notes by 97, Boston.

Boys, don't forget 22, Detroit, is making a gallant fight.

Did you read circular from 27, Toronto? Belgian tobacco workers journal has adopted the slogan, "One for all and all for one." New window card of New England conference is just what the doctor ordered. Have you seen them?

If you have not got a label committee get busy and appoint or elect one—men who will do the work and don't look for results over night.

I still believe in the retail union cigar store with fronts all painted alike.

Agitate, organize, educate. Strippers ought to be part of C. M. I. U. of A. Massachusetts will have a free state university, with free textbooks.

Manufacturers are trying to get our legislature to establish a state constabulary.

While you are asking the other fellow to demand our label don't forget his.

Cheer up, better times are coming. The trade union is here and here to stay. So is the eight-hour day.

We need a smaller label for packs of five. It is not statesmanship to curtail the purchasing power of the worker.

We want better homes, better clothes, pictures upon the wall, books on the shelves and leisure to enjoy them.

Why not, while working, pay a week's dues in advance.

Preach and practice fraternity.
Slaves, serfs, citizens—evolution of mankind.

Absolute despotism, constitutional monarchy, a republic—evolution of government.

We lived through 72 and 93 and we shall live through this, and emerge stronger and better.

Encourage all the locals in your home city—when they are in trouble donate all you can. Boston needs a labor paper.

There is a strong agitation for the abolition of tobacco. The fight is on in Kansas, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Georgia.

There is no question of the unionism of a man who carries a Tampa card.

"The first battle of the Civil War was fought at Bull Run, but it did not end there."

May 2nd will be our 39th anniversary. There have been many changes since 1882.

Harry Isaacs, the first president of 97, has passed away. He was fearless and indefatigable in the discharge of the duties of his office. We miss him.

Second and vote for 97's amendment. Manufacturers all over the country will soon put up packages of 5 and we must have a smaller label to place on the box.

Why not send a woman as a delegate to the Boston Central Labor Union?

If you destroyed the trade union you would still have the trade unionist.

Piece work ought to go.

HENRY ABRAHAMS.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

(Do not endorse two or more amendments on the same sheet of paper. Send in a separate endorsement for each amendment, as they have to be filed separately.)

The amendment of 16, Binghamton, as published in the March Journal, as follows:

Amendment to Section 56 of the Constitution: Insert in paragraph 3, after the word President, the following:

They shall submit an itemized statement of all their expenses. They shall also submit a bona-fide statement of the number of people organized by them, and all other work accomplished by them during the month, which report shall be published in the Official Journal monthly.

Received the endorsement of Unions 218, Binghamton; 215, Logansport; 179, Bangor; 5, Rochester; 429, Niagara Falls; 229, Binghamton; 395, Waterbury.

The amendment of 97, Boston, as published in the March Journal, as follows:

Amend section 214 of the Constitution by striking out all after the word "and" on line 6, up to and including the words "two-thirds" on line 7 and inserting "All amendments shall be valid whenever a majority." Section to read as follows:

Any amendment of the International Constitution being endorsed as required shall be submitted to a popular vote of the members. A copy of the record of such vote shall be transmitted to the International President under seal of the union, with the signatures of the President and Secretary affixed; and all amendments shall be valid whenever a majority of the members voting vote in favor thereof, the result to be transmitted within thirty days from date of submitting the amendment to a vote: each amendment to be printed in pamphlet form for local unions. Where an amendment has been adopted as provided for in these laws, no amendment can be proposed annulling or altering the same until after the expiration of six months.

Received the endorsement of Unions 16, Binghamton; 218, Binghamton; 179, Bangor; 429, Niagara Falls; 229, Binghamton; 395, Waterbury.

The amendment of 202, Portland, providing that it be optional with the local union to withhold the label from a shop employing persons eligible to Class B and not members.

The amendment of 27, Toronto, as published in the March Journal, as follows:

That a weekly assessment be levied on each member of the cigar makers' International Union of 50c weekly for the purpose of organizing Montreal, Canada. The assessment not to go in force until after the Tampa strike has been settled and times become normal. The International President to appoint a committee of one from Toronto, London and Hamilton to work in conjunction with International officers and Local 58 of Montreal as organization committee.

Received no endorsements.

The amendment of 192, Manchester, N. H., as published in the March Journal, as follows:

Amend Section 64, Class B, fourth paragraph, by inserting after the words "Class B" on line 5 the following:

In localities where tobacco strippers and bookers are thoroughly organized in Federal Locals of the American Federation of Labor, it shall be optional with them to become members of the Cigarmakers' International Union, this option to remain in force until the next convention of the C. M. I. U. Fourth paragraph to read:

Fourth.—In all other respects the laws and rules governing arrearsages of dues, suspension from membership, limitation as to time in payments of benefits, and all other laws governing the members paying regular dues, shall apply to members enrolled in Class B. In localities where the strippers and bookers are thoroughly organized in Federal Locals of the American Federation of Labor, it shall be optional with them to become members of the Cigarmakers' International Union, this option to remain in force until the next convention of the C. M. I. U. All who are already members of the A. F. of L. may deposit their cards with the International Union without payment of initiation fee.

Received the endorsement of Union 218, Binghamton.

Union 97 submits the following amendment to Section 146:

Insert on line seven after the word "width," and "a label two inches in length and no more than one-half inch in width," section to read as follows:

BLUE LABEL.

Section 146. The President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label, to be known as the Union Label, in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of a box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color, and no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width and a label two inches in length and no more than one-half inch in width, the latter size to be used on packages containing ten cigars or less. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President. The International President shall have prepared, printed and registered a stogie trade-mark label in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The label shall be light blue color. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The wording and size to be the same as the present stogie label.

No. 337, Key West, proposes the following amendment to Section No. 79 of the Constitution:

Amend Section No. 79. Strike out the figures $8.00 on line six and insert the following: $10.00. Strike out the figures $4.00 on line six and insert the following: $8.00. Balance of section unchanged.

Amendment to Section 86 that when any application for strike in consequence of decrease of bill of price or lockout occurs not be necessary to go to the referendum vote, that only must necessary the approval of the International Executive Board.

Public Health and the Submerged Classes.

That more than 75,000 men, women and children out of a total population of 783,000 are dependents, delinquents or feeble minded and are unable either to work or fight and are a constant drain on the finances, health and morality of the state is the startling result brought out by a survey conducted in Oregon. Moreover, more than 500 school children out of a total school enrolled population of 32,500 were found to be more or less mentally deficient, a fact which is of much significance when it is remembered that the condition of the children of today is the best possible index to the condition of the community of tomorrow, and indeed, to the future of the race.

The figures yielded by the Oregon survey are considerably lower than the average shown by the draft examination, a fact that indicates, in the opinion of the U. S. Public Health Service officers, that they are certainly not higher than those that would be obtained by similar surveys in other states. It is considered greatly to Oregon's credit that it has been one of the first states to realize the importance of the problem and to take effective steps toward ascertaining the exact facts concerning it.

"The making of the survey," said Surgeon General H. G. Cumming, "was not an easy task, for in Oregon, as in many other states, comparatively few of the types involved are being cared for in institutions. The rest are widely scattered and were practically unknown, for most of them are quiet and do not attract attention as do the insane and criminal. It was therefore necessary to build an organization to find them and report on them.

"As there was little money to pay trained workers, Dr. Carlisle enlisted volunteers, largely among the professional classes, in every part of the state, and through these found the people sought and collected data concerning their behavior, present history, school history, social relations (whether dependent, delinquent, or feeble-minded), the cause of their condition, and so on.

"The prevention and correction of mental defectiveness," went on the Surgeon General, "is one of the great public health problems of today. It enters into many phases of our work and its influence continually crops out unexpectedly. For instance, recent studies made in connection with the spread of venereal diseases have shown that feeble mindedness is an important factor in prostitution. Again, work of the U. S. Public Health Service in connection with juvenile courts shows that a marked proportion of juvenile delinquency is traceable to some degree of mental deficiency in the offender.

"For years Public Health Officials have concerned themselves only with the disorders of physical health; but now they are realizing the significance of mental health also. The work in Oregon constituted that first statewide survey which even begins to disclose the enormous drain on a state caused by mental defects."

One of the objects of the work was to obtain for the people of Oregon an idea of the problem that confronted them and of the heavy annual loss, both economic and industrial, that it entailed. Another was to enable the legislature to devise a program that would stop much of the loss, restore health, and bring to lives of industrial usefulness many of those now down and out and, above all, to save hundreds of children from growing up to lives of misery."

Vol. XLV. MAY 15, 1921. No. 5.

Subscription price, $1.00 per year.
Single copies, 10 cents.

Entered as second class matter, Nov. 23, 1894,
at the Post Office at Chicago, Ill., under Act of March 3, 1879.

Owing to the printers' strike and lockout this issue of the Journal may be late, and is reduced in size. All matters crowded out of this issue for the reason stated will be published in the June issue.

Government exists to protect the life, liberty and property of its citizens, as well as to establish their Democracy vs. claims for justice.

Autocracy. Industry exists to feed, clothe, shelter and to give comfort and convenience to the people who constitute the government. Its elements are natural products, labor and in some form a directing force; be it capital or co-operation.

Democracy in government is predicated on the principle that those governed should have the right to say what laws are to be enacted under which they must live, work and play.

Democracy in industry demands the same general essentials as democracy in government, in-so-far as the laws of work apply.

Autocracy in government is one man law, one man rule and one man domination.

Autocracy in industry carries with it the same pernicious factors. Under its regime we find one man, the employer, making all the laws under which the workers toil. He sets the hours they must work, the wage they are to receive and makes the conditions of the work shop what he pleases. Under his autocratic rule the workers have neither voice nor hope. Their subjugation is complete and their future is void. Even their posterity is foredoomed to the same grilling serfdom.

We have passed the day of autocracy in government. That menace has been washed away in the blood of the countless thousands who have died that democracy might survive.

The abolition of autocracy in industry is just as essential to the welfare of the toiling masses as was the abolition of autocracy in government.

Democracy in industry will come. It is the step forward in the evolution of civilization and we will travel the road toward the goal of our ambitions with the measured tread of the thousands trained for the journey in the school of trades unionism. The education of the workers, the training necessary to attain their hopes and aims, their very salvation lies within the organized labor movement. Its program is grounded on the elements that assure success. Become a part of this valiant army fighting the battle for right and justice by becoming a member of the union of your craft.

In their efforts to establish the open shop and with the hope of beating legiti-

Company mate trades union or-the larger employers of labor have instituted company unions.

There has been much said in the public press as to the "Industrial Democracy" that was so willingly being dispensed by these employers and the various plans were heralded as something much preferred and far superior to the "autocratic" trade union.

As soon as any indication pointed toward a desire on the part of the workers for organization the employer saw the need of a union and proceeded at once to organize it. Elections were held and representatives (?) of the workers were elected to sit in council with their employer.

Various high sounding but meaningless names were given these councils. In at least one concern they have what they are pleased to call "Congress," composed of senators (foremen) and representatives (the ordinary workers). It seems, however, that the employer is the "Supreme Court" and has the final say. This quite naturally hampers the enactment of any law or rule that might be passed by "Congress" should it not meet with the employer's idea of government. One thing at least is absolutely unconstitutional, and that is, the right to strike. It logically follows, then, that no matter what "Congress" does it is at a loss to enforce its mandates.

In none of these hand-made employers' unions have the workers been able to protect either their hours of labor, their working conditions or their wages. It was never intended that they should. In fact, it was with the aim of destroying collective bargaining that these various schemes are countenanced. It is to circumvent real trade union activities that even these shams are permitted to live and have being.

When the workers realize that a company union is only for the company's protection and that any hopes they may have as workers to better their economic conditions must necessarily be predicated on membership in the regular organization of their own particular trade, the sooner they will be able to solve the age-long problem of the struggle for existence.

The newspapers are filled with downright unadulterated bunk concerning our foreign trade and the golden opportunities we might enjoy through trade with other nations.

Many of the advocates and enthusiasts on this subject say that if Labor would only reduce wages we could reach out and control the trade and commerce of the whole world.

Ninety-nine per cent, if not more, of the foreign countries with which we might do business, were plunged in debt by the great war. The governments of these countries and the people thereof are not going to further plunge into debt to the United States or any other country if they can help it. They naturally and rightfully want to employ their own people in making the things they must consume, and will continue to do so regardless of what America or any other country may do or try to do.

J. T. Fletcher, vice-president of the Fort Dearborn National Bank of Chicago, in an address in which he said he favored the "open shop," which means non-union shop, stated:

"I want to quote you a few figures. I have tried to prepare them in such form that they will be brief but yet may picture to you the financial position of this country. At the present time the United States is far and away the richest country in the world. The aggregate deposits of our banks are billions more than the combined deposits of all the banks in the world put together outside of this country. We have more actual cash than any other nation, and in the last few years have attained almost unbelievable supremacy in trade. More than half the gold in the world is held by the United States at the present time. With but five per cent of the earth's population, possibly between five and six per cent of the earth's population we have subjected to cultivation more than 25 per cent of the cultivated lands of the earth, producing an annual yield that has aroused the envy and admiration of the world.

"From a national wealth of about seven billion dollars at the time of the civil war our wealth has increased until today it stands at practically $225,000,000,000 net, that is, deducting our twenty-five billion dollars of government obligations.

"We produce in this country two things, agricultural products and manufactured products. Of the earth's total production we contribute in this country 24 per cent of the agricultural products, 40 per cent of the mineral production and 34 per cent of the manufactured goods, and we accomplish these results with less than six per cent of the earth's population."

In view of this wonderful array of figures showing the productivity of our soil and of our workers generally, Mr. Fletcher tells us that there is something radically wrong with the workman and his organization and says we must have a change. We agree with him that there should be a change, but not the kind of change he wants. The change we want is one that will permit Labor to participate a little more in the wonderful wealth it helps to create.

The road toward "Normalcy" is rough. The going is slow. Many obstructions mark the way and we find bumps more in evidence than smooth riding.

A Rough Road.

What is being done on a general scale to better the road? A serious, though ill advised, effort is being made to lower wages which, however, will have the effect of lengthening the trail.

The obstruction in the way is not the wage of our workers. They must need spend all, or nearly all, they get at any time to live in modest comfort, so the less they are paid the less they will have to buy with.

The cost of living remains out of all proportion to the cost of production and distribution and it is not "wage cost" that holds it to its present unholy level. Take bread as an example. Wheat that was selling for $2.35 a bushel is now selling for $1.00 per bushel. Bread retails at from 10 to 12 cents a pound loaf. We had $1.00 wheat years ago when the cost of milling and baking were higher than at present from the fact that there was no such improved machinery used in the making of bread or the milling of the grain as we have today, yet bread sold at a profit at 5 cents or less for the pound loaf.

This same principle of cost applies to coal and most of the necessities of life. Modern machinery has cheapened production, yet the price to the consumer is almost prohibitive under any wage scale.

To smooth the road and to assure a safe journey we must pay more attention to the boulders that block our progress and not pick and quibble with the small pebbles that the vested interests are trying to make such mountains from.

The present is no time for the Federal and State governments to even consider reactionary laws. No drastic, restrictive, reactionary laws should be placed on the statute books at any time. The people of our country or of any other country have not recovered from the horrors of the world war or the hysteria which always follows great catastrophes. In our day and generation an enlightened public sentiment, stripped of its hysteria, which is temporary and artificial, is for advancing civilization, progress, justice and greater liberty of thought and action individually and collectively. Restricting or seeking to curb the inherent, natural rights and liberties of the masses is dangerous to progress and development along constructive lines and dangerous to our institutions, our democracy and our representative form of government. Those who seek legislation for private gain or profit and bigger fortunes, are more dangerous to our institutions than the so-called fanatical radicals.

Secretary of State Hughes, in his letter to President Gompers on the question of trading with Russia, says that "for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, a year before the war started, the imports to this country from European Russia were $26,958,690, and from Asiatic Russia, $2,356,527, or a total of $29,- 315,217 imports; and that our exports during that year to European Russia were $25,-363,795 and to Asiatic Russia, $1,101,419, or a total of $26,465,210 exports. The total imports into the United States for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1913, from all countries was $1,813,008,234, and the total exports from the United States to all countries, for the same time, $2,465,884,149.

Secretary Hughes also says "Restrictions on direct trade with Russia were removed by the United States July 8, 1920. Conclusions of the treaties of peace with the Baltic States enabled Russia really to enter into trade with Europe and the United States. Both American and European goods have been sold to Russia, but the volume of trade has been unimportant, due to the inability of Russia to pay for imports."

The letter referred to is published in full in the May issue of the American Federation of Labor. We should publish it in full if space would permit.

City officials of Dayton, O., have uncovered a contemptuous piece of grafting on unorganized girls who strip tobacco in a non-union concern. The girls became suspicious that they were short weighted, but were afraid to protest. A hint was dropped to the city sealer who made an unexpected visit to the factory and tested the weighing machine. He found that the girls were robbed of four pounds every time they stripped an alleged 20-pound bundle. If each girl stripped four bundles a day the company stole 1,120 pounds. The company is a strong advocate for "free and independent" workers and insists on "the right to run its own business."

Addressing an assemblage of mechanical and electrical engineers, Dr. Hollis said: "When the American Federation of Labor demands of Congress certain legislation or presents to the President that he must have one of their number in his cabinet it is an undue exercise of power by a minority.

"It is just as serious to the future of our republic as the present activities of the hyphenates.

"Unchecked power of minorities is a danger to any form of government. We saw what it did to Germany when the junkers rushed a whole people into this horrible war, from which we are hoping some day to recover, and we saw what threatened last winter when the mining men went out."

Dr. Hollis should know that the bankers, financiers and big interests don't hesitate to name their choice for Secretary of the Treasury, neither do they hesitate to demand the appointment of their choice, and invariably a banker is appointed for that position, or a man familiar with finance and associated with big interests lands the job. The same is relatively true as to the appointment of other Cabinet members. Notwithstanding this, Dr. Hollis delivers a tirade of would-be abuse against Labor for asking that a labor man, familiar with Labor's hopes and aspirations, be appointed as Secretary of Labor. We, however, think that Dr. Hollis knows how our Cabinet members are selected. In this instance he states only half the truth, which some characterize as being worse than a falsehood.

We call attention to a communication published elsewhere in this issue, from Mr. E. McCormick, President of Union 22, Detroit, in which he discusses the famous injunction decision of Judge Driscoll. Owing to the printers' strike we are unable to publish the decision and the decree in full in this issue.

Having in mind the really serious onslaught against the union shop by the Chamber of Commerce, non-union manufacturers and trade union opponents, we call your attention to the fact that the trade union movement is passing through a crisis and that during the rehabilitation and reconstruction period these opponents hope to cripple it, render it inefficient and, if possible, destroy it. The present unrest is not the direct result of the late world's war. It is the direct result of organized labor's protest against low wages and long hours of work. No power on earth can stop the natural right of the workers, except themselves, to organize in order that they may maintain living wages and otherwise achieve and maintain a decent living standard.

Unless we have democracy and the opportunity for the free expression of the judgment and wishes of a free people, it means autocracy or a dictatorship, not, however, necessarily of the predatorily rich. It might mean some other dictatorship. It might mean a dictatorship of the proletariat. Imperialists believe in autocracy and the dictatorship of a king. Lenine in his attempt to establish a communist form of government for Russia believes in a dictatorship of the proletariat. Both of which mean autocracy and an absolute lack of democracy.

Reliable statistics in our own trade and those gleaned from government reports show that the proportion of non-unionists who are idle at this time is greater than that of the organized workers, all of which proves that lower wages do not create prosperity or steady employment.

The Public Ledger, Philadelphia, Pa., under date of April 28, says "It is reported that there are 194,500 workers idle in the State of Pennsylvania." Pennsylvania never was accused of being well-organized, or a state in which high wages are paid.

The attempt to centralize power and authority in the hands of the State, that restrict the natural rights and liberties of the masses spells autocracy. Such a policy, if by chance it should unfortunately prevail through blind obedience to big interests, camouflaged by false propaganda, would destroy democracy, strangle individual liberty, and set back for centuries the effort to prove that people are capable of self-government and the oft-quoted adage that people least governed are the best governed.

TRADE NOTES.

The following comparative table shows the number of cigars manufactured during March, 1921, and March, 1920, as indicated by the monthly sales of revenue stamps:

	No.	No.
Class A	167,420,148	155,633,318
Class B	240,533,657	168,066,457
Class C	327,338,906	217,194,600
Class D	12,066,803	17,527,302
Class E	5,880,444	2,922,022
Total	753,239,958	561,343,699

The decrease of 191,896,259 for the month as compared with the corresponding month of last year is a barometer which shows the general state of our trade.

With widespread unemployment in all lines of industry it naturally follows that our own trade must feel the effects of curtailed consumption.

Later reports show very little, if any, improvement, nor can we expect any appreciable revival until conditions improve in other lines.

O. B. U.'s Fade Away.

The one big union that was launched amid a blare of trumpets nearly two years ago at Calgary has been dealt another smashing blow by the withdrawal of the British Columbia loggers, who announce they will be independent. The one big union has now less than 5,000 members, mostly in Winnipeg, with small groups scattered throughout several cities in the Northwest. When the o. b. u.'s organized their wild claims alarmed some trade unionists who overlooked former over-night attempts to uproot the trade union movement.—Exchange.

"Truth Will Out."

"It is now a fairly well established fact," says the Alberta Labor News, "that those in Western Canada who endeavored to launch the so-called one big union were more concerned about destroying the existing trade unions and creating chaos for political purposes than they were in creating a greater solidarity among the workers."

The Following is an Editorial by Samuel Gompers from the April Issue of the "American Federationist," the Official Organ of the American Federation of Labor.

HEARST'S ANIMUS.

From young boyhood the writer has endeavored to obtain the fullest information on any subject, particularly those affecting the rights and interests of the working people and the people generally. He has read the newspapers and the magazines representing all points of view, whether favorable or antagonistic. His observations, both in articles and editorials or in oral expressions, have shown to all the diversity of the course of reading. In recent years, however, he has declined to purchase any of the Hearst publications and has read only such portions of them as have been brought to his attention.

Opinion, point of view, is the right of all men and must be respected and safeguarded; but when a publication or a series of publications such as Hearst's, are bent upon controlling institutions, movements and men, or if unable to control them, to destroy them—that is a matter not of expression and point of view, but utter perversity.

For years Hearst personally, politically and through his newspapers has undertaken to control the labor movement and those who speak for it. When Hearst aspired to the presidency of the United States he had his representative meet and confer with the president of the American Federation of Labor with a view of chaining him to his presidential chariot. This he declined. When Hearst was candidate for governor of New York, the same process was tried, with the same result.

When it has dawned upon him that the people declined to follow the fortunes or misfortunes of Hearst's political aspirations, he has by every conceivable means endeavored to undermine their influence and destroy them.

So he has begun a repetition through his newspapers of the slanderous and contemptible attacks upon the character and work of the president of the American Federation of Labor and his associates. His real enmity is not necessarily against those officers of the labor movement, but the hope of minimizing or eliminating the American Federation of Labor itself.

And what has Hearst done for labor that places him in the position of the guardian and mentor of the American labor movement?

When he was a member of Congress he attended not more than two meetings of the Committee on Labor, of which he was a member, absenting himself from all its other sessions during the period of his term of office, two years. In the strike of the printing pressmen of Chicago he was the most relentless antagonist of all the publishers in that city. In the Boston newsboys' strike for better consideration and treatment at the hands of Hearst's Boston paper, he supplicantly appealed to the president of the American Federation of Labor for support; and he finally beat the boys into submission. The strike of the newsboys of New York was practically a repetition of the same situation.

In the mechanical department of his newspapers, requiring expert skill, he has operated a "union shop," and this evidently for his own financial advantage. In all else he has assumed the position that all who are employed by him owe him not only industrial service but political subservency. That he has not received the latter to the extent that he desired is due to no failure on his part to demand it.

In view of all the utterances and the attitude of William Randolph Hearst and his newspapers, we deem it a duty to labor as well as to the public generally, to make this brief reference to Mr. Hearst's effort to dominate or destroy the American labor movement and those who have been its respected and trusted defenders and exponents.

CORRESPONDENCE

Notice to Secretaries of Cigar Makers' Local Unions and other labor organizations:

Union No. 321, New Britain, wishes to inform you that on and after July 1, 1921, no communication will be considered except those written or printed on stationery bearing the watermark of the International Brotherhood of Paper Makers. Appeals for financial assistance must have local seal in addition to union watermark.

JOHN SCHURMAN.

New Britain, Conn., May 4, 1921.

Cleveland, O.

It has been the ambition of the members of Local 17 to remedy the situation in reference to the labels in general as it existed at the time of the convention, when a few, and only a few, labels could be had, much to the discomfort of the delegates. The local surely took advantage of the situation that presented itself when the open shop, or mis-named American plan, campaign was ushered in with blatant trumpets, large newspaper headlines and everything that goes to make up a spectacular, stupendous, ready to wear production, with everything but the actual red fire.

The central body also got busy immediately by issuing two circulars, one dealing with the open shop and one on the union shop; 10,000 of each issue of these circulars were distributed all over the city, also a body of forty speakers was sent out to carry the union message to every union, church forums, school rooms, open air meetings, newspaper writeups, in fact, every place our voice could be heard, taking the fight right to the chamber of commerce and the avowed enemies of organized labor, changing thousands of minds that had heard only the one side of the question from open to closed shop—pers and the rest were driven in their hole or are working secretly, as no doubt they are, as they dislike to see their pet scheme fall down flat. The cigar maker was on the job to help organize a label league and Bro. Manning, secretary of the Label Dept. of the A. F. of L., came to speak to the members present and under his advice the league was formed with a membership of 21 unions affiliated at the present time, with the result that every label can be had from the hat down to shoes, including collar buttons, and a label co-operative store established.

Much credit for this condition is due the league organization committee, of which one of our members is chairman.

The union workers are being bombarded day and night with labels from all sides until it is labels, labels, and then more labels.

The local has sold nine gross of union playing cards to date and expects to get a deck of cards in every home in the city where cards are played.

Billboards, sign cards and newspapers were also utilized in our blue label fight and the most effective fight is being waged during these times.

About 50 of our members are out of work, with business nothing extra at this writing.

WM. D. DAWSON,
Bus. Agt. No. 17.

New York, March 2, 1921.

The New York State Federation of Labor invites your co-operation and assistance in the campaign now under way to secure relief for the starving multitudes of Ireland.

Ireland today presents a shocking picture. After years of warfare, the industrial and agricultural life of the nation is at a standstill. The homes of many of its inhabitants have been totally destroyed; women and children are in rags and are going hungry. The number of those in immediate need of relief is placed at half a million persons. The money loss to farmers' and workmen's co-operative societies which have been destroyed is alone estimated at $200,000,000.

Not a cent of money contributed to this fund will be deducted for administration expenses. Contributions are received by Mr. John J. Pullen, Treasurer, American Committee for Relief in Ireland, Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank, 51 Chambers street, New York City.

Thanking you for your prompt consideration of this most humane appeal, I am

Yours fraternally,

(Signed) PETER J. BRADY,
Chairman, Committee on Relief for the People of Ireland, New York State Federation of Labor.

"Detroit Strike to Date."

Detroit, Mich., May 1, 1921.

Local No. 22 of Detroit, Mich., struck against a reduction of wages of $3 per M on Feb. 10, 1921, at the factory of Bernard Schwartz & Sons, makers of the R. G. Dun Cigar; 304 cigar makers were involved. The union back in Nov., 1920, was asked to take a reduction of $3 on a thousand and after this firm agreed to employ them steady for a period of one year and fill up the shop to its full capacity, the union voted to accept the proposition and worked under it until Feb. 2, 1921, when they were all laid off and given until Feb. 10 to consider a second reduction of $3. We held a meeting and voted unanimously to stand pat on our bill and on Feb. 7th decided to make application to strike and were approved by the International Feb. 19th.

The firm on Feb. 14th inserted an advertisement in the daily papers for cigar makers and we in turn began to picket the factory. Several of our girls were arrested for assault and battery and fined. The firm then filed a bill of complaint praying for an injunction to restrain us from picketing the shop, and the officers and several of the members were summoned to appear in court March 15 and show cause why the injunction should not issue, and Mr. Kennedy, Intl. Agent, and three other strikers were charged with contempt of court. The case was assigned to Judge Sheppard in the circuit court and we appeared, being represented by Mr. Jos. Beckenstein, attorney at law, and the contempt proceedings and the restraining order were dismissed for the want of jurisdiction. The firm then filed a new bill of complaint and we were again brought into court on March 29th before Judge Driscoll. Our attorney, Mr. Beckenstein, filed an answer to the bill denying most of the material allegations and filed a cross bill setting up a contract for one year and asked for an injunction to restrain the firm from breaking same and also setting up a conspiracy to injure the union and asked for an injunction to restrain such injury.

On Feb. 14th Judge Driscoll, after going over the evidence given in the case, which took from March 29th until April 12, wrote his opinion holding that altho picketing was illegal in Michigan but owing to the fact that we had a contract with the firm and they had breached same, we had a right to go to the factory and tell the people who were taking our places the facts in the case and would not issue the injunction prayed for in the firm's bill of complaint. On our cross bill he allowed us the injunction we prayed for against the firm and ruled our contract was valid; in other words, we have an injunction against the firm restraining them from hiring non-union help. The firm has retained new counsel and are contesting the decision of Judge Driscoll and have ordered him to appear in the supreme court of Michigan and show cause why the injunction we have against Schwartz should not be permanently stayed. We feel that owing to the fact that this is a big victory not only for Local No. 22 but for the entire labor movement, we are taking this opportunity of informing the cigar makers throughout the country of the facts in the case first hand.

ERNEST McCORMICK,
President and Chairman of Strike Committee.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL FINANCIER

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 5, 1921.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz.:

Union 382, Rushville, Ind.

The books and accounts here while in charge of Sec'y Gantner are in very fair condition. Stamp and cash accounts correct. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense on file. Ledger nicely indexed and posted, except that much of the time the year dates were not given. Quite likely they will be in the future. Statement as follows:

Int'l balance for Nov. 1, 1915	$ 560.14
Receipts to March 1, 1921	2,535.20
Over percentage during year 1915	30.62
Over percentage during year 1916	31.28
Over percentage during year 1918	11.98
Total	$3,169.22
Expense to March 1, 1921	2,630.56

Int'l balance should be March 1, 1921...$ 538.67

Funds of Union—

March 1, 1921, in Rush Co. Nat'l Bank	$236.95
In possession Sec'y Ed. Gautner ..	31.60
Total	$ 268.55

Deficiency of union March 1, 1921....$ 270.12

The man that was responsible for the deficiency not only embezzled the funds of this local, but he is now working as a strike breaker at Indianapolis. Never was prosecuted, but may be yet. Term in a penal institution is what he needs.

Union 399, Vincennes, Ind.

The books and accounts here are at this time in better condition than Vincennes ever had them in before. Failure to at all times comply with Sections 169 and 170 is the only possible fault. Stamp and cash accounts correct. Benefit cards and expense vouchers all on file and the ledger is nicely indexed and posted. Very nice work. Statement as follows:

Balance for April 1, 1917	$ 183.15
Receipts to Feb. 1, 1921	1,109.96
Total	$1,293.11
Expense to Feb. 1, 1921	1,029.26

Balance should be Feb. 1, 1921

Funds of Union—

Feb. 1, 1921, in Am. Nat'l Bank....	$215.35
In possession Sec'y-Treas. Henry Younghouse	49.94
Total	$ 265.29

Deficiency of union Feb. 1, 1921

Union 405, Birmingham, Ala.

At this time we have a man for Sec'y here that is capable and I believe he will make the best Sec'y Birmingham ever had.

Ex-Sec'y L. Crandon, No. 33130, embezzled $7.90, all the money he had in his possession, that belonged to the union, fixed up his card and left for parts unknown during July, 1920. When they discovered that he had left they commenced trying to locate the union's property. Much of it has not yet been located.

At this time the books and accounts are in very nice order. Cash and stamp accounts now correct. Ledger nicely posted. Showed the Sec'y how to balance his accounts in the day book at the end of each month. Statement as follows:

Int'l balance for May 1, 1919	$ 24.63
Receipts to Feb. 1, 1921	2,183.36
Total	$2,207.99
Expense to Feb. 1, 1921	1,923.13

Balance should be Feb. 1, 1921

Funds of Union—

Feb. 1, 1921, in Traders' Nat'l Bank	$322.21
In possession Sec'y-Treas. C. J. Hill	9.75
Total	$ 331.96

Deficiency of union Feb. 1, 1921

This deficiency is the amount embezzled by Ex-Sec'y L. Crandon, No. 33130.

Union 406, Crawfordville, Ind.

The books and accounts here are in very fair condition. They intend having everything right. Stamp and cash accounts correct. Ledger indexed and nicely posted. Statement as follows:

Balance for April 1, 1915	$ 72.81
Receipts to Feb. 1, 1921	1,742.35
Expended over percentage in 1914 and 1915	13.04
Due to International Union on examination	1.00
Total	$1,830.20
Expense to Feb. 1, 1921	1,680.34

Balance for Feb. 1, 1921.....$ 149.86

Funds of Union—

Feb. 1, 1921, in City National Bank.....	$96.65
In possession Sec'y R. A. Thompson ..	53.21
Total	$ 149.86

$50.00 was deposited in bank after Feb. 1.

Yours fraternally,

W. A. CAMPBELL,
International Financier.

Talk health, happiness and prosperity through the union label to every one you meet.

Talk "union label" to all of your friends so they will be convinced of its merits.

The union label teaches us to think only of the best, to work only for the best, to expect only the best.

To wear a cheerful countenance at all times and be able to give your fellow-worker a smile, be a union-label "booster."

It is one thing to "resolute" for the union label, another to demand it when making purchases. Which do you do?

The union label, shop card and working button bind men together by common opinion, common affections and common interests.

Support for the union label, shop card and working button gives all trades-unionists at least a look at the sunny side of everything.

A consistent supporter of the union label can live in the faith that the whole world is on his side so long as he is true to the best that is in him.

By continually advocating the union label you will convince your weak-kneed brother of your optimism in the future of the trades-union movement.

"Not what they are, but what they stand for" is the thought and spirit which should urge us to demand the union label, shop card and working button.

A genuine trades-unionist always thinks well of himself and proclaims this fact to the world by his support of the union label, shop card and working button.

Correction: The April issue of the Official Journal, containing the tabulated vote of local unions in the February election, for International Officers and Delegates, shows that Henry Abrahams received from Union 97, Boston, 18 votes for Delegate. The copy sent to the printer shows that he received 518 votes from that union, and 518 votes are included in the total as published in the Journal. Through some mistake of the printer in the final make-up of the Journal, the figure 5 was lost. However, it made no difference in the total vote Henry Abrahams received, which is correct as published.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140-g distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal will" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

All told, including March 19th, there were twenty-five 50c assessments levied. Each 60c, 40c and regular 30c members must have twenty-five 50c assessments up to and including March 19th, excepting those who are exempt as per paragraph two of Section 70, which reads as follows: "New initiates who have not been such for four months shall be exempt from all assessments. This shall not be so construed as to exempt reinstated members from payment of assessments."

The foregoing quoted section provides that newly initiated members are exempt from payment for the first four months. The first 50c assessments was levied Sept. 27, 1920, and was due Oct. 2nd. Any member initiated for the week commencing Sept. 27th and ending Oct. 2nd, is exempt from the payment of assessments for the first four months, and his first 50c assessment stamp would be due Jan. 29th, and such member would have to show nine 50c assessments. A member initiated on Oct. 4th would have to show eight 50c assessments, and so on. The 50-cent weekly assessment ends March 19.

UNION BUSINESS

In accordance with Sections 58, 59 and 60 of the Constitution, the following unions are hereby notified and requested to remit the following amounts for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the office of the International Union:

Union 97, Boston, proposes the following:

Amend Section 213 of the constitution by striking out all after the figure $5 on line seven, section to read as follows:

Section 213. Each local union shall have the right to propose through the columns of the Official Journal amendments to the International Constitution. Each union is required to act upon every amendment at their meeting next following the receipt of the Journal containing such amendments and report to the International President whether they endorse the proposed amendment or not. Unions failing to comply with this provision shall be fined $5 for each offense.

Amend Section 214 of the constitution by striking out the present section and insert the following:

Section 214. Any amendment to the International constitution receiving the endorsement of at least twenty unions shall be submitted to a popular vote of the members within thirty days, and if adopted shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption. A copy of the record of such vote shall be transmitted to the International President under the seal of the union, with the signatures of the President and Secretary affixed; and no amendment shall be valid unless a majority of the members voting vote in favor thereof, the result to be transmitted within thirty days from date of submitting the amendment to a vote; each amendment to be printed in pamphlet form for local unions. Where an amendment has been adopted as provided for in these laws no amendment can be proposed annulling or altering the same until after the expiration of six months.

Unions failing to comply with this section shall be fined $5.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

Amendments adopted since the latest edition of the Constitution:

Amend Section 117 by adding after the word due stamp on third line, or assessments levied, so as to read:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out of work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and assessments levied, of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of work for at least two weeks. No other change.

In effect May 1, 1921.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

John McBurney, of Norwich, Conn., would like to hear from George Clancy. Address 34 Lafayette street.

A. Babcock would like to hear from C. E. Farris, formerly of Sedalia, Mo. Address in care of Union 44, St. Louis, Mo.

W. C. Barris is requested to communicate with I. Wolgin. Important and of interest to Mr. Barris. Address in care of Union 220, New Orleans, La.

Any secretary holding the card of Theodore Schoenhover, 5425 would confer a great favor by notifying his sister, Mrs. B. Newcomb, 2111 N. 15th street, Boise, Idaho.

John P. Courtney is requested to communicate with Bart Moore. General Delivery, North Bend, Ore. Important. Mr. Courtney is also requested to write R. M. Leusch, Sandpoint, Idaho, for important news.

W. J. Whalen wants to hear from Walter Bowen.

John H. Myer would like to hear from his brother, Peter Myer, last heard from in Mobile, Mo., fifteen years ago. Address in care of 97, Boston, Mass.

UNION NOTES

The Secretary of 77 Minneapolis, Minn., would like to hear from John Ortman 108690.

Union 10, Providence, R. I., desires to hear from T. Sylvia 38508. Very important. Secretary holding his card, please communicate with above union.

T. A. Wood, fairly well-known throughout the country, claims he lost his card. He drew a loan at Quakertown, Pa., under the name of F. A. Woodsted. Any secretary knowing him, please take up any card he may present. He is about 38 years old and was last initiated at Hammond, Ind., but he is likely a Canadian.

Union 431, Litchfield, Ill., would like to hear from John Horregan 1476.

The result of the vote of local unions on the appeal of Charles Heller et al. against the decision of the International Executive Board was 4,477 in favor of the decision of the Board and 140 in favor of the appeal of Charles Heller et al. The detailed vote will appear in a future issue of the Journal.

Correction.

Union 286, Wichita, Kansas, states that the vote as cast for President was for G. W. Perkins. An examination of the report of the canvassers shows their statement is correct, and that through a typographical error the report in the April Journal shows that G. W. Perkins received no votes.—Journal.

Retraction.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 2, 1921.
In my letter of March 6 I reported that the Consolidated Factory has two Polish spies on the payroll and that Mr. Mack, the chief spy, had deserted his wife and baby and skipped the town. This story was given me by people whom I consider reliable, but as I have no positive evidence in the case, I wish to retract that part of my letter referring to Mr. Mack.

*Made to order.

A trades-unionist who always gives preference to the union label, shop card and working button is too large for worry, too noble for anger, too strong for fear and too happy to admit he ever has any trouble.

The spirit engendered in the worker by the union label produces greater efficiency in workmanship, in quality and quantity.

Industrial freedom and justice are typified in the union label.

Self-styled, progressive, alleged radicals are continually finding fault with the constructive development of the trade union movement. They continually prate about the new day and the new kind of union that is going to bring in the millennium on a legerdemain, prestochango scheme. They propose the I. W. W., the O. B. U. with its twelve departments, and a system based upon imagination largely fed upon ignorance or something worse.

These people are standing in the way of the development of the trade union movement, which is bringing about the solidarity and cohesiveness which they preach about but never practice. They preach solidarity of labor and practice disruption. We call attention to only a few attempts at disruption—The Western Federation of Miners, The Western Federation of Labor, The American Railway Unions, the I. W. W., the O. B. U., and the fifty-seven other varieties scattered in at intervals.

The constructive trade unions under the leadership of our distinguished fellow craftsman, Samuel Gompers, have from the start been in favor of solidarity and cohesion in the labor movement and have always practised what they preached. Over thirty-five years ago Samuel Gompers at a convention of the American Federation of Labor proposed that we establish departments of the American Federation of Labor, and after several years of agitation there were formed a Building Trades Department, The Union Label Trades Department, the Miners' Department, the Railroad Department, and the Metal Trades Department. The thought back of all this was that as they grew in numbers and potency the departments could meet annually and settle the technical affairs of the correlated trades, with which they are familiar, that is, the Building Trades would work out the purely Building Trades problems and so on in the Metal Trades and others, and then meet in the American Federation of Labor Convention where the time would be devoted to legislative matters and other things vitally affecting the best interests and welfare of the wage earners. It was and is moreover confidently expected that in addition to the department there will some day be a direct representative of each of these departments who will serve on the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor, which will be in session practically the year around; and that the strictly executive part of the Federation will be administered by a President, and two or three Vice-Presidents, who, acting under the authorities created by law and the guidance of the President, shall function the year around and devote their whole time to the advancement and interests of the toiling masses.

This plan was conceived in the minds and hearts of those who are now looked upon as reactionaries by the self-styled, alleged radicals, before many of the latter were born and before ninety per cent of them knew what the labor movement meant. And finally, the only reason we have not fully established the departments, the solidarity, and the cohesiveness is that the self-styled radicals, who know nothing about the philosophy of the real trade union movement, but talk a lot, have been finding fault with the real evolutionary, constructive plan, and instead of putting their shoulders to the wheel have spent their time and energy in starting new movements which have had the temporary effect of dividing instead of solidifying labor. All of these movements are one by one falling by the wayside and of their own weight and lack of brains and experience and leadership. Most of their promoters are dead or forgotten, and some have skipped out of the country with their pockets lined with gold, which they fleeced from their unsophisticated followers.

Private detective agencies exist for the purpose of disrupting the trade union movement, and most of these radical movements are unwittingly, unknowingly, or otherwise helping them on. A representative of an Employers' Association, which has always fought the union, before the Lockwood Committee of New York testified that the association he represented had financially helped the I. W. W. He did not say why; he did not have to. Everybody knows why.

There is one sure way whereby labor can achieve the full realization of its hopes and ambitions for solidarity for the toiling masses, and that is under well-made, workable laws predicated upon experience and fitted to the experience and capabilities of the great mass of the workers. Such are the hopes and ambitions of the American Federation of Labor, and along these lines it will continue until final and successful results are achieved.

The Constitution of the United States, a most liberal instrument, gives to us, and protects by constitutional guarantee, the right to be heard by counsel. This is a fundamental principle of our inherent liberties and one which should be most jealously guarded.

Industrial Safeguard.

Few of us, after all, have any need of its wise provision, because of the fact that few have business with the courts. Our civil affairs generally are of a nature that does not necessitate the intervention of the courts. Yet none of us would willingly waive this principle of right and justice.

Much more intimate are the relations between employer and employee. All, or most all, of us at some period in life are compelled by necessity to adjust matters pertaining to our working conditions. It is thus of more importance to our general welfare that we safeguard our constant, daily relations with our employer by demanding to be heard by counsel than it is to safeguard our civic life by a measure of this kind.

To be heard by counsel in any case where the workers are in any way concerned means that they may be represented by a person or by persons chosen by themselves from their own ranks if it is so desired. In other words it means that the officials of their own organization may act in their behalf, present their cases, and protect their rights. This can be done only through organization, and if you really believe in this principle of our Constitutional Government you will apply it to your working life by becoming a part of the organization of your own particular craft or trade.

One phase of the H. C. L. that none of us can successfully escape is housing. Most Labor Cost. workers are necessarily renters. Rents are abnormally high due in part to the soaring cost of building material.

Much blame for the present prices of building is placed on the workers themselves," it being claimed that "Labor Cost" is the fly in the ointment. Let us see if the charge proves true or if it is as in many other necessities of life, due rather to excess profits and airtight combinations of capital organized for dividends.

Fifteen years ago brick making and brick handling was largely done by hand. The clay was dug from the pit by hand shovel and slip scraper. The machinery used in the mixing and moulding of the brick was of small capacity and very crude. The setting of the brick in the kilns, the firing of the kilns with cordwood, the piling of the finished product and the hauling and handling thereafter was largely dependent on hand work. Brick then sold at a profit at $4.00 per thousand.

Today we find modern machinery especially designed for the work of making and handling of brick from the pit to the building where it is finally used. The clay is dug from the pit by huge steam shovels, it is mixed by a modern machine of enormous capacity, the bricks are conveyed by machine from the mixer to a gas kiln that needs no attention beside turning a valve and from the kiln they are conveyed by machine to the stack or car. A thousand are made and handled by improved machinery in less time and at less labor cost than were a hundred a few years ago. Brick sells today at $12.00 per thousand, the price quoted being supplemented with no assurance of delivery or, to quote the dealer interrogated, "They are $12.00 today if you can get them. If the price changes you pay the raise."

An economic fact that is generally overlooked is the incompetency of manufacturers. A large portion of the press of the country have been charging the high cost of living, failure of crops, spots on the sun, and everything else to high wages and inefficiency of labor. We complain of the cost of a dozen eggs and the vendor says it is due to labor and high wages—the hens have a high wage scale. This has become a habit and many of the unthinking public have, parrot-like, repeated these silly charges. It is admitted even by the Chamber of Commerce representatives when they talk without thinking that 67 per cent of those engaged in manufacturing and in business fail. Why is it that 33 per cent of those who engage in trade and commerce and manufacturing can succeed while 67 per cent fail? The answer, and the only answer, is incompetency, in so far as those who fail are concerned.

The thing we rebel against is that these incompetents ask us to reduce wages to a point where they can continue in business and at a profit. Against this Labor protests. We decline to carry the burden of the incompetents. If through lack of brains, judgment, or business sagacity they are unable to succeed and pay decent living wages it is their own fault and they belong back in the ranks of the toilers. Remove the waste and the incompetency from manufacturers in all lines and those who remain will be able to prosper and pay living wages.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is said that "The great end of life is not knowledge but action."

Huxley says "The workshop is the only real school for handcraft."

McCloskey says "This is true because it is in the workshop that all theories are converted into facts."

We say that the trade union is the great workshop in which the hopes, the ambitions, and the desires of the workers for better wages, shorter hours, and better working and living conditions are converted into realization.

Several jurisdiction members have asked about the special strike fund assessment.

In compliance with Section 92 (a) of the Constitution a special strike fund assessment of $1.00, payable in two weekly installments of fifty cents each, by all thirty-cent and sixty-cent members, was levied to take effect March 21.

Where jurisdiction members did not know of this assessment they should be permitted to pay up now.

TRUTH WILL TRIUMPH.

While it is not "news" to some of us and only confirms the suspicions of many of us the following quotations taken from an article published in the Jewish "Forward" of May 15, 1921, will prove interesting reading for our own members as well as for those misguided cigar-workers who so readily and willingly followed the lead of the here-in-atter mentioned would be union buster into his dual organization recently launched. The "Forward" says:

"Is Jacob Billow a Spy? Did he betray the workers? Did he give them away to their enemies during the time he was supposed to be their representative? Was he serving the Bosses Association during the same time he was a paid representative of the Cigar-makers' Union?" The executive board of the Amalgamated Cigar and Tobacco Worker's Union believe that he did these things.

The "Forward" then refers to the confession of one Bailin, a paid spy in the employ of various detective agencies and to a series of articles printed in the "Forward" and the "New Republic" dealing with the labor spy and says "At that time there were rumors that Billow was one of the spies whom Bailin named in his confession. Although nowhere was his name mentioned in print the 'Forward' knew all the time that there was some truth to the rumors."

The following charges are made by the "Forward" against Billow:

"That Billow was employed by a private detective agency to spy upon the labor movement. That he furnished these agencies with written reports of all activities of the C. M. I. U. and also of the activities during the several strikes of the last few years. That he personally engineered a raid upon his own local (527) on January 3, 1920, even informing the detective agency by telephone when to make the raid in which he and the secretary were arrested. That he 'covered' various radical meetings including the Emma Goldman-Alexander Berkman meeting in Chicago and made detailed reports on same."

The "Forward" further says, "The charges against Billow are the worst that can be made against any man especially one who has played such an important part in his union and the labor movement."

As we have said before this is not news to some of us and there are others who have actively and passively followed Billow's lead in attempting to destroy the C. M. I. U. to whom exposure will come as surely as the dawn follows darkness. We know, and have known for some time, that there are labor spies within our ranks who are, for a price, hired to destroy us. We know that their activities were not, and are not, confined to Chicago. It is said they were, and are, active in Tampa, New York, Denver, Canada and to some extent in New England as well.

We know who were present in New York when Billow's "Amalgamated" was organized and we know the part that was played, although to a great extent under cover, by these "friends" of the dual movement. We know what they are doing and attempting to do. Some of them are officials of local unions and while they may not be paid spies and wreckers as Billow is accused of being they are never-the-less doing their bit to bring about disruption and are really scabbing the job of the real hired labor spy.

Billow was the demigod of his followers. He was able because of their blind faith in his leadership to pull losing strikes and to wreck local unions. He and his ilk are directly responsible for the hysteria that swept Chicago and many other places into an impossible situation during the summer of 1919 which resulted in the loss of many union shops.

Billow was not able to do the one big thing he attempted, viz., wreck the International Union. Nor will his followers and co-workers in the dual movement be able to do so. It is high time, however, that we turn a deaf ear to the propagandists and O. B. U. boosters and apply ourselves to constructive trades union theories and practices. It is also high time that we carefully select as our officials men and women who are the real friends of the workers and who have proven it rather than the chap who is continuously finding fault with the organization.

Remember this proven fact,—that every one of those so far shown up and convicted as paid spies and would be union wreckers are among those who have most bitterly denounced the International Union, its aims and achievements, its officials, Local and International.

Plaintiffs;

vs. No. 48008

Cigarmakers International Union and Cigarmakers International Union, Local No. 22, Voluntary Associations, David Kennedy, et al.

Defendants.

Judge Driscoll, April 15th, 1921.

Opinion.

Plaintiff, Bernard Schwartz, aged about 50 years, is the father of plaintiffs, Norman and Theodore Schwartz, aged 21 and 20 years, respectively. Defendants are the parent Cigarmakers Union, a voluntary association; the Detroit Local, a voluntary association; and the officers, agents and members of these organizations, a large percentage of whom are women and girls. The bill is filed to obtain an injunction against picketing and interfering with plaintiffs' business and employees. Defendants have filed an answer denying most of the material allegations in the bill, and a cross-bill, setting up a contract of employment for one year from November 17, 1920, the breach of such contract, and asking an injunction to restrain such breach; also setting up a conspiracy to injure defendants' unions, and asking an injunction to restrain such injury.

The facts, as I find them from the evidence, very briefly stated, are as follows: Plaintiff, Bernard Schwartz, is a cigarmaker by trade. Some thirty years ago he belonged to the union. For about 14 years last past, he has been engaged in the cigar manufacturing business and operating a strictly union shop at Detroit. His principal cigar was 4 $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch cigar, called the R. G. Dun. In January, 1920, his business was worth upwards of \$250,000. At that time he was selling this cigar for \$110 per thousand, and the cigarmakers were getting \$20 per thousand for making them. In the spring of 1920, the cigarmakers, after a request for a raise to \$23 per thousand, struck for the raise and obtained it, and returned to work. The strike, however, for some reason unexplained and unimportant, was not formally called off.

In November, 1920, while Bernard Schwartz was away and the sons were in full charge of the business, the sons, in a manner customary with union employers, made a demand upon the cigarmakers for a 10 per cent reduction in wages, and thereupon negotiations were begun for such reduction. While these negotiations were in progress, Bernard Schwartz returned and insisted upon a straight $3 per thousand cut. I shall not attempt to go into minute details as to what thereafter took place. It is sufficient to state that the cut was "turned down" by the employees, and that afterwards Mr. Bernard Schwartz, in order to induce them to agree to the cut promised the employees, through their committees and in a speech or statement made personally to the employees in the shop, that if they would vote in favor of the cut he would put on extra salesmen, increase the force of the cigarmakers, put out a two-for-a-quarter cigar and guarantee them steady employment without a further cut in wages for one year, and that thereupon the employees voted in favor of and accepted the cut and remained at work. Notwithstanding this undertaking the employees were laid off for about two weeks at Christmas time in 1920, and were again laid off in January, 1921, for a period of about 10 days. They were put back to work for a few days before February 1, 1921.

About February 1, 1921, Mr. Schwartz called in a committee of the employees and demanded a further reduction of $3 per thousand in the wages of the employees, telling them that they could have until February 10, 1921, in which to decide whether or not they would accept the cut. About this time, the employees, with the exception of five or six, were laid off indefinitely. The last mentioned five or six were laid off some time between the 4th and 8th of February, 1921, with the instructions that they could come back to work at any time they desired to at the reduced rate.

Under the constitution and by-laws of the union, with which Bernard Schwartz was well acquainted, it would take at least one week for the Detroit local to get permission from, or through the parent organization before they could strike. Meetings of the local were held on February 2 and February 7, 1921. At the former meeting it was voted to refuse the cut. At the meeting of the 7th, a committee was appointed to again wait upon Mr. Schwartz and, in case he would not recede from his position, to apply for leave to strike. Mr. Schwartz would not recede from his position.

The union representatives proposed arbitration, but Mr. Schwartz refused to arbitrate. The employees had left their tools in the factory when they were laid off. About February the 10th they went to the factory and took away their tools. About the same time, Mr. Schwartz inserted an advertisement in one of the Detroit papers announcing the want of help in his shop under open shop conditions, and employed the Metropolitan Detective Agency to furnish guards about his shop. There never has been a dollar's worth of damage done to the plaintiffs, or any of them injured, or even attempted or threatened to be injured by any of the strikers.

The document giving the employees authority to declare a strike is dated February 2, 1921, and was not received by the officials at Detroit until February 21, 1921.

On February 19, 1921, Plaintiff, Bernard Schwartz, filed a bill in this court, duly sworn to by him, alleging himself to be the owner of the business, setting up various threatening and illegal acts, and praying for an injunction against the defendants. A restraining order was issued in that suit. This order was set aside by Judge Shepherd on March 16, 1921, for want of jurisdiction. The suit in which it was issued was then abandoned and this co-partnership suit was commenced on March 17, 1921. The restraining order, before mentioned, was served upon a number of the defendants by certain of the guards or private detectives of the Metropolitan Detective Agency. It is undisputed that at least one of them when making such service informed certain of the defendants that the order did not amount to anything, or words to that effect. One or more of them, assuming a friendly attitude towards certain of the so-called strikers, suggested that the only way a strike could be won was through violence.

After Mr. Schwartz advertised his shop as an open shop, the ex-employees, believing they had a right to do so, began picketing about and near the shop. This was done with the knowledge and consent of the union officials, but those picketing were instructed to use no violence or bad language, and to behave themselves in every way. More will be said of the conduct of the pickets as I proceed.

The bill in the present case, after alleging the existence of a partnership between plaintiffs, and setting up the allegations common to injunction bills and strike cases, alleges various specific acts of violence, insults, intimidation and obstruction of employees and business, and prays an injunction against the unions, their officers, agents, and members. About thirteen days have been consumed on the hearing; a multitude of witnesses have been sworn; extended arguments have been heard. I have carefully observed the conduct and appearance of the witnesses on the stand, and listened to the arguments of counsel. It would be impossible in an Opinion of any reasonable limits to go in detail concerning the various issues of fact raised throughout the hearing.

It is contended by the defendants that the bill must be dismissed:

(a) Because the suit is brought in the name of a co-partnership, whereas no partnership in fact existed.

(b) Because no conspiracy has been proven on the part of the defendants.

(c) Because the plaintiffs have shown no irreparable injury or damage, and

(d) Because the plaintiffs do not come into court with clean hands.

The alleged co-partnership is claimed to have been formed in January, 1920. The circumstances under which it was formed are most unusual, to say the least. The business has always been conducted in the name of Bernard Schwartz—the stationery, the bank accounts, the Government Manufacturers' License, and all of the documents relating to the business have been kept in that name, even up to the time of the announcement of the suit. No certificate of partnership was filed until January or February, this year. The articles of co-partnership introduced in evidence are claimed to have been made for sinister purposes, but, as I view the case, it is not necessary to here decide whether or not a co-partnership, in fact and in law, existed at the time of the commencement of this suit. I shall consider the testimony with reference to the co-partnership only in so far as it bears upon the credibility of the plaintiffs and the accountant, Mr. Brandenburg.

Has a conspiracy been established by plaintiff? I regret that lack of time and space prevents as full a discussion of this proposition as I should like to give. There is, as before stated, no proof of injury or threatened injury to the persons or property of the plaintiffs. There is no proof of agreement or combination between any of the defendants to do an unlawful act, or to do a lawful act in an unlawful manner. The only proofs of violence shown are a few personal encounters between female employees and ex-employees of plaintiff, and an assault by a male guard or detective of plaintiff upon one of the female ex-employees. It is not at all clear who were to blame or who were the aggressors in the former, and the guard was clearly to blame for and the aggressor in the latter. The encounters between the females were apparently unpremeditated and not part of a preconcocted scheme or plan of any kind. Most of them, apparently, had their origin in personal dislikes or differences.

While it is true that some of the lock-out employees used such epithets as "scab" and "strikebreaker," it is equally true that some of the present employees made insulting remarks and gestures toward the locked-out female employees, criticizing their wearing apparel, and did other things to incite retaliation.

The only thing upon which the plaintiffs could predicate a charge of conspiracy against the defendants would be upon the proposition that they did picketing around the shop of plaintiffs. There is no doubt that under our decisions, picketing of every sort is unlawful in those cases where there is not at the time a legal existing contract of employment between the employer and employees, or where the employees are striking in breach of a contract of employment; but where, as here (as is elsewhere more fully shown), the master breaches a contract of employment and locks out his employees against their rights, it may well be doubted whether or not the right in the employees does not exist to, without threats, violence, intimidation, insults or badgering of any kind, peaceably bring to the attention of others the fact that by entering into the employ of the employer and taking their places such others are assisting the employer in doing and perpetrating a wrong against such locked-out employees. This particular point has not, so far as I can learn, been yet decided by our Supreme court and I deem it unnecessary to decide it here as the plaintiffs' case must fail for other reasons elsewhere herein mentioned and referred to. And in any event, the benefits to be derived by the locked-out employees by peaceful picketing are so trivial that few, when fully aware of the limitations to the right to picket, would indulge in the practice.

Trumped-up charges are easily concocted against persons thus engaged and those who engage in the practice (no matter how much they may endeavor to guard against it) always run a serious risk of not only forfeiting their liberty, but immeasurably injuring the cause they espouse by indulging in it. The locked-out employees here involved, if those who appeared in court may be considered fair examples, are not men and women of the kind that would run such risks. They do not appear to be persons desirous of breaching the law or risking their liberties for trivial benefits, but, on the whole, impress me as men and women respectful of the law and desirous of obeying it. I do not, therefore, share in the opinion expressed by learned counsel for plaintiffs that an injunction is necessary to restrain them from lawbreaking or disorder.

The claim that no irreparable injury or damage has been proven also finds considerable support in the testimony, and by lack of testimony, in the case. The defendant associations can be proceeded against for any unlawful or wrongful conduct of which they might be guilty (Baldwin vs. Liquor Dealers' Association, 165 Mich., 98). There is no proof that these associations are financially irresponsible. On the contrary, there is proof that they have considerable money in their treasuries. There is no proof that the officers of the association are not men of means or are financially irresponsible. There is no proof that the plaintiffs will suffer irreparable damage in consequence of any of the defendants keeping workmen away from his or their shop. There is no reliable proof that plaintiffs have lost a dollar by inability to fill orders or otherwise, than in the employment of guards and the hiring of taxi-cabs for their workmen. On the contrary, it appears that in October and November, plaintiffs claim they had too much stock on hand and had to put on extra salesmen to get rid of it; that about Christmas time, and again in January, and again not less than ten days before the guards were hired, they laid off their workmen because they had too much stock; and there is no satisfactory proof that if the defendants are liable to the plaintiffs for any damage, such damage may not be recovered in an action at law.

Whether my conclusions are correct or not with respect to the foregoing matters, I have no doubt on the proposition that the plaintiffs did not come into court with clean hands. Bernard Schwartz was formerly a member of the union. He is well acquainted with its constitution and by-laws. He ran a strictly union shop for fourteen years. He dealt with the union through its committees instead of dealing individually with his employees. He admitted on the stand that officers and agents of the union are gentlemen, and have always conducted themselves as such. During his absence during November, 1920, his sons, who were in charge of the business, asked a 10 per cent cut of the cigarmakers. The cigarmakers, as is natural, were unwilling to grant this, but were willing to negotiate. They were willing to listen to reason. While the negotiations were pending, he appeared upon the scene and demanded a straight $3 cut. It is but natural that this would be a surprising and unwelcome demand to the employees after the sons had demanded but a 10 per cent cut. By his arguments and promises and undertakings to the officers and members of the union he secured what he desired, to wit: a $3 cut. Counsel say this did not amount to a contract because there was no acceptance, and because the contract was not mutual. I disagree with counsel in this respect. Mr. Schwartz, in effect, said to the employees: Vote for a $3 cut and I will guarantee you steady employment without a further cut for one year. The employees accepted it by doing his bidding and calling off the strike which had not heretofore been called off, and which they might have used to combat his demand. They accepted the cut and went to work for a lesser wage than the previous scale; there was a sufficient consideration for his promises and undertakings.

It was not necessary under the circumstances, that they should bind themselves to work for him for a year without a further cut; neither was it necessary that the other union cigar manufacturers should bind themselves to employ their employees for the remainder of the year without a further cut. There existed a legal and solemn contract. The employees, as some of them stated, believed that they were "set" for a year, at least. The contract was as valid and binding upon Mr. Schwartz as if written upon the finest of parchment. However, contrary to his contract, Mr. Schwartz in December and in January laid off the employees. Again on February 2, about the time when, to their surprise, he demanded a further cut of $3 per thousand, he again laid them off indefinitely. He knew the circuitous procedure necessary to procure the right to strike, yet the time which he had given them to consider the matter coupled with his announcement that he was determined to have the reduction, had scarcely expired when he advertised an open shop and employed a detective agency to guard his premises.

Guard against what? Against the union officials whom he admitted on the stand to be gentlemen and to have always conducted themselves as such?

Guard against young girls and married women, respectable and respected citizens of the city of Detroit?

It must be remembered that up to this time there was not even a threat made, or claimed to have been made, against him, his property or his employees.

He did not want arbitration; he evidently desired an open shop in violation of his contract of employment.

He can make no capital of the fact that the employees took away their tools—most of them did not do this until it must have become very apparent to them that he intended to run an open shop and fill their places. Their obligation to the union, and their contract with their fellow unionists prohibited them from working therein under such circumstances. They could not be expected to leave their tools for others to use, or perhaps carry away. They did not walk out; they were, in fact, locked out.

One cannot carefully consider the testimony of this case without coming to the conclusion that there was a studied design on the part of those in management of plaintiffs' business to bring about a situation which would enable the plaintiffs to get the strong arm of the court to assist them in transforming their strictly union shop to an open shop.

Courts of equity abhor lawlessness, but it is not their duty, or within their province, to step in wherever a strike occurs and help one side or the other. They will assist the employer without hesitation in any case where the circumstances demand or justify it, but they will not give aid to those who come in and ask their aid with hands unclean. He who seeks equity must do equity. The conduct of the plaintiffs herein is not consistent with a willingness or a desire to do equity. Their testimony on the stand, I regret very much to say, was not of such a character, or given in such a manner, as to impress a trier of facts. It lacked that frankness and candor which inspires confidence and belief, and was woefully in contrast to the open and frank testimony of the members of the union who testified as to the transactions herein involved. For the reasons hereinbefore stated, and many others which might be added did space permit, the bill of complaint must be dismissed.

This brings us to the defendants' cross-bill. While there is some evidence tending to show that there was an attempt on the part of the plaintiff to entice certain members of the union away from the union, evidence of irreparable injury or damages is wanting, and I do not think that the defendants are entitled to the injunction they pray to restrain plaintiffs from enticing away the union members or breaking up the union.

But as to the injunction to restrain the breaching of the contract, I think it is different. In Harris vs. Union (144 Mich., 122) it is said:

"Members of a voluntary or mutual benefit society may enter into a binding agreement that the rights of its members shall be determined by the society itself."

See also Jacobs vs. Cohen (183 N. Y., 207; 76 N. E. 5; 2 L. R. A. [N. S.] 292). The promises and undertakings of the plaintiff, Bernard Schwartz, were not only to the committee of Local No. 22, but personally to all of its members then in his employ. There can be no doubt, I think, that the promises and undertakings inured to the benefit of all of the members to whom he spoke in the shop, and and it is but logical and reasonable to also conclude and hold that it inured to the benefit of all of the members of the local. They might, of course, as between themselves be entitled to preferences as to the positions, but the promises and undertakings were not to furnish employment to those in his employ but also to put on extra salesmen and fill up the shop and keep them employed for a period of one year. The committee represented all of the members of Local No. 22. By virtue of the reduction asked by Mr. Schwartz, every member of Local No. 22 was affected. Each of them had a vote on the question of a reduction. Each of them by virtue of the reduction, no matter where they were working, afterwards worked for $3 per thousand less than they had previously worked. A consideration for his promises and undertakings therefore passed to plaintiff, Bernard Schwartz, from each and every member of Local No. 22. The contention that there was no acceptance, and that the contract was not mutual, cannot therefore be sustained. The contract is executed on the part of the members of the union. It was contemplated that the extra places which he promised to make by putting on extra salesmen and increasing his sales, should be filled by members of Local No. 22. It was not contemplated that any but members of the union would work in the shop. It is undisputed that it was a strictly union shop. It must have also been contemplated that some members would prove inefficient, and others would during the course of the year quit their employment. Many of the employees were young girls who might at any time get married and cease working. Others were married young women who might otherwise become incapacitated for work. And others might cease for various reasons to be members of the union and, therefore, be disqualified to work. It cannot, therefore, be successfully urged that because between November 17, 1920, and the time of the lock-out, some employees quit and others were discharged, such a change occurred as would vitiate the contract. It therefore seems reasonable, logical and just to hold, and I do hold, that the plaintiffs under the contract are legally and equitably bound to furnish employment to all those who were in their employ on February 2, 1921, and who are still members of the union, and qualified to hold positions in union shops under its constitution and by-laws, and to such an additional number of the members in good standing of the union as will fill up the shop to its ordinary capacity as such capacity existed on November 17, 1920. It is a well established rule that when equity takes cognizance of a cause for any purpose, it will retain jurisdiction to settle the entire controversy. If the employees here are relegated to their actions at law, it will result in a great multiplicity of suits. As their work is piece-work, considerable difficulty would be encountered in ascertaining and estimating the damages. It has been held unlawful for employees to strike in breach of a contract of employment (12 Corpus Juris, 572); it must, therefore, be held unlawful for an employer to lock out his employees in breach of a contract of employment. The employees are as much entitled to the benefits of the law as are the employers. Plaintiffs invoked the aid of this court in this case on the ground, among others, that if they were compelled to resort to actions at law it would result in a multiplicity of suits. The same right must therefore be open to the defendants, who are brought into court by the plaintiffs.

The claim that an injunction cannot issue to restrain such a breach of contract as this cannot be sustained. No case has been cited, and I find none, where the right has been denied. The authorities relied on by plaintiffs' counsel are not based on such a state of facts as this. They are based upon old cases where the facts were entirely different. Equity jurisprudence is a progressive science. Its principles expand and develop with the expansion and development of civilization. It broadens out to meet the exigencies of the times. The cases relied on by plaintiff were decided long before the present stage of development of business enterprises and labor organizations—when, unlike the present day, almost every employer was personally acquainted with every one of his employees. Here the employer employed over 300 employees. He does not work with them. He seldom sees them. He knows but few of them by sight. The great majority he does not know at all. Even his foreman knew few of them by name or by sight. They went and he knew them by number only. There is no complaint or ground for complaint as to the skill, ability, faithfulness or efficiency of any of the locked-out employees. Their services have apparently been satisfactory at all times. There is no likelihood that they will be otherwise if they are restored to their positions. There are no personal differences or particular dislikes between plaintiff and the locked-out employees, or the officers or agents of the union. This was apparent throughout the lengthy hearing. The only difference was the difference as to the wage scale. Furthermore (unlike those seeking an injunction in the cases relied upon by plaintiff), here the defendants did not voluntarily come into court seeking relief, but were brought in (wrongfully) by the person against whom they now seek the relief. They are piece-workers. The amount they will earn is dependent upon the amount of work they do. They were hired (and all plaintiffs' employees for fourteen years last past were hired) with reference to the rules and by-laws of the union. Such rules and by-laws must be considered as part of the contract of employment. These rules undoubtedly give the employer the right to discharge employees for inefficiency and other good cause but deny him the right to discharge them merely because of some purely personal dislike, or without good cause. The reasons given for refusal of injunction in the cases relied on by plaintiff do not exist here. It is desirable and to the best interest of all of the parties here concerned that this controversy be speedily settled. A business depression of which we may take judicial notice now exists. Employment for these locked-out employees is now hard to procure. The locked-out employees are entitled to the benefit of the contract of employment. If the lock-out continues the plaintiff will have to pay them for the loss they sustain as well as to pay those now taking their places for work which they, the locked-out employees, might be doing. Plaintiff will not be financially harmed by the issuance of the injunction sought by defendants. He will be more likely to be financially benefited thereby. Our Supreme Court has, by injunction, preserved to a citizen his legal right to hunt (Hanisch vs. Hunting Club, 153 M., 185). I can therefore see no good reason why the rights of our citizens to work and earn their livelihood should not likewise be protected, especially where, as here, they have no other full, adequate and complete remedy.

A decree will be entered granting that part of the prayer of the cross-bill praying an injunction to restrain the plaintiffs from breaching the contract of employment. As there are a number of minor points which I have not covered herein, the details of the decree will be settled when the decree is presented for settlement. Defendants will recover their full costs. STATE OF MICHIGAN, IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF WAYNE, IN CHANCERY.

Bernard Schwartz, et al., Plaintiffs, vs. Cigar Makers' International Union, et al., Defendants.

No. 84008. At a session of the Circuit Court for the County of Wayne, in Chancery, held at the court room thereof in the City of Detroit, on this 16th day of April, 1921.

PRESENT: Hon. George O. Driscoll, Circuit Judge.

DECREE.

This cause having come on to be heard in open court upon the pleadings and proofs taken thereon; and argument of counsel for the respective parties having been had; and the cause having been duly considered, the court finds:

1. That the material allegations contained in the plaintiffs' bill of complaint have not been proved.

2. That on the 17th day of November, 1920, a contract was entered into by the plaintiffs with the defendant, Cigar Makers International Union, Local No. 22, and with the members thereof, and with such of the members thereof as were in the employ of the plaintiffs on said date, by which contract, plaintiffs, for a valid consideration, agreed to provide steady work for one year from and after the 17th day of November, 1920, to such members of the said
Cigar Makers International Union, Local No.
22, who were upon said date in the employ of the plaintiffs; and to keep employed from the membership of the said Cigar Makers International Union, Local No. 22, such additional number of employees as would keep the plant of the plaintiffs filled to its ordinary capacity as such capacity existed on the 17th day of November, 1920; that said contract embodied the scale of wages, prices and conditions of a certain "Bill of Prices" of the Cigar Makers International Union, Local No. 22, which bill of prices is hereto attached and made a part hereof; and that under the terms of said contract, plaintiffs obligated themselves to make weekly payments to their employees of the compensation provided thereunder.

3. That on the 2nd day of February, 1921, plaintiffs breached their said contract, and locked out of their plant members of the Cigar Makers International Union, Local No.
22; and refused to thereafter employ their said employees; and refused to carry out any of the terms of their said contract; and that such breach and violation of their contract by the plaintiffs has continued from said date up to and including the trial of this cause.

4. The plaintiffs have not come into this court with clean hands.

5. That the violation by plaintiffs of their contract as hereinbefore referred to, and the various acts of unconscionable conduct and unfair practices on the part of the plaintiffs and their associates, are such as to create a condition which does and will continue to work such injury upon the defendants in this cause, upon the members of the Cigar Makers International Union, Local No. 22, and upon such members of the Cigar Makers International Union, Local No. 22, as were in the employ of the plaintiffs on the 2nd day of February, 1921, as will be irreparable, and will leave them without an adequate remedy at law.

6. That the said plaintiffs have combined, conspired, and confederated among themselves and with their agents, servants, associates and confederates to violate their contract as aforesaid, and to continue the perpetration of the illegal and unconscionable acts hereinbefore referred to.

IT IS THEREFORE ORDERED, ADJUDGED AND DECREED:

FIRST: That the plaintiffs' bill of complaint be, and the same is hereby dismissed.

SECOND: That the plaintiffs and each of them, and their agents, servants, associates and confederates be and hereby are permanently restrained and enjoined from conspiring among themselves and with each other to breach the said contract; from conspiring to continue in the breach of said contract; from doing any act or thing in pursuance of said conspiracy; and from, in any manner, directly or indirectly, procuring said acts to be done.

THIRD: From in any manner violating the terms of said contract.

FOURTH: From committing, individually, or in combination, any act intended to work a breach of said contract or to effect a continuation of the breach of said contract.

FIFTH: From continuing in their employ persons who are not members in good standing of Cigar Makers International Union, Local
No. 22; from hiring persons other than members in good standing of Cigar Makers International Union, No. 22, to work for plaintiffs in the place and stead of the members of the Cigar Makers International Union, Local No. 22, who were discharged by plaintiffs in violation of said contract, until after the 17th day of November, 1921; and from hiring any persons other than members of the Cigar Makers International Union, Local No. 22, to work for plaintiffs in their plant, until after the 17th day of November, 1921.

SIXTH: Defendants shall recover their full costs of said cause to be taxed by the clerk of this court, for which defendants shall have execution.

GEO. O. DRISCOLL,
Circuit Judge.

CORRESPONDENCE

Bangor, Me.

Enclosed find our amendment to Section 92 of the International Constitution by adding Section 92C.

Our reasons for offering this are as follows:
The International Union has never in its history (outside of strike benefits and limited committee expenses) financially supported a strike from its treasury, but has always depended on contributions from local unions and general bargaining committees. We take this definite position in Union 179, that if the International Union is to have strikes it must provide some means to support these strikes or admit it is a failure, for it is a well-known fact that less than fifty unions are responsible for the success of our past strikes. Local unions that have contributed unconditionally year in and year out are sick of the game of being bled while the International receives the credit for winning the strike. And the great majority of local unions not contributing for the support of the strike, shows that this way of doing business is an imposition, and unless changed all strikes in the future will be a failure. So let us change our foolish policy and get down to a method of equity and definite support by having the International pay all necessary financial requirements of conducting strikes.
Let us use one illustration of what this foolish policy has cost us: Less than forty local unions contributed continuously every week in support of the Tampa strike. Four hundred unions gave practically nothing, and for a matter of $5 000 per week they were starved into submission and lost their strike. If this is not sufficient reason to convince the membership of the need of a change in the policy of conducting and financing strikes then we want to state very plainly that the future is very dark for the success of strikes along old lines, for most of the local unions that have been the heaviest voluntary contributors in the past will not give one cent voluntarily in the future. Ten per cent refuse to be good things any longer for the 90 per cent slackers.

And so, in the name of democracy and equity, we ask the support of our amendment so that all members of the International Union will bear the burden alike.

Yours fraternally,

E. J. MENARD,
Union 179.

Tampa, Fla.

Mr. G. W. Perkins,

Int. Pres., Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:—In our balance of the last strike, we have to make the following explanations:

First. On the first page of Expenditures, dated May 31st, Union No. 474 appears with two amounts, one for $3,375.00 and another of $665.00. Instead, it should read $655.00 only. This does not alter in any manner the total.

Second. In the receipts, Union No. 474 appears with different amounts, that they received from different parts, and that are mentioned in the balance, the above local is the Pickers' and Packers' Union.

Fraternally yours,

DONATO MARTINEZ, Treasurer.

London, Ont., June, 1921.

Fellow Cigarmakers:

We are submitting in this month's issue of the Journal an amendment that has been approved by the London, Hamilton and Toronto Locals and also by the Joint Advisory Board of Canada, and we urge you to give this matter your most earnest consideration, and send in your endorsement for our amendment.

Now, Cigarmakers, don't file this and let it go at that; vote on it either one way or another—BUT VOTE. The Cigarmakers' Union in Canada is in a thousand times worse position today than it ever was. The cigar manufacturers have a strangle hold on us and we have GOT TO ASK YOU TO HELP US. You can keep us from being put out altogether. We have been fighting hard for the past many years. It has always been a hard struggle here but the past year it has been the worst we ever had.

The following brief history of what has been happening to our locals in Eastern Canada during the last three years will explain the urgent necessity for the adoption of our amendment.

In June, 1913, the Andrew Wilson Co. of Toronto and Montreal locked out 150 of our members in Toronto, and the same number in Montreal. In the following month of the same year Hamilton Union went on strike for an increase in their Bill of Prices. The Tuckett Cigar Co., with branch shops in London and Montreal, employing a total of 425 members and two other large factories in Hamilton with an additional 125 members were affected by the Hamilton strike. Only one factory in Hamilton employing about 60 members has made a settlement in this strike so far.

The Wilson lockout in Toronto and Montreal, and the Hamilton strike (including the Tuckett branch shops in London and Montreal) and representing a grand total of 765 members, are still unsettled and thus our largest label shops in Canada have been unfair to us for the last three years. These above mentioned factories have been running (what they prefer to call open shops) but you know what we call them.

Now we had only one city left that had any union shops left of any account and that was London; and we were doing our best to hold them but the cigar manufacturers of London seeing that the cigar manufacturers of Toronto and Hamilton seemed to be making out all right without the union, came to the conclusion that they would try the same thing, so in January of this year every factory in the City of London fired every cigarmaker off the job, and that is the position we have been in ever since. The cigar manufacturers of London did offer to make a settlement if the union would accept a reduction of FROM SIX TO NINE DOLLARS PER THOUSAND. The local naturally refusing this offer, the bosses here also declared open shop. We did cut our bill to some extent and a couple of buckeyes resumed work. London has now been on strike for over five months.

Because of this recent upheaval in London and the unsuccessful strike in Hamilton in 1918, and the Wilson lockout in Toronto and Montreal during the same year, our organizations in the four cities mentioned have received a very severe shaking up. Members employed in label shops at the present time are: London, 25; Hamilton, 60, and Toronto, 20, a total of 105, and we used to have about 1,500 not over seven or eight years ago. Just think of it, brothers—do we need your assistance? We are sure you will give it to us, too.

Montreal has always had the open shop system more or less but is in a far worse position today since the loss of the Wilson and Tuckett branch shops. If we are to retain our locals in Eastern Canada or make any headway to regain our lost ground it is absolutely necessary to secure the adoption of our amendment which provides for the expense of carrying on a vigorous campaign over all Canada by having the Int. President appoint and control several men that are wholly capable of doing the work that it requires to put our Locals back where they were some years ago. Our members in Ontario and Quebec will use every effort to unite and help these men who may be appointed to do this work.

Brothers, we've got a big job on our hands and we will do our best but Canada is such a large country and our own efforts financially are not sufficient for the job. Come on, boys, help us put this over. If we are successful against the open shop it may help you some. Now everybody vote in FAVOR OF THIS AMENDMENT. WE KNOW THAT YOU ARE WITH US.

E. J. VINCENT, Secretary.

I have been requested to have the following inserted in the next issue of the JOURNAL:

Philadelphia, Pa., May 14, 1921.

To the Officers and Members of the C. M. I. U. of A.:

This is to inform you that GEO. H. ULLRICH, ex-secretary of Union No. 165, of Philadelphia, Pa., has squared his accounts with the Int. Union and asks that the same be published in the Journal as openly as Financier W. A. Campbell had it published a few years ago; and that the said Geo. H. Ullrich is a member in good standing, and entitled to all the rights, benefits and privileges of the Int. Union, as per Constitution. GIBSON WEBER, Chairman Finance Committee No. 165.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

Philadelphia, May 4, 1921.

The conditions of trade in the cigar industry throughout the greater portion of the East remains quiet; there being a slight perceptible change in some localities which indicate improvement and give promise of exhilaration and a revival of business in the not far distant future. Several of the New England towns are among the list; while they have not reached the normal output enjoyed by the manufacturers previous to the time when the depression set in; nor are they employing as many hands at the bench as formerly, but the stagnation shows evidence of lifting under the pressure of spring demand for goods, and the forward advance of trade gives hopeful signs.

Union 49, Springfield, is presenting a good front in the industry, and business has held up in that locality to considerably above the average degree computed by the state of times. Though there are several of the members out of work there, yet the depression has not been as marked as it has been in many other cities. Manufacturers are turning out a high class of goods which meet with public favor and satisfy the consumer; and they are kept in conspicuous evidence with all dealers in the town. It has been one of the pronounced home industry sections, and union label cigars have held the preference heretofore, but recently some brands of the notorious scab goods have begun to make inroads and it will require persistent and diligent work to fight them out of the market.

Westfield, in relation to trade, has not fared so well as her neighboring city. Business has been unusually dull there for the past few months. One of the principle factories had suspended operations temporarily pending a revival of trade conditions; it has lately resumed work and the situation in general now presents a more hopeful aspect for manufacturers and workmen. Members of the union there have had to combat the product of two non-union shops employing girls on suction machine-made cigars that have been established for several months, and recently another one has joined the colony of cheap production. Our members are striving for organization of the girl workers there and feel hopeful that the future will bring results.

Holyoke has been affected by the dullness of trade and business is still quiet. A stint prevails in some of the shops, but conditions are improving and prospects seem better than they have since the slump set in. Members of the union are on the job agitating for the union label and home product cigars.

Suffield was badly hit by the depression and the loss of business has caused the principle shop to lay off all hands except the foreman. There has been but little production compared with former output in that town for several months.

Hartford is maintaining a fairly good trade; business is not brisk, but steady and encouraging. A few on the out of work list, but the complexion of things looks more healthy for re-employment and renewed business. "Label goods" are to the forefront in that city; home cigars stand on merit. Manufacturers realize the value of quality—and so have retained their trade and the reputation of the union label.

New Haven has been sorely tried since the first of the year from the low ebb of industrial depression, but she is successfully weathering the burden and now bids fair to enjoy better conditions in the trade. Slight improvements are noted; a few more hands have been recently put to work reducing the unemployed list, and showing a tendency toward the animated pulse of business. "The Home of the Broad Leaf Cigar," containing Havana filler and bearing the Union Label, Connecticut folks "swear by it and stick by it" they say, "It was good enough for father, and it's good enough for me."

A survey of New York and the story told in brief: Dull, very dull. And the same thing applies to Philadelphia where organization exists in the trade and the Label is demanded we have not fared so badly. Organize, agitate, and demand the Union Label.

Fraternally,

R. S. SEXTON,
General Organizer.

Pottsville, Pa., May 1, 1921.

Since my last report from Williamsport, Pa., on April 3 I submit my activities as organizer and label agitator from April 3 to April 30. April 3, conferring with electrical workers, carpenters, railway trainmen and painters participating in a general discussion on labels, organization of Central Labor Unions and the labor movement in general, which is needed very much in Williamsport.

April 4, spoke at the meetings of painters and carpenters, requesting their moral support in behalf of the Cigarmakers' Local 145 and showing how essential it was to the movement to organize a Central Labor Union to combat the open shop campaign launched by the United States Chamber of Commerce.

On April 5 I visited the meeting of the millmen carpenters; spoke on labels and their evolution and history, asking their support in behalf our Union Blue Label.

April 6 I addressed the electrical workers, plumbers and maintenance of way employees in their respective meetings, to all of which I was cordially received, taking up the subjects of benefits achieved in shorter hours, more pay, better conditions and labor legislation, municipally as well as nationally, and requesting their support by using their purchasing power on demanding only union labelled product.

April 7 spoke to the employees of the railroad shops in their meeting on label agitation and especially in behalf of the Cigarmakers' Union Label.

April 8 I returned to Lancaster, Pa., and began mailing circulars to the tobacco workers setting forth the benefits derived by being affiliated with the Cigarmakers' International Union and appealing to them to co-operate in their own behalf in order that they be taken from the list of underpaid workers.

April 9. No meetings.

April 10. The Organization Committee of Union 257 conferred with me in reference to visiting all local trades unions in behalf of the Cigarmakers, Strippers, Casers, Banders, Packers, Labelers and Pasters, which was agreed to.

April 11. Attended meeting of our own union, after which the Organization Committee met and decided to put the matter of organizing the tobacco workers in the hands of Secretary J. S. Glick, M. G. Evans and myself.

April 12. Attended the meeting of the C. L. U. with our delegates and put the matter of the tobacco workers squarely before that body, with the result that the representatives promised to report back to their respective unions.

April 13. On this date I called upon some of these Strippers at their homes, employed at one of the largest corporation stripping plants in this city, and found out that they were compelled to accept reductions (through unorganized condition) that reduced their earning capacity from $20 and $22 to $10 and $12 per week.

April 14. Attended the meeting of the Plasters' Union and acquainted them with the conditions of these workers and the drive we hope to make in their behalf. I also called upon the railway clerks on the same subject.

April 15. Visited the meetings of molders and carpenters requesting their support in getting the tobacco workers organized.

April 16. Called at the office of our Local and learned that one of the largest open shops closed indefinitely, putting six of our members out of work, due, they say, for lack of orders.

April 17. Sundav. No meeting.

April 18. Beside attending a meeting of our own Local, I addressed a meeting of the plumbers, who are resisting a reduction. I gave them encouragement and appealed to them in behalf of the tobacco workers in our organization campaign.

April 19. With a full delegation of Cigar-makers' delegates I attended the meeting of the C. L. U. and assisted in keeping the organization campaign popular before that body. Also appealing to the delegates to make Labor Memorial Sunday the fourth Sunday in May a memorial one.

April 20. By request of the C. L. U. I met with Secretary J. P. Hahn to draft a communication inviting President Mathew Woll of the Photo-Engravers to deliver an address at the next public mass meeting to be held under the auspices of the Lancaster Central Labor Union in the near future.

April 21. Visited meetings of the bricklayers and metal polishers in behalf of our organization campaign.

April 22. Addressed envelopes for notices to be mailed to the strippers and all tobacco workers of a meeting to be held on April 25.

April 23. No meetings.

April 25. Attended meeting of Local 257 previous to the called meeting of the Strippers, Casers and Banders.

The called meeting of the Strippers, Casers and Banders proved to be a failure, which was not a surprise to the committee on our first attempt, although an individual notice of the meeting was sent out by mail by myself with no return notices. Consequently these notices were received by those to whom they were sent, demonstrating again in the estimation of the committee that these poor souls are afraid of their jobs. And to further demonstrate this fact, the day following the employers made an announcement of another reduction to the Strippers, which was again accepted; but, however, one of the plant's employees threaten to protest any further reductions. This, of course, stimulates the Organization Committee to a determination to increase their efforts, and there will be no question about the results if the committee continues in the future as they have in the immediate past.

April 26. Attended meeting of C. L. U. with delegates of Local 257, which was a largely attended assembly due to the fact that the mass meeting contemplated by the body is in the making which organized labor is looking forward to stimulate a general organization campaign for all concerned.

April 27. Met with the Organization Committee of Local 257 and Secretary of C. L. U. to devise ways to interest further the rank and file in behalf of our campaign of organization.

April 28. Again attended meeting of railway clerks and freight handlers and directed my remarks exclusively on the tobacco workers and label agitation.

April 29. Learning there may be an opportunity to organize a shop under the jurisdiction of Union 104, Pottsville, I proceeded to this city as it was their regular meeting night. I attended same; made arrangements to meet one of the members who is working in said shop on April 30.

April 30. Remained at my hotel to meet by appointment. The member neglected to turn up, but made another arrangement for May 1 with the same party. Continued in my next report.

Yours fraternally,
J. P. KEENEN,
Organizer.

Detroit, May 8, 1921.

The strike is still on here and Union 22 has had a severe fight on its hands. While it was successful in preventing Bernard Schwartzs of the R. G. Dunn factory in getting an injunction and did by filing a cross bill get an injunction against this firm from running a non-union shop, holding it had a contract with Union 22 on prices to be paid and time of employment, still it has not been able to place its members back to work. While the findings of Judge Driscoll were in accordance with the evidence and established the fact that a promise was made amounting to a contract for one year, still this firm, B. Schwartz & Sons, will not abide by the decision of the Circuit Court judge and has appealed the case to the Supreme Court, asking for a permanent stay. This will take several weeks to get a decision, and when obtained will not decide the question of contract in Judge Driscoll's decision.

I have worked under the instructions of the officers and Strike Committee to try and bring about an understanding and a settlement with some of the manufacturers here who discontinued running a union shop last year. While the Committee of Union 22 was willing to meet with those manufacturers the employers would not consent to meet the Committee and it looks like they will continue to operate their shops under non-union conditions.

Some members are organizing a co-operative shop and will hold a meeting in the near future to decide upon what basis the enterprise will be started.

In the meantime other members are anxious to either get information on the Supreme Court's decision or make provisions for them to enter some of the shops to work. The Union will have to deal with this question and I believe it will at a special meeting to be held in the near future.

Fraternally yours,
WM. A. McCABE, Organizer.

Kitchener, June 5.

My report this month is from May 15, as I was off duty from April 28 on account of sickness. During the week of May 16 to 22 I worked in Kingston. Addressed meetings of Painters, Plumbers, Boilermakers and also the Central Body, taking advantage of every opportunity to give publicity to the situation in London, where members are compelled to walk the streets or submit to the open shop at starvation wages. Also met the cigarmakers in an effort to have them attend an organization meeting, but without result. Their reason was that they had been out of work for the last six weeks and could not afford it. Yet they seemed satisfied to take union men's places at half the price. They also said "they were out for themselves; to h—l with the other fellow."

There are two factories here, one closed; the other very busy, which advertises for cigarmakers and learners. On investigating this I found the reason—this factory has about twenty-five girls employed on suction tables and five men on mould work. They have a contract with a western factory to make cigars. This western firm has a union factory in Stettler and Vancouver.

I have made a report on this matter and no doubt Union 357 of Vancouver will take action. Prices paid in Kingston, $7.50, $11 and $12 per M. I understand that the manager, Mr. Cordeur, is sending two girls to Vancouver to teach learners on suction table.

From May 23 to 24 I was in Preston attending the convention of the Labor Educational Associations. Resolutions endorsing our label, also one supporting Union 278 in present fight against the open shop were adopted. Feature of the convention was a union label contest, the first five prizes being boxes of union-made cigars.

In an effort to create a demand for the various union labels a campaign will be started to organize label leagues and label committees in all parts of Ontario. There were 130 delegates in attendance, from all parts of the province.

May 25 to 29 I was present in Brantford doing label agitation, visiting cigar stores and union meetings. Found a considerable number of London-made cigars sold here bearing the union label. I explained to the dealers that they were no longer entitled to the use of our label, but as they were dated December, 1920, they were allowed to use them. Non-union factory here is closed.

May 30 to June 5 in Kitchener. Cigar business here, as elsewhere, is very dull, nearly all members working away from the trade. Devoted my time to label agitation. The governmental high taxes and revenues are the cause of the small shops going out of business, as the government receives an average of about $17 per M.

In visiting cigar stores in various cities I have received little consideration for the label, as they are out to push the cheapest cigars they can buy, and it is up to us to create a demand for label goods if we wish to continue with union factories.

The situation in Canada is very serious insofar as the cigar industry is concerned because of the large number of unemployed and the general depression in business. All cigar manufacturers are substituting moulds to take the place of hand work and seem determined to establish the open shop, which means a reduction of at least 50 per cent in wages.

Fraternally,

JAS. A. SULLIVAN, Organizer.

Los Angeles, Calif., June 4, 1921.

The effort to settle the dispute between the cigar manufacturers of Denver, Colo., and Cigarmakers' Union No. 129, by the strike committee and myself, was only partly successful. The manufacturers had asked for a 10 per cent reduction from the present bill of prices for making and packing cigars. We asked that the 10 per cent reduction offered by the manufacturers be withdrawn, as it was not supported by the facts, i. e., the cost of living had not been reduced to such an extent as to justify this reduction. We succeeded in convincing the manufacturers of the justice of our side, to the end that an agreement was reached whereby the manufacturers agreed to withdraw the 10 per cent reduction offer for a period of sixty days. June 20, 1921, was set as the date for the new hearing before the Industrial Commission.

Receiving instructions to proceed to Southern California, I visited Union 492, Colorado Springs. Called a meeting of the members of Union 306 of Pueblo and addressed a very large meeting of the Trades and Labor Assembly of Pueblo. Addressed a newly-formed Trades Union Label League of Colorado Springs. Held a short meeting with Union 499, Trinidad, Colo. Addressed a specially called meeting of the members of Union 443, Albuquerque, N. M., on the question of label agitation, with the result that the boys responded by assessing themselves $2 each to start the work, which they tell me they will continue. At San Bernardino, in addition to addressing a called meeting of Union 341 of that city, I addressed meetings of the Railway Carmen and Electrical Workers that were held the one night I remained. On my arrival at Los Angeles Union 225 appointed a committee to go with me to visit several non-union cigar factories in an effort to have them operate union factories. We have had conferences with all of them and will meet some of them again in the near future. With Joseph Perez I visited the city of San Pedro. The boys of that city will make application for a new charter in our International Union.

Conditions of the cigar trade and the employment of union cigarmakers in the city of Los Angeles are bad. Were it not for the union label cigars made outside of the city and sold in Los Angeles the union label would hardly be in evidence. Long and continued label agitation is very badly needed. Since coming here I have addressed the following labor unions: Machinists, Lodge No. 311; Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, No. 943; Boltermakers, No. 92; Electrical Workers, Local No. 930; Beer Wagon Drivers, Local No. 227; Teamsters, Local No. 208; Central Labor Council at three meetings; Railway Machinists, Lodge No. 1422; Brotherhood of Railway Carmen, No. 1431; Barbers' Union, No. 293; Carpenters' Union, Local No. 158 (this union has 2,200 members); Fruit Packers' and Shippers' Organization meeting; Electrical Workers, Union No. 83; Coach Cleaners' Federal Union, No. 16542; Electrical Workers, Union No. 18; Bakers, Union No. 37. After a two-hour wait was unable to get the floor in Typographical Union 174; Sheet Metal Workers, Local No. 103; Billposters' and Billers, Union, Local 52; Floormen (Carpenters') Union, Local No. 2094; Millmen (Carpenters') Union, Local 884; Steam and Operating Engineers' Union, Local No. 73; Molders' Union, Local No. 374. At all of these meetings I was accompanied by a committee from Union 225, who distributed union label cards showing our blue label. We are getting some results, as a few men have secured work and the large shops are employing their men at full time. This work must be kept up.

J. E. FARRELL,
General Organizer.

Grand Rapids, Mich., May 2, 1921.

While working in Ludington I continued my efforts along the line of labor agitation, assisting the girls and visiting retail store merchants in their behalf, and going to the homes of those who had been contemplating on going back to work. I went to each Local and explained the situation of our Local to them as to what was needed to help them win and urged them to continue their moral support, as they had in the past, which they agreed to do. The bonding committee and city commissioners are trying to get a cigar factory to locate in this city. They wanted to have a strictly union shop, which would pay the girls the wages asked for by them. They are negotiating with some firms on this question. Now, they are offering a bond of a fairly good amount of money. They are still standing firm that they will not work for any more concerns like the Consolidated Cigar Co. and this is a well known fact throughout the city; they are going to have a firm which is right and if they can secure one, they will do their part in giving the firm their backing.

By request I returned to Grand Rapids and continued my activities by calling on the different shops, and stating to them as to what they could accomplish if they would get together and organize, and went to the homes where the daughters of union men were working in unfair and trust shops. I assisted in organizing a Polish Federal Union, and getting them together requires some hard work, as most of them have not been working; each meeting brings more members and they are beginning to realize that this is their only course to pursue for them to protect their homes and families. These shops here are getting back to the same old tricks of docking them on cutting wrappers, and throwing out cigars, which is having a telling effect. There are from 300 to 400 of these girls who are not working, and they are constantly bidding for a job. The Union shops are working on a limit, and are refusing a further reduction in the bill. The Local held a special meeting and voted against any further reduction at the present time. I am assisting a committee of our local by calling on the stores where they are displaying advertising signs in the windows of unfair cigars, and also working with the Label League in their campaign to get Union Made goods in the stores. I am still working on a proposition to open another Union shop in this city, with the assistance of the committee of this Local. I am working with the organization committee in organizing and building up the different crafts in general, as through lack of work the membership has fallen off, and thus urging them to call for the cigarmakers' union made cigars when buying. It will take continuous effort along this line of work to bring success to the movement of which we are working to accomplish, and in no other way can the workers get their desired needs. We must be constantly on the job first, last and all the time.

Respectfully,

M. GAZELLA.

Give so much time to "boosting" the labor movement and the union label that you won't have time to criticise the other fellow.

The union label can be made a great educational force if we constantly advocate it.

Always refer to your Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140-g distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity of complying with the request carefully study Section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

All told, including March 19th, there were twenty-five 50c assessments levied. Each 60c, 40c and regular 30c members must have twenty-five 50c assessments up to and including March 19th, excepting those who are exempt as per paragraph two of Section 70, which reads as follows: "New initiates who have not been such for four months shall be exempt from all assessments. This shall not be so construed as to exempt reinstated members from payment of assessments."

The foregoing quoted section provides that newly initiated members are exempt from payment for the first four months. The first 50c assessment was levied Sept. 27, 1920, and was due Oct. 2nd. Any member initiated for the week commencing Sept. 27th and ending Oct. 2nd, is exempt from the payment of assessment for the first four months, and his first 50c assessment stamp would be due Jan. 29th, and such member would have to show nine 50c assessments. A member initiated on Oct. 4th would have to show eight 50c assessments, and so on. The 50-cent weekly assessment ends March 19.

CORRECTION.

Union 105, Maysville, Ky., states that they cast thirteen votes for John L. Gilliam as delegate to the American Federation of Labor. An examination of the report of the canvassers shows their statement is correct and that through a typographical error the report in the April Journal shows that John L. Gilliam received no votes from Union 105, although the total is correct.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

H. Baggett and John O'Rourke appealed against 248 Jacksonville for fining them $100 each for drawing illegal loans and working in an unfair shop and for drawing their cards from Union 248 Jacksonville and without leaving its jurisdiction depositing them in 29 Jacksonville. The appeal reference drawing their cards from 248 and depositing them with 29 was not sustained. These members had no constitutional right to make such a transfer, and they must redeposit their cards with Union 248. On the fine of $100 a new trial is hereby ordered.

A. Paff appealed against 33 Indianapolis for refusing his claim for out of work stamp. The union states that he made no claim on the secretary or union for such stamp and no action was taken by the union. The appeal is dismissed.

J. Braham appealed against the J. A. B. of New York for levying an assessment to support the unemployed. The J. A. B. replied that the assessment was not levied by the J. A. B. but was submitted to a referendum vote of all unions involved, that the motion to levy the assessment was adopted by a vote of the local unions and the money raised was left in the hands of the local unions to be used for the purpose for which it was raised. The appeal was not sustained.

Charles Brier appealed against Union 225 Los Angeles, Calif., for fining him $20 for not paying percentage on fine. The decision is that Brier be given a new trial.

F. W. Wackford, et al., appealed against 42 Hartford for compelling them to refund what they termed a donation made to members on strike. The appeal was not sustained.

M. Elowitz appealed against 90 New York for refusing his claim for strike benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

H. Hirschenhein appealed against 27 Toronto for suspending him for nonpayment of assessments. The appeal was not sustained.

H. Lashue appealed against 97 Boston for suspending him for nonpayment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

A. Burg appealed against 97 Boston for suspending him for nonpayment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

John F. Wilke appealed against 48 Toledo for placing him on the ninety-day list. The appeal was not sustained.

Oscar Schumann appealed against 97 Boston for placing him on the ninety-day list. The appeal was not sustained.

Wm. Standcumbe appealed against 97 Boston for levying an assessment in aid of a dual organization not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. The appeal was sustained.

Having received the required number of endorsements it will be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of Union 337, Key West, reference strike benefit, as published in the April issue, Received the endorsement of Unions 353, New York; 215, Logansport; 179, Bangor; 168, Oshkosh; 389, New York; 129, Denver; 383, Chicago; 58, Albany; 357, Vancouver.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it will not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of Union 97, Boston, as published in the May issue, as follows:

Amend Section 213 of the constitution by striking out all after the figure $5 on line seven. Section to read as follows:

Section 213. Each local union shall have the right to propose through the columns of the Official Journal amendments to the International Constitution. Each union is required to act upon every amendment at their meeting next following the receipt of the Journal containing such amendments and report to the International President whether they endorse the proposed amendment or not. Unions failing to comply with this provision shall be fined $5 for each offense.

Amend Section 214 of the constitution by striking out the present section and insert the following:

Section 214. Any amendment to the International constitution receiving the endorsement of at least twenty unions shall be submitted to a popular vote of the members within thirty days, and, if adopted, shall take effect and remain in force from the first day of the month succeeding the official publication of its adoption. A copy of the record of such vote shall be transmitted to the International President under the seal of the union, with the signatures of the president and secretary affixed, and no amendment shall be valid unless a majority of the members voting vote in favor thereof, the result to be transmitted within thirty days from date of submitting the amendment to a vote; each amendment to be printed in pamphlet form for local unions. Where an amendment has been adopted as provided for in these laws no amendment can be proposed annulling or altering the same until after the expiration of six months.

Unions failing to comply with this section shall be fined $5.

Received the endorsement of 218, Binghamton; 16, Binghamton; 44, St. Louis (Sec. 213).

By Union 179, Bangor, Me.:

Amend Section 92 by adding Section 92c, to be known as an "Extra Special Strike Fund," to cover all expenses equally, not now provided for in the constitution.

A 50-cent assessment shall be levied on all 60-cent and 30-cent dues paying members. Class B members shall pay 25 cents, or one-half of the full assessment levied in the months of March and September of each calendar year, payable in eight weeks. This fund to be known as an "Extra Special Strike Fund," to be used to pay all legitimate, incidental and miscellaneous expenses of an approved strike not covered by the "Special Strike Fund," such as benefits to members who have not been in the union three months, extenuating circumstances of members who require extra allowances, strippers and other workers involved in a strike whose loyalty to the strike demand consideration. All incidental and miscellaneous expenses incurred by the local strike committee and approved by the International President shall be paid from this fund, that is not now covered by the constitution. This "Extra Special Strike Fund" to be governed by the same laws that control the Special Strike Fund, in levying the assessment, in depositing the moneys, and distributing the benefits, including the replenishing of the reserve fund when it falls below 50 cents per capita per member.

Amendment submitted by Union 278, London:

That an assessment of $1.00 be levied on each 60 cents and 30-cent member for the purpose of starting an agitation campaign over Canada, to offset the severe drive now on by all manufacturers for the so-called "Open Shop" which has resulted in the loss of nearly all our Label Shops and greatly reduced the strength of our Locals. The revenue from proposed assessment to be under the direction of the Int. President, who shall appoint and control the necessary number of agitators to operate in Canada from the London, Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal districts, said districts to forward names to Int. President for his consideration.

Union 331, Crookston, offers the following amendment to Sec. 92a:

After the word "levied" on line 14, Sec. 92a, strike out all down to Sec. 92B and insert the following:

92a. "The funds so collected shall be re-mitted by Financial Secretary at the end of each month to the International President.

The International President shall deposit such funds in the State Bank of North Dakota, at Bismarck, N. D., and such funds shall be subject to the direction of the International President, who may withdraw said funds in whole or in part as the circumstances may warrant, after the same has been approved by the International Executive Board."

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

Amendments adopted since the latest edition of the Constitution:

Amend Section 117 by adding after the word due stamp on third line, or assessments levied, so as to read:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out of work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and assessments levied, of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of work for at least two weeks. No other change.

In effect May 1, 1921.

Section 61a—Special.

All members engaged in the cigar industry, enumerated in Section 61, with the exceptions noted therein, working in any factory not entitled to the use of the label, and which does not pay the regular established bill of prices, may become members under the following conditions:

First—An initiation fee of $1.00, payable in four weekly installments of 25 cents each.

Second—Weekly dues of 30 cents for the first three months of membership, 40 cents for the second three months of membership, 50 cents for the third three months of membership, and regular dues of 60 cents after nine months of membership.

Third—Exemption from all assessments for the first four months of membership. After four months of membership such members shall pay one-half of all local and international assessments, except label assessments, except as hereafter provided.

The benefits of all members initiated under the foregoing provisions shall be:

First—Strike benefit of $8.00 per week for the first sixteen weeks and $4.00 per week thereafter. In the event of an authorized strike, involving members who have been such for three months, a member wishing to draw his card shall be granted a loan amounting to his indebtedness for due stamps and assessments and to $2.00, the same to be charged on his card as a traveling loan. No member accepting this privilege can return to the local and again be placed on the strike list.

Second—In all other respects the laws and rules governing arrearages of dues, suspension from membership, limitation as to time in the payment of benefits, and all other laws governing the members paying sixty-cent dues, shall apply to members enrolled under this special law.

Third—Members enrolled under this special law shall have the privilege of paying sixty-cent weekly dues and all International and local assessments, and be entitled to the full benefits.

Fourth—Any member initiated under Section 61a, securing employment in a factory using the label or which pays the regular scale of prices (or should the factory in which he is employed become entitled to the use of the label, or pay the regular scale of prices), shall automatically advance to the full dues-paying class.

Fifth—Members having paid the full contributing weekly dues prior to the adoption of this amendment, or subsequently thereto, can not be transferred to come under Section 61a, except as provided in the following paragraph.

Sixth—All former fifteen-cent Class A members now in good standing may have the privilege of transferring to the class of membership provided for in this special law. All former fifteen-cent Class A members who have become suspended may rejoin under the provisions of this special law, without the payment of an initiation fee.

Seventh—All members initiated under the provisions of this special law, at the expiration of nine months shall be transferred to the full regular dues paying membership and be entitled to all benefits provided for in the constitution, with the constitutional time limits. A member having paid the weekly dues of thirty-cents and forty-cents and fifty-cents and the stipulated assessments, transferring to the full contributing dues paying membership shall be given credit for time on benefits for one-half of the time he may have paid such dues. For example—a member having contributed the dues specified in Section 61a for nine months shall be credited on time allowance for sick, out of work, and death benefits, with nineteen weeks. Fractions of a week shall not be counted.

Eighth—This special law to remain in force until four months after the next convention of the International Union.

UNION NOTES

Union Notes by 97, Boston.—In stating the death of our first president I wrote Henry Isaacs. It should have been Harry Isaacs.

Harvard University has published, with the assistance of David W. Benjamin, a member of 97, a book with the title, "Labor Terminology." It contains a definition of all words used and a description of all forms of organization of labor, even credit unions. It is a very useful book. It is sold for $1.

Patronize the label and you will not be bothered with the open shop.

If some must loaf—let the non-union fellow loaf.

Members of 97 are paying 3 per cent of their wages in aid of the unemployed. This is fraternity.

Strippers should be in the C. M. I. U. of A. Our interests are mutual.

No. 97 is sending out 10,000 postal cards to residents of our city. Can't you do likewise?

Women's silk stockings now have the union label.

In forming co-operatives, don't start too large.

The drive of the United States Chamber of Commerce against the trade unions was not a success.

Better times are coming; there will be a reaction.

Denver has a splendid opportunity to boom the label.

Label section of the Boston Central Labor Union is doing good work.

Have you received a copy of label prize essay issued by the label section of the A. F. of L.? If not, write for one.

The label is the most effective weapon organized labor has and cigar makers discovered it.

"The injury of one is the concern of all."

Detroit and Ludlow are making a good fight. Yes, we gave the building trades one hundred dollars.

Label Committee will send 10,000 postal cards to residents of Boston.

Our labels in subway stations are the talk of the city.

We must organize the unorganized.

Life is a struggle, but we must overcome its obstacles.

Beer and light wines will come back. Have confidence in yourself; the trade Union is here and here to stay.

Owing to the destruction of property in the old world big interests knew that there would be no surplus labor here, so while they hollered lack of production they closed mills, factories and foundries, throwing millions out of work, then reduced wages, fearing that the worker would demand a living wage.

Label Committee got up a tide calendar with new daylight time on it and distributed twelve thousand.

Co-operation is the slogan for the future. What others have done we can do. Unite and conquer.

What is democracy? Who knows?

The intellectual don't understand the psychology of the worker.

Did you write to your Senator on the extra 50c tax on Sumatra.

Build up the label section of your central body.

I see daylight ahead. Stick together.

HENRY ABRAHAMS.

Any secretary holding the card of Emmanuel Cousineau (112410) would confer a great favor by notifying his mother, Mrs. S. Cousineau, 152 Rachel street, East, Montreal, Can.

Union 133, Mendota, Ill., writes: Traveling members are requested to stay away from W. Carney, cigar manufacturer, as he is running a non-union shop.

W. F. Glaub is requested to send his address to secretary at Pine Bluff, Ark.

Fred K. Hart, who has been ill for the past few months and has now recovered, wishes to extend his sincere thanks and appreciation to the trade for the many acts of helpfulness shown him during his illness.

Condition of the trade in Jacksonville, Fla., is very bad. One shop on strike; open shops cutting prices; no jobs open and union cigarmakers are walking the streets. We advise all cigarmakers to stay away for the present.—Union 248.

O. Rigney, 7434, is requested to write to 179, Bangor, Me., as soon as possible.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION

Ray Martin of Portland, Ore., would like to hear from Carl Arkells, in care of secretary of Union 202, Portland.

V. T. Sheldrick is requested to communicate with Fred Enright, 40 Barton avenue, Toronto.

Does anyone know a cigarmaker or anybody who has been one by the name of Charles Duemerkel? He lived in Buffalo in 1887, but no one here knows what became of him. A daughter has just learned that he was her father. She wants to get acquainted with him. She is amply able to care for him whether he needs it or not. She would like to learn if she has any sisters or brothers, for whom she would care if they needed care. Her mother died in this city in 1887. Any information furnished us will be promptly turned over to the interested daughter.—Union 2, Buffalo, N. Y.

Howard Althouse, Taft, Cal., desires to hear from Louis King; last heard of in Brooklyn, N. Y.

August Glandt would like to hear from Geo. Micklege and Harry Stout. Address care Local 92, Worcester, Mass.

W. J. Whalen of Olean, N. Y., would like to know the whereabouts of Walter Bowen, formerly of Adrian, Mich.

Thomas Kosak will receive good news by writing Jas. Gorman, Quakertown, Pa.

Miss J. Josepha, 750 Beacon street, Los Angeles, Cal., is very anxious to hear from Joe Enos.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted a resolution of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 188, Seattle, Wash.—Wm. Bezzio, president of the union. The members attended the funeral in a body.

Union 16, Binghamton, N. Y.—Michael E. Kane (44329).

Union 290, Janesville, Wis.—Alain Pardee (32764), who died May 7, aged 56.

Union 129, Denver, Colo.—C. A. Gaudette (108468), who died April 22.

PRIVATE LOANS

All members owing private loans to Union 38, Springfield, must pay or their names will be published in the next issue of the Journal.

Owing to the large amount of private loans on our books we are asking members at work to start payments or we will ask that the constitution be enforced. Members out of work should keep us informed of their inability to keep their promise to pay. We are in urgent need of money.—Union 5, Rochester, N. Y.

All members owing private loans to Union 331, Crookston, granted prior to Jan. 1, 1921, are requested to pay up.

LOST CARDS

64626, Z. Lundell—Init. Apr. 4, 1904, at 139; lost May 25.

Union 118 reported loss of card of C. W. Eggers, but as no number is given, date or place of initiation or union where card was withdrawn last, no card will be issued.

Secretaries—Please note T. A. Wood (106617) has not replied to the notice in May Journal.

LETTER BOX

Note.—Letters remaining uncalled for at the office after being advertised in the Journal for one issue must be returned to carrier of Chicago post office by order of Postoffice Department, Washington, D. C.

Returned the following to Postoffice Department since the last issue of the Journal: Ed Lentz, R. M. Wiles.

International Office—L. M. Heckel.

We reproduce here-illuminating with copy of a photo-a Dark Subject graphic report taken from the "Chicago Forward," a radical labor paper published in Chicago, and said to be a report furnished a detective agency by one Billow, who, it will be recalled, was the guiding spirit in the disruption of Local 527 Chicago and the would be leader in the attempt to form the dual Amalgamated Cigar and Tobacco Workers' Union.

BILLOW'S REPORT.

October, 1919.

The Strike Committee of the Cigar Makers Union held several meetings at the Machinist's Hall, 113 South Ashland Avenue, and they were very undecided as to what was best to be done to stop the manufacturers from moving out of Chicago.
Mr. Perkins did not approve of the strike.
The executive of local 527 sent some of its executive members to various parts of the country in order to call strikes where the factories then moved, but they were very unsuccessful as the union is very weak and the leaders lost control of the organization.

I am trying to cause a split between local 527 and the other locals as per your instructions to me. It is coming very slowly, but I will be successful in the end in bringing about the split.

You may instruct your clients not to settle the strike under any consideration. If the clients hold out for a few weeks more, the strike will be broken to the client's satisfaction.

I have lately spoken to Mr. Stearn of the Havana American, and I advised him to prolong the strike as long as possible, and I will see that it is prolonged to the satisfaction of the clients.

If Albert Lingenfelder could be discredited in the union, among the rank, file, and leaders, that alone would cause a split, and he would be blamed for the union activities in the strike.

Some members of the Strike Committee, whose names I have mentioned in my previous reports, are very much discouraged with the strike. The Cigar Makers are also discouraged and many of them are dropping out of the union, most of them dropping from local 527.

Max Lurye is not taking any active part at this time as I have succeeded in discrediting him before the members as per your instructions.

Our treasury is out of funds and the Strike Committee, and the Executive Board are sending out an appeal to other organizations for funds. So far very few responses have come in, and I doubt whether any more will come in.

I cannot make daily reports as I am always busy with the Strike Committee and the Executive Board, Local 527.

The committee of three, whose names I have mentioned in my previous reports, are the most active, and if Lingenfelder can be discredited some way, this committee will be disbanded.

Last night I saw 29 and he told me he would report the results of the Executive Board's meeting held a few days ago, as I was unable to be present at that meeting.

I told him that Mr. Stern desired to see him and 29 said that he would meet Mr.
Stearn at the auditorium the next night.

Mr. Malkus will explain to you other matters regarding the strike and the information I gave him a few days ago.

BILLOW.

The foregoing is only one of the many reports said to have been submitted by Billow to his employers and strike-breaking private detective agencies. It is part of the evidence at hand of his duplicity and proves conclusively our statement that he and his kind were responsible for the Chicago fiasco, both in the Havana American strike and in the strike for a fifty per cent. increase in wages of the Joint Unions of Chicago in 1919, in face of the fact that Chicago at that time had one of the highest bills in the country.

This in a measure shows partially the character and method used by the Judas-like conspirators who are attempting to disrupt the Cigar Makers' International Union, and should serve as a warning to union men and women to scrutinize and weigh well before following the leadership of those whose stock in trade is largely misrepresentation of the International Union, its aims and objects, and abuse of both the Locals and the International officers.

The story of the attempt of Jake Billow and his followers to disrupt the International Union is a long and interesting one and dates back many years. He was a leader in the attempt several years ago to form I. W. W. local unions, and more recently, in March, 1918, he made an unsuccessful attempt to swing Chicago in back of the now defunct Council formed in New York about that time, and more particularly and more villainous than all others combined was the independent strike for a fifty per cent. increase in places where we had topnotch bills of prices.

From time to time we have pointed out the danger resulting from following the leadership of scoundrels in the employ of non union manufacturers and paid spies of private detective strike-breaking agencies. Where members and locals have taken note of these disclosures and followed rational, ordinary lines of procedure they have escaped disastrous results.

As time and occasion warrant we shall tell the whole story, and the facts presented will make interesting reading and will expose and prove who are the guilty ones. We shall present only facts as they develop. In the meantime sit tight, do your own thinking, do what you consider right and just. Don't believe all you hear, as part of the game of these would be disruptionists is to cast suspicion upon loyal trade unionists who are absolutely honest and free from any taint of suspicion of wrong doing.

The spirit of intolerance and persecution is rife in the proposed Blue Laws.

"Blue Laws" introduced in various State Legislatures by so-called reform organizations who hope to Puritanize America. Legislation of the same general kind has been presented to Congress by certain religious associations.

Although legislation of this character is diametrically opposed to our guaranteed Constitutional liberties and strips us of every particle of religious freedom, a concept on which our very government is founded we find an aggressive lobby on the job and a well financed political machine guiding these various Sunday laws through our legislative halls.

If these self-styled reformers, many of whom are simply hired men and women, have their way it will not be long until the Inquisition will be revived and the blood of martyrs will crimson our streets.

"One day's rest in seven" does not mean that on this day we shall sit with folded hands nor does it mean that we shall necessarily attend a temple or shrine erected for religious worship. It does mean that we shall devote the day to whatever recreation we crave and have the means of indulging ourselves in as long as we do not interfere with another person's business, religion or pleasure or break a well defined protective law.

Compulsory Sunday observance easily leads to enforced church attendance and later to the adoption of a state creed.

Liberty loving America had best awake before it finds itself under the domination of the religious fanatic who knows not the meaning of tolerance.

"The world is five years in arrears in production and the industrial machine must be set going again. We hear this and that theory of how to meet the situation. But we cannot pay the war bill by artificial means. We must settle down to work and produce for one another."

This statement sums up the views on present-day economics of Charles M. Schwab, as outlined in an address to the students of Stevens Institute, Hoboken.

The very day this statement was made by Mr. Schwab the press carried a news item to the effect that the steel industry, which is now working at about thirty per cent capacity, contemplated a complete shut down July 1.

Many other industries, including our own, are reported as only working part time or with a materially reduced force. The reason given is that there is an abundance of manufactured goods on hand of all descriptions with no demand. "No demand" means in the final analysis that the public as a whole have nothing to buy with.

Farm products are rotting in the fields from the fact that the price offered the farmer will not pay the cost of distribution alone. For instance, a truck farmer ships a consignment of berries to the Chicago Market and in return receives a bill for $13.15 to cover express and commission charges that the price paid him for his berries failed to cover. The same day this farmer was paying tribute to the carrier and the middleman restaurants in Chicago were charging twenty-five cents for an infinitesimal piece of strawberry short-cake.

What incentive has this farmer to produce when the fruits of his labor leave him indebted to our pernicious system of distribution? The same holds true in the case of the worker whose wages, when he is allowed to work, will not cover the cost of the absolute necessities of life.

The present situation is hand made by the powers of organized greed. Made for the purpose of creating more wealth for the favored few and less comfort for the unprotected many who toil. Made for the purpose of breaking, if possible, the trades unions who have declared that labor is not a commodity but a part of life itself.

Producing farm products that do not net the producer the actual cost of distribution to say nothing of the labor cost, interest on investment, etc., etc., will not solve the problem. Neither will the production of manufactured articles that become a drug on the market, from the fact that the producer is unable under the wage received to buy them back, make for readjustment.

Even-handed readjustment is the only possible solution to the problem. The stock holder, the money-lender, the manufacturer and the distributor must too bear a part of the burden, for labor, both farm and factory, has gone the limit in carrying the load.

With no sense of
The American shame the forces organized Plan. to destroy collective bargaining christened their pernicious movement "The American Plan." Never before has such a glaring misnomer gained so wide a following.

If the traditions of the name were summated the "American Plan" would signify freedom. Under its present aim it means slavery. As applied today it means that labor must sign a contract never to join a union and it places a spy system over the workers to see that the contract is lived up to. It means that in the coal fields of Alabama and Virginia labor must live in a company shack behind a stockade patrolled by gun men, buy its supplies from a company store and send its children to a company school if by chance such an institution is maintained. It means the absolute autocracy of the employer with no redress whatsoever for the worker who must protect his economic conditions as an individual though pitted against the lust of organized greed. It means the blacklist, in fact the subjugation of the workers until they become less than servile serfs.

"American Plan?" NO! It's worse than Prussianism.

"Woman Cigarmakers."

Simultaneous with the increase in the use of machinery in the cigar industry has been the increase in the proportion of women employed in the industry. Ten years ago the number of persons employed at cigar making and packing was 65,835 men and 41,956 women. At the present time the number of persons employed at cigar making and packing is 50,375 men and 61,003 women. At the former period only about forty per cent. were women and at the present time about fifty-five per cent. are women.

The foregoing statistics refer to both the organized and unorganized workers. This is deeply significant and reveals at once to the observant the meaning of the employment of women, in larger numbers than men, in the cigar industry. They where unorganized, can be secured for less money. In the trust shops, where they work long hours and at starvation wages, the victims are practically all women and young girls. A short time ago our local unions were requested to report the trust shops under their jurisdictions and the proportion of men and women employed. There were 98 trust shops reported, employed 2,772 men and 18,611 women, that is eighty-seven per cent. women. A complete report was not received, but we can safely say that the proportion shown is correct.

We have spoken of the women employed in the trust factories as victims. They are victims of the greed of capital, but they are also victims of their own lack of thought and blindness to results. A woman entering the cigar trade is liable to feel that it is only for a few years, and therefore when she is approached on the subject of the union she sees only the dues and assessments and none of the advantages to be derived, for she is not looking ahead. She feels that the good of the trade, especially the future good, has nothing to do with her. It does not appear to her worth while to invest any of her time or money in safeguarding her job or improving her condition in industry. She is not particular about a strong foundation as she has no permanent structure to build.

If the working woman would analyze, she would realize that although she may soon be out of the trade she is engaged in at present, she will in all probability be identified with the working class throughout her life, that the interests of this class are her interests, and that even if she has no unselfish, altruistic aims, she can serve her own selfish end no more effectively than by joining the union of her trade, and by working to increase its power and usefulness, increasing the power and usefulness of all labor organizations thus making it better for her sister or her own children who follow. The good of one trade union is the good of another. A strong union in one trade is an asset to the whole labor movement. A woman cigar maker who devotes time and money to develop the Cigar Makers' Union, and then later marries a man of an entirely different trade and discontinues her work as a cigar maker, need not feel that even in a selfish sense her efforts were wasted. Her efforts have added just so much to the general labor movement and to the good of all working people.

Women employed in the industry should awaken to the fact that regardless of the trade, sex, number of years in a certain kind of work, or anything else, the interests of all workers are identical.

Neither capital or la-Co-operation bor can hope to prosper so long as there exists such a feeling of distrust and suspicion as at present. Hate, abuse and villification will not solve the present day need of readjustment.

The problem calls for patient, self restrained courteous understanding and simple fair play rather than smashing ultimatums and the cessation of work.

Organized labor is at all times willing to follow and will hold as a cardinal principle the procedure of orderly adjustment. It is much easier to talk our problems over before a lockout or a strike than it is when the workers are on the street and the poison of strife has entered the mind.

Let there be shown a better spirit of co-operation and a measure of statemanship applied to our working relations and we will emerge from the present difficulties stronger and better than ever.

Children enjoying the benefit of school and the pleasure of the playground instead of the drudgery of the mill and factory is part of the progress made by the union label.

Clothes may not make the man, but the better they are the more attention he attracts. Buy the kind that have the union label and get the best.

Report of Delegates to American Federation of Labor Convention, Denver, Colorado, June, 1921.

The Forty-First Annual Convention of the American Federation of Labor was held at Denver, Colorado, and its records are now registered on the milestone of progress and labor's achievements in the industrial field of endeavor in behalf of the struggling toilers and the advancement of civilization.

No more important convention of the Federation was ever held during all those that have preceded this one and few, if any, where the vital questions of labor were presented and dealt with in a more comprehensive and constructive manner.

The accredited representatives of labor, with an eye single for the protection and betterment of the groups of organized labor and the workers of all communities discharged their obligations with zeal and candor, striving to meet the existing unemployment condition now prevailing to so grave an extent, and to rehabilitate the industrial situation so that idleness among the workers might be averted and their economic rights be safeguarded—with the privilege of organization and the selection of representatives of their own choosing to negotiate for labor, remaining unmolested by interference of "judge-made injunction law" and the power of corporate bodies of greed and avarice. Among the stern problems to be faced were stagnation in the industrial marts of our country, the work of passing legislation for the reconstruction, and the promotion of industry in all vocations, trades, and callings throughout our land. The delegates without flinching met and accepted the challenge of the non-union manufacturers in their attempt to foist the so-called "Open-Shop" upon the American public, and adopted means and methods to successfully overcome this un-American dream of the greedy profiteers.

The paramount issues of labor's demands for human working conditions, the shortening of hours per week for the toiling masses; protection to life and limb to the workers; with sanitary conditions applied which would add security and contentment in their industrial lives, with adequate compensation for labor performed, so that ample time for relaxation and mental stimulation be allowed, that they may live in reasonable comfort, and longevity to the human race be extended.

Space will only permit in this report a brief synopsis of the work accomplished in the convention and the numerous resolutions presented for consideration, of which only a few of the more important ones can be mentioned. However, we suggest that the proceedings should be read by every member of our trade. Every member of organized labor should avail themselves of a copy so that they may be able to study and digest the contents of the work performed by the convention. The proceedings will soon be completed and ready for distribution by Secretary Frank Morrison of the American Federation of Labor.

The Credentials Committee reported 523 delegates in attendance representing 93 national and international unions, 4 departments, 32 state branches, 124 central bodies, 48 local trade and federal unions, and 5 fraternal delegates. There are represented in and affiliated to the American Federation of Labor 110 national international unions, 5 departments, 49 state federations, 783 local department councils, 973 city central bodies, 36,247 local unions, 941 local trade and federal unions, with a paid-up membership for the fiscal year 1921, of 3,900,528.

A comprehensive and lucid report by the Committee on Executive Council's report covering the entire activities of the Executive Council for the past year was presented to the convention for its deliberation, and after full and thorough discussion of the subject-matter contained therein the recommendations of the Committee in the main essentials were adopted.

One of the outstanding features that enlivened interest in the proceedings was the spirited contest shown in the election of the President of the American Federation of Labor between the supporters of the rival candidates for that exalted position. President Samuel Gompers "The Grand Old Man of Labor," was nominated by Delegate Perkins, President of the Cigar Makers' International Union, and the name of John Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America was presented as the opposing candidate. The result of the ballot showed Mr. Gompers received 25,022 votes, and delegate Lewis received 12,324. Mr. Gompers, was, therefore, declared reelected by a majority of over two to one, this being the 38th time he has been chosen as the standard bearer of the great American labor movement.

After the convention had been formally opened by President Gompers, following the address of several distinguished citizens and representatives of labor, who had welcomed the coming of the convention and the delegates to Denver and fitting response had been made by the President; the first resolution that was acted upon was presented by the Executive Council asking for speedy assistance and relief to the flood stricken peoples of the City of Pueblo. Resolution No. 1, that the people of Pueblo and vicinity, filled with that sublime courage that has ever led humanity to conquer in the midst of pain, will rebuild their homes and their city, but it is our duty to go to them with encouragement and help. It is the paramount duty of all our people to render all possible assistance but especially it is the duty of the working people.

There were 140 resolutions introduced. Eighty-eight were concurred in; 21 non-concurred in; 21 were referred to the Executive Council for their consideration and action; 10 were considered jointly by the various committees or passed over as the subject-matter had been embodied in other resolutions.

The following resolutions were concurred in: Resolution No. 2, protesting against the number of skilled men being reduced and the hours of labor being increased and an extension of the season in which passenger vessels are permitted to operate.

Resolution No. 12, asking that the standards of organized workers in the centers of the Ladies' Garment industry be protected.

Resolution No. 32, that every effort shall be expended to organize and educate all wage earners who are a part of the American Federation of Labor or who may become affiliated.

Resolution No. 35, that every effort be made to bring about congressional investigation of the conditions now existing in the cotton mills of the south.

Resolution No. 113, that every assistance be given to the stenographers, typists and bookkeepers and assistants in their effort to better organize their craft.

Resolution No. 129, that all members of affiliated unions be and are hereby requested to advocate, urge and insist upon the union label shop card and button when making purchases.

Resolution No. 6, that in purchasing tobacco, cigarettes and snuff only products bearing the union label be accepted.

Resolution No. 26, declaring against the Chamber of Commerce and Employers' Association banding themselves together in an effort to establish the non-union or "open shop."

Resolution No. 51, calling for the enactment of legislation granting civil service employees the right to a hearing and an appeal from the decisions of officials in case of dismissal.

Resolution No. 50, requesting the American Federation of Labor to insist upon the retention of the excess profits tax, and to defeat the legislation for sales tax.

Resolution No. 31, reaffirming the position taken in previous acts of the convention endorsing the Rochdale Co-operative System, and declaring against fake institutions under the so-called Co-operative plan.

Resolution No. 38, endorsing the promotion of vocational rehabilitation of persons disabled in industry and recommending co-operative understanding between state boards of vocational education.

Resolution No. 104, condemning the attempt to abolish the Department of Agriculture by those who have come out in the open and declared that department no longer a necessity.

Resolution No. 106, calling for strict enforcement and a closer adherence to the exclusion act regulating the entrance of Chinese into the United States and its possessions.

Resolution No. 117, was offered by the committee as a substitute for Resolutions Nos. 3, 110, 117 and 119, all dealing with the Irish question, that the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled reiterate and reaffirm the acts of the Montreal convention supporting the Irish people in their struggle for freedom and for recognition of the Irish Republic.

Resolutions Nos. 80, 118 and 69, were considered jointly, asking for a modification of the Volstead law so as to permit the manufacture and sale of a national beverage of wholesome beer.

Resolutions Nos. 59 and 60, dealing with the same question.

The Minority Report of the Committee was adopted: That we may better secure the blessings of liberty and to that end we reaffirm our united support of relations that will bring about the public ownership and democratic operation of the railways of the United States.

Resolution No. 126, condemning the Hearst newspapers for its attempts to dictate the policy of organized labor and to control the acts of certain representatives of labor.

Resolution No. 100, requesting that the Railroad Labor Board be instructed to ask for the regulation of high salaried officials of the railroads in comparison with reductions asked for the employees on the road.

Resolution No. 137, condemning the Industrial Court Law of Kansas and pledging moral support and financial support in the fight against it.

Resolution No. 71, endorsing the position taken by the people of North Dakota in recognizing the rights of organized labor and the enactment of the series of labor laws such as the anti-injunction law, the best possible compensation act, union label on all state printing, union label on all state buildings, rigid child labor law, minimum wage scale, 8 hours for women in industry.

Resolution No. 53, that the American Federation of Labor demands immediate enactment by Congress of legislation to control the meat packers which shall make mandatory the adoption of a uniform system of accounting.

Resolution No. 15, declaring against the acts of the supreme court in its recent decision in the Duplex Printing Press Company in the practical nullification of the provisions of the Clayton Act.

Resolution No. 18, declaring against the employers located in Springfield who are attempting the destruction of organized labor by the substitution of individual contracts to employees and the establishment of the open shop.

Resolution No. 84, asking the Federation to lend its assistance to the promotion and enactment of compensation law acceptable to organized labor in Missouri.

Resolution No. 124, condemning all efforts to weaken or destroy the U. S. Department of Labor, and calling upon Congress to withstand all such efforts.

Resolutions Non-Concurred in.

Resolution No. 24, calling for the workers through amalgamation and federation and protected agreements to enter into contracts with their employers to be employed in lieu of agreements now affected through the recognized labor movement.

Resolution No. 11, requesting the recognition of unskilled labor as being equal to union men and be respected as such and be given a preference in the employment of labor.

Resolution No. 20, asking for labor to take necessary steps to establish 10 daily newspapers throughout the country in as many industrial centers.

Resolution No. 25, calling for the inauguration of the referendum ballot for the election of officers in the American Federation of Labor.

Resolution No. 56, dealing with the question of money, regulating the gold standard and calling for and engaging in the banking system by the American Federation of Labor.

Resolution No. 66, calling for conferences of the national and international unions to establish a department to be known as the Strike Insurance Department.

Resolution No. 86, calling for the regulation of boats under 65 feet, acting as motor pilots be regulated under the license pilot law.

Resolution No. 127, dealing with currency and money as a circulating medium and asking for a regulation of interests and entering into the banking system by the Federation of Labor.

Resolution No. 99, calling for the establishment of the 6-hour day at the rate of pay now received for the 8-hour work day.

Resolution No. 14, calling for the change of the laws of the American Federation of Labor so that it may become a fraternal order as well as a labor organization.

Resolution No. 34, calling for the preparation of a model referendum law to be enacted by the various national and international organizations to regulate the election of officers.

Resolution No. 83, calling for the words "white helpers" to be stricken out of the constitution of the "Boiler Makers' and Helpers' international organization.

Resolutions Referred to the Executive Council.

Resolution No. 12, that the American Federation of Labor appropriate a certain sum of money, enough to keep an organizer in South Dakota for one year.

Resolution No. 44, that an organizer be assigned to the district of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont where there is a fertile field for organization.

Resolution No. 64, that an organizer be assigned to the Intermountain states of Montana, Colorado and Wyoming to co-operate with the state branches in their efforts to establish better organizations.

Resolution No. 75, asking that the Executive Council give greater co-operation to the American Federation of Teachers in their effort to combat the establishment of the un-American principle of the "open shop" propaganda as used by employers.

Resolution No. 22, asking that the subject-matter contained in the resolution dealing with the packing industry and food stuffs be investigated by the Executive Council.

Resolution No. 23, asking for an investigation upon the charter which was issued to the soap workers claiming they should be amalgamated with the meat cutters and butchers of North America.

Resolution No. 8, calling upon organized labor to subscribe for a substantial amount of North Dakota state bonds and depositing their surplus funds in the State Bank of North Dakota.

Resolution No. 41, the establishment of a publicity campaign to be so conducted as to refute misstatements or a tax on the organized labor movement and to stimulate humanitarian and patriotic impulses.

Resolution No. 64, calling for the introduction of moving pictures under the control of organized labor for the purpose of modeling public opinion and influencing sentiment in the interest of organized labor.

Resolution No. 67, asking for financial contribution for the purpose of establishing a labor paper so that the great propaganda may be carried on in support of the trade union movement.

Resolution No. 89, asking that steps be taken to create a marine transportation department of the American Federation of Labor.

Resolution No. 108, asking that steps be taken to regulate the taxing system and more adequately provide housing facilities for the working people.

In view of the extraordinary circumstances, the prevailing unrest, profiteering, and the general spirit of protest, the convention as a whole showed a remarkable steadiness, and was at no time in danger of being stampeded from the beaten path of orderly advancement along constructive, normal lines. That bold spirit of reckless, excessive radicalism manifested in previous conventions was practically negligible. There, however, was a progressive spirit of radicalism always manifested and rightly so. A more pronounced and greater spirit for advancement along progressive, constructive lines seemed to exist than ever before. The really constructive, aggressive, and fearless leadership of the American Federation of Labor was realized and appreciated on this occasion to a greater extent than ever before. There seemed to be a genuine spirit of tolerance and determination on the part of the extremists on both sides to reach common ground, and a determination to carry forward the work of organization and of greater protection of the rights, the interests, and the welfare of the workers, all of which, in the judgment of those who through long experience are qualified to judge, augurs well for the future of our movement.

With assurance of appreciation for the privilege of representing the Cigar Makers' International Union in the world's greatest economic movement, we are,

Yours fraternally,

"Huge Sums Lost to Workers" through investment and fraudulent and worthless securities so says the American Federation of Labor in a resolution passed at the Denver Convention.

The resolution calls for action against these fake schemers and urges the men and women of organized labor to take advantage of the Savings Securities issued by the Treasury Department to the end that thrift, economy and the accumulation of an emergency fund invested in absolutely safe Treasury Savings Securities may become a part of the everyday life of every American worker.

The Resolution Points Out:

That Government Securities are issued in denominations of 25c, $1, $5, $25, $100 and $1,000 and are on sale at Post Offices and many banks.

Further information may be obtained by writing the Government Loan Organization, Labor Section, John Hartnett, Supervisor, 120 Broadway, New York City.

Inasmuch as the American Federation of Labor in this resolution offers to co-operate with the Government Loan Organization in bringing the above to the attention of the rank and file of all local unions it seems to be the duty of each Union Secretary to bring the resolution to the attention of their Union at the next open meeting.

If your neighbor doesn't know the principles underlying the union label and the good it does, it is your duty to inform him.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

Buffalo, N. Y., June 4, 1921.

Union 316, McSherrystown, by diligent, united effort during this period of depression, have kept their organization intact and are moving along fine, with a good membership. They have kept up a constant agitation for the label. If other cities in Pennsylvania would do likewise a much more creditable story of our industry could be told. At York, where I found conditions very bad and wages in the trust factories very low and still going down, I addressed the Central Labor Union on organization and the label. A few faithful members here are struggling gallantly to improve conditions. Also at Lancaster I found the faithful members struggling against very discouraging conditions. Trenton, N. J., and the city of New York are suffering greatly from the depression. Albany, too, is very quiet in the cigar industry. At Troy conditions are much better. While the shops art not speeding up there, they are all running and there are only a few members out of work. There are committees actively engaged in boosting union made goods to keep up or improve the conditions. Oneida's members, too, are awake to the necessity of constant agitation, and the situation there is promising. In Syracuse trade is quiet, but seems to be improving some. Strong agitation of the label is needed. The same may be said of Buffalo. Rochester has suffered some reverses in the cigar industry recently, but with proper handling no doubt trade may be revived and business restored to the local manufacturers.

Yours fraternally,

R. S. SEXTON,

Organizer.

Bethlehem, Pa., June 9, 1921.

Since my last report I visited Pottsville and advised with the union reference the organization of a shop in a jurisdiction town, Saint Clare. I proceeded to Ephrata and there proposed that a campaign to organize all cigar and tobacco workers be inaugurated. At Lancaster I agitated for the same purpose, attending and speaking at meetings of the striking printers, the Theatrical State Employees, Plasterers and Molders and the Machinists, and also the Central Labor Union, where I spoke in behalf of the labor paper which they are bending all efforts to establish. I also visited a number of stores, urging them to handle label products. I went to York, where I found all cigar makers working, label agitation on the increase, and the Label Trades League progressing, and then on to Allentown, Quakertown, Sellersville, Perkasie and Easton, where I did what I could to encourage organization and be helpful to the members.

Yours fraternally,

J. P. KEENEN,

Organizer.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 5, 1921.

Since my last report I have continued agitation for the label, putting up signs in all conspicuous places advertising the label and acquainting the different locals in the city with the dealers who are willing to assist us. I have also continued agitation for organization among the girls here, visiting them at the factories and in their homes. The conditions under which they work are very bad and several have been fired because the boss was informed that they favored joining the union. I have been attempting to organize the Tennyson, the Sidney G and the Tegle Cigar Company shops, but have been unsuccessful so far. My efforts in the Tenny shop were thwarted by the fact that some union men dropped their cards and went to work there just when I was about to succeed.

I went to Ionia, where I found conditions very bad. The membership has decreased alarmingly, due to the fact that, although these members seem to want everything that is to be had, they have been doing nothing towards getting it. I did what I could to advertise the label cigars among other locals, and to encourage our own members, calling their attention to the fact that their bill of prices is higher than in surrounding places, this to meet the expression of dissatisfaction as to the amount of dues they are paying.

Due to the good work they have done in Grand Rapids to keep the label before the public, business is getting better here right along, and the outlook is brighter than it has been for some time. I visited cigar dealers, pool rooms and grocery stores, urging the handling of label cigars.

Yours fraternally,

MICHAEL GAZELL,

Sub-Organizer.

Union Label Represents Americanism.

By Louis J. Humpf.

The union label—the emblem of victory—is the strongest weapon in the hands of the workman and workingwoman in fighting the battle for recognition in the labor movement. "The label on everything we buy" should be the slogan today, tomorrow and every day in the year. The battles of the union label are won without bloodshed.

It is more powerful than strikes and picketing, and is a potent warning to tyrannical employers. It is puissant in the hands of women and children as the menacing declaration of a labor convention. It is the boycott without publication. No injunction can reach it, no militia or Pinkerton dare touch it, no pen will revile it, no pulpit assail it. It stands for everything that is noble and fearless.

The union label is the emblem that represents the true spirit of American workmen. It stands for industrial democracy, and no war stars, buttons or emblems can be complete until every article that is useful to mankind, whether for the person or in the home, shall bear the union label, all associated and united in the hope and aspiration of America. If we are true soldiers of the world and are interested in conserving what was gained through the great victory just won, if we are anxious for democracy at home, if we would like to see industrial democracy come into its own, we must patronize and purchase only what bears the union label.

The union label stands for:

1. Home Industry.
2. The protection of the interests of labor.
3. The protection of just and honorable employers from competition by cheap labor rivals.
4. The encouragement of the principle and practice of arbitration.
5. Fair wages for the laborer and better trade conditions.
6. A guarantee to the workman for a better living.
7. More money for the necessities and luxuries of life.

8. A true foundation of a general and lasting prosperity.

The union label on union made products and the demand for such goods is the most powerful weapon used by organized labor to better the conditions of the wage earner. It is the duty of every union man to use his purchasing power to advance the interests of such products which bear the union label, and this can be accomplished only through organization.

There should be a Label League in every city, town and village of these great United States. The purpose of such an organization is to boom all labels. Its machinery is as simple as that of a committee, a stipulated number of delegates being elected by each union contributing to the League. Its business is to advance label interests. More profit will result to the cause from an intelligent label campaign than if the same amount of energy, ingenuity or money is expended in advancing any other idea on which all label unionists are agreed.

A label campaign can be conducted at a small expense. The especial work of the League is to acquaint the public with the various labels, what they mean and the public's duty toward labels generally. The object of a Label League is to promote the good and welfare of the various trades union labels, shop cards, buttons or insignia and to boost all union labeled goods on the market. This can be done by advertising, agitation and assisting unions to adopt labels.

We should not be selfish in this matter of pushing the label. Our boosting should be for every label, and this is where the words of Thomas H. West hit the nail on the head:

"If I boost your union label, you should do as much for mine;

This is simply reciprocity, a never-failing sign That the spirit of true brotherhood among us ranks supreme;

To promote the union label all the time should be our theme."

Hamilton, Ont., May 8th, 1921.

From April 7th to 9th I remained in London and gave what assistance I could to Union 278 in an effort to reach a satisfactory settlement. After hearing the report of the investigation made by the Dominion Labor Dept. we are convinced that the Cigar Manufacturers are determined to take advantage of the present situation, to try and disrupt Union 278. As the large manufacturers have refused to arbitrate the matter and have established their own bill of prices, which would mean if accepted a reduction in wages of six dollars to ten dollars a week ($6-$10).

While in London I also worked with the organizer of the Trades and Labor Council, in the interests of the general movement. Received instructions to proceed to Ottawa to enter protest against increase of duty on imported leaf tobacco.

April 10th and 11th at Hamilton. I made investigation re the duty on leaf tobacco; also received valuable information which I used in our protests to the Minister of Finance. To give our members an idea just what the present duty is on cigars, the following is the amount of taxes and duty collected from every thousand cigars made: Small size cigars, $14.75 per M.; and high grade cigars, about $17.00 per M. We are of the opinion that any further tax would ruin the industry. The tobacco growers are asking the government to increase the duty from 40c per lb. to $1.00 per lb.

I also attended executive meeting of Union 55 and advised them on a resolution to be sent to Ottawa; also conferred with the organizer of the A. F. of L., Mr. Flett, re the London situation.

April 12th stopped over in Toronto and consulted with secretary of Union 27 re protest to Ottawa, and was assured of their co-operation. Business is very quiet in Toronto and general unemployment is quite serious.

April 13th at Montreal I met Vice-President Mr. Garlepy, and we together went to Ottawa. April 15th we had a conference with Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, and submitted a verbal and also written protest against any increase in duty on leaf tobacco. Mr. Tom Moore, president of the Dominion Trade Congress, gave us valuable assistance, also introduced us to the Minister. We were given a very courteous hearing and many questions were asked by the Minister, who promised that full consideration would be given to our protest. Unions 27, 55, 58, 278 also J. A. B., sent resolutions of protest. We feel that our efforts will be successful.

April 16th to April 24th I worked in Montreal. I attended executive meeting of Union 58, went over the situation with Mr. Garlepy and executive board re starting organization campaign, but it was decided that owing to the depression in trade, to postpone the campaign until the near future as conditions were very bad—cigar factories having been closed for some time and working short time; quite a number of members out of work. I called on the various business agents in the interests of the movement; industrial conditions are quite serious and all trade organizations are affected by the depression. It is having a serious effect on the general memberships of the various unions. I also visited cigar stores in the interests of the label and distributed advertising matter, furnished me by the J. A. B.

April 25th to 28th at Kingston and devoted my time to label agitation. Addressed meetings of carpenters and boiler-makers. Cigar trade very quiet. Got in touch with cigar-makers, but they don't seem anxious to talk organization. Surprised to find one factory very busy, employing girls on machine work. I believe are making cigars for other firms. In my visits to cigar stores I was informed that travelers for non-union manufacturers are trying to discourage the sales of label cigars. This is being done, no doubt, to try to force union manufacturers to the open shop proposition. While I was in Kingston I was taken seriously sick and was obliged to return home, where I was confined to bed until the 8th of May.

Yours fraternally,
JAS. A. SULLIVAN, Organizer.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL FINANCIER

El Paso, Texas, April 20, 1921.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz.:

Union 128, El Paso, Texas.

The accounts here are really in fine condition. Benefit cards and vouchers for expense on file. Ledger indexed and nicely posted. The surplus is Local money included in the General Fund account. Statement as follows:

Union 129, Denver, Colo.

The books and accounts here as far as the work of Sec'y-Treas. is concerned are in excellent condition. The Finance Committee also seem competent. But the action of this Local is now, and has been for years, one continuous case of disregard for the Constitution. Owing to trade conditions here at present, I do not feel at liberty to say the things to them, or about them, that I feel should be said. However, it will be a case of walk in the straight and narrow path of right and fairness, or the heavy hand of Constitution will fall upon them.

I transferred the funds and other property of Union 164, Ft. Collins, Colo., to Laramie. The situation at Ft. Collins was such that the charter had to be moved. The man that had been acting as secretary was over the limit in dues—a suspended member. Am in hopes that we can hold a charter in Wyoming. Harry Fox, president of the Wyoming State A. F. of L., is strong for the charter and will do what he can to make a success of it. Aug. Koerting, the new secretary-treasurer, with the help promised should be able to form a good organization. There are some good towns from which a strong jurisdiction may be had and by which the local cigar trade can be built up. Statement as follows:

The books and accounts here are in good condition. Too bad I cannot say as much for the membership—"the people in our trade here." Their day is coming and when the time comes that they need the Union—well, it is not far off and they know it—then is when they will wonder why they ever were so weak. You better get in line. It will help some most likely. "Every man in the Union" makes it a little more difficult to start the trouble you are now facing. Get in line and do your best. It is your bread and butter, that is in danger. Do a man's job now; protect yourself. Statement as follows:

While the books and accounts at this time are in very fair condition more pep in the Union should be shown here. The trade needs every little bit of energy that can be given. The Secretary here has a peculiar job, as he appears to be the only member around that ever does more than draw benefit, and the further fact that he is not in good health makes it more difficult for him to attend to many little things that really need be attended to; and that he has the Union's affairs in the condition he has is quite complimentary to him. If the funds were in the bank they would still be subject to his own signature. Well, he had the money to show me, all right. Statement as follows:

Sacramento, Cal., May 25, 1921.

Since last report have examined the accounts of the following Unions, viz.:

Union 225, Los Angeles, Cal.

The books and accounts here have not been in good order. Have a promise that they will be, from now on. Some of the trouble here was inexperience. Los Angeles has been having some bad actors—men that overcome the objections of those that tried to have the union's affairs handled in a reasonably sane manner. Am in hopes that better days are in sight for our members here. Statement as follows:

OFFICIAL

EXECUTIVE BOARD.

G. W. PERKINS, President.

Monon Building, Chicago.

SAMUEL GOMPERS, 318 W. 51st St., New York City, First Vice President.

L. P. HOFFMAN, 729 N. Diamond St., Jacksonville, Ill., Second Vice President.

A. GARIPEY, 238 Ave. Hotel De Ville, Montreal, Canada, Third Vice President.

JOHN REICHERT, 1070 12th St., Milwaukee, Wis., Fourth Vice President.

E. G. HALL, 4124 Bryant Ave., S., Minneapolis, Minn., Fifth Vice President.

E. J. STACK, 412 Stock Exchange Bldg., Portland, Ore., Sixth Vice President.

CHAS. H. STEVENS, 350 Broadway, Buffalo N. Y., Seventh Vice President.

GIBSON WEBER, 1710 N. Gratz St., Station C, Philadelphia, Pa., Treasurer.

Always refer to the Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40 $\frac{1}{2}$ c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140g distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such resignation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity for complying with the request carefully study Section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

UNION BUSINESS

In accordance with Sections 58, 59 and 60 of the Constitution, the following unions are hereby notified and requested to remit the following amounts for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the office of the International Union:

DECISIONS OF EXECUTIVE BOARD

Washington, D. C., July 1, 1921.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by Union No. 228, San Francisco, Calif., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—Stack.

Negative—Hoffman, Garlepy, Reichert, Hall, Stevens and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was, the member appealed against the action of the union in sending solicitors outside of the jurisdiction to collect funds for the erection of a temple, their expenses to be paid from the percentage from the local unions for the local running expenses. The International President sustained the appeal of the member. The union thereupon appealed against the decision of the International President to the Executive Board.

The union claims that while this committee addressed local unions in reference to the temple, it also did agitation work for the union label, and that it was the only label agitation going on in these towns.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That Section 171 of the constitution provides " * * * should the union expend for the aforementioned purpose less than the herein fixed percentage, then it shall have the privilege to spend the remainder locally for the advancement of union matters"; that there would have been no question raised had this money been spent locally; that the statement of the union proved that these members were out on the road for the above-mentioned purpose; that the decision was in strict compliance with the constitution and should be sustained.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained.

Fraternally,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,
First Vice President.

Washington, D. C., July 11, 1921.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board C. M. I. U. of A., by Samuel DeWolf of Union No. 97, Boston, Mass., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Hoffman, Garlepy, Reichert, Hall, Stack, Stevens and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was, the member left the country and after being away for a time he claims he wrote the secretary of the union to keep him clear as he would return later. Upon his return he found that he was suspended and he appealed to the International President against the suspension. The International President sustained the action of the union and the member thereupon appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President. The member claims that he was prevented from returning as soon as he desired, because of certain regulations, and had written the secretary to keep him in good standing. He claims he accordingly should not have been suspended.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That the member was suspended in accordance with the law; that if, as he states, he was unable to return at the time he intended, he could have forwarded the money for his dues; that under the law the union could do nothing else but suspend him unless someone voluntarily advanced his dues; he having been suspended the International President had no right, under the law, to reinstate him.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained.

Fraternally,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,

First Vice President.

Washington, D. C., July 11, 1921.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by the Joint Unions of St. Louis, against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Hoffman, Garlepy, Reichert, Hall, Stack, Stevens and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was, a certain manufacturer discharged two members of the union. The union called a strike, demanding the reinstatement of the members and the payment by the firm of their lost time. The company appealed to the International President against the action of the Joint Unions of St. Louis. The International President rendered a decision to the effect that the discharged members should be re-employed, but that the firm should not be compelled to pay for the lost time sustained by them. The Joint Unions of St. Louis appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That the decision rendered is the only just and equitable one; that the company had agreed to reopen its factory and abide by the decision of the International President in the premises, but that the union refused to accept this without the deposit of the amount of money alleged to be due the two members; that the members were entitled to the protection of the union, but that the union should have endeavored immediately to straighten out the affair so that the members would not be victimized. The fact that the union did not do this for some time does not seem to be a just reason for forcing the factory to reimburse.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained.

Fraternally,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,

First Vice President.

Washington, D. C., July 11, 1921.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by Union No. 168 of Oshkosh, Wis., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Hoffman, Garlepy, Reichert, Hall, Stack, Stevens and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was, the International Financier held that a certain member had drawn illegal sick benefit on account of being over the limit in dues. The union appealed this case to the International President, claiming that the member was so busy with his employment that he had no time to visit the union headquarters and clear himself in his dues. The International President sustained the action of the Financier. The union thereupon appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That the evidence shows that this member was over the limit in dues and consequently had drawn illegal sick benefit; that he was a member who did not work at the business, and simply maintained his membership for the insurance, and it was doubly necessary that he should comply with the laws governing these benefits; that under the constitution the International President could render no other decision, consequently this action should be sustained.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained.

Fraternally,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,

First Vice President.

Washington, D. C., July 11, 1921.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by Union 187, of Covington, Ky., against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Hoffman, Garlepy, Reichert, Hall, Stack, Stevens and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was a manufacturer appealed against Union 187 in reference to the minimum selling price of labeled cigars. The International President sustained the appeal of the manufacturer. The union therefore appealed against the decision of the International President to the Executive Board. The union claims that the scale was adopted in the legal form and that the manufacturer must adhere thereto in order to secure the use of the label.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That Union 187 of Covington, Ky., and Union No. 4 of Cincinnati, O., formed a joint advisory board and agreed upon a minimum selling price. These unions later agreed to raise that selling price. Later Union No. 4 reduced the minimum price to the former level, with the understanding that Union 187 would do likewise; that the action of the union is thoroughly in violation of the law of the local and International Union, and the decision of the International President should therefore be sustained.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained.

Fraternally,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,

First Vice President.

Washington, D. C., July 11, 1921.

In the case of the appeal to the Executive Board, C. M. I. U. of A., by Union No. 44 of St. Louis, against the decision rendered by the International President, the vote was as follows:

Affirmative—None.

Negative—Hoffman, Garlepy, Reichert, Hall, Stack, Stevens and Gompers.

The basis of the appeal was, Union No. 44 decided that a manufacturer should pay for time lost by three members laid off, the union claiming that these men were laid off for union activities. The manufacturer appealed against the action of the union to the International President, who sustained the appeal. The union thereupon appealed to the Executive Board against the decision of the International President.

The International President bases his decision upon substantially the following grounds: That the evidence shows that these men were laid off for lack of stock; that there was no real reason for their losing any time, as there were plenty of opportunities for employment; that the matter of forcing any manufacturer to pay for lost time is a practice that cannot in justice be sustained, unless it is proven that the men were victimized solely on account of their union activities, and also the matter should be taken up within twenty-four hours so that no large sum of money can be assessed in this manner; that the evidence in this case would not permit of any other decision.

In accordance with the vote cast and above recorded, the decision of the International President is sustained.

Fraternally,

SAMUEL GOMPERS,

First Vice President.

INTERNATIONAL FINES

The International Executive Board approved the application of 341, San Bernardino, Calif., to fine J. D. Youngker, 79507, $100 for operating a non-union shop; Tom McGraw, 100747, $100 for working in the non-union shop, and Anna Ubovich, 3629, and Mary Trosara, 150,108, $50 each, and the card of the latter annulled, for working in the non-union shop. Vote: Affirmative, 6; one member approved the $100 fine on Youngker but only $25 on the others; one member disapproved the annulment of card.

Approved the application of 306, Pueblo, Colo., to fine Delbert Mooney, 6429, $100 for working against the interests of the union in the F. L. Mullett closed shop, and to fine Myrtle Hargis, 13698, $100 for working in this shop, also to annul the cards of these members. Vote: Affirmative, 7; one member voted for a fine of $50.

Approved the application of 160, Milford, Mass., to fine W. P. Roberts, 31412, $100 and annul his card, for manufacturing non-union cigars. Vote: Affirmative, 7; one member approved a fine of $25.

Approved the application of 52, Elmira, N. Y., to fine Robert Calhoun, 78344, and M. McCoillister, 77857, each $100 for working in the non-union factory of Markel & Co. Vote: Affirmative, 8; negative, 0.

International Fines.

Approved the application of 14, Chicago, to fine Gus Hitterman (69737) $25 for drawing illegal out of work benefit. Vote: Affirmative, 7; negative, 0.

Approved the application of 314, Jackson, Mich., to fine Harry Van Duzer (50275) $100 for taking a job in the strike shop of M. A. Dibble. Vote: Affirmative, 5; two members approved $25.

Approved the application of 228, San Francisco, to annul the card of Sam Sarver (71355) and fine him $100 for working in an unfair shop after drawing the limit in sick benefit. Vote: Affirmative, 5; one member approved only $25; one member approved the fine but not the annulment of card.

Approved the application of 228, San Francisco, to annul the card of Fred W. Carlson (80673) and fine him $100 for working in the strike shop, the St. Francis. Vote: Affirmative, 5; one member disapproved the annulment of card.

Fines of $10 or Less.

Union 379 fined A. F. Goodrich (74125) $10 and suspended him for working in the closed shop of N. Lizard.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

Amendment by 273, Rockland:

Amend Section No. 92 by adding Section 92 C. Extra Special Strike Fund.

An extra special strike fund to cover all expenses equally not now provided for in the Constitution.

A 50c assessment shall be levied on all 60-cent and 30-cent dues paying members. Class B members shall pay 25c, or one-half of the full assessment levied in the months of September and March of each calendar year, payable in eight weeks. This fund to be known as an Extra Special Strike Fund, to be used to pay all legitimate, incidental and miscellaneous expenses of an approved strike not now covered by the Special Strike Fund, such as benefits to members who have not been in the union three months, extenuating circumstances of members who require extra allowances, strippers and other workers involved in a strike whose loyalty to the strike demands consideration. All incidental and miscellaneous expenses incurred by the local strike committee and approved by the International President shall be paid from this fund that is not now covered by the Constitution.

This Extra Special Strike Fund to be governed by the same laws that control the Special Strike Fund, in levying the assessments, in depositing the monies and distributing the benefits, including the replenishing of the reserve fund when it falls below 50c per capita per member.

(Do not endorse two or more amendments on the same sheet of paper. Send in a separate endorsement for each amendment, as they have to be filed separately.)

The amendment of 97, Boston, providing for the adoption of amendments by a majority vote, as published in the May issue.

Received the endorsement of Unions 218, Binghamton; 16, Binghamton; 44, St. Louis (Sec. 213); 42, Hartford (Sec. 213); 331, Crookston; 130, Saginaw; 266, Memphis; 179, Bangor; 429, Niagara Falls; 114, Jacksonville; 172, Davenport; 81, Peekskill; 90, New York (Sec. 214); 238, Sacramento; 500, Tampa; 46, Grand Rapids.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it can not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 179, Bangor, as published in the June issue, as follows:

Amend Section 92 by adding Section 92c, to be known as an "Extra Special Strike Fund," to cover all expenses equally, not now provided for in the constitution.

A 50-cent assessment shall be levied on all 60-cent and 30-cent dues paying members. Class B members shall pay 25 cents, or one-half of the full assessment levied in the months of March and September of each calendar year, payable in eight weeks. This fund to be known as an "Extra Special Strike Fund," to be used to pay all legitimate, incidental and miscellaneous expenses of an approved strike not covered by the "Special Strike Fund," such as benefits to members who have not been in the union three months, extenuating circumstances of members who require extra allowances, strippers and other workers involved in a strike whose loyalty to the strike demands consideration. All incidental and miscellaneous expenses incurred by the local strike committee and approved by the International President shall be paid from this fund, that is not now covered by the constitution. This "Extra Special Strike Fund" to be governed by the same laws that control the Special Strike Fund, in levying the assessment, in depositing the moneys, and distributing the benefits, including the replenishing of the reserve fund when it falls below 50 cents per capita per member.

Received the endorsement of Unions 218, Binghamton; 39, New Haven; 144, New York; 35, Dayton; 160, Milford; 294, Duluth; 357, Vancouver; 331, Crookston; 273, Rockland; 462, Tampa; 217, South Chicago.

The amendment of 278, London, as published in the June issue, as follows:

That an assessment of $1.00 be levied on each 60 cents and 30-cent member for the purpose of starting an agitation campaign over Canada, to offset the severe drive now on by all manufacturers for the so-called "Open Shop" which has resulted in the loss of nearly all our Label Shops and greatly reduced the strength of our Locals. The revenue from proposed assessment to be under the direction of the Int. President, who shall appoint and control the necessary number of agitators to operate in Canada from the London, Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal districts, said districts to forward names to Int. President for his consideration.

Received the endorsements of Unions 150, Sioux City; 15, Chicago; 218, Binghamton; 168, Oshkosh; 55, Hamilton; 294, Duluth; 27, Toronto; 22, Detroit; 118, Peoria; 35, Dayton; 200, Galesburg; 381, Watertown; 140, Niagara Falls; 61, La Crosse; 357, Vancouver; 58, Montreal; 331, Crookston; 135, Appleton; 447, Kenosha; 375, Anaconda.

The amendment of 331, Crookston, as published in the June issue, as follows:

Union 331, Crookston, offers the following amendment to Sec. 92a:

After the word "levied" on line 14, Sec. 92a, strike out all down to Sec. 92B and insert the following:

92a. "The funds so collected shall be remitted by Financial Secretary at the end of each month to the International President.

"The International President shall deposit such funds in the State Bank of North Dakota, at Bismarck, N. D., and such funds shall be subject to the direction of the International President, who may withdraw said funds in whole or in part as the circumstances may warrant, after the same has been approved by the International Executive Board."

Received the endorsement of 168, Oshkosh.

Union No. 238, Sacramento, proposes the following amendment to the Constitution:

Any 20-year member in good standing, 65 years of age or over, and out of work, would be entitled to draw four hundred and fifty dollars of the death benefit at ten dollars per week, leaving the one hundred dollars for burial expenses.

By 383, Chicago: Amend the Constitution by adding the following to Sec. 79: Whenever it becomes necessary to levy a special assessment to finance a strike, the strikers affected must be exempted from the payment of such assessment.

Union No. 500, Tampa, offers the following amendment:

Amend Sec. 180 by adding: "All members on strike or lockout, if same has been approved by C. M. I. U. of A., shall be exempt from all international assessments levied before or after said strike or lockout has been approved. But these members, beginning immediately after the strike or lockout has ended, shall pay the remaining of any assessments levied after said strike or lockout has been approved."

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

Amendments adopted since the latest edition of the Constitution:

Amend Section 117 by adding after the word due stamp, on third line, or assessments levied, so as to read:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out of work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and assessments levied, of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of work for at least two weeks. No other change.

In effect May 1, 1921.

Section 61a—Special.

All members engaged in the cigar industry enumerated in Section 61, with the exceptions noted therein, working in any factory not entitled to the use of the label, and which does not pay the regular established bill of prices, may become members under the following conditions:

First—An initiation fee of $1.00, payable in four weekly installments of 25 cents each.

Second—Weekly dues of 30 cents for the first three months of membership, 40 cents for the second three months of membership, 50 cents for the third three months of membership, and regular dues of 60 cents after nine months of membership.

Third—Exemption from all assessments for the first four months of membership. After four months of membership such members shall pay one-half of all local and international assessments, except label assessments, except as hereafter provided.

The benefits of all members initiated under the foregoing provisions shall be:

First—Strike benefit of $3.00 per week for the first sixteen weeks and $4.00 per week thereafter. In the event of an authorized strike, involving members who have been such for three months, a member wishing to draw his card shall be granted a loan amounting to his indebtedness for due stamps and assessments and to $2.00, the same to be charged on his card as a traveling loan. No member accepting this privilege can return to the local and again be placed on the strike list.

Second—In all other respects the laws and rules governing arrearages of dues, suspension from membership, limitation as to time in the payment of benefits, and all other laws governing the members paying sixty-cent dues, shall apply to members enrolled under this special law.

Third—Members enrolled under this special law shall have the privilege of paying sixty-cent weekly dues and all international and local assessments, and be entitled to the full benefits.

Fourth—Any member initiated under Section 61a, securing employment in a factory using the label of which pays the regular scale of prices (or should the factory in which he is employed become entitled to the use of the label, or pay the regular scale of prices), shall automatically advance to the full dues-paying class.

Fifth—Members having paid the full contributing weekly dues prior to the adoption of this amendment, or subsequently thereto, can not be transferred to come under Section 61a, except as provided in the following paragraph:

Sixth—All former fifteen-cent Class A members now in good standing may have the privilege of transferring to the class of membership provided for in this special law. All former fifteen-cent Class A members who have become suspended may rejoin under the provisions of this special law, without the payment of an initiation fee.

Seventh—All members initiated under the provisions of this special law, at the expiration of nine months, shall be transferred to the full regular dues paying membership and be entitled to all benefits provided for in the constitution, with the constitutional time limits. A member having paid the weekly dues of thirty cents and forty cents and fifty cents and the stipulated assessments, transferring to the full contributing dues paying membership, shall be given credit for time on benefits for one-half of the time he may have paid such dues. For example—a member having contributed the dues specified in Section 61a for nine months shall be credited on time allowance for sick, out of work and death benefits, with nineteen weeks. Fractions of a week shall not be counted.

Eighth—This special law to remain in force until four months after the next convention of the International Union.

UNION NOTES

Notes by Union 97, Boston: Don't take too much stock in the literary-inspired stuff in the daily papers—Will Hearst did not win.—Union 192, Manchester, N. H., is doing great work for our label. Why, they own an automobile, and go from place to place with it, covering territory that would not otherwise be covered.—It may be of interest to note various nostrums advocated during commercial crisis: In 1816—The demonetization of gold. In 1837—The destruction of the United States Bank. In 1873—The organization of the Greengack party. In 1893—The organization of the People's party.—The eight-hour day is here, and the only change will be to seven.—No other force has done as much for labor as the trade union. Other forms of labor come and go.—What do you know of the charted movement of 1838 and what followed?—Will our multimillionaires want a king and titles of nobility?—Some of the framers of the Constitution of the United States did not believe in the common people. Vide Electoral College.—Alexander Hamilton, Roger Sherman, Eldridge Gary and John Adams had no confidence in the masses.—Piecemeal is the curse of the labor movement.—Has your local a credit? IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted a resolution of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 129, Denver, Colo.—C. A. Gaudette, 108468, who died April 22, age 36.

March 3, 1879.

The future demands much of each of us but the pressing need of the hour is organization. Our paid organizers, while far too few, must resolve to put more and still more energy into their work. All they can do is still not enough and it becomes necessary that every member of our union help in organization work.

Every unorganized cigar-worker must be encouraged to become a part of the organization. This can be done more quickly by each individual member firmly resolving to do his part in the gigantic task.

Let the work be done and the result will show an increased pay envelope and better working conditions for the remainder of our own working days and as a heritage to our children.

What has the trade union movement accomplished? Plenty!

Labor Day.

Soon another Labor Day will have come and gone. Another mile stone beside the road of progress will have been passed and another interesting chapter of achievement added to the history of the trade union movement.

The past year, while filled with trials and tribulations, privation and suffering, has after all been one of wonderful achievement. We have successfully met a determined effort on the part of organized greed, which hoped to disrupt our organization. We met this drive of the "open shoppers" with set jaws, unflinching courage, and firm determination. Our position is right and just, and has proven unshakeable. We have weathered the storm with colors unsullied and spirit unbroken. We have no fear for the future. Undeclared, undaunted and unafraid, we are marching on with fresh confidence and renewed courage to still greater achievements.

Ours is the only union that claims jurisdiction in-so-far as the use of the union label is concerned over the selling price of the manufactured article. Other organizations whose products are symbolized as union made by the use of a union label allow its use on any product produced under union conditions. Hence we find the label on shoes regardless of making or selling price from the cheapest brogan to the highest priced dress shoe. We find the label on printed matter from the cheapest dodger to the highest priced work. The same principle applies to clothing, bakery goods and to nearly all label goods found in the market today.

In the final analysis the consumer is really the deciding factor in price setting. That is, if we have only $5.00 to spend for a pair of shoes, $5.00 is the price we set on the goods we contemplate purchasing. We then look for shoes selling for $5.00 which bear the label knowing full well that it is produced under the same union conditions as is the shoe selling for $20.00 or more.

The application of this natural law of selection, as regards the sales price, by the consumer leads us directly to our own law by which we decree to a certain extent the selling price of the cigar which bears our union label.

Our trade is like all others, evolutionary. Many changes are being made in the manner of making cigars and the use of machinery is becoming more and more prevalent.

The introduction of machinery, and as a result, machine made goods, has in other trades had the effect of cheapening the selling price of the manufactured article. It is only reasonable to suppose the same thing will eventually happen to some extent in our own industry.

The same law of evolution that changes the way of making cigars has caused, and will further necessitate, many changes and modifications in our laws. Laws that were to our advantage and for our mutual protection in the past and applied to conditions now lost in the evolutionary march of progress will be found to be of no value and perhaps detrimental to our future well being under the changed conditions in our industry.

The use of the union label on cigars made wholly or in part by machine is one of the questions we will have to meet. Let us give the question the serious consideration it deserves. If a shop is organized in all departments is there any logical argument against its product bearing the union label?

The amendment of Union 278 London, Ont., which provides that an assessment of $1.00 shall be levied on each sixty-cent and each thirty-cent member for the purpose of starting an agitation campaign for organization, having received the required number of seconds, will be submitted to popular vote for action.

In voting upon this question note should be taken of several points. This is a special assessment upon all members, the proceeds of which apply only to our Canadian jurisdiction. Many of our members are out of work and others working on a limit. These must pay this special assessment, in the proceeds of which they can not participate. The same applies to our members who are on strike. This is especially true of the Porto Rican members, who are making a fight for the very life of the organization, with the American Tobacco Company trust with all of its resources arrayed against them. The depression in our industry and in all industries does not effect Canada alone. It is general and even world wide in its effect, from which the membership regardless of where located are suffering. Special assessments are contrary to the life long policy of the International Union to treat all members alike.

Professional Opinion. In a lengthy report, highly technical, recently published in the New York Medical Journal three eminent members of the medical profession, Doctors Wm. J. Geis, Columbia University; Max Kahn, Beth Israel Hospital (New York), and O. V. Limerick, Brooklyn Diagnostic Institute, assert that tobacco is not harmful to adults but, on the contrary, is distinctly beneficial to certain types.

Their report further shows that the use of tobacco is not a cause of disease either of the mind or body; that the rise in blood pressure, so strongly stressed by those who condemn the use of tobacco, does not exceed in degree or duration that which ordinarily follows a cold bath or sponge and does not equal that caused by dancing or other moderate exercise.

They further claim that the excessive use of tobacco is no more harmful than excesses in other things including food.

Sir John Cantlie, a prominent physician of London, England, is on record as saying, "Tobacco is the least harmful of the four social poisons, tea, coffee, tobacco and alcohol."

Elect to Membership. The election of President, Vice-Presidents, and American Federation of Labor Delegates is over. Let us now turn our undivided attention to the election of cigarmakers, packers, banders, and others of our industry to membership in the International Union. We say to those outside the pale of organization as well as to those already embraced therein that nothing can save wages and working conditions except our organization.

Good-bye, Welfare. The latter part of 1919 and the first six months of 1920 saw more so called "Welfare Work" inaugurated by industry than ever before. Business was brisk, labor was scarce and few industries were without their own pet schemes for the "Betterment?" of their help.

The latter part of 1920 and the first six months of 1921 has seen a shrinkage in welfare work to the extent that it practically no longer exists in industry. Welfare departments have been discontinued, factory hospitals closed, bonuses have been omitted and the whole scheme has apparently evaporated.

"Welfare Work" at its best is only a crumb placed on labor's plate with the hope that it will appease a just demand for higher wages and better working conditions. Big business, generally, is not philanthropic. The elimination of its widely heralded scheme of "Betterment" under the misnomer, "Welfare Work," as soon as times get dull and workers become plentiful proves conclusively that it is but a catch-penny plan with neither intended worth or merit for the workers.

There is only one kind of "welfare" work that goes on through the lean years of depression as well as the far too few years of inflation and plenty and that is a paid up card in the union. Make a comparison in your own town, in your own trade or in any other, between the chap who was a beneficiary (?) in some so called welfare shop and the one who has a card and a job in a regularly organized shop. Which is the better off today?

Business organizations are not maintained for the betterment of anything except business itself and those associated in business to make money. Any betterment that labor may hope to gain must come from organizations maintained for the workers' advancement, hence our hope as workers lies in our affiliation with the organization of our fellows.

Industrial democracy is just as important as political democracy, to save which the world war was waged. The right to work, the right to a job, in order that we may live, is a heritage that all workers cherish as the paramount vital issue of their lives. This inherent right is paramount to the rights of capitalists or capital.

We deny that fair wages necessarily increase the cost of living. Ninety per cent of the high cost of living is due to the incompetency of manufacturers, their agents, and superintendents, the turn over system, and profiteering. Labor can not, should not, and will not under a just and fair economic condition carry the frightful burden of incompetency of the big masses of the employers and the herd of profiteers. It is claimed that sixty-seven per cent or more of those who engage in business fail for the sole reason of incompetency. Labor believes in efficiency and will do its full share to meet the demands of scientific management, but it rightfully insists that the incompetent and inefficient employers must either become efficient or go back into the workers ranks where they rightfully belong. Generally speaking labor will not submit to reductions of wages and lengthened hours for the sole purpose of allowing incompetent manufacturers to continue in business.

In the building trades workmen are employed about 190 days a year.

Unemployment causes an annual loss of $500,000,000.

Accidents cause an annual loss of $120,000,000.

Duplication of estimates and designs and duplication in bidding cause an annual loss of $1,000,000.

Application of safety methods would save 12,000,000 days of work a year.

The above are some of the conclusions reached by the committee on elimination of waste in industry of the American engineering council, appointed by Herbert Hoover.

"Haphazard management in planning and controlling work and lack of standards, which often double the labor cost, characterizes most construction undertakings," says the report, which adds that in the past union regulations produced losses, but "workmen and contractors are beginning to appreciate that reduced output reacts in tremendous fashion upon themselves.

"In some construction trades accidents involve losses up to 10 per cent of the labor costs in addition to the loss of human lives and energy. The average loss, computed from insurance statistics, is about 2½ per cent of labor costs."

The report insists that greater co-operation between employer and employee is "an absolute essential," and that this co-operation is impossible "without the removal of causes of friction and the working out of plans to this end."

In this period of reconstruction and readjustment a tremendous responsibility rests upon all right-thinking men and women. Some selfish, short-sighted people who think only in terms of money and see only things that bear the dollar mark are striving to readjust and make things fit the old order as it applies to the workers, that prevailed prior to the world war. Thoughtful, intelligent people realize that the unbearable conditions, low wages, and long hours heretofore prevailing are a thing of the past, and all such are now striving to readjust the economic condition in order that they may fit in to the new order.

The old order placed the dollar above humanity. The new order places humanity and civilization above the dollar mark. If perchance the reactionary, selfish, dollar-chasing, so-called open-shop drivers should be successful civilization would go back a hundred years or more, while with justice, right, and the principle of human welfare civilization will go forward with leaps and bounds. The triumph of human rights, justice, and liberty is a worthy motive, and every real true American citizen, and more especially those in the trade union movement must enlist in this crusade,—must do his full share, and if he does, success will crown his efforts.

The history of the whole world shows that if man is prevented by the privileged few or the state from progressing naturally and peacefully he will resort to underground, secret, and finally revolutionary means. This is particularly true on the economic field of endeavor. Let us stick closely to the natural, evolutionary development. It may be slow but it is sure. It has taken five or six hundred centuries or more for men to develop thus far. This has been accomplished by heeding the lessons of the past, and making use of experience and knowledge gained. If this course is continued in the economic fields our progress will go forward with leaps and bounds.

The industrial depression with its consequent unemployment, privations and suffering of the great mass of the workers is still with us. We have had just as severe periods of depression and stagnation and consequent unemployment, from which we have always recovered. The present crisis will be no exception to its predecessors. Not only will the depression end in due course of time but we will maintain our organization as we have in the past, and we will be doing business in the usual way at the first signs of returning prosperity.

Capitalists in their mad rush to destroy organized labor are trying to do the thing that if successful will ultimately hurt the capitalists and capital. It is what the workers receive in wages that keeps the wheels of industry turning. The only institution on earth that creates fair wages is the trade union movement. The destruction of the trade union movement would finally destroy civilization itself.

An eminent statesman of Europe said about a year ago that "An old age is dying and a new age is in the process of construction," and he in substance expressed the thought that no tears would be shed at the funeral of the age which condemned the great mass of humanity to work, live, and die a few jumps ahead of starvation and a few doors from the poor house.

The trade union movement was never discovered or patented by any one man or woman. It naturally just grew up through practical and evolutionary development, and was early recognized as the only sure, practical, sane, and safe means by which the workers could protect their own best economic working conditions.

Some recent writers on social and economic conditions have boldly stated an economic truth known to all students of political economy, that "the great bulk of the wealth of today is a free gift of the dead past." There is a difference between wealth and money.

Beware of the labor spy, and of the chap who is always preaching dual organization!

There is no royal road to an ideal industrial state. Nature knows neither capital nor labor. It does not know one ism from another. To be successful we must progress along natural evolutionary lines, or we shall meet disaster.

The union label if given a fair chance will help to defeat the "open shop drive" and shorten its duration.

Boost the label. Stand with it. Insist upon it.

Don't overlook the label! It is a friend. Get out and boost for it and make no purchase unless it is covered by the label and is made by a union worker under fair wages and decent working conditions.

The constructive trade union movement stands between the workers and poverty and enables them to secure fair wages, justice, and better working and living conditions.

The trade union movement is indestructible. It was formed of necessity and necessity for protection of the workers' best interests will keep it alive.

The trade union movement will play a mighty and successful part in the reconstruction period.

Washington, D. C., July 20, 1921.

To the Secretaries of The National and International, State, Central and Local Unions, Greetings:

The proceedings of the forty-first annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, held at Denver, Colorado, June 13th to 25th, inclusive, will soon be ready for distribution at 50 cents per copy and $40 per hundred.

The proceedings contain the report of the Executive Council to the Denver convention and reports made to the convention by the committees to whom resolutions were referred. In addition, they contain the addresses of the fraternal delegates from Great Britain and Canada, and four other addresses that were ordered printed in full, and which contain information that is of special interest to the wage workers.

The proceedings of the Denver convention should be read by the officers of all local unions. If you desire copy or a number of copies, kindly send in your order at the earliest possible date.

Yours fraternally,

FRANK MORRISON,

Secretary,

American Federation of Labor.

MEN OF LABOR, ONWARD!

In the American Federationist.

By Samuel Gompers,

With the approach of Labor Day it is necessary that there be a stock-taking and a making of plans for the future work of our labor movement.

American labor, on its day of celebration and commemoration this year must give to the world a message of hope, of courage, of determination and of constructive thought.

The forces of destruction and of reaction have made every possible onslaught. They have sought to disrupt, to tear down, to despoil, to imprison, to corrupt. They have sought to injure and destroy by economic might, by the passage of hurtful laws, by the abuse of injunctions, by the manipulation of wealth and by the use of that portion of the public press which customarily lends itself to the uses of the unprincipled.

The trade union movement has stood like a rock through the storm. No assault of reaction at any period of history was ever more successfully withstood. No body of men and women anywhere at any time ever manifested a sterner spirit or stood more unitedly than the American trade union movement in the face of the hostile attitude of aggressive and ruthless organizations of employers, bent upon breaking down the organizations of the wage earners.

Our movement has now reached the point in the struggle where it is not enough to stand firm in resistance. We have resisted at every point until the drive of the labor-hating opposition has been brought to a point where it is without initiative, without enthusiasm, without what may be called driving power. This does not mean that it is not still a menace. It is a menace as long as it exists, and it remains a menace which cannot be lost sight of for a moment. But it has for the present been beaten out of its initial momentum by the tremendous effort of the trade union movement.

The time has come for Labor to assume the aggressive. We have held the line. Our positions are intact. It is the hour for a great forward movement. With a unity such as our movement has never excelled, with a spirit of determination unequalled, let us face the future prepared to take advantage of every opportunity which the future offers.

The labor movement predicates the success of every effort upon the righteousness of its position and on the strength of its organization. The principles of our movement have been tried and found true. The great need of the day is organization and more organization—more unity and solidarity. The necessity of trade unionism—always a necessity and hope of deliverance—must be carried to the unorganized everywhere.

The organizers of the American Federation of Labor, both those who give their full time to the work and those who serve as volunteers, the officers of national and international unions, of state federations, city central bodies and local unions, have ever been faithful and self-sacrificing, but the movement calls upon them for redoubled effort, for a greater consecration to the work and for a more energetic deliverance of the message of organized labor.

In addition it should be considered the sacred duty of every individual member of the trade union movement, every member of the great rank and file, to constitute himself an untiring organizer of men and women for the great tasks that lie ahead.

Labor Day this year should be made a red-letter day in the history of organization work. Upon that day our movement everywhere should so conduct itself as to compel for its ideals and its practical purposes the attention of all wage earners. The observance of labor's great holiday should be so ordered in every community as to drive home the message of trade unionism and to carry to all hearts and minds the thought that the organized labor movement is the great movement of workers for human freedom and progress.

The trade union movement is dedicated to the proposition that autocratic control of industry must be destroyed in order that there may be a full development of human freedom and in order that all men and women may have a voice in the determination of their destiny.

This is a purpose worthy of the best effort of a great wage-earning population. It is an ideal to fire the souls of men. It is the great task of the labor movement.

This task, this great constructive effort for human freedom, can be accomplished only as the workers organize. Democracy enters into modern industry only through the organization of the workers. Autocratic control with all of its brutality and injustice, remain in full flower where there is no organization of labor.

The greatest contribution which the members of our movement can make today to the cause of human progress is the unrestrained giving of effort in the work of organization.

Set Labor Day as the day upon which our great effort is to begin. Set Labor Day as the day upon which we cease holding the line and begin to move forward in a great resistless wave. Upon that day let there be demonstrations, let there be great gatherings of the workers. Let there be inspiring public addresses and distribution of the literature of our movement. Let there be everywhere enthusiastic celebration of Labor day. In those communities where lately there has been an abandonment of Labor Day demonstrations, let there be a revival of them. Let there be a full utilization of every proper means of carrying to the great masses of our wage-earners the necessity of trade unionism and from that day on let the work of organization go on with such a vigor, such an intensity and such an inspired purpose as our movement has never known.

It is the hour for action. Rally the forces of labor everywhere for the great forward movement. Bend every energy to the work of organization.

Through organization our movement will achieve every good purpose and through organization will be defeated every selfish, greedy and undemocratic purpose or reaction.

The voices of the defenseless call upon us. The eyes of the downtrodden are turned toward us. The tide of progress waits upon our effort.

Men of Labor, be up and doing! Organize the unorganized. Unite and federate the organized in solid phalanx. Men of Labor, be up and doing. March forward and upward to the goal of justice, freedom and humanity!

TRADE NOTES.

Tampa's cigar production for June was 20.-150,790, which is approximately twenty per cent less than for May.

About 160,000,000 pounds of home grown and imported tobacco are used annually in the United States in the manufacture of cigars.

In quantities commercially important tobacco, used in the manufacture of cigars, is grown in eight states, the acreage being respectively as follows:

	Acrea.
Connecticut	25,000
Massachusetts	10,000
Florida and Georgia	7,000
New York	3,000
Pennsylvania	33,000
Ohio	40,000
Wisconsin	49,000

The four states producing shade tobacco are: Connecticut, Massachusetts, Florida and Georgia.

The decline in American exports during the fiscal year ended June 30 was the greatest suffered by this country in 121 years or since the statistical record is available. Since 1800 there has been a steady increase in the value of exports. There was a slight falling off during the years 1893 to 1896, inclusive, but during the past year we find exports dropped from $8,-111,039,733 to $6,519,365,000.

While the figures for cigars are not at present available it is readily understood that in a time of such serious depression in other lines the exports of cigars must have suffered correspondingly and perhaps to a greater extent than has other commodities which are considered more in the line of essentials.

The following report showing the number of cigars manufactured in June, 1921, as compared with the number manufactured in June, 1920, although incomplete, is an accurate portrayal of the state of our trade at the present time.

Careful analysis shows that in the non-union districts the decreases shown are as great as they are in the partly organized and organized districts. This proves conclusively that low wages and long hours do not necessarily entail continuous employment.

"The man or woman who buys goods at a profiteer's shop when they could go to a co-operative shop, are idiots and ought not to be trusted with money," said George Bernard Shaw the other day, in speaking before the co-operative society of Sunderland, England. "You have got a tremendous movement—you have got about one-sixth of the industry of the country, and I look forward to the time when you will have the whole industry of the country. Then the movement will have become a part of the country," continued Shaw.

"The Ripley, England, co-operative society loaned $50,000 to the Derbyshire miners, and $15,000 to the Notts miners in their recent strike. The Coalville co-operative society voted a credit of $65,000 to the miners' union in that district.

"The Leicestershire miners' organization issued vouchers to its members, which were honored by the co-operative society for their face value in merchandise. The money is to be repaid, with no interest charged.

"The Congleton co-operative society also honored these vouchers and gave the miners 1,500 four-pound loaves of bread a week that was baked by them. This society also gave the Yorkshire miners a credit of $5,000.

"Scores of other societies gave credit to the miners. Many societies made donations outright, and all of them sold goods to the strikers at cost.

"Sensible people do not leave important matters to be determined by chance when they have the opportunity and power to arrange for them to their liking."

The above illustration shows what 192, Manchester, is doing and how they are doing it.

They have an active Label Committee that is making our Blue Label known to smokers throughout the entire Manchester district. One result of their most laudable efforts is shown in a most convincing and irrefutable manner. When we study the comparative report of the number of cigars manufactured during June, 1921, and June, 1920, published elsewhere in this issue, we find in the face of almost universal decrease New Hampshire showing an increase of 1,441,890 cigars over the number made during the same month in 1920.

What Union 192 Manchester has done and is doing can be done in other places. It only needs the application of work coupled with resolution to accomplish the desired end and a steady and unceasing effort to put over a job that has ever born beneficial results.

Excessive Taxation.

The Fordney Bill, passed by the House of Representatives, proposes to increase the duty on filler tobacco 10c per pound and on wrappers 25c per pound.

In the mad scramble to provide revenue to meet our bills it seems that Congress is sadly overplaying the tobacco and cigar end of the game.

Such short-sightedness on the part of our revenue producers will eventually slaughter the proverbial goose. Increased duty on raw material means monopoly and an added cost and decreased manufacture. Decreased manufacture means decreased internal revenue, hence it is easily seen that their procedure is harmful instead of remedial in results.

Legislation overtaxing the small cigar manufacturer has already driven hundreds of them out of business.

The cost of cigar tobacco has increased from 64 to 200 per cent, ranging in price as to the quality and type, within the last few years. The revenue increases have been from 33½ per cent on Class A cigars to 400 per cent on Class E cigars with a corresponding graduated increase on the intermediate classifications.

There is a limit to the amount of production cost that an industry can carry. We are now feeling the evil effects of the burden and the demand is made that labor shall shift to its own shoulders a part of the increased cost of production by reducing our bills of prices. Labor is at all times willing to stand its legitimate share of readjustment but to saddle the added revenue cost and the added material cost on the back of the cigar-worker is neither just nor equitable.

It is said "trickery is the work of the devil." You "trick" yourself as well as your fellow-workers when you do not demand the union label.

CORRESPONDENCE

Washington, D. C., July 30, 1921.

Mr. George W. Perkins, President, Cigarmakers' International Union, Monon Building, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir and Brother: The delegates of 'the Cigarmakers' International Union presented a resolution in the convention of the American Federation of Labor, held in Denver, urging all members of trade unions to insist upon the union label shop card and button when making purchases.

A circular letter, copy of which is enclosed, has been sent to all state federations of labor and central bodies urging compliance with the resolution.

With best wishes and assuring you of my desire to be helpful in any way within my power, I am,

Faternally yours,

SAM'L GOMPERS,

President, American Federation of Labor.

Washington, D. C., July 30, 1921.

To State Federations of Labor and City Central Bodies.

Dear Sirs and Brothers: Permit me to call attention to the following resolution adopted by the American Federation of Labor convention held in Denver, June 13-25, 1921:

"WHEREAS, One of the means used by the 'open shoppers' in their attacks upon the union shop is to place the union label on their product only on the insistent demand of the dealers and jobbers; and

"WHEREAS, Many union firms now entitled to use the label are, in compliance with the foregoing plan, now not in many cases putting the label on their product, and by this means testing the possibility of selling their goods without the union label; therefore be it

"RESOLVED, That all members of affiliated unions be and are hereby requested to advocate, urge and insist upon the union label, shop card and button when making purchases."

It is most important that all state federations of labor and central bodies approve this resolution and carry out its provisions to the greatest extent possible. Articles without the union label cannot be recognized as union made. All dealers should be notified of this resolution and the members of trade unions should be urged to insist that the union label should appear on all union made goods. Demanding union made articles is one of the most effective methods of organization. Each central body should discuss this question as frequently as possible and the local unions should be circularized as to the progress in extending the sale of union made goods. An intensive campaign of organization is now in progress throughout America and all agitation in favor of the union label will be of great benefit.

Faternally yours,

SAM'L GOMPERS,

President, American Federation of Labor.

Washington, D. C., July 29.—Coolie Importation for peonage on Hawaiian sugar plantations was given a severe blow here today when Hawaiian labor representatives, accompanied by President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor and fully a dozen other labor representatives, appeared before the House Committee on Immigration.

President George W. Wright of the Honolulu Central Labor Union gave the committee a complete account of the plantation labor situation and made it clear that, entirely aside from the principle of Oriental exclusion, there is no economic excuse for the importation of coolies.

As important as any statement made by the labor representatives was a statement of Congressman Raker, of California, member of the Committee on Immigration.

"The proposed joint resolution, if adopted," said Congressman Raker, "would make of Hawai an island of criminals. It would let down the bars to every criminal class everywhere in the world. And once on American soil they could go anywhere on American soil without passports."

President Wright described plantation conditions and told how plantation workers had gone into government works because of better pay. He made it clear that with the establishment of suitable wage conditions the labor supply necessary to the handling of the sugar crop would be available. He added that if there then should be any shortage the Philippine Islands would furnish the required number of workers. Methods of plantation operation were severely criticised from the standpoint of inefficiency.

The Honolulu Central Labor Union, it was testified, submitted to the sugar planters a proposal, or program, for the relief and remedying of the labor situation in the Islands. This program contained a diagnosis of the situation and a remedy therefor as follows:

"DIAGNOSIS: We find that the plight in which the sugar industry finds itself today is due primarily to the lack of a proper understanding and co-operation between employer and employees. This results in the discouragement and antagonism of the workers, which lowers their efficiency to approximately 50% of the normal, and causes dissatisfaction and the consequent drifting away from the plantations of the laborers whose services are required to take off the crop. Extremely low wages and the impossibility of earning a living except at the lowest possible standard of subsistence prevents those living outside the plantations from taking plantation jobs, though there are probably enough unemployed and temporarily employed who would be willing to fill the jobs if the conditions were such that there was any inducement offered.

"REMEDY: Follow the approved industrial methods and endeavor to increase the efficiency of your employees by effecting a right understanding with them. Recognize the principle of collective bargaining and signify your willingness to meet with representatives of your employees in a conference which we will arrange and to which we, as representatives of the Central Labor Council, will be present as the third party acting as mediators. We will guarantee that if this is done in the right spirit of co-operation on your part it will be met in the same spirit by your employees and an agreement reached whereby you will gain the friendship of your men and increase their efficiency to normal. As one of the chief matters to be considered at such a conference we suggest the establishment of a new wage scale based upon the cost of living, details as to flexibility and determining factors to be worked out later.

"If this increased efficiency does not then relieve your shortage, and the return of workers drawn back to plantation life by incentives offered still falls short of your requirements, we believe that plenty of new labor can be recruited in the Philippines, with the co-operation of the Filipino labor commission.

"As an added source of supply we point out that a large number of men will be discharged from federal construction work upon the signing of the Rehabilitation Bill, or shortly thereafter, who will be forced back on the plantations where they belong, provided you make it a point to employ citizen labor in the skilled and semi-skilled industries which your influence dominates. There is no question in our minds but that you will thus be able to fill your shortage of labor and maintain your industry at a normal pace without the importation of any other oriental labor."

Chairman Albert Johnson, conducting the hearing, made what labor representatives declared to be a studied effort to entangle President Wright and to discredit his testimony, but to no avail. At the conclusion of the day's testimony Chairman Johnson was obliged to compliment the labor man upon the fairness of his testimony.

Under the terms of the coolie importation bill, the subject of the hearing, it would be possible to import approximately 50,000 Chinese coolies to Hawaii upon proclamation that an emergency exists requiring such labor. The coolies would be brought to the islands in bond and would remain in a state of peonage in the islands.

It is announced that the American Federation of Labor and affiliated bodies will continue a vigorous fight on the bill, officially known as H. J. Resolution 171, and that a number of labor representatives will testify before the committee, objecting at every step to peonage legislation, letting down the bars to coolie importation.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 10.—"Have you studied this resolution enough to know that it provides for contract or peonage labor in the United States? Do you believe the people of this country will stand for a law that prohibits freedom of movement and that establishes peonage, serfdom and slavery, when these things have been abolished throughout the world, except in central Africa?"

These were questions fired at C. C. Hamlin, counsel for beet sugar interests, today before the House Immigration committee in the hearing on H. J. Res. 171, the Hawaii coolie labor resolution. They were asked by Congressman Raker of California.

Hamlin had said that those whom he represented were taking no interest in the resolution and that he appeared to contradict a statement he had seen published to the effect that the American Federation of Labor had charged that a conspiracy existed between the Hawaiian sugar planters and American sugar interests. Representatives of the A. F. of L. testified that no such charge had been made in any statement, but that the charge was that a conspiracy existed in Hawaii and that representations had been made to American sugar interests that they would be benefited ultimately if coolie labor could be introduced in Hawaii.

Congressman Raker's questions followed, branding the measure just as the A. F. of L. had branded it—a measure to establish peonage in Hawaii, on American soil, and to break down the established principle of oriental exclusion.

Questions asked by Congressman Guy L. Shaw of Illinois and Arthur M. Free of California in the course of cross examination of George H. Wright, president of the Honolulu Central Labor Union, appeared designed to break down Wright's testimony, but with no success. Wright continued his testimony today, holding to the fact that Oriental labor is not needed to meet Hawaiian requirements and that the trade union movement of Hawaii has presented an adequate remedy without resort to Chinese coolie labor and peonage.

President Gompers, present to testify, has not yet been heard, but he has, nevertheless, found good opportunity to interject troublesome questions.

Delegate Kalaniana'ole (representing the territory in the House) from Hawaii today broke into the proceedings with a statement that it was desired to "Americanise the islands," to which Mr. Gompers retorted, "with Chinese coolies."

It is evident that there is much sympathy for the peonage resolution among committee members and the battle for the measure is being carefully conducted by sugar representatives, of whom several are at all times present.

"It is vital that all organizations of workers, or of citizens generally who are opposed to oriental immigration and to the establishment of slavery, peonage and bondage on American soil, communicate their views to the House Committee on Immigration, either through Chairman Albert Johnson, or some of the other members. The determination to strike this blow at American freedom and civilization is real and there is influence and greedy determination behind it. It must be fought with vigor and with a determination that will be felt in Washington."

Kankakee, Ill., July 25, 1921.

In the July Journal I read a very able article on the union label by J. Humph. I certainly agree with every word he says. But I believe there is something radically wrong with the label movement or it would accomplish better results. Now, my idea is not original, but has been advocated by quite a few able and progressive members, but has never met with much response. My idea of a union label is one label with the A. F. of L. in big letters on it, and that every union man understands, for every article manufactured under union conditions—in other words, a universal label.

Now, I have been a union man for a great many years and am fairly well experienced in some of the many labels. As for instance, our own, the garment makers, the shoe workers and the hatters and the broom makers, but beyond that I wouldn't know all the different labels if I saw them, and there are dual unions not affiliated with the A. F. of L., and an A. F. of L. label would protect us from any of these. I had occasion the other day to be talking to a railroad man. He was a section boss and a very intelligent man—American born, of Irish or English descent. He was filling his pipe with Velvet and asked me if it was union made. I told him no, and he asked me to describe the union label so he would know it in the future. He had belonged to a union for three or four years and outside of being poorly posted on the union label he was a good 100 per cent union man. Now, there is an example of what so many different union labels is bringing us to. If we had one label we would soon all be so familiar with it that they couldn't hand us something else.

Hoping this will meet the eye of someone that has the same views as myself, but who can express himself clearer than I, I remain,

Yours in the cause,
FRED BREE.

Boston, Aug. 6, 1921.

The firm of Rosenfeld Smith Co., of Portland, Oregon, will handle one of the brands now made with machines in the city of New York. The brand in question is non-union made and if this fact is generally known upon the Pacific Slope will not suit the taste of members of organized labor. Men whose craft uses a union label card, button or pin will not smoke cigars unless the box bears a union label. The Pacific Coast is not good ground for non-union products. What say you, 202, 425 and 487?

HENRY ABRAHAMS,

Secretary.

Fellow Trade Unionists:

The one surest way to combat the effort of the employers and their organizations, who are attempting to disrupt the labor organizations by their "Open Shop" campaign, is for Trades Unionists to be more insistent than ever in demanding and accepting only such articles as bear the Union Label.

There is no doubt about there being concerted action, based upon well laid plans, to take advantage of the depression and try, not only to break down the labor standards to a pre-war basis, but also to disorganize the unions as much as possible in the process.

In these days of unemployment and propaganda for the so-called "Open Shop," the consistent demand and purchase of only union products will bring about the greatest possible alleviation of these conditions.

Besides reading this letter at the meeting, you are requested to refer it to the Label Committee for active work among users of paper. You should be sure that the job of printing bears the Union Label and is done upon union paper.

Fraternally yours,
JOHN J. MANNING.

To be as enthusiastic about the success of others as you are about your own, demand the union label.

THE TOILER, TODAY AND YESTERDAY.

By Samuel Gompers.

American labor is no longer typified by the figure in that painting, "The Man With the Hoe," with bent back and receding forehead and all the wrongs, sorrow and resentment of the ages writ upon his brow.

The men and the women of labor of today have learned the dignity of honest, productive toil and have come to realize their importance as the wealth producers of the world, without which toil and production, society and civilization itself, would shrivel and perish.

The wage-earners of today stand erect as sovereign citizens of our Republic and look the whole world in the face, demanding no special rights or privileges but insisting that justice, freedom and democracy shall guide our industrial as well as our political destinies.

Chicago, Ill., July 30, 1921.

To the Officers and Members of Local Unions.

Fellow Workmen: The International Election Canvassing Board met in accordance with the Constitution in the Headquarters of the Cigar Makers' International Union, Monon Building, Chicago, Illinois, July 19, 1921, where they proceeded to count the ballots cast at the election held July 9.

All ballots, reports and so forth, addressed to the International Canvassing Board, were given to us by the International President, G. W. Perkins, in the order in which he received them. We were furnished a room, where without molestation or interference from any source we proceeded to count the ballots and to verify the results.

The result is as follow:

A Labor Day Greeting.

Defeat the "open shop" with the union label. No more fitting time could be suggested than the approach of Labor Day to put into practical effect the principle set forth in the opening paragraph of this greeting.

The most effective way to help ourselves and bring confusion to our enemies is to see to it that no money earned under union conditions is spent for any commodities except those made under union conditions.

Whenever a purchase is made the purchaser is an employer of labor. Be consistent and purchase only union-labeled goods, for in this way only can you be sure of employing union labor.

The nearest point to an "open shopper's" heart is his pocketbook. Give him a "heart" blow by refusing to increase the contents of his pocketbook.

No trade unionist should appear in a Labor Day demonstration except he is clothed from head to feet with union-labeled wearing apparel, and what he does on Labor Day in this direction, he should do every day in the year.

Let us make Labor Day of 1921 one upon which we can say every member of a trade union is 100 per cent practical and consistent, and that he did his full share to "Defeat the 'open shop' with the union label."

Information as to where union-labeled goods can be procured will be cheerfully furnished by

Yours fraternally,

JOHN J. MANNING.

Secretary-Treasurer, Union Label Trades Department.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 1, 1921.

With the able assistance of an agitation and organization committee consisting of Mr. William Heins, president; Mr. Jos. Perez, vice-president; Mr. F. E. Andrews, now secretary; Messrs. William Bolz and Charles Applegate, all of Union 225, of Los Angeles, we have been keeping up a constant agitation for the sale of home made union label cigars, which has resulted in some improvement in the conditions of trade in the city and putting to work some of the cigarmakers who have been idle for a long time. Since my last letter we have, in addition to visiting dealers in cigars in all parts of the city, visited and addressed the following labor unions and placed in the hands of every member present a card bearing a facsimile of our union label and the names of the brands of union made cigars made in Los Angeles: Ironworkers' Union, No. 51; Hodcarriers' Union, No. 300; Egg Inspectors' Union; Pattern Makers' Union; Sign Writers' Union, No. 831; Upholsterers' Union, No. 15; Tile and Granite Masons Helpers, a new union; Carpenters' Union, No. 2516; Bricklayers' Union, No. 2; Pressmen's Union, No. 78; Butchers' Union, No. 265; Oil and Gas Workers' Union, No. 35; Building Laborers' Union, No. 1; Flour and Cereal Workers' Union, No. 204; Boiler-makers' Union, No. 723; joint meeting of the Brewers' Unions, Nos. 7 and 4; Stationary Firemen's Union, No. 220; Tailors' Union, No. 81. Addressed the Trade and Labor Council at three meetings; Carpenters' Union, No. 426; Musicians' Union, No. 47; Painters' Union, No. 202; Roofers' Union, No. 36; Carpet Layers Union, No. 80, and Carpenters' Auxiliary Union, No. 62. We have held several conferences with the cigar manufacturers of Los Angeles on the question of the sale in the city of union label cigars, with but little improvement.

Yours fraternally,

J. E. FARRELL,
General Organizer.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 2, 1921.

I am still continuing my efforts along the line of agitation, posting up signs and visiting different dealers, urging them with an argument to give union labor goods a prominent place in their cases, and am also working to have them put a window display in their windows during the week the Michigan Federation of Labor holds its convention in this city. The goods that are to be in the window are to be strictly union made cigars, which they have so far agreed to do. I am sure the delegates are going to take notice of this. From reports from other cities they have complained of not being able to find union made cigars in many places. I am trying to urge the girls to attend a meeting, but they are warned by the bosses if they are found to attend any meetings of any trade unions that their jobs will be up. I have had a number of girls' names signed by themselves on a list that have come to me telling me they could not attend a meeting or they would lose their jobs. Those who are willing to join and would have made good workers among the girls, they fired them, but they are convinced that they will never get conditions only through an organization. I visited the Monroe Cigar Co., but could not get any satisfaction from them. I also visited the Schneider Cigar Co. in reference to our bill of prices and organization, but met with no success due to our ex-card men taking jobs considerably below our bill. I also talked to them—men who have been working in the unfair shops—asking them to join our organization, but met with no success. The trade in the unfair shops is not up to the standard compared with the union shops, as they have only half their force working, but the union shops have only a few who are not working, and we must keep busy here all the time to hold our own and keep our label before the public.

MIKE GAZELLA, Sub-organizer.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 2, 1921.

I visited Easton and assisted the new secretary of Union 466 in getting out his first monthly report. I also urged the members there to join the Central Labor Union and through that to increase the demand for label cigars. At a meeting of Union 242, York, I urged upon them the importance of organization work. At Allentown I found the members working pretty steadily in comparison with the surrounding towns. There has been no change here; the members seem satisfied. I received the report that several of the women and girls in Bethlehem were ready for organization and so I went there to urge organization, but to no avail. I visited Sellersville and Perkasie in the interests of organization but being unable to secure the co-operation of the unions in these places I did not accomplish much. In Scranton and Wilkes-Barre I found the members disinterested and not co-operating with the C. L. U., and, as is to be expected under these conditions, there were few label cigars on display. However, at Wilkes-Barre a small shop which had suspended business for several months has again reopened.

*At a meeting of Union 257, Lancaster, July 18, a communication from Union 12, Oneida, was read, stating that Powell & Goldstein, against whom the Oneida cigarmakers are on strike, had opened a factory at Marietta. The matter was referred to me for investigation and I proceeded to Marietta where I found eighteen cigarmakers, including four members of Union 257, working in the Powell & Goldstein factory. I informed them of the facts in the case and suggested that they discontinue their work, as they were acting as strikebreakers. I made a report to Union 257, Lancaster, and to Union 12, Oneida, of the facts as I found them. I then went on to Littletown where this same strike firm has opened another factory which is employing fifty-nine cigarmakers, four of them members of Union 316, McSherrystown. I took the matter up with the four members, telling them that they and the nonunionists working for Powell & Goldstein were being used as strikebreakers, and I believe I made a good impression. They agreed to take the matter up immediately with Secretary Colgan of Union 316. For the cigar that this firm formerly paid $15.00 a thousand in Oneida they are now paying $9.00 at Marietta and $10.00 at Littletown.

On my way to Wheeling, W. Va., I stopped at Pittsburgh but was unable to get in touch with the members. However, I promised to attend their next meeting, August 13. When I reached Wheeling I got in touch with the secretary of the Tobacco Strippers' Union and made arrangements for a meeting with that organization.

I have spent considerable time in Lancaster attending meetings of various labor organizations, among them the electricians, printers, machinists, watchmakers, making arrangements for Labor Day celebrations, assisting in the effort to re-establish the Blue Label League, etc. The spirit in Lancaster has improved and the meetings are better attended than previously.

J. P. KEENEN, Organizer.

Montreal, Aug. 5, 1921.

From June 5th to the 11th I worked in Guelph, Ontario, in label agitation which is badly needed in this district. The London cigar firms, who have declared for the open shop, have stocked this part of Ontario with their goods. These cigars all have the blue label on the boxes and are dated November and December, 1920, which were at the time made under union conditions. While here I confined my time to giving publicity to the London situation, addressed union meetings, visited cigar stores and distributed advertising matter. Our members should encourage the J. A. B. as there is considerable work to be done in this part of Ontario.

At Stratford, Ont., I consulted with our members and urged them to take a more active part in the central body and advised them on local matters re-wage question, and feel that this matter will be settled satisfactory. Conditions here are better than in other places and members have had steady work. There is a fair display of label goods. I addressed the Trades Council executive meeting, blacksmiths, carpenters and railway carmen, distributed cards calling attention to Tuckett & Wilson and the London situation. At Hamilton cigar trade has been hard hit due to the general depression in all trades and our union factories have been on short time. I started a label campaign, was assisted by the president at various times in attending the various meetings. Resolutions were adopted at nearly all meetings to support our label. I also distributed cigar pouches and advertising matter. Addressed mass meeting of Allied Printing Trades who are on strike for the 44-hour week. Attended meeting of International unions called for organization purposes.

I addressed the following meetings in the interest of the label: All meetings of executive board of Union 55, barbers, railway machinists, moulders, bricklayers, I. L. P., boiler-makers, Building Trades Council, boot and shoe workers, iron, tin and steel workers, painters, carpenters, printers, machinists, electrical workers, steam and operating engineers. This agitation must be kept going by Union 55 if we expect to get results.

At Montreal I assisted in the organization campaign started by Union 58, visited cigar shops at noon and closing time in effort to get new members. Members are taking an interest in this work and are working quietly in the shops to gain members. This campaign will last a couple of months. Union 58 is somewhat handicapped by the depression in trade as most of the shops have been on short time or closed. A couple of the larger shops are busy. Committee is showing that spirit that will get results if kept up. Our members may get some idea of just what Union 58 is up against: One large firm in opening their new factory has given every consideration to the women and girl cigarmakers, including a restaurant, rest-room, music and a trained nurse to look after their wants. Parents of the employees were invited to spend the day in the factory and all kinds of amusements were provided them. This is done to keep the women from the union. Stock conditions are bad and wages low. While here I also did label agitation, worked at meetings and visited cigar stores.

Yours fraternally,
JAS. A. SULLIVAN, Organizer.

Oneida, N. Y., Aug. 5, 1921.

After working with the committee and officers of Union 23 in Detroit on injunction case and strike I proceeded to Rochester, N. Y., where 3 shops had discontinued running as union shops, one of them going out of business entirely. The only remaining shop of any size requesting the organization to lower its bill of prices to allow said firm to extend its wholesale business. After conferences by the committee with the firm and investigation made by the committee on prices and cost of production the committee recommended a reduction. This was adopted by the local union.

I visited Syracuse, Auburn, N. Y., and Geneva, N. Y., and took up work of agitation for label goods. On visiting the dealers many promised they would demand the union label on goods and especially those goods that recently stopped putting on the label. One shop that was running as a label shop and made the Napoleon brand was sending out these goods without the label on, and it looked very much like they were going to venture into the non-union plan. After visiting Albany, N. Y., I took up work up the state again and visited Utica, N. Y., where I found the Napoleon brand in many places without the label on. While working here I was directed by Pres. Perkins to proceed to Oneida, N. Y., as there was a difficulty there. I found that the firm of Powell and Goldstein, who had previously asked for a reduction, had told the men they were going to discontinue to run a shop in Oneida, N. Y. From every appearance he has joined the union wreckers' crew and will help the open shop crowd hereafter.

Last week the next largest firm here, Bennett & Son, requested a reduction. A committee met him in the shop and brought the request to a meeting of the union and the union voted to reduce its bill. After this action on the authority of the strike committee I visited the firm of Powell and Goldstein and endeavored to have Mr. Goldstein reconsider his former stand and meet with the committee of the union. He flatly refused and said he had made up his mind to do what he had told me at a previous interview and would not change it but would go through with it.

This firm is now having its brands made in two or three towns in Pennsylvania. While they are exploiting the cigarmakers of these towns by getting them to make cigars, a great deal less than they were paying here, they are handing to the public the old cheap district product at a good profit. There may be some hope left here that under the new scale the Bennett & Son shop can and will extend their business, thus giving employment to some of the cigarmakers left walking the streets by the Napoleon shop going out. Several cigarmakers have started cigar shops in Oneida, N. Y.

The disappearance of ex-Secy. Martin Maier has turned out to be a severe blow to this union, as the greater part of the funds disappeared with him. Inasmuch as the ex-secretary was not under bond, the loss will fall quite heavy upon the members. At a special meeting held their attention was called to the fact that in order to safeguard their interests it is necessary to apply business methods and principles in the management of union affairs and as a matter of "safety first" the financial officer should be bonded by a reputable bonding concern.

Always refer to the Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40¢ list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140g distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book and in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per Section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity for complying with the request carefully study Section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

F. W. Kirkpatrick and eight others appealed against Union 179, Bangor, for levying a one per cent assessment on the wages of all members for one month for label agitation purposes and for levying a one per cent assessment for one month to assist a cigarmaker who holds an absolute retiring card. That part of the appeal against levying a one per cent assessment for label agitation purposes is not sustained. That part of the appeal against levying a one per cent assessment for one month for the benefit of a cigarmaker not now a member of the International Union was sustained.

Lottie Graham appealed against 253, Oakland, for refusing to admit her to membership. This member had an undoubted right to become a thirty-cent member or to become a regular sixty-cent member if she so desired. The appeal was sustained.

E. Rubenstein, et al., appealed against the J. A. B., New York, for compelling them to strike in a shop where no reduction of wages had been offered. The appeal was sustained.

P. A. Spangenberg appealed against 33, Indianapolis, for opening the Steffen shop. The reply of the union shows that the motion to open all shops to union men was adopted by a regular vote of the union. The appeal was not sustained.

H. Helm appealed against 39, New Haven, for levying a one per cent assessment in aid of the unemployed and for excusing certain members from paying this percentage assessment. That part of the appeal against the union for levying the percentage assessment for the unemployed was not sustained. That part of the appeal against excusing certain members who could participate in the proceeds of this assessment was sustained.

The J. A. B. Binghamton appealed against Union 218, Binghamton, for declaring the strike off in several shops and opening same to their members. Union 218 claims the J. A. B. refused to call a joint meeting. The decision is that no local union where there is a Joint Board has a right to call a strike off in local strike shops. In this case the J. A. B. should have called a joint meeting in so important a matter and let the membership of the joint unions decide. If the J. A. B. refuses to call a joint meeting then each local union may vote separately upon the question and a majority of votes of all unions, cast, shall decide the question.

A. Beirach appealed against 39, New Haven, for fining him $50 for conduct unbecoming a union man. The appeal was not sustained.

Jos. C. Mayer appealed against 98, St. Paul, for denying his claim for sick benefit and placing him on the ninety day list. The appeal was not sustained.

George H. Bond appealed against 97, Boston, for suspending him. Owing to extenuating circumstances the appeal was sustained.

Ike Strauss appealed against the J. A. B. New York, reference their action in regard to the Starlight factory. The appeal was not sustained.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

(Do not endorse two or more amendments on the same sheet of paper. Send in a separate endorsement for each amendment, as they have to be filed separately.)

The amendment of 273 Rockland, as published in the July issue, as follows:

Amend Section No. 92 by adding Section 92 C. Extra Special Strike Fund.

An extra special strike fund to cover all expenses equally not now provided for in the Constitution.

A 50c assessment shall be levied on all 60-cent and 30-cent dues paying members. Class B members shall pay 25c, or one-half of the full assessment levied in the months of September and March of each calendar year, payable in eight weeks. This fund to be known as an Extra Special Strike Fund, to be used to pay all legitimate, incidental and miscellaneous expenses of an approved strike not now covered by the Special Strike Fund, such as benefits to members who have not been in the union three months, extenuating circumstances of members who require extra allowances, strippers and other workers involved in a strike whose loyalty to the strike demands consideration. All incidental and miscellaneous expenses incurred by the local strike committee and approved by the International President shall be paid from this fund that is not now covered by the Constitution.

This Extra Special Strike Fund to be governed by the same laws that control the Special Strike Fund, in levying and distributing the benefits, including the replenishing of the reserve fund when it falls below 50c per capita per member.

Received the endorsement of Union 44, St. Louis.

The amendment of 179 Bangor, as published in the June issue, as follows:

Amend Section 92 by adding Section 92c, to be known as an "Extra Special Strike Fund," to cover all expenses equally, not now provided for in the constitution.

A 50-cent assessment shall be levied on all 60-cent and 30-cent dues paying members. Class B members shall pay 25 cents, or one-half of the full assessment levied in the months of March and September of each calendar year, payable in eight weeks. This fund to be known as an "Extra Special Strike Fund," to be used to pay all legitimate, incidental and miscellaneous expenses of an approved strike not covered by the "Special Strike Fund," such as benefits to members who have not been in the union three months, extenuating circumstances of members who require extra allowances, strippers and other workers involved in a strike whose loyalty to the strike demands consideration. All incidental and miscellaneous expenses incurred by the local strike committee and approved by the International President shall be paid from this fund, that is not now covered by the constitution. This "Extra Special Strike Fund" to be governed by the same laws that control the Special Strike Fund, in levying the assessment, in depositing the moneys, and distributing the benefits, including the replenishing of the reserve fund when it falls below 50 cents per capita per member.

Received the endorsement of Unions 218, Binghamton; 39, New Haven; 144, New York; 35, Dayton; 160, Milford; 294, Duluth; 367, Vancouver; 331, Crookston; 273, Rockland; 462, Tampa; 217, South Chicago; 38, Springfield; 44, St. Louis; 332, San Diego; 42, Hartford; 383, Chicago; 312, Livingston; 114, Jacksonville; 353, Brooklyn; 188, Seattle; 410, Centralia.

Having received the required number of endorsements it will be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 278, London, as published in the June issue, as follows:

That an assessment of $1.00 be levied on each 60 cents and 30-cent member for the purpose of starting an agitation campaign over Canada, to offset the severe drive now on by all manufacturers for the so-called "Open Shop" which has resulted in the loss of nearly all our Label Shops and greatly reduced the strength of our Locals. The revenue from proposed assessment to be under the direction of the Int. President, who shall appoint and control the necessary number of agitators to operate in Canada from the London, Hamilton, Toronto and Montreal districts, said districts to forward names to Int. President for his consideration.

Received the endorsements of Unions 150, Sioux City; 15, Chicago; 218, Binghamton; 168, Oshkosh; 55, Hamilton; 294, Duluth; 27, Toronto; 22, Detroit; 118, Peoria; 35, Dayton; 200, Galesburg; 381, Watertown; 140, Niagara Falls; 61, La Crosse; 357, Vancouver; 58, Montreal; 331, Crookston; 135, Appleton; 447, Kenosha; 375, Anaconda; 250, Belleville; 395, Waterbury; 422, Kitchener; 312, Livingston; 238, Sacramento; 332, San Diego; 298, Glens Falls; 338, Eureka; 114, Jacksonville.

Having received the required number of endorsements, it will be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 331 Crookston, providing that the special strike fund shall be deposited in the State Bank of North Dakota, at Bismarck, as published in the June issue.

Received the endorsement of Unions 168, Oshkosh; 44, St. Louis, and 114, Jacksonville.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it will not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 238 Sacramento, as published in the July issue, as follows:

Any 20-year member in good standing, 65 years of age or over, and out of work, would be entitled to draw four hundred and fifty dollars of the death benefit at ten dollars per week, leaving the one hundred dollars for burial expenses.

Received the endorsement of Unions 274, Pekin; 296, Wilmington, and 22, Detroit.

The amendment of 383, Chicago, as published in the July issue, as follows:

Amend the Constitution by adding the following to Sec. 79: Whenever it becomes necessary to levy a special assessment to finance a strike, the strikers affected must be exempted from the payment of such assessment.

Received the endorsement of Unions 168, Oshkosh; 274, Pekin; 44, St. Louis; 218, Binghamton; 353, Brooklyn; 22, Detroit.

The amendment of 500, Tampa, as published in the July issue, as follows:

Amend Sec. 180 by adding: "All members on strike or lockout, if same has been approved by C. M. I. U. of A., shall be exempt from all international assessments levied before or after said strike or lockout has been approved. But these members, beginning immediately after the strike or lockout has ended, shall pay the remaining of any assessments levied after said strike or lockout has been approved."

Received the endorsement of Unions 248,

Jacksonville; 395, Waterbury; 217, S. Chicago; 4, Cincinnati; 474, Tampa; 258, Streator; 168, Oshkosh; 41, Aurora; 353, Brooklyn; 218, Binghamton; 44, St. Louis; 206, N. Adams; 236, Reading; 339, New York; 294, Duluth; 120, Muscatine; 118, Peoria; 337, Key West; 464, Tampa; 236, Tampa; 357, Vancouver; 90, New York; 38, Springfield.

The amendment of Union 97, Boston, to have printed a blue label of not more than two inches in length and one inch in width to be used on packages of 10 cigars or less was adopted.

Amendment proposed by Local 410. New section to sick benefit for tuberculosis members: Any member who has become afflicted with tuberculosis and has been a member of the International Union for not less than one year shall be paid the sum of $15.00 a week and no dues or assessments shall be paid by the member while sick. Members must furnish affidavits from one or more physicians to the satisfaction of the International Union, all examinations to be paid out of the tuberculosis fund. Benefits to run as long as member is disabled. Funds of this benefit to be raised by a special assessment.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

Amendments adopted since the latest edition of the Constitution:

BLUE LABEL.

Section 146. The President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label, to be known as the Union Label, in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of a box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color, and no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width and a label two inches in length and no more than one-half inch in width, the latter size to be used on packages containing ten cigars or less. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President. The International President shall have prepared, printed and registered a stogie trade-mark label in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The label shall be light blue color. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The wording and size to be the same as the present stogie label.

Amend Section 117 by adding after the word due stamp, on third line, or assessments levied, so as to read:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out of work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and assessments levied, of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of work for at least two weeks. No other change.

In effect May 1, 1921.

Section 61a—Special.

All members engaged in the cigar industry enumerated in Section 61, with the exceptions noted therein, working in any factory not entitled to the use of the label, and which does not pay the regular established bill of prices, may become members under the following conditions:

First—An initiation fee of $1.00, payable in four weekly installments of 25 cents each.

Second—Weekly dues of 30 cents for the first three months of membership, 40 cents for the second three months of membership, 50 cents for the third three months of membership, and regular dues of 60 cents after nine months of membership.

Third—Exemption from all assessments for the first four months of membership. After four months of membership such members shall pay one-half of all local and international assessments, except label assessments, except as hereafter provided.

The benefits of all members initiated under the foregoing provisions shall be:

First—Strike benefit of $8.00 per week for the first sixteen weeks and $4.00 per week thereafter. In the event of an authorized strike, involving members who have been such for three months, a member wishing to draw his card shall be granted a loan amounting to his indebtedness for due stamps and assessments and to $2.00, the same to be charged on his card as a traveling loan. No member accepting this privilege can return to the local and again be placed on the strike list.

Second—In all other respects the laws and rules governing arrearages of dues, suspension from membership, limitation as to time in the payment of benefits, and all other laws governing the members paying sixty-cent dues, shall apply to members enrolled under this special law.

Third—Members enrolled under this special law shall have the privilege of paying sixty-cent weekly dues and all international and local assessments, and be entitled to the full benefits.

Fourth—Any member initiated under Section 61a, securing employment in a factory using the label of which pay the regular scale of prices (or should the factory in which he is employed become entitled to the use of the label, or pay the regular scale of prices), shall automatically advance to the full dues-paying class.

Fifth—Members having paid the full contributing weekly dues prior to the adoption of this amendment, or subsequently thereto, can not be transferred to come under Section 61a, except as provided in the following paragraph:

Sixth—All former fifteen-cent Class A members now in good standing may have the privilege of transferring to the class of membership provided for in this special law. All former fifteen-cent Class A members who have become suspended may rejoin under the provisions of this special law, without the payment of an initiation fee.

Seventh—All members initiated under the provisions of this special law, at the expiration of nine months shall be transferred to the full regular dues paying membership and be entitled to all benefits provided for in the constitution, with the constitutional time limits. A member having paid the weekly dues of thirty cents and forty cents and fifty cents and the stipulated assessments, transferring to the full contributing dues paying membership, shall be given credit for time on benefits for one-half of the time he may have paid such dues. For example—a member having contributed the dues specified in Section 61a for nine months shall be credited on time allowance for sick, out of work and death benefits, with nineteen weeks. Fractions of a week shall not be counted.

Eighth—This special law to remain in force until four months after the next convention of the International Union.

UNION NOTES

Secretary holding the card of James Sparrow 116665 or knowing his whereabouts is requested to inform him that Union 192, Manchester, will not take care of his family any longer.

The secretary of Union 219, Mobile, Ala., has left the city for a few weeks on account of his health, and during his absence the granting of loans will be suspended.

The secretary of Union 369, Sherman, Texas, would like to hear from J. J. Gillian 3742 in regard to his card. The secretary sent dues to Ducan, Okla., care General Delivery, as requested, but they were returned.

Union 22 of Detroit wishes to have published the following donations received since May 1st, with thanks: 129, Denver, $25.00 ad.; 221, South Bend, $2.50; 93, Omaha, $5.00; 192, Manchester, $50.00; 192, Manchester, $43.00 ad.

Fraternally yours,

H. KOLLER,
Secy. Union No. 22, Detroit, Mich.

Union notes for the Journal by H. Abrahams: If a certain firm which left Boston cannot hold the New England trade they must go under. While you boom your own label don't forget the other fellow's label. No. 97 levies an assessment for its unemployed—this is fraternity. We have label sections in all our Central Labor Unions. Why not send a representative and have a conference at all state branch conventions. The label is our only weapon. Members of 97 are doing community work. Does your wife and children who patronize your corner grocer protest against his handling cigars without the union label? Every human being has the right to work, but no one has the right to lower the standard of living. All forms of labor have come and gone except the trades union. The man or men who think by destroying the trade union that we would have the millennium have the same idea as those who are agitating for the non-union shop, and however sincere they may be are labor's greatest enemies. A strong pull and all pull together and the large non-union shop will go. No matter what efforts you have made, do more and do it now. We can, must and will win. The tobacco trust is trying to crush Porto Rico. Is this the American plan? Some years ago the employers of a sweatshop hung out an American flag and said, "This flag waves over free American labor." This is a crucial time in the history of our craft, but we will weather the storm. There is no market like the home market, and a reduction of wage destroys the purchasing power of the worker, injuring the manufacturer, the retailer, the real estate dealer, as well as the workers. A full belly and a good home makes a good citizen. Every worker ought to have pictures on his wall, books upon his shelves and a musical instrument in his home. In order to do this he must receive a living wage. This will produce men and women with higher ideals, and this is one of the objects of the trade union.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the record of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

The following unions adopted a resolution of respect and condolence relative to death or deaths as follows and ordered charter draped in mourning for thirty days:

Union 165, Philadelphia, Pa.—H. J. Geiger, 96266; H. Newman, 7911; J. H. Steerman, 10189; H. H. Brooks, 88785.

The Smokers' Creed.

Approved by the League of American Smokers.

Notwithstanding that those who derive happiness, comfort and good-fellowship through the use of tobacco comprise ninety per cent of the male adult population of the United States, I fully realize that the majority, counting women and children, are non-smokers and that among this majority there are some to whom the fumes of tobacco are not agreeable. I take pleasure, therefore, in observing the following rules of courtesy and consideration:

1. I shall not smoke or carry a lighted cigar or cigarette in any place or at any time where or when, either by placard or common understanding, smoking is prohibited.

2. I shall not smoke in any place or at any time where or when the fumes of tobacco are obviously annoying to others, even though such abstinence is not compulsory.

3. I shall not smoke in any passenger elevator, public or private.

4. I shall not smoke in a dense crowd of people, indoors or out, if I discover that my smoke is annoying someone near me who, owing to the circumstances, is unable to move away.

5. I shall not smoke in any home or any room, wherein I am a guest, without first making sure that smoking therein is agreeable to my host and others present.

6. I shall not smoke in the presence of any lady until I have been assured that she has no objections to my doing so.

7. I shall not approve of the use of tobacco by growing boys or girls.

8. I shall exercise caution in discarding the ends of cigars and cigarettes in order to preclude the possibility of fire.

9. I shall, in my enjoyment of the smoking privilege, be always considerate of those whose inclinations happen to differ with my own, and always be guided by the finer instincts of true chivalry and American manhood.

10. I shall faithfully adhere to the foregoing self-imposed rules myself, and I shall urge others to do the same, that the days of tobacco may be long and its friends legion in the Land of our Fathers.

The following story, told before most of us were born, is worth repeating. An aged colored woman in the last stages of a fatal illness was asked: "Aunt, said one of the group, 'you have had a lot of troubles and worries in your life?' " "Yes, child," responded the dying woman, "and most of them never happened."

The union label disarms opposition and conquers prejudice. It commands the respect and protection of the courts and state; it supercedes the boycott by concentrating the purchasing power upon union products; it facilitates organization by increasing the demand for the products of organized workers.

Organization. Organization of the workers is a solemn and binding obligation resting upon us all. The things that have kept us divided and have more or less hindered organization and unity of purpose must be scrapped.

History, since the beginning of recorded time, shows that the ruling classes and privileged few in the political field of endeavor thrive and continue their unholy reign and subjugation of the masses by keeping them divided through the artifice of keeping them fighting among themselves over trivial and non-essential matters. Religion was one of the favorite and effective methods employed in the early struggles of mankind. Racial pride, lingual affinity, and false doctrines were employed to divide and keep the masses fighting themselves instead of their oppressors. This has been the rule on down through the rising tide of advancing civilization.

The same methods and tactics have been employed by manufacturers of the open shop type, to keep us divided on the industrial field of endeavor. At this late date and generation in our own time and in our own country there is no excuse for people who are foolishly led by nonsensical but effective methods that keep the people divided. Race, color, religion, and partisan politics should not under any circumstances be allowed to divide us on the economic field and in our efforts to organize our industry. Those who bring these disrupting matters into our trade are consciously or unconsciously doing the bidding of and playing into the hands of the open shoppers and non union interests.

No one is required to forego his religious preferences or his brand of politics. All are free to exercise, according to their own wishes and in their own way, their religious faith and political beliefs in their church and their political parties now in existence. We do ask though that these differences should be dropped at the doors leading into union meeting places. No one, not even the most radical, has suggested that the trade union is not the proper place to protect wages, hours of labor, and working conditions. Many, though, have insisted that partisan politics and trade union activities should be combined. This has been a prolific cause of keeping the workers divided on the economic field, and as a result has done great damage to the best interests of the union and has worked to the advantage of the profiteering manufacturers.

This by no means is the whole cause for lack of more rapid organization particularly in our own industry. Many have seized the pretext that our laws or our benefit system or our dues are not to their liking or choosing. We make this indisputable declaration—that the International Union has never attempted to control any member's religion or politics or any other activity not clearly within the sphere of trade union jurisdiction, and moreover the further declaration—that the laws of the International Union are made through a majority vote of the members themselves. In view of this is there any honest, legitimate reason why any cigarmaker or tobacco worker should not become a member of the Cigarmakers' International Union?

The eagerly awaited "Landis Decision" directly affecting wages in the building industry in Chicago and indirectly affecting wages in the building trades of the whole nation as well as affecting to a certain extent the wages of all workers, is at last handed down.

Without criticism or comment on the decision with reference to the scale set let us analyze its possible effect on actual cost of production.

Opinions as to the reduction in cost of production vary. Labor leaders say that it is approximately 4 per cent, while some employers claim that it will amount to not less than 6 per cent. Taking 5 per cent as an average we find that a house costing $7,000 under the old scale will cost $6,650 under the Landis Decision. Not so much of a difference as you were led to believe by the labor-hating press that has at all times placed the blame for the housing shortage on the backs of the building trades unions.

Now let us see where the real cost of production lies. The material for an ordinary bath room cost in 1914 less than $200. Today the same material costs from $650 to $675, hence we find that regardless of the labor cost the material cost alone on the one room of the house, the ordinary bath room, has advanced some $450 or more.

This rank profiteering in material cost goes clear through construction be it frame, brick or stucco, and this extortion is the heart of the whole situation in the building industry. It is this extortion that raises our rent to the point where we must necessarily pinch on our allowance for food, clothing and everything else that we need in order that we may provide shelter from the elements.

Labor may be "Readjusted"—so far that is all that has been seriously attempted—and labor may loyally carry out their part of the "Readjustment" but unless capital honestly co-operates neither the building industry nor any other industry will revive as it should. The exacting of war-time profits by combinations and agreements among those who control industry is a crime against the millions who suffer and who must abide by wage cuts and unemployment.

We are anxiously awaiting some decision from some one somewhere that will reduce something besides wages which are not now and never have been anywhere near the actual cost of living.

Mobilized Forces: The National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party says—

"The present situation is so grave that all honest and progressive labor men must realize the necessity of some common understanding upon which we can unite to stem the tide of reaction that is sweeping over the country and threatening every right and interest of the common people."

It also says—"In this crisis the one imperative need is Unity. The forces of every progressive, liberal and radical organization of the workers must be mobilized to repel these assaults and to advance the industrial and political power of the working class."

It has also provided for a survey which "would determine whether united political action could be obtained in behalf of a common objective while retaining the autonomy of the affiliated organizations. It is generally understood that aside from a common objective, the masses of the nation face the task of recovering the elemental rights of organization, free press, free discussion, etc., that were won generations ago and are now jeopardized by the black reaction following the world war."

And more particularly and especially it says—"Prejudice, partisanship, jealousy and misunderstandings must be swept aside and a united front be presented by the labor forces to the enemy that is attempting to destroy us."

It seems that the National Executive Committee of the Socialist Party have reached a point where the Committee at least is willing to join any other labor and liberal forces for the purpose of tiding us over the crisis with which we are now confronted. It would, it seems, be willing to join political forces with the American Federation of Labor and its non-partisan political policy, the Farmer and Workmen party, the Single Tax, and all other political forces that can agree upon a common policy in this crisis without regard to partisan politics. This with the understanding that all distinct units are to preserve their autonomy and shall not be committed to any purely partisan question.

Unemployment. The very serious unemployment situation has not materially improved at this writing.

While we believe the situation is not as serious as some, especially the open-shoppers, would try to make us believe, still it is sufficiently so in the minds of the administration at Washington to cause the President to call a conference for the purpose of devising ways and means for minimizing the unemployment of labor and more especially to care for the needy during the coming winter months.

There are numerous well known reasons for unemployment. Some of the unemployment is due to economic causes and to our haphazard system of production. Some of it is caused by big interests and the open-shoppers. Another serious drawback is the fact that cringing capitalists, with no thought except to escape their just share of the burden of taxation, are placing their money in non-taxable bonds instead of in productive industries. One notable example of this is the floating of fifty million dollars worth of Brazilian bonds, noncallable, payable in gold, bearing eight per cent interest. This is only one small example of the investment of capital in bonds of this and other countries. If this money were invested in industry in their own country it would quickly start the wheels of trade and commerce turning and there would be no serious unemployment situation.

The unemployment situation is rendered more acute because of the situation growing out of the war. In 1917 the then Secretary of Labor, W. B. Wilson, reported that there were engaged in gainful occupations about forty million people. This included minors who had reached the work age, and women. It should be remembered that all of our industries, especially the manufacturing ones were producing at that time things that were largely used by our allies in the war. Thousands and thousands of those employed at agriculture came up from the farms and engaged in industrial manufacturing pursuits. Thousands and thousands of women, married and single, as well as children, even of the semi-well-to-do were crowded into our industries. In the attempt to reach normal conditions again many of these who were temporarily called in, had to go back to the former condition of affairs. Many of the women, especially the married ones, and others, who had secured fair positions, refused to quit. All of this affects in a marked degree the situation of unemployment, and has tended to make these periodical unemployment situations more acute.

The profiteers, too, both productive and distributive, were quick to embrace the unnatural situation caused by the tremendous influx into industry, and heretofore, referred to, and when the crisis came, sought to continue at work at reduced wages, the women, young people, boys and girls, who were unprotected by organization. Big interests have neither sympathy nor sentiment and no concern except their immediate financial interests. Unless this tendency and action is stopped or minimized it can have but one result—the lowering of the standard of American manhood, its moral, intellectual, and physical well-being, and resultant great damage to higher civilization.

Curtain for Billow.

In the July 1921 issue of the Official Journal we published in part a report made by Jake Billow to a detective agency, in which he showed himself in his true colors as a paid spy in the employ of a private detective, labor-wrecking agency.

Billow was given a trial by the dual union of cigarmakers in this city, found guilty of the charges that he was a paid spy and had betrayed, while drawing a salary from the union, the workers and the union.

At a meeting of that organization, held Wednesday evening, August 31, 1921, the verdict of guilty, found at the previous meeting, was sustained, and Billow, arch-traitor, was fined $100.00 and expelled from the union.

This ends by exposure the career of one who while masquerading as a union man has been steadily employed by non-union manufacturers and private detective agencies to destroy the union. Billow, the great radical pooh-bah was the leader in the attempt about a year ago to form a dual International Union of Cigar Makers.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

One of the prolific causes for lack of better and more rapid organization in our industry is the constant knocking of the International Union by some of our own members and those in the industry who are still outside, without a particle of practical ideas of what should constitute the form of organization. The chap who wilfully knocks the International Union is a traitor to himself and to his fellow workmen; the net result of such perfidy is a material gain for the non-union manufacturers and a material loss to the wages, hours of labor, and working conditions for the workers.

Our trade is drifting toward the cheaper or small or short smoker. The increase in consumption of fags and cigarettes staggers the imagination. They have jumped in ten years from about fifteen billion to forty-five billion annually. This takes no account of the cigarette smoker who rolls his own. The increasing cost of production, caused by rising taxation and high prices for raw material, is partly responsible for the smoker seeking solace in the less expensive weed. The period of unemployment and the high cost of living is another cause.

The progressive, dual organization, of which O. B. U. Billow was a member, has sustained the charge that while preaching radical unionism and denouncing the Cigar Makers' International Union he was on the payroll of a private detective agency that had for its clients profiteering, cheap-John, open-shop, non-union manufacturers. The dual union's verdict in this case indicates that it was at least convinced that I. W. W. Billow got his thirty pieces of silver for not only betraying his fellow workmen but for attempting to destroy the union.

There appears to be no limit to the amount of taxdodging allowed through investment in tax exempt securities. Hundreds of millions of dollars are lost to the Government each year because those whose incomes are taxable to any appreciable extent invest in such securities.

This not only places the burden of taxation on the worker through direct as well as indirect taxation but has the equally bad effect of retarding business because of the investment of capital in such untaxable securities rather than in industrial securities or in business investment direct.

Ex-Vice President Marshall is credited with saying something about one of the needs of the country being a 5c cigar. Whether he said it or whether his judgment in the matter was correct or not is of little import now because of the fact that if it were a need the need is being supplied. Internal Revenue reports show a continuous increase in the number of 5c cigars being manufactured, and this shows as well the demand on the part of the smoker for the ever-popular "Nickel Shooter."

Cost of raw material, revenue, boxes, etc., causes the manufacturer in many instances to seek new methods of production that he may supply the demand at a profit. We find that in many cases he is turning to the machine product, in whole or in part, to meet his needs.

While we have provided for the organization of the machine worker we have so far failed to recognize the product of the machine and the machine operator as union-made. That is, we deny the use of the label on cigars made in whole or in part by machine.

The question arises as to whether this condition of affairs is beneficial or injurious to our organization, its future and its necessities, as a whole?

TRADE NOTES.

The tobacco crop just harvested in the Connecticut Valley is said to be one of the best, especially in quality, in recent years.

* * *

A contract said to be operative until June, 1941, under which the entire manufacture and sale of tobacco is granted to a private monopoly on a commission basis has been signed by the Spanish government,

* * *

While the comparative report of the Bureau of Census is not yet available we are informed that it will show among other interesting statistics that the 1920 crop of tobacco from 1,894,400 acres amounted to 1,508,064,000 pounds, and that the 1920 cigar production, all classes, amounted to 8,720,754,000, while cigarettes climbed to 61,859,900,000, of which approximately 46,000,000,000 were consumed in the United States.

The following statistical figures show Tampa cigar output during the year 1901 to 1920, both inclusive. Also the internal revenue receipts during the same period:

Years.	Cigars Manufactured.	Internal Revenue.
1901	147,330,000	$498,110
1902	141,905,000	442,761
1903	167,630,000	510,066
1904	196,961,500	596,812
1905	220,430,000	689,124
1906	277,662,000	851,450
1907	285,660,000	865,816
1908	236,681,000	731,048
1909	267,069,000	801,578
1910	201,405,000	638,535
1911	293,360,000	910,439
1912	273,485,000	854,726
1913	286,148,000	894,879
1914	267,866,000	856,565
1915	285,836,000	939,223
1916	312,456,376	1,011,988
1917	352,690,194	1,314,076
1918	368,072,628	1,984,856
1919	422,795,819	3,408,821
1920	326,042,323	2,028,469

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, Department of Labor, has received reports from 57 cigar factories showing their employment and the wages paid in their establishments during the months of July, 1920, and July, 1921. These reports show that 16,226 persons were employed in these 57 factories during July of last year as compared with 16,335 in the same month of this year, or an increase of 7 per cent. The wages paid in these factories in July of last year amounted to $342,053 as compared with $303,966 in the same month of this year, or a decrease of 11.1 per cent.

June and July, 1921, Compared.

Comparative figures are shown also for the months of June and July of this year for 57 cigar factories. There were 16,434 persons employed in June as compared with 15,918 in July, a decrease of 3.1 per cent. The payrolls also showed a decrease of from $319,214 in June to $299,737 in July, or a decrease of 6.1 per cent.

The following comparative report from the Internal Revenue Department for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1921, shows the number of cigars, cigarettes, etc., withdrawn for consumption on which tax was paid as compared with the fiscal year 1920:

Articles taxed	1920.	1921.	Pct. of increase (+) or decrease
Cigars (large):	Number.	Number.	(-).
Class A	2,048,311,515	1,773,588,083	-13
Class B	2,642,587,387	2,131,201,227	-19
Class C	2,951,652,069	3,033,119,216	+ 3
Class D	85,674,702	165,135,953	+93
Class E	52,211,578	45,818,759	-12
Total	7,780,437,251	7,148,863,238	- 8
Cigars (small)	648,409,260	673,667,580	+ 4
Cigarettes
(large)	38,811,132	49,477,631	+27
(small)	50,403,425,637	45,015,845,373	-11
Snuff, manu- factured	38,605,173	32,196,676	-17
Tobacco, chew- ing and smoking	414,877,710	329,611,372	-21

The following comparative data show the number of cigars, by classification, manufactured during June, 1920, and June, 1921:

Cigars (large):	June, 1920.	June, 1921.
Class A, No.	159,795,828	186,237,048
Class B, No.	224,164,763	169,709,028
Class C, No.	312,064,900	247,219,610
Class D, No.	7,503,593	13,226,986
Class E, No.	4,583,200	2,102,430
Total	708,112,284	618,495,102

Class A shows an increase of 26,441,220, Class D an increase of 5,723,393, while all other classes show large decreases.

From the above report it appears that the demand for 5c cigars is rapidly increasing.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

Albany, Sept. 7, 1921.

After working around Oneida, N. Y., trying to have the Napoleon shop reconsider its going to Pennsylvania, I visited Syracuse, N. Y., and spoke at a meeting of Union 6, giving its members a report of the Oneida affair and of conditions in general. I visited Auburn, N. Y., and spoke at a meeting of the Central Labor Union on the necessity of union workers patronizing union label products. The delegates present promised to bring the matter up at regular meetings of their unions and have ten minutes set apart for discussion of the union label. I next visited the New York State Blue Labels League convention held in Rochester, N. Y., the latter part of August. While the attendance was not as large as it should have been, the delegates made a concise report of the state of trade and conditions in their respective localities and promised to take up the work of label agitation on their return home. It was the general opinion that the workers of every craft were getting lax in their duty as trade unionists and should be aroused to their sense of duty to call for union label goods at all times and on all products wherever possible. After the convention I started attending meetings of local unions and proceeded to Utica, N. Y.; spoke at meetings of Street Carmen, Plumbers and joint committee of unions for Labor day, urging them to take on a new resolve for Labor day, 1921, to hereafter ask for and use only goods that are made in union shops and bear the union label.

Fraternally yours,
WM. A. McCABE,
Organizer.

Winnipeg, Sept. 5, 1921.

Since last report I have remained in Montreal and given what assistance I could to Union 58 in organization campaign. Manufacturers who have joined in the combine for the open shop will realize their mistake in the near future, as the trust shops are making a big drive for their business, with the result that, instead of breaking the union, these firms who fell for the open shop proposition will be out of business and the union will continue on the job in the fight for humanity. Our locals have been a big factor and gave every assistance to these firms in the past in building up their trade, and would have met them half way in any arrangement that would bring about a settlement. This was refused and the results are that these firms are at the mercy of the trust. I addressed meetings of railway carmen, printers, carpenters and boiler makers and attended executive meetings of Union 58. I worked with Mr. Drullett, member of label committee, in label agitation. We visited cigar stores and union meetings; also distributed advertising matter furnished by the J. A. B.; also called on the various business agents in the interest of our movement against the open shop drive. While here I have consulted with Vice President Gariepy on local situation. Aug. 11th, in company with Mr. Gariepy, I met President Gompers and explained conditions in our trade, in so far as it affects Canadian locals. Aug. 12th I attended informal conference of labor officials of Montreal with President Gompers of A. F. of L. The conference means much to organized labor, as it has solidified the international movement in Montreal. While a couple of the large cigar factories are busy, the general industrial depression is still on. Aug. 21st I went to Winnipeg, Man. I attended trade congress convention and worked on label committee, distributed advertising matter re lockout of cigar makers of Canada; also addressed convention on this question; also took advantage of every opportunity to give publicity to our cause and acquainted the delegates of the unfair brands of cigars. Two resolutions were adopted in the interest of our label. After the convention I devoted my time to label agitation, which is very much needed here. Visited labor hall and got in touch with the various business agents and secretaries of the different local unions, and was promised their assistance in our fight against the open shops. I addressed the union meeting, distributed circular letters and cards and visited cigar stores. I find that cigar stores are all stocked up with these unfair cigars, but have the label on the boxes, dated 1920, which goes to show that these firms are making the label go as far as possible. While here I made an effort to organize cigar makers, but met with little encouragement—two factories here employing nine cigar makers, but are not busy and not working steadily; advised to wait until business improves. Three cigar makers are leaving the city in a couple of weeks.

Yours fraternally,

JAS. A. SULLIVAN.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Sept. 2, 1921.

Since my last report I have called on the girls at the factory, during the noon hour and also the evening, when they were returning from work, meeting them at their homes, to try and arrange a meeting with them. There is considerable amount of uneasiness in the ranks of the cigar girls as they are laid off and others are hired in their places, and they don't seem to understand what is the matter. I am trying to start them in the right direction, which is a hard proposition owing to the counteracting parties who are working against us, not only in our trade, but the same in all other locals in our city. The Sidney G. Cigar Co. are trying to get rid of the girls and get men to take their places. When they get a man or two, they let the girls go. They are advertising for men outside of the city, but so far have not been successful in their efforts. There are still a few men who slip in and work a while and then get out. The conditions are getting from bad to worse in the unfair shops; they are cutting prices from time to time, they are paying $15.00 per 1,000 to have a cigar made that retails for 15c and are paying $9.00 per 1,000 for cigars retailing for 10c. In my advertising campaign of getting display of Union made cigars in the windows we were very successful in having all the leading dealers agree to put this display on during the week of the Michigan Federation of Labor, of union made cigars and tobacco and cigarettes. I was ably assisted by the President, F. V. Blake, and the Secretary, T. F. Nielsen, also placing cards in the windows with the cut of the Union label on it, calling their attention to the fact that the products in this window are made by Union labor. This is also the week of the Fair in Grand Rapids and brings our label before the visiting crowds that come to the city during this week, and we are still planning for further agitation to always keep our label before the public.

MIKE GAZELLA,
Sub-Organizer.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 3, 1921.

Within the past thirty days I have addressed forty-eight union meetings, and organizations here, carrying to them an urgent request by oral appeal for a more consistent demand for products bearing the union label, and the strengthening of their ties and affiliations with the organized labor movement as a preservation of present conditions, and the hope for greater achievements.

Special Financier's Examination. Union 55, Hamilton, Ont.

Hamilton, Ont., Aug. 26, 1921.

G. W. Perkins, Int. President.

As per your instructions I proceeded to Hamilton and examined the union's accounts. All strike, sick and out of work cards on file by financial secretary. Sick benefit paid to C. Grainger March 5, 1918, should be $4.25 instead of $5.00. All other benefits paid are correct, checked in day book and ledger. Some death benefits not entered in ledger. Owing to absence of Treasurer Wm. Crawford was unable to secure vouchers for officers' salaries, label advertising, sundries, etc. Those expenditures, however, were regularly checked up by finance committee. All other reported receipts and expenditures are correct. The July, 1921, report should therefore show a corrected cash balance of $331.61. The cash in hands of Secretary E. Jennings on Aug. 23, 1921, should be $322.21, but the secretary has a shortage in cash of $181.21. Cash reported in hands of financial secretary for several months has not existed. Section 169 should be observed—the treasurer should receive the moneys and deposit same in bank. The financial secretary has really been acting as treasurer. Bond of $500 for financial secretary and treasurer, as reported up to the end of 1920, has not existed for some years—allowed to lapse. Finance committee should demand monthly recapitulation in day book. Stamp account shows surplus of nine 60c dues and one 30c due. International assessments from January, 1917, (several issues) show a grand total of 2,110, or a surplus of 11 stamps. These old stamps should have been returned to international office.

President J. Russell, upon request, called a special meeting of union Thursday, Aug. 26th. The report of shortage in cash on hand was presented and action by local demanded. A special committee of five was appointed to confer with financial secretary and the September regular meeting will be asked to levy an assessment to replace the shortage in international funds.

CORRESPONDENCE

Livingston, Mont., Sept. 2, 1921.

Mr. G. W. Perkins, Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir: Please publish this letter in the September Journal:

"Let's Taboo the Scheduled Convention."

Brother Cigarmakers:

In submitting the amendment to strike out Section 2 of the constitution, we have this to say: The time is not ripe when we need a convention. We all realize it will take an enormous sum of money (possibly $100,000 or more) to stage such a convention and under the existing conditions we can very easily use this

But a Conqueror He Is

Observing its own national holiday, Labor may well give thought for a moment to the larger aspects of life, to the past, to the present and to the future. Mr. Baer, the famous congressman-cartoonist, has drawn for us a picture designed to bring home to all workers the vital message of Labor upon the occasion of this national celebration of the workers.

In this most excellent picture the figure of Labor stands out above the surrounding vista of industry. Labor is paramount. It comes first. In the order of "first things first" Labor stands inevitably above all else.

See the figure of Labor, erect, contemplative; with hands empty, to be sure, but with a serenity of countenance that betokens a status gained and surely held and a supreme and abiding confidence for the future.

The "Disinherited Conqueror" he is, and how well the title was chosen.

Disinherited of so much that he has created, he yet stands forth as the conqueror, the key figure in the world's social organism.

The fact above all which makes the figure of modern Labor the figure of a conqueror is that the worker today has found his place in the world and is CONSCIOUS thereof.

The worker has found his place through organization. He has found the way to express himself, to relate himself to the whole, to contribute his thought to the whole entity of thought and to secure consideration for his contribution.

The figure of Labor, as we see it in Mr. Baer's picture, gazes out upon the great world of mills and factories and mines, steamships, railroads, and automobiles, of homes and towering houses of commerce. These are the product of toil—of the physical and mental service rendered by the useful men and women of our republic. The whole modern structure of life and industry, as it is contemplated by Mr. Baer's calm and dignified figure of Labor, is a monument to service, and no matter how disinherited the creators may be from a purely material standpoint, they are conquerors in truth from the much more vital standpoint of knowledge and understanding and consciousness of power and unity.

The full inheritance of Labor can come only through the complete organization of the toilers. That is the first step on the road to progress. Without organization there can be no first step, and no second or third step.

Organization is the great, first task of the modern labor movement. He who stands alone in the modern industrial world is but a straw in the winds of mighty organized forces.

Organize and all good things shall be added unto you!—From The American Federationist.

The Disinherited Conqueror.

GIBSON WEBER, 1710 N. Gratz St., Station C, Philadelphia, Pa., Treasurer.

Always refer to the Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140g distinctly and plainly states:
"No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show.
If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity for complying with the request carefully study Section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

The proposition to admit the Packers' Union of Tampa, Fla., to the International Union under the same agreement as in the case of the Stogie Makers was approved by a vote of 5,785 for and 385 against.

Mrs. E. Kindley, 1350 E. 55th street, Chicago, has important news for Harry D. Peterson.

Union 335, Hammond, Ind., inquires whether Abe Moses (45401) has forgotten the favor the boys in East Chicago did for him when his brother died?

J. B. Traut, Odd Fellows' Home, Green Bay, Wis., would like to hear from Edgar Moore, and from others who care to write him.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Nat Powell (59261) will confer a favor by notifying his sister Mrs. Emma Maloney, 501 Baldwin street, Elmira, N. Y., as she has important business which requires that he be notified. He was last heard from in Owego, N. Y.

F. W. Chesley (1518) is requested to write to his mother, in care of Union 129, Denver, Colo.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

(Do not endorse two or more amendments on the same sheet of paper. Send in a separate endorsement for each amendment, as they have to be filed separately.)

The amendment of Union 238, Sacramento, providing for the drawing of $450 of the death benefit by a twenty-year member, out of work, at the rate of $10 a week, as published in the July issue.

Received the endorsement of Unions 274, Pekin; 296, Wilmington; 22, Detroit; 383, Chicago; 130, Saginaw; 179, Bangor; 338, Eureka.

Not having received the endorsement of the required number of unions, it cannot be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of Union 383, Chicago, to Section 79, providing that strikers shall be exempt from the payment of special strike assessments, as published in the July issue.

Received the endorsement of Unions 168, Oshkosh; 274, Pekin; 44, St. Louis; 218, Binghamton; 353, Brooklyn; 22, Detroit; 179, Bangor, and 188, Seattle; 462, Tampa; 5, Rochester.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it cannot be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 500, Tampa, as published in the July issue, as follows:

Amend Sec. 180 by adding: "All members on strike or lockout, if same has been approved by C. M. I. U. of A., shall be exempt from all international assessments levied before or after said strike or lockout has been approved. But these members, beginning immediately after the strike or lockout has ended, shall pay the remaining of any assessments levied after said strike or lockout has been approved."

Received the endorsement of Unions 248, Jacksonville; 395, Waterbury; 217, S. Chicago; 4, Cincinnati; 474, Tampa; 258, Streator; 168, Oshkosh; 41, Aurora; 353, Brooklyn; 218, Binghamton; 44, St. Louis; 206, N. Having received the required number of endorsements, it will be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of Union 410, Centralia, Ill., as published in the August issue, as follows:

New section to sick benefit for tuberculosis members: Any member who has become afflicted with tuberculosis and has been a member of the International Union for not less than one year shall be paid the sum of $15.00 a week and no dues or assessments shall be paid by the member while sick. Members must furnish affidavits from one or more physicians to the satisfaction of the International Union, all examinations to be paid out of the tuberculosis fund. Benefits to run as long as member is disabled. Funds of this benefit to be raised by a special assessment.

Received no endorsements.

Amendment proposed by Local Union 312, Livingston, Mont.: Strike out all of Section 2 of the constitution of C. M. I. U. of A.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

Amendments adopted since the latest edition of the Constitution:

BLUE LABEL.

Section 146. The President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label, to be known as the Union Label, in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of a box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color, and no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width and a label two inches in length and no more than one-half inch in width, the latter size to be used on packages containing ten cigars or less. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President. The International President shall have prepared, printed and registered a stogie trade-mark label in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The label shall be light blue color. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The wording and size to be the same as the present stogie label.

Amend Section 117 by adding after the word due stamp, on third line, or assessments levied, so as to read:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out of work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and assessments levied, of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of work for at least two weeks. No other change.

In effect May 1, 1921.

Section 61a—Special.

All members engaged in the cigar industry enumerated in Section 61, with the exceptions noted therein, working in any factory not entitled to the use of the label, and which does not pay the regular established bill of prices, may become members under the following conditions:

First—An initiation fee of $1.00, payable in four weekly installments of 25 cents each.

Second—Weekly dues of 30 cents for the first three months of membership, 40 cents for the second three months of membership, 50 cents for the third three months of membership, and regular dues of 60 cents after nine months of membership.

Third—Exemption from all assessments for the first four months of membership. After four months of membership such members shall pay one-half of all local and International assessments, except label assessments, except as hereafter provided.

The benefits of all members initiated under the foregoing provisions shall be:

First—Strike benefit of $8.00 per week for the first sixteen weeks and $4.00 per week thereafter. In the event of an authorized strike, involving members who have been such for three months, a member wishing to draw his card shall be granted a loan amounting to his indebtedness for due stamps and assessments and to $2.00, the same to be charged on his card as a traveling loan. No member accepting this privilege can return to the local and again be placed on the strike list.

Second—In all other respects the laws and rules governing arrearages of dues, suspension from membership, limitation as to time in the payment of benefits, and all other laws governing the members paying sixty-cent dues, shall apply to members enrolled under this special law.

Third—Members enrolled under this special law shall have the privilege of paying sixty-cent weekly dues and all International and local assessments, and be entitled to the full benefits.

Fourth—Any member initiated under Section 61a, securing employment in a factory using the label or which pay the regular scale of prices (or should the factory in which he is employed become entitled to the use of the label, or pay the regular scale of prices), shall automatically advance to the full dues-paying class.

Fifth—Members having paid the full contributing weekly dues prior to the adoption of this amendment, or subsequently thereto, cannot be transferred to come under Section 61a, except as provided in the following paragraph:

Sixth—All former fifteen-cent Class A members now in good standing may have the privilege of transferring to the class of membership provided for in this special law. All former fifteen-cent Class A members who have become suspended may rejoin under the provisions of this special law, without the payment of an initiation fee.

Seventh—All members initiated under the provisions of this special law, at the expiration of nine months, shall be transferred to the full regular dues paying membership and be entitled to all benefits provided for in the constitution, with the constitutional time limits. A member having paid the weekly dues of thirty cents and forty cents and fifty cents and the stipulated assessments, transferring to the full contributing dues paying membership, shall be given credit for time on benefits for one-half of the time he may have paid such dues. For example—a member having contributed the dues specified in Section 61a for nine months shall be credited on time allowances for sick, out of work and death benefits, with nineteen weeks. Fractions of a week shall not be counted.

Eighth—This special law to remain in force until four months after the next convention of the International Union.

UNION NOTES

Union 224, Salt Lake City, Utah, desires to hear from Gilbert Roberts, 15750. Important.

Union 248, Jacksonville, Fla., gives notice that it will impose a fine of $50 on any cigar maker or packer taking a job in the strike shop of J. B. Smith.

Union 92, Worcester, voted to prefer charges against Eugene Hirsch, 41555, initiated May 21, 1921, by 66. Lewiston, for conduct unbecoming a union man by maliciously tearing his card and making insulting remarks at an Executive Board meeting when he was refused a private loan.

Union Notes by 97, Boston.

Did we parade Labor Day? Of course we did, and were cheered all along the line. Ten thousand members of organized labor wore cards as follows: "I will not smoke Blackstones, Quincy or C. C. A. Cigars—unfair to organized labor."

Too much credit cannot be given to our Labor day committee. Also to Dennis D. Driscoll, chairman of the Labor day committee of the Boston Central Labor Union. He has advocated the use of our blue label year in and year out.

The trouble in West Virginia is no doubt due to the means used by the mine owners to prevent the organization of the miners.

Belgium has an eight-hour day by law, but that is not an eight-hour day.

Boston Central Labor will raise funds for the people starving in Russia.

Maintain your standard of living. Agitate in your state for a free state university.

Raise the school age. Do any of your children attending school suffer from malnutrition?

HENRY ABRAHAMS.

PRIVATE LOANS

Members owing private loans to Local 122, Warren, Pa., are requested to pay up within 30 days or constitution will be enforced. Secretaries please note.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the records of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

Union 129, Denver, Colo.—Celentino Yglesia, 103295, who died June 23, and Ed Kaufman, 34878, who died June 16.

Union 188, Seattle, Wash.—P. H. Snyder, 6148, who died July 3.

money and more, too, in helping our striking and locked out brothers in the different districts. We cannot see any immediate help or relief coming from such a convention, and it seems the membership is taxed quite heavily as it is now. We must admit there is quite a large percentage of our members out of work at present and there may be a whole lot more. So in view of these facts we deem it advisable at this time to call off the proposed convention in May, 1922.

We must remember there were 16 years between the Detroit and Baltimore conventions and we got along very nicely with our referendum amendments. In closing I will say that it is imperative that local unions endorse this amendment immediately so as to get it up to popular vote as soon as possible.

Yours for a larger membership and real benefits.

Would Be Disrupters.

One of the worst enemies of organized labor is the labor spy, the special agent of the disruptionists, who with his union card as a shield and his loud mouthings of "union principle" as a defense, makes his reports to his employer and carries out the manufacturer's instructions as to what shall be done to disrupt orderly procedure and sow the seed of discontent in the ranks of the workers.

One method often successfully used by this worst of all traitors is to cast suspicion, by insinuations, upon the local and general officers of the union as to their ability and honesty of purpose. He vilifies all that is done or attempted and is especially loud in denunciation and silent on meritorious action. He seeks to prevent a constructive thought finding lodgment in the minds of his fellow-workers no matter how serious the matter under consideration may be. Any one who manfully seeks to analyze a situation requiring careful procedure is immediately branded as a "boss lover" and all the unfair, merciless, insinuating epitaphs imaginable are hurled against his well meaning remarks.

No organization is free from the activities of these unscrupulous charlatans. Some are paid in cash and others do their miserable, treacherous work with the hope that they are sowing the seed which will grow into disruption of the union. Some have been exposed and proven to be labor spies while others continue their dastardly work under cover of the tolerance of the membership, who under stress of heated debate and environment do not at the time sense the harmful results that invariably follow in the wake of willful, malicious accusation and false, misleading advice.

While they cannot succeed in their hope of destruction serious harm to the membership usually follows their disruptive tactics, and for immediate good and future welfare it is of greatest importance that we coolly analyze their propaganda and their real purpose before blindly following their lead. Your destiny is in your own hands. Listen to argument. Think and decide for yourself. Zealously guard your own welfare. Be sure you are right and just and fair to all concerned. Then resolutely go ahead and success will crown your efforts.

At a meeting of the Executive Board of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America, held September 9 and 10, 1921, the appended resolution was unanimously adopted:

RESOLVED, That we compliment the Labor Press for their unselfish, splendid, helpful work in the interests of the cause of the wage earners of our country, and urge the members of our International Union to subscribe for and unselfishly and enthusiastically support the Labor Press of their respective localities.

G. W. Perkins, President.
Samuel Gompers, 1st Vice-President.
L. P. Hoffman, 2nd Vice-President.
A. Garipey, 3rd Vice-President.
John Reichert, 4th Vice-President.
E. G. Hall, 5th Vice-President.
E. J. Stack, 6th Vice-President.
Chas. H. Stevens, 7th Vice-President.

Executive Board, Cigar Makers' International Union.

The Constitution of the United States does not vest in the judiciary the right to nullify or void any law passed by Congress and signed by the President. We are, nevertheless, seemingly at the mercy of this autocratic, irresponsible power in so far as legislation, especially remedial labor legislation, is concerned.

Laws regularly passed by the law-making branch of our government, signed by its executive head, and supposedly binding on all the people, are set aside and become null and void by this power usurped by the judiciary, often by one man's vote.

The recent decision of Judge Boyd in declaring unconstitutional the Federal Child Labor Law is but another clear example of this usurpation of power, nullifying as it does the remedial law enacted that the lives of our children might not be sacrificed on the altar of greed.

Unless we are willing as a nation to accept a government of the judiciary that is absolutely independent of the expressed will of the people, as regards choice or tenure of office, it is well that we voice our objections to such procedure and demand the rights of a democracy predicated on our Constitution.

There are certain conditions involved in building cost that are seemingly not touched upon as a remedy for readjustment by any of the agencies so actively persistent in attributing high rents, etc., to labor cost.

For example, it is decided to build an apartment house to cost $100,000.00. Assuming that a loan for this amount is desired we find that interest, commission and contingent fees cost the prospective builder $14,000.00, or 14 per cent, before even the contract is let. When the contract is let in view of the gentlemen's agreements so carefully safeguarded we find the material price fixed without competition. It makes no difference where he buys his material the price of much of it is exactly the same. Steel for instance is priced on the "Pittsburgh plus" basis. This means that the Pittsburgh price for the steel is charged plus the freight rate from Pittsburgh, although the steel may be manufactured and purchased in the very city where the building is to be erected. It is admitted that the same plus system applies to the price of cement and it no doubt applies in some form or other to every particle of material necessary.

The addition of the freight rate on steel or any other commodity from a certain basic point to the place where the material is used irrespective of whether there was any freight to pay, and regardless of the cost of production is nothing less than robbery. It becomes the toll we are forced to pay in the way of increased rents to our well protected plunderbund whose methods shame the ghost of Jesse James. Jesse at least risked his life and liberty in the consummation of his thievery.

"Unorganized labor has been the chief sufferer in wage cutting."

The above statement, a proven fact, appears in a recent survey of the cost of living, dealing with wages and prices. It fittingly answers the question often asked by the non-unionist when solicited to join a labor union, "What have your unions done?"

The maintenance of wages is not all that we have done. We have raised wages as well as maintained them, reduced the hours of labor, made conditions under which we work endurable, and placed every remedial law that protects the worker and his interests on the statute books. Besides all this, and much more, we have in many instances maintained a chain of benefits that has been the rainbow of hope when the clouds of sickness and death hung heavily over the worker's home.

What have we done for the workers? EVERYTHING that has so far been accomplished for freedom, justice and the welfare of the toilers.

What has any other agency done for the workers? NOTHING except to keep them divided, unorganized, helpless and working for low wages and long hours.

With six million able-bodied men under arms in the different countries of the world, and an appropriation in this country alone of more than $5,000,000,000 for the purpose of paying for war, past and future, this enormous sum being what we shall have to raise by taxation for the year ended June 30, 1921, it is time that we individually and collectively enter our protest against a continuation of the present military and commercial expansion policy backed by war profiteers and dollar patriots. Of the total amount Congress appropriated for 1919-1920, 93.4 cents of every dollar was for war purposes and only 6.6 cents of each dollar went for human welfare and government administration.

Militarism thrives on the indifference of the people, and the demonstration planned by Labor on Armistice Day, November 11, should be welcomed by all as an opportunity to voice our sentiments on the subject of militarism and disarmament. Let our stand be so decided and emphatic that our representatives in Congress will not dare continue the attempt to militarize our democracy under the camouflage of national defense.

There is an unemployment situation in practically every civilized country on the globe. In countries where the trade union movement is small and poorly developed, wages low, and hours of labor long, the unemployment situation is more acute and there are more people unemployed than there are in countries, with few exceptions, where the trade union movement is well developed and strong, and wages comparatively speaking the highest. Despite this we find the open-shopper and others still blaming organized labor and high wages for the unemployment situation.

"Service costs absorb 49 per cent of every dollar the consumer pays for goods and commodities," said Congressman Anderson, chairman of the Joint Congressional Commission of Agricultural Inquiry. "Goods are sold not so much by offering the price as by offering service, convenience, dependability, reputation, and credit, and the consumer must pay for all of this."

Do we need efficiency? Yes, we do, especially in so far as the terrific waste sustained in the selling cost of the things we consume. And still some are foolish enough to say that Labor is to blame for the high cost of living.

"The economic loss caused by industrial accidents amounts to a billion dollars yearly," Sydney J. Williams, secretary of the National Safety Council, told the Convention of the International Association of Industrial Accident Board. "The wage loss approximates $853,000,000," he said.

And still we hear learned experts on industrial efficiency discussing efficiency of the workers. Efficiency is good. Let us have more of it, and let it apply to the stoppage of preventable industrial accidents. The billion dollar expense yearly, caused by preventable accidents, is added to the overhead charge and this enormous sum placed upon the backs of the burden-bearing masses.

TRADE NOTES.

The following comparative data of tax-paid products indicated by monthly sales of stamps are obtained from the statement of internal revenue collections for the month of August, 1921:

	August, 1920.	August, 1921.
Cigars (large) manufactured.	Number.	Number.
Class A.....	138,000,545	201,629,692
Class B.....	210,436,725	170,686,352
Class C.....	307,678,786	236,472,764
Class D.....	11,292,506	11,154,806
Class E.....	4,611,728	2,095,419
Total	672,020,289	622,039,033

As compared with the number of cigars manufactured in July, 1921, we find that Class A shows an increase of 24,883,659; Class B an increase of 16,846,219, Class C an increase of 13,350,183, Class D an increase of 2,018,709 and Class E an increase of 342,008.

Production figures for July, 1921, as shown by the Internal Revenue Reports, follow:

	Number.
Class A.....	176,746,033
Class B.....	153,840,133
Class C.....	223,122,581
Class D.....	9,136,097
Class E.....	1,753,411
Total	564,598,255

Leaf tobacco suitable for cigar wrappers held in bonded warehouses on July 31, 1921, amounted to 2,502,463 pounds, as compared with 4,742,758 in the same period last year, a decrease of 2,240,295 pounds.

The following table gives in detail the amount of tobacco both wrappers and fillers, remaining in bonded warehouses of this country on July 31, 1921 and 1920:

	1921. Pounds.	1920. Pounds.
Leaf, suitable for wrappers	2,502,463	4,742,758
All others	59,466,273	72,091,170
Total	61,968,736	76,833,928

The United States Department of Labor, through the Bureau of Labor, reports that there was employed during the month of August a total of 16,596 persons, as compared with 15,880 in the same period in 1920, an increase of 4.5 per cent. The payroll during August amounted to $316,938, as compared with $334,691, a decrease of 5.3 per cent. Comparing August, 1921, with the previous month of July, there is a decrease shown of 0.3 per cent, but an increase in the amount of the payroll of 2.3 per cent.

A wage-rate decrease of 16 per cent was made to 75 per cent of the men in one establishment. Three firms report a decrease of 15 per cent, which affected all the men in two factories and 90 per cent of the men in the third factory. A decrease of 10 per cent was reported by two factories affecting all employes in the first factory and 66 per cent in the second factory. The per capita earnings for August are 2.6 per cent more than those for July.

A review of the cigar industry for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1921, shows decreases when compared with the previous year in Classes A, B and E and increases in Classes C and D.

The following table compiled by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shows the amount of cigars, produced in the twelve months' period which ended June 30th, as compared with the same period in 1919-1920:

	Twelve Months, Fiscal Year.
	1920-1921.	1919-1920.

The above comparative statement includes Philippine production of 18,111,117 cigars and Porto Rico production of 146,786,680 cigars.

Pennsylvania, first district, Philadelphia, ranks first in the production of cigars, producing a total of 1,658,618,803, while New Jersey fifth district, Newark, ranks second, with 450,773,424.

Pennsylvania, first district, Philadelphia, which is combined with the ninth district, made the largest increase, although the previous year's figures are not complete for the year, therefore an actual comparison cannot be made. First district, Chicago, Ill., made the second largest increase, although the figures are not complete for this year or for the previous year.

New York, first district, Brooklyn, made the third largest increase of 43,258,081 cigars.

Determined, Popular Will Can Enforce Disarmament.

Remedial legislation is always forced from below; it never comes from above.

Special privilege and its retainers are well aware of this fact, hence their hatred for "agitators" who spur the people to intelligent determination.

Reaction never gives. What it yields is forced from unwilling hands.

Wage earners may well recall this historic fact, especially in these momentous days when the world is discussing disarmament as never before.

Despite its wealth and resources, our country is staggering under military taxes.

Social progress is ignored that battleships may be built, death dealing airplanes perfected, treacherous submarines invented and poison gases discovered.

Of every dollar congress appropriated for the 1919-1920 fiscal year, 93 4/10 cents was for war and its effects and 6 6/10 cents for human welfare and government administration.

Nations, as men, are judged by their deeds.

Democratic ideals will be eventually destroyed when a people permit 94 per cent of their government's income to be used for war.

Only blind optimism can ignore the future when but 6 6/10 per cent is used for human welfare, education, research, the arts and sciences, agriculture, mining, forestry, transportation and administering government.

This 94 per cent policy can be changed, but it will never come from above.

As men, women and children get into this fight, the circle of protest is enlarged. As individuals stand apart and listen to reaction's sophistry and alarms, the day of victory is postponed.

Let every citizen swell the thunderous roar for peace.

Create a public opinion that will be an irresistible tidal wave.

Join the A. F. of L. demonstration in your locality on Armistice day, November 11.

If one has not been initiated, start one.

Have your union act. Appoint committees to visit other unions and civic bodies.

The people will respond. They are tax-burdened, war weary and tired of the pretense of militarists and greed.

Vitalize the A. F. of L.'s 40-year demand for peace.—A. F. of L. Publicity.

The union label is an antidote for selfishness, that phase of our character which dwarfs the soul.

STRENGTHENING THE CHIEF LINK—ORGANIZATION

It is an old and true adage that a chain is no stronger than its weakest link.

It is equally true that a movement is no stronger than its actual organization.

The organization of the workers—their unions—is always the mark of the strength of their protest and their ability to contribute to the progress of community, state and nation.

Mr. Baer, the famous congressman-cartoonist, puts it all in a picture, with his wonderful ability to depict a great truth simply and clearly.

The American Federation of Labor is engaged in the great task of strengthening the organization of the workers everywhere.

Upon the strength of this link depends the effectiveness of labor's struggle for justice, progress, democracy, and all of the other links in the great chain which marks the march of humanity toward the ever-advancing goal.

The simple message to each individual member of a union is this: Go out and get a new member.

Single notes of music make a great orchestration. Each note by itself means but little.

Its sound carries but a trifling distance, its beauty is scant. But all of the notes, properly played together, may move multitudes by the power of their combined expression.

To get your single new member may of itself mean little. But for each to get a new member and for all of the new members to be brought together into the great organized family of workers means a volume of strength the value of which to human progress is beyond estimate. Out of such a grand volume comes the overwhelming song of irresistible righteousness, moving toward the fulfillment of human hopes and aspirations.

There is no song without the little individual notes.

There is no growth of organization without the individual members, gathered here and there to make the great unity, the great concord.

Men and women of Labor, upon each of you is laid the duty of doing faithfully your own part.
—American Federation-

Every Blow Makes It Stronger

BY COURTESY OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATIONIST

Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, has issued a statement setting forth the fundamental facts in relation to the West Virginia situation. He said:

With the situation in West Virginia at a most critical juncture it is almost beyond belief that there has not been placed before the public complete and accurate information regarding the events leading up to the position taken by the president of the United States.

There are certain basic facts which must be considered before there can be fair and proper judgment of the West Virginia situation. These facts have not been presented adequately and in many cases not at all.

The public press has been negligent and the federal government has been equally so in not presenting to the people the full underlying truth.

The great mass of news relating to West Virginia conveys the impression that lawless bands of miners are roving the state without reason except an unjustified bitterness against the mine owners. "Uneducated mountaineers," they are called.

There are four basic facts which are consistently ignored and which it is the duty of government and press to present. These are:

1. The mines of West Virginia constitute the last refuge of autocracy in the mining industry. In these mines an unrestrained, unlimited greed dominates absolutely. Absentee owners hold immense tracts of rich mining land, demanding only dividends.

2. The appetite of this private greed is upheld by a private army of killers, the like of which no longer exists in any other state. This private army is paid by the mine owners and naturally seeks to justify its presence by making "business" for itself in the form of trouble. The Baldwin-Felts detective agency recruits this army, but the mine owners pay the bill. Deputy sheriffs, paid by mine owners, form another wing of the private army, equally dangerous.

3. The present strike is a direct protest against the action of the mine owners of West Virginia in refusing to abide by the award of the United States coal commission. If the United States government at this time defends the mine owners and does not destroy the private armies of the mine owners the government is in the position of sustaining a defiance of an order issued by its own authority.

4. The state government of West Virginia has broken down, not because the miners have protested against lawlessness, but because it has failed to stop the mine owners from enforcing law as a private business at the hands of privately paid and privately directed gunmen.

These four paramount truths have been almost totally ignored. To neglect to present these facts is, in my opinion, a breach of a public trust upon which the integrity of the whole newspaper world must rest its claim to confidence and belief.

These paramount truths have been found to exist by representatives of the United States government. The government itself, through the United States Senate, established these truths. It found them after long and painstaking inquiry. They are indisputable. They are as they have been.

The Federal Bituminous Commission rendered its report on March 10, 1920. It carried with it an award of 24 cents flat on pick and machine mining to the bituminous miners of the United States. The coal operators of Mingo County, West Virginia, refused to apply the award, and instead they arbitrarily applied 5, 10 and 15 cents on each mine car rate, there being no coal weighed throughout that field. The capacity of these mine cars varies from two to five tons, and the highest rate paid per car was $1.40. This price for five tons of coal represented and included all dead work and tonnage rates.

When the award was granted the bituminous miners by the commission, the miners of Mingo County sent committeemen to the operators and requested that the award be granted in full, and the companies refused it. The miners contended that the award was granted them by their government and that they were going to insist on it. Every plea to the operators was met with refusal, and finally the miners of Sprigg, Stone Mountain and Red Jacket went on strike, called meetings and sent a committee to Charleston to interview the officials of District 17, U. M. W. of A.

They were told plainly by the miners' union that the union would not organize them while they were on strike; to return to work, put all the mines in operation, and then if they desired to become members of the union they would be given the opportunity.

These instructions were carried out. Again the committees were returned and about 800 miners allied themselves with the union at once. Following this the miners flocked into the union and as a result were all discharged and served with eviction notices.

The discontent had become very acute in the month of April, 1920. By this time the Baldwin Felts detectives appeared in Matewan to evict the miners, their wives and children. At this time practically all the miners had joined the union.

In the report of the last senatorial investigation of which there is public record, that of 1914, Senator Shields in his section of the report refers to the mine guards as "generally lawless and desperate men."

In relation to the hired gun men who have brought the administration of law in West Virginia to the point of absolute collapse and whose most recent activities have been brutal and lawless beyond description, Senator Martine reported:

"In no spirit of malice or hatred, but with a view that the country, through knowledge of the true conditions, may right the wrong, I charge that the hiring of armed bodies of men by private mine owners and other corporations and the use of steel armored trains, machine guns and bloodhounds on defenseless men, women and children is but a little way removed from barbarism."

The trouble in West Virginia will not be cured by forcing men into submission while allowing continuance of the evils against which they have so desperately protested. I join with all Americans in deprecating the violence in that state, but it is worse than useless to deal with the surface manifestations while allowing the deep, underlying plutocratic criminality to continue uninterfered with and unchecked.

The United States government can do a great service by destroying government by gun men, by restoring civil government uncorrupted by coal mine autocracy and by giving to the miners an opportunity to secure justice and to be free from persecution in enjoying their constitutional rights.

Unless the government does this it adds to the shameful record and helps to perpetuate the era of crime and brutality.

CORRESPONDENCE

Tampa, Fla., Sept. 15, 1921.

The adoption of the amendment to Sec. 79 of the Constitution proposed by Local No. 500 would be reasonable, humanitarian and of beneficial results to our organization.

In view of the knowledge we have of our manufacturers, who, knowing our Constitution, await the end of the 16 weeks of full benefits—for they believe that when the benefits are reduced the striker will succumb to hunger.

To reduce the benefits when they are most needed we believe to be, besides inhuman, unwise; and it would be a great step forward if we strike it out of our Constitution for the good of our members.

It is our belief that by adopting this amendment the International funds will be better protected, because the manufacturers will not wait the 16 week limit in the hope of subduing us when the benefits are reduced. In Tampa we have always seen that the manufacturers cipher their hopes of beating us when the reduction in benefits takes place, and it is for this reason that a strike that should have been won in a few weeks is lost after several months.

Therefore, Union 500 hopes that sister unions, perfectly understanding the reasons herein noted, will indorse and favorably vote our amendment, which we propose with the best and greatest wishes of seeing our International Union grander and more progressive.

Yours fraternally,
LOCAL UNION NO. 500, Tampa.

St. Paul, Minn., Sept. 3, 1921.

Trade conditions in the "Home Cigar" products are not flourishing here, the output has been wavering below the normal for several months past. Some of the reasons for the depression in our industry are obviously due to the fact that things have changed materially since the "rush" season of a couple of years ago when smokers were not choosers; but took the first "grab" and thanked the dealer for the chance, then manufacturers got "by" easy. Now they must reckon with a keen competition and by judicious effort the trade can be won, and directed in the right channels.

Another reason manifestly clear for the slump in trade is, that members of the union have not been as consistent in demanding the union label on cigars as they should have been at all times; and cigarmakers themselves have been derelict in promoting the demand for the use of the "Union Label" with an unreserved spirit of progressive agitation and education carried constantly to the attention of organized labor, and the public smoker. An inexpensive way can be found to convey that information through committees of the union, and advertising mediums that can be contrived even in the smallest locals; if interest and devotion is given to the work.

There is still another phase that enters strongly into the commercial business which should not be entirely overlooked or ignored: that is, the conspiracy of "Big Business" who have joined hands in powerful combinations to throttle independent manufacturers or producers, that employ organized labor. The diabolical scheme is supported by the Wall Street financiers, and corporate greed, who are bent on the destruction of trades unions, so that the open or nonunion shop might be inaugurated, thereby destroying the last vestige of hope and independence of the workers. A prodigious drive by the would-be "union wreckers" in these parts is being insidiously worked overtime by the Citizens Alliance, and those who are in league with them. Through it all the harmonious relations of employer and employee have been disturbed, and the tranquillity of business upset. Their plan is to crush organized labor, and to discourage the use of the union label on all commodities; and to boycott all interests that do not join with them in their unrighteous endeavor; whilst their hopes can never be realized, as they have "shot their bolt" for the open shop and fallen short of expectations.

But organized labor must be on the alert to combat the chicanery and cunning of big business to establish the non-union shop, retain exorbitant profits, and defeat the use of the union label and such has been the affect of their campaign in this locality, that union labor has become more determined to meet their onslaughts by a persistent effort to unionize the unorganized workers, and to create a greater demand for the use of the "Union Label." The minds of the workers have become whetted for the economic fray, and there is more agitation going on for label products, and organization, than has been heard for many months past. Members in their union meetings are becoming more interested, delegates to the Central Labor Union here speak in more earnest terms when discussing the necessity for demanding the union label, and also, there is a labor paper here called the "Union Advocate," ably edited, which is doing a splendid work in the interest of labor, wherein the truthful virtues of the label as a potent power in the hands of labor are repeatedly extolled, and the good work both of the paper and the co-operation of union men and women is bearing fruit. It is expected that Labor Day, Sept. 5th, will witness one of the greatest demonstrations in point of numbers that labor has ever turned out in its celebrations within the history of organization in this city.

R. S. SEXTON.

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 4, 1921.

To be the first in the best label advertising we are now promoting a big college football game. After the Chamber of Commerce and the Business Men's Association had turned down the proposition to handle the game, we made an offer for it and after a hard struggle we landed it.

This game has created more favorable comment than anything ever pulled off. We have three daily papers giving us writeups on an average of three times a week and have a few writeups from the Boston papers.

We have sent out over 300 letters to fraternal and social clubs throughout this section. On all window cards, score cards and tickets we feature our label and union. We expect a crowd of 12,000 to 15,000 at the game; the grandstand seats 3,100 and we have it over half sold out before we put any tickets on sale.

Yours fraternally,
WARREN RAUSER,
Sec'y Football Com.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 4, 1921.

Editor Miller of the Detroit Labor News, who was instantly killed in an automobile accident, was an earnest label booster in action as well as words, and was at all times a friend of both our local and international union and has rendered us valuable assistance in the past. We feel that the Cigar Makers' Union has suffered the loss of one of our best friends. We remember him as a true unionist.

HARRY KOLLER, Sec'y.

Appeal to Organized Labor in General.

Will you lend us a helping hand by being consistent when purchasing collars by demanding the Bell Brand collars bearing the union label? Made in both soft and laundered collars.

We sincerely hope you will appreciate our efforts and help us by purchasing Bell Brand collars, made in 53 different styles, both soft and laundered.

You can buy collars from the Union Label Collar Company direct, 139 Hamilton St., Albany, N. Y., providing your dealer will not carry them for you. Send the order along to the above company—same will be executed promptly. If you have not a catalogue same can be procured from the above company upon request.

Thanking you in advance for your courtesy in this matter and sincerely hoping you will send in a club order so as we can get some work to do, we remain,

UNITED GARMENT WORKERS OF AMERICA.

PEARL MATSON, Sec'y.

39 Second Ave., Rensselaer, N. Y.

Greeting:

This letter is to convey to you the fact that the demand for the union label suspenders has decreased to such a degree that the manufacturers in this industry are taking the advantage by refusing to recognize our union and have declared openly in many instances for the open shop and American plan of organization.

We have solicited your support in the past and it was cheerfully responded to by the union men of labor. We take the kind liberty again to appeal for your kind support, as our appeal at this time is more urgent than heretofore, as we are sorry to state that our union is losing in membership (on account of the prevailing conditions) and the manufacturers are strongly bent on destroying our union if possible.

Kindly appreciate the fact that we do not ask you for any funds; all we ask now is what we believe to be the right of every union to ask, and that is that when any of your members purchase a pair of suspenders that they are to see that the Union Label of the American Federation of Labor is securely pasted on the suspenders, because if every union man who is wearing suspenders would insist on seeing that the suspenders bear such union label, the manufacturers of this product would not at this time dare to make any effort to disrupt or destroy our union.

Information regarding union suspender manufacturers will be cheerfully furnished by communicating to John J. Manning, Secretary and Treasurer of the Union Label Trades Department, A. F. of Labor Bldg., Washington, D. C., or Suspender Makers' Union, 175 E. Broadway, New York City.

Thanking you for your past co-operation, also looking forward to your assistance in this crisis, we are fraternally and sincerely yours.

SUSPENDER MAKERS' UNION.

The figures in right hand column show that prices of only four out of the entire list of articles are today at a lower price than in 1913.

On wholesale prices the trend is upward. Both Dun and Bradstreet report increases for July. The Dun report is based on the wholesale prices of over 300 commodities; Bradstreet's on 96. Both reports show higher prices for July, while the Bradstreet report began to show a rise in June. Using the figure 100 to represent 1913 prices, the Bradstreet report would show August 15, 1921, prices at 125. The figures for May a year ago was 225, and for June of this year 132.

This information is not intended to serve as a basis for the determination of wage rates, but to indicate the fluctuating purchasing value of wages.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

San Diego, Calif., Sept. 1, 1921.

The agitation committee of Union 225 of Los Angeles and myself made a second attempt to visit the cigar firm of Symons-Krausmann Co., formerly a union label factory of New York City and now opening up as a non-union shop in the city of Los Angeles, in an effort to prevail on them to continue a union factory. We were unable to see the head of the firm as Mr. Symons had left the city to be away for 30 days. On our first visit we were informed by Mr. Symons that unquestionably and irrevocably they were going to operate an open shop. They have also a leaf tobacco house in connection with the cigar factory and are now advertising in the Los Angeles and San Diego papers for bunch breakers and rollers.

Since my last letter, in company with the agitation committees of Los Angeles and San Diego, Calif., we have visited and addressed the following labor unions, urging on them the necessity, particularly at this time, to purchase only goods bearing the union label, also distributing union label advertising matter: Meeting of the shop crafts of the Santa Fe railroad shops, a large meeting of the plumbers union, No. 18, of Los Angeles, the Central Labor Council of Los Angeles, a mass meeting of the striking studio workers of Los Angeles, jewelers' union of Los Angeles, Asbestos Workers' union, No. 5, of Los Angeles; Coppermiths' Union of Los Angeles, Auto Mechanics of Los Angeles, Pile Drivers and Dockbuilders' Union, No. 2375, of Los Angeles; Office Employees' Union, No. 15251, of Los Angeles; the Stage Employees' Union, No. 33, of Los Angeles; Reed and Rattan Workers of Los Angeles, House Movers and Raisers' Union of Los Angeles, the Glass Bottle Blowers' Union of Los Angeles, Carpenters' District Council of Los Angeles, a meeting of the Agitation Committee of San Diego, Carpenters' Union, No. 1296, of San Diego; the Electrical Workers' Union, No. 569, of San Diego; the Federated Trades and Labor Council of San Diego; the Millmen's Union, No. 2011, of San Diego; Barbers' Union, No. 256, of San Diego; Sign Writers' Union, No. 1322, of San Diego; Butcher Workmen Union, No. 329, of San Diego; Machinists' Union, No. 339, of San Diego; addressed a meeting for organization of the miscellaneous trades in a department for San Diego; Painters' Union, No. 323, of San Diego; Cooks, Waiters and Waitresses' Union, No. 402, of San Diego; Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union, No. 229, of San Diego; Lathers' Union, No. 260, of San Diego; Plasterers and Cement Finishers' Union, No. 346.

Trade is showing some slight improvement. In the large cigar factory in which the men have been working on a limit of 200 cigars per day the limit has been increased to 250 cigars per day on some of the jobs.

Yours fraternally,
J. E. FARRELL,
General Organizer.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 4, 1921.

I have continued my efforts in this city along the lines of agitation, also still urging the girls and the men that are working in the unfair shops to get together and hold a meeting and let me take up the question of organization with them; also getting the girls to attend the dances given by the Women's Union Label League. I also asked them to come to our afternoon meetings on Saturday. The organization committee of the Trades and Labor Council is working to get a meeting of the girls and women working in the different factories. I am also keeping in touch with this movement at all times. Am still working on a new advertisement for the label. Our window display was commented on by the visiting delegates—quite a number of different brands of cigars, smoking tobacco and cigarettes; the windows showed up in fine shape.

I also attended the afternoon meetings of the Michigan Federation of Labor convention. I called the attention of the different delegates to the conditions of our trade and urged them to urge their dealers in their city to handle union made cigars. I also asked them to bring it before their respective locals and in the trades council of their cities. I made a canvass of the delegates, being unable to get the floor owing to the fact that all speakers were scheduled. Mr. Manning, of Washington, from the Label Department of the Federation of Labor, gave a very interesting talk on the labels, urging the attending delegates to take it back to the different trades to have them form label leagues in order to get a more urgent demand for labeled goods. There were several good talks on organization from several of the good speakers. Will say, furthermore, in so far all our members are now working, trade having improved some owing to the fact that those that were laying off are now working. I have hope for a very good fall, as the outlook so indicates at the present time. Respectfully,

M. GAZELLA,
Sub-organizer.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL FINANCIER

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 5, 1921.

Since last report I have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz.:

No. 224, Salt Lake City, Utah.

The books and accounts here are in splendid condition. Sec'y Sugden at all times expects to have his accounts correct; does all his work in that manner. Statement as follows:

Report of Special Financier.

Union No. 378, Penuelas, P. R.

October 4, 1921.

Outside of several errors in the day book that have been duly corrected the accounts are acceptable. Entries in the ledger are not properly made according to the dates on which the members make the payments. Many sick cards missed and no vouchers for many of the expenses incurred for the last year. No O. of W. certificates on file for benefits paid in 1920. It has been impossible to verify the stamp account, for there is not a proper record of the stamp received from the International office. Work in the office greatly neglected, to the detriment of the members during this last period of strike. Proper instructions given to the secretary and finance committee also responsible for the situation, having been warned against a repetition of this situation. Statement as follows:

The amount of $309.11, due the International Union on examination, is as follows: Illegal strike benefits drawn in 1920 by D. Hernandez, E. Torres and A. Solis, $22.50; illegal sick benefits drawn in 1920 by J. Vazquez, A. Ramirez, D. Davila, S. Hernandez, I. Rodriguez, E. Lazo, R. Cruz, I. Ibanez, T. A. Ramirez and R. Rodriguez, $161.00; and found in correction of accounts and financial statements, $25.61. Almost all the deficiency is caused by this. I have been promised that the amount of the deficiency, $213.11, shall be reported replaced in the monthly report for September and duly covered by an assessment already collected.

Yours fraternally,
P. RIVERA MARTINEZ,
Acting Financier.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Bureau of the Census.

The American Tobacco Industry for 1920.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19, 1921.—The Bureau of the Census will shortly issue the annual report on Stocks of Leaf Tobacco, etc., for 1920 (Bulletin No. 146). The Bulletin assembles the quarterly reports of stocks of leaf tobacco as published by the Bureau of the Census. It also contains data regarding the acreage in and production of tobacco by states, the prices paid for tobacco, and sales of tobacco by the growers, as compiled by the Bureau of Crop Estimates, Department of Agriculture; the quantity of tobacco consumed, the several tobacco products manufactured, the number of registered factories, and revenue collected on tobacco, as published by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, Treasury Department; the quantity of tobacco consumed and tobacco products manufactured in bonded manufacturing warehouses, as returned by the Customs Division, Treasury Department; and the quantities of leaf tobacco and tobacco products imported, exported and stored in United States bonded warehouses, as published by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce. The object of the bulletin has been to assemble in one publication the statistics for the various phases of the tobacco industry and to present them in convenient form for ready reference.

According to the bulletin, there were 1,894,400 acres planted in tobacco in 1920, while the production from that crop amounted to 1,508,064,000 pounds. There were imported during the year leaf tobacco and tobacco products to the value of $98,562,000, while the exports of leaf tobacco were valued at approximately $245,000,000, and of tobacco products at $43,000,000. The combined production of cigars in registered factories and in bonded manufacturing warehouses numbered 8,720,754,000, and of cigarettes, 61,859,900,000, and of chewing and smoking tobacco and snuff, 413,891,000 pounds. There were 15,834,000,000 cigarettes exported during the year, leaving 46,000,000,000 factory made cigarettes for consumption in the United States. Revenue collected during the year amounted to $294,000,000. Of this total, North Carolina contributed $108,447,000; New York, $46,663,000; Virginia, $20,721,000; Pennsylvania, $20,195,000; New Jersey, $18,742,000; Ohio, $15,154,000, and Missouri, $12,319,000.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140g distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members who, should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity for complying with the request carefully study Section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

At a meeting of the Executive Board September 9 and 10, all members present, as follows: G. W. Perkins, Samuel Gompers, L. P. Hoffman, A. Gariepy, John Reichert, E. G. Hall, E. J. Stack, C. H. Stevens and Gibson Weber—President Perkins submitted the following report to the members assembled: To the Members of the Executive Board of the Cigar Makers' Int'l Union of America.

Pursuant to the authority set forth in Section 54 of the Constitution, you are called in session for the purpose of considering the question of organizing our industry.

The unemployment situation is serious and affects all workers in all trades and callings, including our own. Added to this unemployment situation, which affects all workers, is the fact that the open-shoppers and non-union manufacturers generally have seized the present situation to attack the union and its scales of prices. Since our industry is competitive, we are more seriously affected than industries which are not competitive in nature.

The natural trend in all industries toward specialization, centralization, and crystallization into the modern trust has been going forward in our industry for the past few years with tremendous strides. The so-called buckeyes and small manufacturers are being eliminated and the big plants constantly increasing. Our membership has been more largely confined to the small and medium sized factories scattered all over the country, while the big non-union plants have been confined mostly to portions of Ohio, Michigan, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Florida.

Our industry has gradually evolved from men hand workers and mold workers to a point where considerably more than one-half employed in the industry are now women employed under the team system, bunch-breaking and roll up plan, and on bunch-breaking machines and roll up suction tables.

This evolutionary process toward centralization and specialization has been going on in all other trades, all of which have been affected. The injury done the organization has been less harmful where the members were quick to grasp the situation and recognize the new system.

I frankly say to you that there can be no fully and permanently successful organization in our industry unless we organize the workers employed in these big plants.

We should not ignore the drift of trade in our industry until it is too late for proper action to prevent great injury to the workers employed therein.

Forced economy on the part of the average smoker, caused by profiteering and the high cost of living, and the present unemployment situation, leads him to less expensive products in supplying that solace necessary to those who indulge. This has led to the increased use of cigarettes, the pipe and small cigars. The annual consumption of cigarettes, tax paid, in the past ten years has increased from 14,294,895,471 to about 45,000,000,000, an increase of 30,000,000,000, or about 200 per cent.

Despite the present condition of affairs I have lost none of my faith in the ability of the International Union to finally organize the workers in the industry, but I don't want you to think I am trying to minimize the difficulty of this gigantic task. As long as there is a formidable division of opinion as to the methods and plan of organization of those upon whom the burden of success or failure partly rests there can not be necessary and satisfactory advancement. All honestly inclined agree that organization is absolutely necessary for the protection and advancement of the wage earning masses. The whole question resolves itself into one simple proposition of organization. No one has a moral right to introduce questions and isms which cause a division and a stumbling block to organization along industrial lines. We can not afford to ignore fundamental principles which make for success.

History shows that when one tribe, clan or race was not fighting another tribe, clan or race they were engaged in internecine wars; that when wars of conquest or defense stopped internecine wars commenced. Internecine strife has been also working overtime on the economic field of endeavor, with its consequent waste of strength, time, and energy that should be devoted to organizing the wage earners in industry.

Our organization is precisely what the membership at large make it. If there are laws now in effect which are not satisfactory to some, the proper way to change such laws is to become members of the organization. That is fair and just. Those who will not subscribe to this doctrine, the rule of the majority, are standing in their own way and are false to themselves and to the well-being of all unionists and non-unionists engaged in our industry, and are simply helping to increase the wealth of non-union manufacturers, to the consequent detriment of the workers employed in their factories.

Wage-earners who attempt to destroy the evolutionary constructive trade union movement are pursuing a course that is not in accord with the history of demonstrated economic science and the well-being of the wage earners morally, mentally and physically. All, however, have an undisputed right to give full expression to their thoughts on economic questions which they think will improve our union and methods for successful organization.

A substantial, indissoluble union requires of its membership broadness of mind and depth of vision; a fixed objective with substantial but flexible methods, courage, determination, self sacrifice and a true fraternal spirit.

The successful organization of the wage earners in our industry is a solemn duty and binding obligation we owe to our fellow workers, to ourselves and to future generations. The attainment of this laudable purpose is well worth fighting for, and is entitled to the best efforts of all concerned.

G. W. PERKINS.

Int'l President.

President Perkins reviewed the condition of the trade of the International Union, and made the following suggestion as a means of arousing interest in our movement and in support of our Blue Label: First, that a short, concise statement be issued to the labor press; second, that a statement in the form of a circular letter be issued to non-union men and women in our trade. Third, that a circular be issued to all Central Labor Unions, State Federations, voluntary organizers of the A. F. of L. and all local unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. Fourth, that a circular be issued to members of the Cigar Makers' International Union urging renewed activity, faith in and loyalty to the International Union.

The Board then went into general discussion of the trade and indulged in a general discussion as to the best means and methods to be employed in a drive to organize the wage earners in our industry.

On motion the afternoon session was devoted to a conference with the organizers, who were present on invitation of the president. Organizers McCabe, Simons, Sontheimer and Keenen spoke at length upon the questions under consideration and what in their judgment was the best means to be employed in the organization campaign. A motion was adopted "that it be the sense of the Executive Board of the C. M. I. U. of A. that every person employed in the cigar industry in any and all of its branches be urged to become a member of the C. M. I. U. of A."

Friday evening the members of the Board addressed a meeting, which had previously been arranged, of the Joint Advisory Board of New York and the executive officers of all the local unions of New York City and vicinity. This meeting was fully attended and the condition of the industry in New York was thoroughly discussed, and a motion adopted unanimously pledging the support of every member present to do all in his power to help in the effort to organize the cigar makers of New York City and vicinity and bring them into the Cigar Makers' International Union.

The Board unanimously approved the suggestion made by the president reference issuing the circulars referred to in the foregoing. The four circulars were prepared and will be distributed as ordered.

A resolution was adopted as follows: That we compliment the Labor Press for their unselfish, splendid, helpful work in the interests of the cause of the wage earners of our country, and urge the members of our International Union to subscribe for and unselfishly and enthusiastically support the Labor Press of their respective localities.

A resolution was adopted as follows: The Executive Board of the Cigar Makers' International Union notes with appreciation the splendid news service and educational information inaugurated and now in force by the American Federation of Labor and expresses hope for its continuation and extension.

The Board, on invitation, attended a meeting of the Joint Advisory Board of the Cloak, Skirt and Reefer Makers' Union and President Perkins and First Vice-President Gompers delivered addresses on the necessity of organization and urged that all right-thinking men and women subordinate their personal views, issues and isms, which have no place in the constructive trade union movement, to the common good of the wage earners, and all unite in the effort to organize all trades in strong, compact trade unions. The remarks of both speakers were enthusiastically received and assurance given that the members affiliated with the Lady Garment Workers and other kindred organizations in New York would assist in our efforts to organize our trade. Representatives of the Lady Garment Workers' International Union volunteered their assistance and stated they would work with us on any plan we might submit that would be helpful in organizing our trade.

The Board reconvened after the meeting, at 6 o'clock, and remained in session for over two hours, during which time every important phase of our movement was fully discussed. Every member present pledged his active effort in the movement to organize the workers within the ranks of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

H. A. Miersch appealed against Union 255, Lowell, Mass., reference the construction of the bill of prices in his case. The appeal was not sustained.

Notice is herewith given of the special strike fund assessment of $1.00, which took effect Sept. 26, 1921. The assessment may be paid in two weekly installments and is payable by all 60-cent and 30-cent members, and $0.50 by Class B members who have been members for six months or more.

UNION NOTES

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of Nathan Leak is requested to notify the International office or Mrs. R. Bernhardt, 2106 N. Spaulding Ave., Chicago. Mr. Leak left Chicago about 21 years ago and has not since been heard of. He is now about 35 years old, has dark brown hair and brown eyes. There is a will of some importance to him at the International office.

Union 225, Los Angeles, writes that there are no open shops in that city.

All cigarmakers are notified to stay away from San Francisco and vicinity, as there are men out of work and more expected to be laid off. Trade here is very dull, with very poor prospects.

The following unions have donated to the benefit of Aug. Calre and Jno. Damacher: J. A. B. of Chicago, $4; 77, Minneapolis, $2; 209, Coldwater, Mich., $2; 34, Chippewa Falls, Wis., $2; 29, New Haven, Conn., $2; 247, Blue Island, Ill., $2; 206, No. Adams, Mass., $2; 97, Boston, Mass., $4; 98, St. Paul, Minn., $2; 69, Three Rivers, Mich., $1; 114, Jacksonville, Ill., $1; 23, Springfield, Ill., $2; 44, St. Louis, Mo., $2; 447, Kenosha, Wis., $1; 462, Tampa, Fla., $2; 188, Seattle, Wash., $2; 250, Belleville, Ill., $4; 144, New York, N. Union 37, Fort Wayne, Ind., for Larry G. Geraghty.

Union 201, Rock Island, Ill., for James Bishop. Important.

International office for Mary Hyams, Walter C. Baylor.

PRIVATE LOANS

Union No. 5, Rochester, N. Y., requests members owing private loans to pay. At this time we are badly in need of money. The loans were given at a time when we were under fire, owing to the loss of three shops. Failure to respond will mean demand for suspensions.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

Amendments adopted since the latest edition of the Constitution:

BLUE LABEL.

Section 146. The President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label, to be known as the Union Label, in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of a box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color, and no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width and a label two inches in length and no more than one-half inch in width, the latter size to be used on packages containing ten cigars or less. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President. The International President shall have prepared, printed and registered a stogie trade-mark label in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The label shall be light blue color. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The wording and size to be the same as the present stogie label.

Amend Section 117 by adding after the word due stamp, on third line, or assessments levied, so as to read:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out of work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and assessments levied, of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of work for at least two weeks. No other change.

In effect May 1, 1921.

Section 61a—Special.

All members engaged in the cigar industry enumerated in Section 61, with the exceptions noted therein, working in any factory not entitled to the use of the label, and which does not pay the regular established bill of prices, may become members under the following conditions:

First—An initiation fee of $1.00, payable in four weekly installments of 25 cents each.

Second—Weekly dues of 30 cents for the first three months of membership, 40 cents for the second three months of membership, 50 cents for the third three months of membership, and regular dues of 60 cents after nine months of membership.

Third—Exemption from all assessments for the first four months of membership. After four months of membership such members shall pay one-half of all local and International assessments, except label assessments, except as hereafter provided.

The benefits of all members initiated under the foregoing provisions shall be:

First—Strike benefit of $3.00 per week for the first sixteen weeks and $4.00 per week thereafter. In the event of an authorized strike, involving members who have been such for three months, a member wishing to draw his card shall be granted a loan amounting to his indebtedness for due stamps and assessments and to $2.00, the same to be charged on his card as a traveling loan. No member accepting this privilege can return to the local and again be placed on the strike list.

Second—In all other respects the laws and rules governing arrears of dues, suspension from membership, limitation as to time in the payment of benefits, and all other laws governing the members paying sixty-cent dues, shall apply to members enrolled under this special law.

Third—Members enrolled under this special law shall have the privilege of paying sixty-cent weekly dues and all International and local assessments, and be entitled to the full benefits.

Fourth—Any member initiated under Section 61a, securing employment in a factory using the label or which pay the regular scale of prices (or should the factory in which he is employed become entitled to the use of the label, or pay the regular scale of prices), shall automatically advance to the full dues-paying class.

Fifth—Members having paid the full contributing weekly dues prior to the adoption of this amendment, or subsequently thereto, cannot be transferred to come under Section 61a, except as provided in the following paragraph:

Sixth—All former fifteen-cent Class A members now in good standing may have the privilege of transferring to the class of membership provided for in this special law. All former fifteen-cent Class A members who have become suspended may rejoin under the provisions of this special law, without the payment of an initiation fee.

Seventh—All members initiated under the provisions of this special law, at the expiration of nine months, shall be transferred to the full regular dues paying membership and be entitled to all benefits provided for in the constitution, with the constitutional time limits. A member having paid the weekly dues of thirty cents and forty cents and fifty cents and the stipulated assessments, transferring to the full contributing dues paying membership, shall be given credit for time on benefits for one-half of the time he may have paid such dues. For example—a member having contributed the dues specified in Section 61a for nine months shall be credited on time allowances for sick, out of work and death benefits, with nineteen weeks. Fractions of a week shall not be counted.

Eighth—This special law to remain in force until four months after the next convention of the International Union.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

(Do not endorse two or more amendments on the same sheet of paper. Send in a separate endorsement for each amendment, as they have to be filed separately.)

The amendment of 410, Centralia, Ill., providing for a benefit of $15 a week for members afflicted with tuberculosis, as published in the August issue, received the endorsement of 179, Bangor.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it cannot be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 312, Livingston, as published in the September issue, as follows: "Strike out all of Section 2 of the Constitution of the C. M. I. U. of A.," received the endorsement of 229, Binghamton; 17, Cleveland; 209, Coldwater; 20, Decatur; 247, Blue Island; 218, Binghamton; 308, Muncie; 168, Oshkosh; 117, Pine Bluff; 129, Denver; 500, Tampa.

Union 500 proposes the following amendment to the Constitution:

Amend Sec. 79 of the Constitution by striking out all after the word "follows" on line 5, up to and including $4.00 per week on line 6, and inserting $8.00 per week until the strike or lock-out shall have terminated; the remainder of the section to remain the same.

Section to read in part: The assistance shall be as follows: $8.00 per week until the strike or lock-out shall have terminated.

Local Union 462 of W. Tampa finds it advisable to offer the following amendment to the Constitution:

Amend Sec. 2 by striking out the figures 1922 in second line and insert in its place 1924.

The amendment of Union 179, Bangor, Me., providing for an "Extra Special Strike Fund," was defeated by a vote of 1,414 for and 4,398 against.

The amendment of Union 373, London, Ont., providing for the levying of an assessment to finance a campaign of agitation against the open shop drive in Canada, was defeated by a vote of 935 for and 4,854 against.

To convince others of the virtues of the union label you must first show your own consistency by constant advocacy of it.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the records of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

Union 129, Denver, Colo.—Max Diamond, 1464, who died Oct. 5; John B. Paterson, 29311, who died Aug. 31.

Years of agitation by organized labor finally brought into being the Department of Labor.

Retain the Department of Labor. From the time of its creation in 1913 it has been handicapped by the lack of funds and obstacles have been thrown in its way that it might not properly function. Serious attempts are now being made to further weaken its powers with the end in view of destroying it altogether.

There is no department of government more necessary and it was intended that this department should stand as a bulwark against autocracy in industry and give the workers some measure of justice long denied them in national governmental affairs. Despite the serious handicap it has been forced to carry it has done a world of good and it should by all means be kept intact without the addition of functions foreign to the purpose for which it was created.

Demand of your congressman that he keep it intact and that he give it the full measure of his support.

A recent report on industrial waste by the Committee of the Engineering Council appointed by Herbert Hoover proves our oft repeated statement that labor is not responsible for the generally admitted enormous waste in industry.

Workers, trades union workers especially, have been blamed generally by industrial managers and the press for all, or nearly all, of our economic waste and for lack of efficiency in production. The conclusion reached by the committee is that management is responsible for fifty per cent of avoidable waste and that labor is responsible for less than twenty-five per cent of industrial inefficiency. It is reasonable to say that a large part of this twenty-five per cent charged by the committee to labor could be shifted to management as there is admitted a general lack of standardization.

While the committee's report does not urge any particular form of collective bargaining it does favor mutual association of employers to standardize production, distribution, marketing, etc. As wages, hours and working conditions are factors in standardizing these attributes toward efficiency it naturally follows that these standards may be more easily attained through collective bargaining as between the employer and the organized worker.

It is a proven fact that less waste is found in organized industries than in the unorganized. Labor turnover is one of the great costs that industry bears. Under fair wages and working conditions this loss is minimized.

A careful and impartial study of the report will show the way toward the correction of industrial waste and if our captains of industry are sincere in their expressed desire for remedial action less money will be spent in the effort to disorganize labor and more thought will be given the humanely right principle of collective bargaining.

A lengthy and interesting report of President Johnston of the Machinists' Union, who was sent to Russia by his organization to make an investigation of industrial conditions, contains the following definite statements with respect to the Soviet attitude toward the trade unions:

1. The freedom of the trades unions was at first so limited that all unions were required to operate under the control of and in the manner prescribed by the authorities. Later all trade unions were abolished by official decree.

2. A decree was issued prohibiting all meetings except those held upon the consent of the Bolsheviki authorities.

3. Freedom of speech was abolished and it became a crime to utter a word against the Communists.

4. Strikes were declared to be counter-revolutionary acts and workmen who went on strike were deprived of rations, and punished by imprisonment.

5. All branches of industry were under martial law. Workers were forcibly enlisted in the so-called "labor armies," and were neither allowed to choose their employment nor to change from one factory to another.

6. The working of overtime became compulsory and premium and bonus systems were universally introduced to speed up production. Later a new kind of wage called "remuneration in kind" was added to the premium scheme.

His report further shows that workers in Russia under Soviet rule are compelled to work eighty hours a week for the paltry sum of $6.25, barely enough to buy black bread, and that most wretched living conditions are the rule.

Evidence is plentiful and sufficiently strong to warrant us in saying that the open shop drive, especially since the war, has been kept alive by profiteers.

The thoughtfully inclined and fair-minded manufacturers realize that profiteering in the products they manufacture must cease. They moreover realize that the profiteering of the merchants who handle their product must cease. Profiteering by the merchant curtails the purchasing power of the masses and is one of the direct causes of unemployment. The workers could not with the wages received meet the demands of the profiteering merchants. They were forced to buy less. They wore the old wearing apparel and bought less and cheaper food. They moved into less expensive flats and in many cases they doubled up. All of this resulted in underconsumption and the inevitable unemployment.

Fair-minded manufacturers were the first to reduce the prices of their products. Everybody knows that the profiteering merchants were the first to raise prices and the last to grudgingly reduce.

Destructive unnecessary wars of conquest not only should but must cease. Some idea of the frightful loss in money and property can be gleaned from the following figures: The cost of all wars from 1793 to 1910, 117 years, was $23,000,000,000, an average of $196,581,200 per year. This vast sum at the rate of $4 per day, 300 days per year, would have given employment to 163,818 men for one year or employment for 1,400 men for each of the 117 years.

The four years' world war, 1914 to 1918, cost directly in cash and property loss $355,000,000,000, an average of $88,750,000,000 a year. At $4 per day, 300 days per year, this vast sum would have given employment to 295,833,334 men, or it would have given 5,916,666 men working 300 days a year at $4 per day life jobs of 50 years each.

Of far more importance than the property and money loss is the fact, according to one history, that 7,781,000 lost their lives in the war. The total number of wounded exceed 18,000,000, one-third of whom were totally disabled, and many have since died. It is estimated that fully 25,000,000 or 30,000,000 people lost their lives directly and indirectly through the world war. The tremendous war debt has created a burden that our children's children will have to carry.

A recent report made public in New York City shows that the percentage of those who die from tuberculosis has materially increased in the last few years.

A committee of health and medical experts in discussing this increase in the death rate from tuberculosis say that "The bad work will go on until market supplies can be adjusted as to quality and price to meet the common need and the common purse." Doctors and sanitarians agree that high prices, inferior food, and consequent privation, have worked changes that demand legislative attention to save the general health from serious impairment. They moreover demand that the profiteers who still flourish be taught by measures however drastic that the war is over.

Unnecessary waste in industry is the greatest evil confronting our industrial life.

It is said that in the metal trades alone the loss from preventable accidents is a billion dollars a year; and the loss in wages caused by preventable occupational diseases reaches nearly a billion dollars more. The same relative waste goes through all or nearly all industries.

The preventable loss due to the turnover system is a disgrace and a crime.

The seasonal occupation is another prolific cause of waste and unemployment, all of which could and should be regulated and prevented.

Last but not least, the incompetency and inefficiency of some manufacturers and superintendents is a tremendous handicap upon industry, the workers employed therein, and society at large.

If the preventable waste in industry is stopped, and it can be, wages could be increased and the profits to legitimate capital and competent efficient manufacturers would increase without increasing the cost of living. As a matter of fact, if this were done, the cost of living would rapidly decrease.

The so-called partnership in management of shop committees has, as predicted, gone up in thin smoke. The plan was fundamentally wrong. It could not succeed.

This plan may have worked to a little better advantage before the advent of big factories and trusts. When the shops were small and the proprietor worked at the bench or in the factory with the few journeymen there was a slight chance of community of feeling and interests.

As the small shop grew into the enormous factory employing thousands of men the employer and superintendent moved into his private office and was busy taking care of the commercial end of the enterprise.

The human touch disappeared. The workers lost their identity and were known by numbers. "Hello, John," or "Hello, Jim," disappeared. If a workman in the steel mills or other hazardous occupation where great numbers of men are employed is killed by an accident they have to trace his identity through his number.

Mighty few concerns are now trying out the so-called shop committee management plan. The workers never did have any say under that plan. The employer had the veto power and he was not slow to use it.

Attend every regular or special meeting of your local union.

Do not allow the weather, a "tired feeling" or anything else to keep you away from the place where your interests lie.

Your union meeting is the cradle of your hopes and ambitions. If you think enough of your trade to work at it think well enough of it to protect it by giving it at least the attention one or two nights a month entail.

You can do more good at the meeting and by taking an active part in its deliberations than you can by staying at home and "cussing the clique." It's your business. If you desire to see it successful attend to it.

Under the modern means of production shop committees are necessary. To be effective they must have the backing of an able, formidable trade union of the workers to enforce just rules and regulations. The shop committee without such backing would be impotent and as foolish as it is futile.

Shop committees in a union factory should possess no autocratic authority. They should only approach the management when a real difficulty exists. If the committee can not amicably settle these differences they should report to the union. Then the business agent or disinterested member of the union or a committee thereof should take up the matter in dispute, if the union agrees it is a worthy case, with the management of the shop and endeavor to reach an amicable adjustment.

The greatest struggle going on in the economic field of endeavor today is the struggle to control the power of improved machinery as a means of production. Capital, big interests, and financiers know that to control this power gives them a tremendous advantage. They are not slow in their actions in this connection.

This vital issue must be settled in a way that will conserve and properly care for the workers before the unemployment situation will entirely disappear. It must be done if we are to have a just and equitable system of production and distribution.

The motto of the United States, "E Pluribus Unum," which means One Composed of Many, is a fine motto for the State. It applies with equal force and fineness industrially as well as politically to the workers in any one industry. The union of the United States is one composed of many. Our trade unions are one composed of many. The United States could not function properly except for this motto. The same principle applies with equal force to the workers in any one industry. "One Composed of Many" is a splendid motto for the workers.

The greatest problem confronting civilization today is how to utilize improved machinery so as to conserve the best interests of the workers, the manufacturers, the general public, and all concerned.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Secretary Hoover, speaking at the annual dinner of the Academy of Political Science in New York declared that the two problems in the mind of the country today are the limitation of armament and both international and domestic industrial relations.

Samuel Gompers' new book, "Out of Their Own Mouths," is of very great interest and importance on account of the growing propaganda in this country for commercial relations with Bolshevik Russia.

Prunes for which the California producer receives 6 to 7 cents a pound have retailed in Chicago at 40 or 45 cents, according to John Richert, heading a delegation of Chi

New York City has 281,121 persons 10 years and above unable to write in English or any other language. This was shown in the Census Bureau's announcement of figures on the illiteracy of the State.

The day has past when employes can be driven to work under conditions of servitude, according to B. S. Rowntree of York, England, who spoke at a dinner in the Astor Hotel given by the American Academy of Political Science.

The New York Herald, September 2, 1921, says the average gross profits of more than 200% have been made by arm chair lunchrooms in Massachusetts, the commission on Necessaries of Life reported today. In some cases the profits have been found to run as high as 500%.

To cancel the new-sized label to be used on packages containing ten cigars or less provided for in the amendment of 97 Boston, you will need a new holder for your label canceler, the cost of which is $1.10. The type now in use will fit this holder and only the factory number is to be set, as there is not room on these small labels for the date. If you will order the holder, giving your revenue district number, when you order the labels, it will save time.

TRADE NOTES.

The total quantity of cigar leaf tobacco on hand October 1, 1921, was 338,201,814 pounds as compared with 331,348,564, an increase of 6,353,250 pounds. The total cigar leaf of New England including Connecticut was 63,678,268 pounds, as compared with 61,008,056, a decrease of 2,670,212 pounds. The cigar leaf types of Pennsylvania were 83,072,395 pounds as compared with 87,750,309 pounds, in the corresponding period last year, a decrease of 4,677,914 pounds.

Incomplete revenue reports show the following cigar production for Aug. 1921, as compared with July, 1921.

Class E.....	6,316,465	2,411,297
Total	678,640,116	614,427,829

We find on analysis that Class A, cigars retailing for 5c, shows the only gain, viz, 55,361,240. Other classifications show the following decreases. B, 37,406,882; C, 76,303,655; D, 1,957,882 and E, 3,905,168. The total decrease for the month of Sept., 1921, over Sept., 1920, amounts to 64,212,287.

The month of Sept., 1921, as compared with Aug., 1921, shows the following. Class A, increase, 444,083; Class B, decrease, 1,867,907; Class C, decrease, 5,449,172; Class D, decrease, 54,086 and Class E, an increase of 315,878.

This accurate barometer of the state of trade should receive our careful attention.

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS.

York, Pa., Nov. 5, 1921.

After my last report I met with the International Executive Board in New York City and gave the members of the board a report of conditions as found both in the organization and the trade wherever I had visited. After leaving New York I worked up the state to where I started a campaign for the use of the label: spoke in Utica, N. Y., to Boilermakers, Electricians, Metal Polishers, Painters, Carpenters and Label League. Visited some of the stores, finding a good number of non-union cigars on sale. The members of the various trade unions promised to co-operate and to double their demands for label goods.

While working in this vicinity I was instructed by President Perkins to go to Wheeling, W. Va., to help straighten out the affairs of a new local of strippers taken over by our union from the A. F. of L. They were granted a charter under Class B and were selling stamps to members and had due books issued but had not started a day book or ledger account.

After obligating the members and all members then being equal, the local elected a new set of officers. We then called in all due books and started to straighten out the day book and ledger. We had several meetings of the officers, giving them instructions how to conduct their offices, showing the financial secretary and treasurer how to keep and post their books and to make out reports; showed finance committee how to examine accounts and reports of officers at end of month; assisted to draft a new local by-law in conformity with the International Union Constitution, on duties of local officers. Held several meetings of the local and gave the officers and members an explanation of our laws in general and also the laws governing the duties of officers of local unions.

This district of Wheeling is known as the stogie district and very few cigars are made in Wheeling. The stogie makers have been fairly well employed up to this time; only one shop laid off a number of men on one brand of stogies for 3 or 4 weeks, but they are returning to work Nov. 7.

The stogie makers' local has been doing some good agitation for the label lately by having a man on the road in the vicinity of Wheeling visiting meetings of other unions, distributing boxes of matches with a cut of the label on, giving out brands of stogies with the label on and visiting stores and talking to proprietors to handle union made goods. Most of this work was done outside of Wheeling, but in districts where stogies are smoked mostly. Some work remains to be done in Wheeling, where it is needed in the interest of the label.

I spoke at several meetings of local unions in Wheeling and also at a meeting of the Central Labor Union on the use of all labels. The American Federation of Labor has started a campaign in Wheeling to arouse the trade unionists up to do their duty as union men and women. An organizer is on the job and we all hope that he will get some response and co-operation and if so this will help to increase the sale of union goods.

This district, like most of the labor centers, became drunk with success during the war, and believing war times were going to last forever, let their union movement drift along without much attention until it was overtaken with a storm and heading for the rocks, with numbers ducking overboard. Now they are beginning to see that it is time to wake up and have some interest in the only organization that will assist them in time of need, namely, the trade union.

What can be said of Wheeling and other localities may be said of this place, York, Pa., for the workers here, too, have drifted away and in our trade they have accepted several cuts in prices without even a protest, for the majority of the cigar makers stay outside of the organization. Those that remained faithful could not stem the tide, so all had to accept and go along, and no one knows where it will stop unless the workers stop, look and listen, and organize.

Fraternally yours,
WM. A. McCABE,
Organizer.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 4, 1921.

Duluth, through action of its Central Body, decided to launch a labor forward movement. September last was the date fixed for carrying on the campaign for a general "boost" for organized labor, and a revival agitation for the union label. Cigar makers of that city were foremost in promoting renewed activity for agitation along those lines, and Henry Pereault, one of the outstanding "live wires" in the labor movement, who believes in agitation in season and out of season, for the good of the cause, was one of the prime movers for its inauguration.

Many international unions were requested, through the committee of the Central Labor Union, to lend a helping hand by sending speakers to assist in the work, but owing to divers reasons few responded to the call. The Cigar Makers' International Union complied with the request by sending an organizer, who was also greatly supported by the voluntary response and indefatigable efforts of E. G. Hall, our fifth vice president.

In addition to stimulating members of the labor movement, the campaign was intended to controvert the insidious propaganda of the citizens' alliance, and the open shop "brigade," who have found some willing adherents in that neck of the woods to inoculate with their poisonous defamation against organized labor. Their arguments were met and successfully refuted, and the true facts of organized labor, its accomplishments, aims and purposes, were expounded by the speakers at more than thirty well attended union and mass meetings held for organization purposes.

The efforts put forth are destined to bear fruit and good results are sure to accrue from the implanting of union sentiment among the workers, and instilling a greater demand for products bearing the union label. The state of trade in the cigar industry of Duluth is one of the refreshing features of the northwest. High quality goods are made there, and they are appreciated, but agitation for the label must be kept up.

Minneapolis in recent years has suffered some shrinkage in membership. Trade is slipping into other channels. Our members have not been alert and active in the work of agitation in the recent past in advertising and creating a demand for use of the union label, allowing a stagnant condition to fasten a grip inimical to the home industry trade. Then, too, that city is a seething center for the would-be "union busters" and open shop propagandists. One of the old time union manufacturers there was swept off his feet, fell for the open shop and cheap labor, and deserted the principle of union labor upon which he had accumulated a comfortable fortune. We held conferences with him, but could not convert his ideas to change back. I addressed twenty organizations in agitation for the label and home cigars. Our members there have felt an awakening for the necessity of boosting and getting on the job in co-operation. When that is done, better results can be expected.

Fraternally,
R. S. SEXTON,
General Organizer.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 4, 1921.

Since my last report I have continued my efforts along the line of agitation, visiting the dealers and urging them to discontinue the handling of brands of cigars that are made in some of the shops where our members are out on a strike and locked out members also, giving them the reason why we do not wish them to handle these brands. Received assurance that they would discontinue ordering any more of these goods, and appreciated the fact to learn of the truth under which these cigars were made, that brought about the trouble in the factories, and also urging the girls to fight against the rules and conditions imposed upon them by the unfair firms.

Trades in the different lines, namely, the building trades, are improving, which is putting more people to work. Our trade is, a little quiet, but look for a revival in a short time. I am still working with the organization committee from the Trades and Labor Council, assisting them in holding the membership in the different locals together, holding get-together meetings, also arranging to have a mass meeting on Armistice day, with speakers and music, to talk on the issues that confront organized labor today, since the signing of the armistice, and also urging the men and girls to attend this mass meeting and learn some of the things that do not appear in the columns of the press, the facts pertaining to the real conditions as they are. The sale of home-made union cigars is increasing, as we are still advocating to the smoker and the dealer the vast difference between the cigars that bear the label and the one that doesn't; that the union made cigars are the most essential product of the two to buy.

M. GAZELLA,
Sub-Organizer.

Montreal, Que., Nov. 6, 1921.

I continued label agitation in Winnipeg until Nov. 6th, then took up this work at Fort William and Port Arthur, Ont. Distributed circulars and cards in the twin cities; attended what meetings were on; visited labor hall and cigar stores in publicity campaign. At Sudbury there were no meetings on; devoted time to label agitation. At North Bay Nov. 11 and 12; addressed railway trainmen's union; left cards and circulars at labor hall and around the city. In Toronto 13th, 14th and 15th; consulted with members on label matter; visited labor hall and left cards and circulars. The agitation that has been done here is showing results. Attended executive meeting of Union 27 and assured them my assistance in label campaign to be started 16th and 17th. At Hamilton attended trade council; consulted with officers of Union 55 on local matters. Sept. 25th I consulted with Mr. Kennedy, secretary, J. A. B., on local and general situation in Canada. At London 26th to 31st; took up the local situation with officers of 278 and advised them on local matters; arranged conferences between manufacturers and committee; visited all firms with local committee in effort to reach a settlement; addressed members of 278 at regular and special meeting. Members will please note the condition that now exists in the factory here; so called open shops, which are really closed shops to union men and women; prices now being paid is $5, $6 and $7 per M. I returned to Hamilton, attended executive meeting of 55, also meeting of members of trade council on label matter; left cards and circulars at labor hall. At Ottawa from the 7th until the 16th of Oct., devoted time to label agitation and publicity to drive against the open shop; addressed building council, three local carpenter unions, bricklayers, electrical workers, plumbers, bakers and drivers' unions. On instructions from President Perkins, I took up question of re-registering label; called on Minister of Labor and Minister of Trade and Commerce; also visited Trade Congress headquarters in interest of the present situation in the Canadian labor movement; distributed cards and circulars. From 17th to Nov. 5th at Montreal, giving what assistance I could to organization campaign and label agitation, attending union meetings, business agents and distributing advertising matter; attended all executive meetings of 58, also addressed members of 58 at regular meeting; urged members to put their shoulder to the wheel and fortify their union against the open shop drive. I carry advertising matter with me, which is furnished by the J. A. B. of Canada; the J. A. B. is necessary for this work, as this label matter and publicity to our cause is getting to all parts of Canada and members should boost it along. In visiting cigar stores my only object is to acquaint the dealers with the conditions that now exist in factories that formerly used the label and point out to them that the brands are no longer entitled to the use of the label. I realize that he is in business to cater to the public wants and it is up to us to create the demand for label goods, and if our local unions will get on the job and send local committees to interview the dealers and explain conditions as they now exist it will get results. I find very little improvement in the cigar trade, as business is very quiet in mostly all places visited.

CORRESPONDENCE

Judge Anderson has granted another injunction. He has ordained that the United Mine Workers of America shall not organize in the Williamson coal field of West Virginia and Kentucky.

Whatever Judge Anderson may have given as his reason for issuing this injunction, the sum total of his command is that miners in this district shall cease uniting in voluntary organizations for the advancement and protection of their rights and interests.

Judge Anderson says there was a conspiracy between the miners and the mine owners to organize this field as a means of destroying competition. The reason for organizing in West Virginia is not to destroy competition or any such reason. It is to destroy persecution, to destroy mine-owner autocracy, to destroy rule by gunmen, to civilize the mines, to make human life better and more livable, to destroy the abuses and the oppressions of the profit-making mine owners. That is the purpose of organization. Judge Anderson says to these men that they must not unite. They must not help themselves and each other to be free. They must stand each man singly and alone against the great power of the mine owners and their private armies.

Does any man imagine that working people, in the year 1921, are going to cease from organizing? Does any man imagine that men today are going to forsake freedom, forsake the struggle for better conditions, forsake the fight for freedom from the iron heel of industrial oppression?

It has been the considered and deliberate action of conventions of the American Federation of Labor that injunctions of this character must be disregarded, be the consequences what they may. The fight for liberty and freedom cannot be stopped by an order from an autocratic judge. One man, clothed with temporary authority, cannot stay the progress of the multitude, nor can he kill the aspirations of humanity. The flaws and errors of our democratic political system will not dictate a backward course to our whole social organization.

The miners are enjoined from organizing on the ridiculous grounds that the act of organizing on their part restrains interstate commerce. Judges also have said that to free little children from grinding toil also interferes with interstate commerce. The god of commerce always finds some to serve and to betray humanity into bondage.

The Clayton law—the law of our land—declares that "the labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce," and that "Nothing contained in the anti-trust laws shall be construed to forbid the existence and operation of labor, agricultural, or horticultural organizations, instituted for the purposes of mutual help, and not having capital stock or conducted for profit, or to forbid or restrain individual members of such organizations from lawfully carrying out the legitimate objects thereof."

Relating specifically to injunctions in connection with the relations of workers and employers, section 20 of the Clayton law sets forth in clear and unmistakable language the right of the workers to freedom from judicial usurpation of injunctive process. This section declares:

"That no restraining order or injunction shall be granted by any court of the United States, or a judge or the judges thereof, in any case between an employer and employees, or between employers and employees, or between employees, or between persons employed and persons seeking employment, involving, or growing out of, a dispute concerning terms or conditions of employment, unless necessary to prevent irreparable injury to property, or to a property right, of the party making the application, for which injury there is no adequate remedy at law, and such property or property right must be described with particularity in the application, which must be in writing and sworn to by the applicant or by his agent or attorney.

"And no such restraining order or injunction shall prohibit any person or persons, whether singly or in concert, from terminating any relation of employment, or from ceasing to perform any work or labor, or from recommending, advising, or persuading others by peaceful means so to do; or from attending at any place where any such person or persons may lawfully be, for the purpose of peacefully obtaining or communicating information, or from peacefully persuading any person to work or to abstain from working; or from ceasing to patronize or to employ any party to such dispute, or from recommending, advising, or persuading others by peaceful and lawful means so to do; or from paying or giving to, or withholding from, any person engaged in such dispute, any strike benefits or other moneys or things of value; or from peaceably assembling in a lawful manner, and for lawful purposes; or from doing any act or thing which might lawfully be done in the absence of such dispute by any party thereto; nor shall any of the acts specified in this paragraph be considered or held to be violations of any law of the United States."

The injunction just granted does violence to this entire section.

The injunction forbids men to organize. The Bill of Rights gives them the constitutional freedom and the Clayton Act gives them the guarantee of statute law. Judge Anderson sweeps away both of these guarantees as if they were but the merest scraps of paper. He plays the part of autocrat well, indeed, but sooner or later every autocrat has his fall. Injunctions cannot go on forever.

Injunctions will not stop organization of the workers. Organization of the workers will rise superior to injunctions. Principles may be trampled upon by rulers, but the great principles of right and justice have survived ages upon ages of desperate tyrants.

Judge Anderson may fill jails with liberty-loving men, but he cannot and will not destroy the cause for which they give their liberty. It is fortunate that principles claim such profound allegiance from mankind, else humanity would never have risen from the abyss.

Many persons, not of our movement, but having the common love of freedom, have expressed to me their astonishment at this injunction order and they have asked, what of the future?

The future will be shaped by men and women who refuse to be subjected, who refuse to abandon a just cause, who refuse to tolerate destruction of law by injunction, who refuse to be silenced by judicial tyranny.

There is a great moral issue at stake and the side of justice and freedom and humanity will not be abandoned, even at the behest of this modern Jeffries, Judge Anderson.

—A. F. of L. Publicity Service.

Chicago, Nov. 8, 1921.

Mr. G. W. Perkins, President of the C. M. I. U.
Dear Sir: In looking over the constitution I find reference Class B membership not very clear to me. The second section I am referring to reads as follows:

"One-half of all International assessments levied after six months' membership, unless it be assessments levied purely for strike or lock-out purposes. Also that these members shall pay the label assessments."

Now, what I want to know is, must a Class B member pay half of the International special strike assessment levied Sept. 26, 1921, although he or she is not a member for six months?

Please answer same in the official Journal as a guide for other secretaries also.

I remain yours fraternally,

I. SOMMERFELD,

Fin. Sec. Local No. 15, Chicago.

November 9, 1921.

Mr. I. Sommerfeld,
Sec'y Union No. 15,
Chicago, Ill.

Dear Sir:

Replying to your letter reference the eligibility to pay assessments of newly initiated Class B members who have not been such for six months, in which you say that the Constitution in that respect is not very clear to you.

There is no question that the intent of the Introducers of the amendment and that of the convention that adopted it was that Class B members are subject only to the payment of assessments after six months' membership, except assessments levied for purely strike or lockout purposes. In other words, Class B members are exempt from the payment of all assessments until they have been such for six months, except assessments levied for purely strike benefit purposes, which they should pay regardless of the length of membership.

Section 70 of the Constitution referring to the regular 60-cent dues paying members says, "New initiates who have not been such for four months shall be exempt from all assessments." There are no qualifications in this section, which clearly states that members who have not been such for four months shall be exempt from all assessments. It would be a discrimination and consequently unfair to Class B members to hold that they must pay one-half of all assessments levied for purely strike and lockout purposes since 60-cent members are exempt from the payment of such assessments.

Condition 4 under the Caption Class B on page 19 of the Constitution says, "In all other respects the laws and rules governing arrangements of dues, etc., governing the members paying regular dues shall apply to members enrolled in Class B."

The construction of the section under Class B which you quote in your letter reference the eligibility of Class B members to pay assessments and time limit must be predicated upon the rule of fairness and equity that all be treated precisely alike in the payment of assessments. This because of the unfortunate wording of the section referred to requires a ruling, which is as follows:

Class B members must pay one-half of all International strike assessments after they have been such for four months.

This ruling places all upon the same footing in so far as the payment of International assessments is concerned.

Answering specifically your question as to whether Class B members have to pay one-half of the special strike assessment levied September 26th, the ruling again provides that Class B members must pay one-half of that assessment if they have been such for four months prior to the date (Sept. 26th) that the assessment was levied.

Yours fraternally,

G. W. PERKINS,
Int'l President.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 19, 1921.

To Organized Labor and Friends.

Greetings: We are pleased to inform you that the Premier Malt Products Co. of Steubenville, Ohio, has signed an agreement with our International Union, which guarantees the employment of members of our organization. The products of this firm, which are known as "Blue Ribbon Malt Extract" or "Premex," are therefore recognized by us as strictly union made.

We take this opportunity to express to you our sincere thanks for your moral support, which has been of great assistance to us.

Fraternally yours,
ADAM HUEBNER,
JOSEPH PROEBSTLE,
JOHN RADER,
JOSEPH OBERGFELL,
General Secretaries.

New York State Blue Label League.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 3, 1921.

To the Officers and Members of Local Unions of the Cigar Makers' International Union of America.

Greeting:

It is but natural that we should feel the present business depression, and the rapidly changing conditions both in the producing and marketing of our product, but that does not warrant or justify the apparent lethargy our members seem to have fallen into.

This is no time to quit. Now is the time to fight. We must fight for the preservation of our organization. We must claim and get our share of the trade. We can get it if we will make the effort.

Our Blue Label has been and can again be made a factor in the marketing of our product. We can create and maintain a market for cigars made in union factories by consistent and insistent label agitation.

We have a right to expect and demand the support of union men of all crafts, and I believe we should confine our efforts largely to getting support from that source.

Let me suggest some methods which I think will get results.

First, our unions should be represented by a full delegation in the Central Labor Unions, Label Leagues and Label Departments at every meeting and take active part in the proceedings. Make your organization indispensable to the local movement. Take a prominent part in every demonstration of any character in which the labor movement is interested.

Second, select a brand or two of cigars made under non-union conditions which have a large sale in your locality; visit all the unions in your city and vicinity and urge the members to stop buying the brands selected. Incidentally while there tell them your troubles and solicit their support for the Blue Label.

Third, before attempting to criticize any union man for buying non-union cigars, see that you are in no position to be criticized yourself. Be able to show that you are a consistent union man and wear union made hats, shoes, clothing and in fact everything that can be purchased with the union label upon it. Employ nothing but union men where possible to get them.

The union men and the business men know whether we do or do not do these things, and support our cause accordingly.

Fraternally yours,
JOHN C. JOHNSTON,
President.

The union label teaches men to act in concert so they can act with effect.

And he shall judge among the nations, and shall rebuke many people; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning-hooks:
nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more.

Isaiah, Chapter II, Verse 4.

Life or Death.

History records no meeting of human minds more momentous than the international parliament on armaments. The responsibility devolving upon the world's foremost statesmen now gathering at Washington may well appall them. Into their hands has been committed the life or death of civilization. Yet in a very real sense they are our servants, anxious to fulfill our will. No statesman, no nation would dare thwart the united demands of the human race. It is for all of us, for each of us, for you and me, to make our will, our wishes, our commands known. Which do you desire the future to bring, insensate bleeding of the common people in every land to prepare for human slaughter on a scale calculated to wreck and ruin civilization, or the organization of a process designed to preserve peace? If America earnestly, zealously, magnanimously, whole-souledly exercises its mighty influence on the side of peace, peace, not destruction, promises to be assured.—Forbes Magazine (New York).

Your Business.

The business of the union is the business of its members. This business is transacted at the union meetings that its laws are enacted, its officers instructed and decisions made that determine the policy of the organization on every question that comes before it.

The union meetings are open forums for all members who wish to be heard. Every member who has a proposition to offer, a complaint to make, or anything to present within the realm of propriety, is free to express himself at the union meeting, and he will be given a respectful hearing and the decision of the members on the matter he submits.

The meeting is the place for union business. It is the only place where union business can be determined. If members who do not attend meetings find fault with the action of those who do attend, they have no just cause for complaint, for they have done nothing to try to change this action.

On the other hand, if members attend meetings and are not successful in having the majority support their particular views, they are not justified in becoming embittered and working at cross purpose. Majority rules and every right-spirited person believes in that principle.

Most members who complain of the action of a union, or the action of its officers when carrying out the instructions of the union, are either those who do not attend union meetings, or having attended do not express themselves, or having expressed themselves have not been able to win the majority to their viewpoint. Each of these classes of members fails to realize one of three simple facts:

(1) That the business of a union is decided at its meetings.

(2) That to influence the action of a union meeting a member should express himself at the meeting and take part in its deliberations.

(3) That majority rules in union meetings and that every good unionist submits to the majority's will. When the viewpoint of members in the minority becomes the expression of the majority, this viewpoint becomes the decision of the union.

The business of the union is every member's business, and if a member will not take care of his own business there can be no force to his kick if it doesn't go to suit him.—The Union Leader.

Changes in Retail Prices of Food.

The U. S. Department of Labor, through the Bureau of Labor Statistics, has completed the compilations showing changes in the retail cost of food in 11 principal cities of the United States.

During the month from September 15 to October 15, 1921, there was a decrease in nine of these cities. In Milwaukee, there was a decrease of 3 per cent; in Chicago, Detroit and Indianapolis, a decrease of 2 per cent; in Peoria and St. Louis, a decrease of 1 per cent; in Bridgeport and Minneapolis, a decrease of four-tenths of 1 per cent; in Newark, a decrease of one-tenth of 1 per cent. In Columbus there was no change during the month, and in Mobile, there was an increase of 1 per cent.

For the year period, October 15, 1920, to October 15, 1921, there was a decrease of 26 per cent in Mobile; 25 per cent in Detroit; 24 per cent in Minneapolis and St. Louis; 23 per cent in Chicago, Indianapolis, Milwaukee and Peoria; 22 per cent in Bridgeport and Newark; and 21 per cent in Columbus.

As compared with the average cost in the year 1913, the retail cost of food on October 15, 1921, showed an increase of 54 per cent in Detroit; 53 per cent in Chicago and St. Louis; 52 per cent in Milwaukee; 50 per cent in Newark, and 47 per cent in Indianapolis and Minneapolis. Prices were not obtained from Bridgeport, Columbus, Mobile, or Peoria, in 1913, hence no comparison for the eight-year period can be given for these cities.

STEEL TRUST BACKS OPEN SHOP BARONS OF WEST VIRGINIA.

Workers Denied Constitutional Rights by Industrial Autocrats Who Refuse Mediation.

Charges that the Steel Trust inspired and is backing the industrial warfare in West Virginia as part of its open shop campaign, were made by counsel for the United Mine Workers of America, and later substantiated by Samuel Untermyer, W. Jett Lauck, Winthrop D. Lane and other witnesses at the hearing held in Washington, D. C., last week by Senator Kenyon's committee on labor and education.

"We expect to prove," declared counsel, when the hearing opened, "that what is going on in West Virginia is part of a general conspiracy directed by Judge Gary and the United States Steel Corporation to destroy the powerful labor organizations of the country, which had begun to cut deeply into their profits. We shall show that this man Livesly, now under indictment for the murder of Sid Hatfield and Ed Chambers, two local peace officers friendly to the miners, was ready to believe that anything he might do in the service of the coal operators' association in this region where the Steel Trust is a dominant factor, would be condoned even if he went to the extreme of killing men."

Untermyer Blames Steel Trust.

The charges later were substantiated by Samuel Untermyer of New York, multi-millionaire attorney and publicist, who declared "This situation is a mere manifestation of the general attitude of the United States Steel Corporation to the labor situation. I regard the Steel Corporation as the greatest enemy to industrial peace in this country. If the Steel Trust were tomorrow to express to the West Virginia coal operators its desire that they recognize the unions, the unions would be recognized." A few minutes later Mr. Untermyer remarked that "The Steel Corporation has grown so monstrous that it is stronger and bigger than the law."

Untermyer proved the Steel Corporation has huge holdings in West Virginia and that indirectly but effectively it controls the policies of the Norfolk and West Virginia Railway, the Pocahontas Coal & Coke Co., and other concerns active in various parts of the disturbed area.

Testimony that the Steel Corporation was responsible for the labor baiting policies of the West Virginia operators was given fresh substantiations when, after the hearing had been in session for three days, their spokesmen flatly rejected offers of mediation by the United Mine Workers.

Uncontradicted testimony proved that operators in non-union territory in West Virginia controlled the sheriffs and other county officials; paid the salaries of deputy sheriffs; owned the school houses and churches, and paid the salaries of school teachers and ministers; owned the streets and prohibited the right of free speech; ordered union organizers out of the county and beat them up if they resisted; and discharged and evicted from their homes all miners who joined any labor organization.

Violence frequently was resorted to by the deputy sheriffs and Baldwin-Felts thugs employed by the operators and seldom punished. Widows of Sid Hatfield and Ed Chambers, two police officers friendly to the miners, testified their husbands were shot down in cold blood in the presence of their wives as they mounted the steps of the court house at Welch.

Evidence brought out during cross-examination of mine owners developed that they had made enormous profits during the war—one admitting gross profits of more than two million dollars in a single year at the rate of 600 per cent on his investment—yet they denied their workers the right to organize because they said it interfered with efficiency.

Senator Kenyon's committee expects to report as soon as possible and in addition to the findings of fact it is believed it will recommend constructive steps to compel the restoration of civil rights in West Virginia. Remarks by Senator Kenyon during the hearing indicated he viewed with great disfavor the arrogation of police powers and other public functions by the mine owners and it is generally thought his report will condemn these practices as being responsible to a great degree for the armed outbreak in September.

EXECUTIVE BOARD.

G. W. PERKINS, President.
Monon Building, Chicago.

SAMUEL GOMPERS, 318 W. 51st St., New York City, First Vice President.

L. P. HOFFMAN, 729 N. Diamond St., Jacksonville, Ill., Second Vice President.

A. GARIPEY, 238 Ave. Hotel De Ville, Montreal, Canada, Third Vice President.

JOHN REICHERT, 1070 12th St., Milwaukee, Wis., Fourth Vice President.

E. G. HALL, 4124 Bryant Ave., S., Minneapolis, Minn., Fifth Vice President.

E. J. STACK, 412 Stock Exchange Bldg., Portland, Ore., Sixth Vice President.

CHAS. H. STEVENS, 350 Broadway, Buffalo, N. Y., Seventh Vice President.

GIBSON WEBER, 1710 N. Gratz St., Station C, Philadelphia, Pa., Treasurer.

Always refer to the Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140g distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member, secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show.

If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity for complying with the request carefully study section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal will" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

A. Busold, a suspended member, appealed against 32, Louisville, for fining him $50 for working in a non-union shop. The decision is that the fine be reduced to $30.00.

Otto Schultz, 56543, and Mrs. L. Schultz, 5239, appealed against 131, Jersey City, for suspending them for running over the limit in dues. Owing to extenuating circumstances and on recommendation of the union the appeal is sustained.

IN MEMORIAM

In reporting deaths kindly comply with the following and you will save time and unnecessary work: Give full name, number, date and place of initiation of member. Has member held retiring card? If so, did he pay his dues? This information relates only to such as you can obtain from the records of your own union. If admitted by card, state when and where from, and, in addition, send in such cards, but place in your letter the information necessary, as the letter is filed as a matter of record. Before paying death benefits study Sections 148 to 149, inclusive. Send in a death blank properly filled out for all death benefits paid.

Union 129, Denver, Colo.—Nick Andres 31014 who died Nov. 8.

When inclined to spend union-earned money for non-union products, think what your own union label, card or button means to you.

Mr. Union Man, do not stand in your own light—demand the union label, card and button.

Play fair—spend union-earned money for union-labeled products.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

Amendments adopted since the latest edition of the Constitution:

BLUE LABEL.

Section 146. The President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label, to be known as the Union Label, in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of a box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color, and no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width and a label two inches in length and no more than one-half inch in width, the latter size to be used on packages containing ten cigars or less. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President. The International President shall have prepared, printed and registered a stogie trade-mark label in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The label shall be light blue color. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The wording and size to be the same as the present stogie label.

Amend Section 117 by adding after the word due stamp, on third line, or assessments levied, so as to read:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out of work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and assessments levied, of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of work for at least two weeks. No other change.

In effect May 1, 1921.

Section 61a—Special.

All members engaged in the cigar industry enumerated in Section 61, with the exceptions noted therein, working in any factory not entitled to the use of the label, and which does not pay the regular established bill of prices, may become members under the following conditions:

First—An initiation fee of $1.00, payable in four weekly installments of 25 cents each.

Second—Weekly dues of 30 cents for the first three months of membership, 40 cents for the second three months of membership, 50 cents for the third three months of membership, and regular dues of 60 cents after nine months of membership.

Third—Exemption from all assessments for the first four months of membership. After four months of membership such members shall pay one-half of all local and International assessments, except label assessments, except as hereafter provided.

The benefits of all members initiated under the foregoing provisions shall be:

First—Strike benefit of $8.00 per week for the first sixteen weeks and $4.00 per week thereafter. In the event of an authorized strike, involving members who have been such for three months, a member wishing to draw his card shall be granted a loan amounting to his indebtedness for due stamps and assessments and to $2.00, the same to be charged on his card as a traveling loan. No member accepting this privilege can return to the local and again be placed on the strike list.

Second—In all other respects the laws and rules governing arrearages of dues, suspension from membership, limitation as to time in the payment of benefits, and all other laws governing the members paying sixty-cent dues, shall apply to members enrolled under this special law.

Third—Members enrolled under this special law shall have the privilege of paying sixty-cent weekly dues and all International and local assessments, and be entitled to the full benefits.

Fourth—Any member initiated under Section 61a, securing employment in a factory using the label or which pay the regular scale of prices (or should the factory in which he is employed become entitled to the use of the label, or pay the regular scale of prices), shall automatically advance to the full dues-paying class.

Fifth—Members having paid the full contributing weekly dues prior to the adoption of this amendment, or subsequently thereto, cannot be transferred to come under Section 61a, except as provided in the following paragraph:

Sixth—All former fifteen-cent Class A members now in good standing may have the privilege of transferring to the class of membership provided for in this special law. All former fifteen-cent Class A members who have become suspended may rejoin under the provisions of this special law, without the payment of an initiation fee.

Seventh—All members initiated under the provisions of this special law, at the expiration of nine months, shall be transferred to the full regular dues paying membership and be entitled to all benefits provided for in the constitution, with the constitutional time limits. A member having paid the weekly dues of thirty cents and forty cents and fifty cents and the stipulated assessments, transferring to the full contributing dues paying membership, shall be given credit for time on benefits for one-half of the time he may have paid such dues. For example—a member having contributed the dues specified in Section 61a for nine months shall be credited on time allowance for sick, out of work and death benefits, with nineteen weeks. Fractions of a week shall not be counted.

Eighth—This special law to remain in force until four months after the next convention of the International Union.

Sec. 180. Whenever such General Fund of the International Union shall fall below the sum provided for in Section 179, the Executive Board shall levy an assessment on each member to replenish the same. All members on strike or lockout, if same has been approved by C. M. I. U. of A., shall be exempt from all International assessments levied before or after said strike or lockout has been approved. But these members, beginning immediately after the strike or lockout has ended, shall pay the remaining of any assessments levied after said strike or lockout has been approved.

In effect Dec. 1, 1921.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

(Do not endorse two or more amendments on the same sheet of paper. Send in a separate endorsement for each amendment, as they have to be filed separately.)

Received the endorsement of Unions 90, New York; 229, Binghamton; 141, New York; 308, Muncie; 218, Binghamton; 301, Akron; 150, Sioux City; 316, McSherrystown; 58, Montreal.

Amendment of 187, Covington, Ky.

Amend Section No. 166, page 45: On line 7 after the words manufacturer's licence, add the following: Interested financially, holding stocks or bonds in any cigar co. Section to read as follows: No member holding a manufacturer's license, interested financially, holding stocks or bonds in any cigar company shall hold any office either in the International or Local Union. Neither shall they have charge of the granting or distribution of the label.

Union No. 336, Tampa, proposes the following amendment to the constitution:

Strike out all of section 117-118-119-120-121-122-123-124-125-126-127-128-129 and insert the following:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of two years shall be entitled to an out-of-work benefit of $3 per week, and 50 cents for each additional day. No benefit shall be paid for the first one week after a member was discharged from employment or laid off. Members drawing benefit for less than six days shall be stricken off the list. (Sec. 144g provided no sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged insane.)

Sec. 118. Any member receiving benefit for six weeks shall not be entitled to any benefit for seven weeks thereafter, and no member shall receive more than $54 during the period of one year, commencing from July 1 of each year. Any member receiving $54 benefit shall not be entitled to any benefit until after he shall have worked for four weeks, but this four weeks' proviso shall not include members over 50 years of age.

Sec. 119. Any member obtaining employment before receiving six weeks' benefit, who shall be discharged from employment before eight weeks have elapsed, shall be entitled to the balance of the benefit.

Sec. 120. Any member having received four weeks' strike or sick benefit shall not be entitled to out-of-work benefit for four weeks thereafter; a sick member incapable of doing a day's work shall not be considered out of work. Members shall not be deprived of benefits on legal holidays, except on Sunday and Labor Day. Any member registering immediately preceding and the day following any legal holiday shall be considered registered on such holidays.

Sec. 121. Members shall not be allowed to register from June 1st to Sept. 16th, and from Dec. 16th to Jan. 8th of any year. No member shall be entitled to any benefit from June 1st till Sept. 23d, and from Dec. 16th to Jan. 15th of any year. Members out of work at such time shall obtain a certificate from the Financial Secretary of whom they received the last benefit, which certificate shall be signed and sealed by the Secretary to whom said member has reported during such periods. Any member reporting out of work to the Financial Secretary at least once a week, from June 1st to Sept. 23d of any one year, shall not be subject to suspension, but should such member obtain employment he must pay ten per cent of his weekly earnings until he has established himself within the constitutional limit. Should he remain out of employment until he is entitled to out-of-work benefit, all dues and assessments shall be deducted from said benefit.

Sec. 122. Any member losing his employment through intoxication, or courting his discharge through bad workmanship or otherwise, shall not be entitled to any benefit for eight weeks thereafter, and shall be so recorded in his loan book; inability to hold a job shall not deprive a member of his benefit.

Sec. 123. Each local union shall be provided by the International Union, free of cost, with a book or books suitable for registering the names of the unemployed entitled to the out-of-work benefit. In places where the local unions employ a secretary for his full time the unemployed shall report daily, at the secretary's office, between 9 and 11 o'clock a. m., or between 2 and 4 o'clock p. m., and sign their names in the book. In places where the union has no office, the unemployed shall sign his or her name in the book in the place provided for that purpose, between 3 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., except traveling members, who have a certificate of registration, who shall be granted the privilege of signing the book between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. Members failing to sign the book shall forfeit their benefit for that day. In cities where the members are unable to reach the secretary's office or place of registration without incurring expense, such union or unions shall be permitted to establish a further place of registration.

Sec. 124. Any traveling member in search of employment arriving in a place where a union is located shall, after reporting to the Financial Secretary, be placed on the out-of-work roll and entitled to the benefit as provided in Sec. 117. Every traveling member must provide himself with a certificate of registration; said certificate shall bear the signature and seal of the Financial Secretary as evidence of registration. Any traveling member registering for six days in any one union shall deposit his card with the union before receiving his benefit.

Sec. 125. Any member engaging in any other occupation, domestic or otherwise, shall not be entitled to any benefits. Any member failing for three consecutive days to register shall forfeit the benefit of previous registration. Any member obtaining employment for two days or longer shall forfeit the benefit of previous registration, providing that such registration was for less than one week, for which no benefit was allowed. Members doing their own domestic work shall not be entitled to any benefit.

Sec. 126. Jurisdiction members unable to report at least every second day to the Financial Secretary shall report at least twice every week in writing, countersigned by the town and shop collector, otherwise no benefit shall be paid. In case of doubt the union may demand additional evidence. But in no case shall a member be entitled to out-of-work benefit if he remains in a place where no union shop exists.

Sec. 127. Any member obtaining or endeavoring to obtain any benefit under false pretenses shall be suspended, and be subject to a fine of from $5 to $25, as the union may deem proper.

Sec. 128. Any member refusing to work in a shop where work is offered him, or who neglects to apply for work in a shop if directed by the Financial Secretary or any officer of the union, or shop collector, shall not be entitled to any benefit until he has secured employment for at least one week. This shall apply to jurisdiction towns within a radius of ten miles. Shop collectors shall immediately report to the Financial Secretary (if known by name) any member refusing to work where work is offered him; failing to so report, he shall be fined $2 for each offense.

Sec. 129. The Financial Secretary of each local union shall report at every regular meeting the names of members having obtained out-of-work benefit, including the cause why each member has lost his employment. Where the unions do not meet weekly the Financial Secretary shall make his report to the Executive Board.

Sec. 130. Any member quitting a job shall not be entitled to the benefit provided for until said member shall have again obtained employment for at least one week.

Sec. 131. Every union shall establish a Labor Bureau for the purpose of designating work to the unemployed.

Sec. 132. It shall be the duty of every shop collector to report to the Financial Secretary such jobs as are open in his factory the same day he receives notice thereof, in order to enable the Secretary to direct the unemployed to the factory. Should this be neglected by either of the above officers, they shall be subject to a fine of not less than one dollar. Any member knowing where a job is open and not reporting the same to the Financial Secretary shall be fined one dollar.

Sec. 133. Any member about to apply for out-of-work benefit shall, after being discharged or laid off, receive from the collector of the shop in which he has been working a certificate stating the cause of the discharge or lay-off, which shall be presented to the Financial Secretary before being allowed to register. These certificates shall be kept on file for inspection by the Finance Committee and International Financier.

UNION NOTES

Cigar makers, please stay away from Los Angeles. No jobs here; members walking the streets.

In the list of members published in the October Journal as fined by 248, Jacksonville, were the names Clarence E. Cross and J. A. Baker. They should have been Clarence E. Gross and J. A. Raker.

Union 329, Fond du Lac, Wis., acknowledges receipt of the following for the W. B. Conklin benefit fund: Union 188, $1; Union 323, $2; Union 410, $1; Union 9, $2.

Union 39, New Haven, Conn., would like to hear from Hy. Graper (43762), reference bad check of $40 and protest fee of $1.52, total $41.52.

Notes by Union 97, Boston: Circulars issued by International Executive Board are timely reference to the union label and organization.—Students of economics know that labor recovered from the panic of 1837, the worst this country ever passed through; banks failed in every state of the union.—Label section of the Boston Central Labor Union has called a mass meeting of representatives of all label trades, buttons and card holders.—All friends of organized labor regardless of cult, creed or color will rally to the support of the trade union movement during this its hour of trial. We have no time for any division in the ranks.—Our billboard poster is a corker, but then you know when it comes to advertising our label you have to hand it to 97.—Manchester doing splendid work for the label and we know.—New England Conference is on the job.—When you ask the other fellow to buy union-made cigars have your clothes, shoes, etc., got the label? Don't ask the other fellow to do what you don't.—Yes, we gave $100 to Oneida.—The most serious problem is the unemployed.—There ought to be old age pensions; Great Britain and other European countries have them.—We must have free speech and a free press.—We must work for the labor movement as the pioneers did.—Is it true the senator from Minnesota said, "Let's exterminate these scoundrels?" The American labor movement is loyal to democracy.—Harmony and unity will bring us through. It is up to you and me.—The interest of one is the concern of all.—Henry Abrahams.

The amendment of 500, Tampa, Fla., providing that members on strike or lockout that has been approved by the International authorities shall be exempt from all International assessments during the strike or lockout, has been adopted by a vote of 4,229 for and 1,065 against. It takes effect December 1, 1921.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Liberty and what it really means! Philosophers for years have defined the word, which is one of the greatest in the human language. Nevertheless we find many different concepts. How far can individual liberty extend without infringing upon the liberties of others?

There should be no limitation of liberty in thought and in expression, verbal or written. Liberty of action necessarily has certain prescribed limitations. It is predicated upon law. Individual and collective liberty is in the final analysis protected by laws. Organized society in the State and Nation could not be held together without law. There can be no liberty without organization and laws in so far as society at large is concerned. Individual liberty if carried to its logical conclusion without restrictive law would necessarily interfere with the individual liberty of others.

The same principle applies to the organized workers in the economic field of endeavor. Labor organizations must have laws. They do have laws. They are made through the democratic expression and action of the membership. A scale of wages is made by the democratically expressed will of the majority. It is the law made for the protection of all. The same principle applies to the hours of labor, working conditions, and benefits. All laws are made of necessity to protect the rights and liberties of the membership individually and collectively. Those who disregard these laws or attempt to are working against their own best interests and those of their fellow men and are guilty of action akin to treason against the interests, rights, and welfare of the workers. While liberty of thought and expression is limitless, freedom of action is limited to obedience to democratically made laws.

If laws are bad, change them through orderly constituted methods. But while they exist they should be obeyed. Any other course will lead to confusion, disruption, and consequent injury to all concerned.

At the close of the Civil War, Lincoln, the martyred President, made a prediction which not only proved sound in that instance, but also in its application to the World War. Its application is world wide as well as national. He said in substance that as a result of that great conflict (the Civil War) capital might take advantage of the opportunity to become enthroned in this country to an extent that might threaten our liberties.

Capital seized the golden opportunity made possible by our haphazard banking and currency system. The years of reconstruction show a looting of the public treasury to the extent of millions of dollars, and that land grabs made possible by a subservient Congress took away from the public domain millions of acres of valuable farming and mineral lands. It was during these years that the foundations were laid on which have been built the enormous fortunes of those who now largely control our natural resources.

The profiteering, money mad gentry now seek, by legislation, inimical to the best interests of the masses, to further enthrone capital. Their policy of controlling money and credits has forced up the profits on invested capital and thus forced down the purchasing power of the wages of the workers. The prices to the farmer on farm products were cut in half almost overnight; these producers it is said suffered a loss on last year's crops estimated at $8,000,000,000. Extending their process of deflation on everything except profits has helped to throw 5,000,000 workers out of employment. These profiteers and emissaries of the non-union shop and reduced wages are demanding war time profits.

The only well organized resistance against these dollar grabbers is expressed through the American labor movement which is the real American Plan. We demand liberty and justice for all mankind. We protest against the twisting of the Constitution for the purpose of serving the interests of special privilege, and against the pollution of the flag which should be the emblem of human rights, justice, and freedom, by the hands of dollar patriots. While we are in no way responsible for the present chaotic conditions we must and shall meet these conditions with a well defined program that will eventually dethrone profit mad Bourbonism and reinstate even handed justice for all mankind.

The privileged few and big interests know the value of propaganda. It is said that a lie travels faster than the truth, that half-truth is often worse than a whole lie. These people know that the constant teaching of false news and erroneous ideas creates a psychology that it takes years to destroy.

False

The people, the public generally are really hungry for news. They swallow without analysis false statements made for ulterior purposes. It would be much better if the workers got their views on economics from the labor press and from their own official journals. It would be better still if the most of us got down to rock bottom facts and did our own thinking instead of swallowing the sugarcoated bank that we get on the news stands for two or three cents per.

Newspapers are useful as a time killer, for baseball scores, etc. Some like them for divorce news, murders, and dinner parties given to trained monkeys. We have no objection to anybody's reading the daily press. We think they should but when it comes to our own best interests let us be guided by facts and our own deductions.

The most of us know that a good bill of prices, reasonable working hours, and fair shop conditions are the proper things for us, and we moreover know that the only way to get these things is through the trade unions. On this there is no argument. Anyone who disputes it has an ax to grind or has space to rent in the top of his head. He might be, however, repeating parrot-like things he has heard from those with interests divergent from those of the workers.

The records here for the period of five years from January 1, 1916, to January 1, 1921, show that of the total deaths, 189 died between twenty years and thirty years, average age 26½ years; 420 between thirty years and forty years, average age 34 7-10 years; 611 between forty years and fifty years, average age 45 1-10 years; 928 between fifty years and sixty years, average age 54 1-5 years; 928 between sixty years and seventy years, average age 64 years; 428 between seventy years and eighty years, average age 73 3-10 years; 118 between eighty and ninety years, average age 83 1-5 years; 8 between ninety years and one hundred years, average age 91¾ years.

The general average for the five years was 54 3-10. The average of the members who died during the year 1920 was 56 1-5 years.

It is interesting to note that in the five years 928 members died between the ages of sixty years and seventy years or an average of 64 years; that 428 members lived to be over seventy years and less than eighty years at an average of 73 3-10 years; while 118 died between the ages of eighty years and ninety years at an average age of 83 3-10 years; while 8 members died between the ages of ninety years and one hundred years, or an average of 91¾ years.

In 1888 about two years after the eight-hour work day went into effect the average length of life of our members was 31 years, 4 months, and 20 days, while the average for 1920 was 56 1-5 years, or an increase of 24 years and 10 months in thirty-two years. Adding nearly a quarter of a century to the lives of the membership in thirty-two years is some accomplishment.

Many thoughtful people are giving more attention to distributive co-operation. This is particularly true in so far as some co-operative means is concerned whereby the products of the agricultural districts can reach the hands of the consumer in the industrial centers without the payment of enormous tribute to the profiteering transportation agencies, middlemen, and so-called commission agencies. The President of the United States referred, in a sympathetic vein, to this important question, in a recent message to Congress.

Distributive

A Representative in Congress recently made some illuminating remarks and presented some interesting and valuable statistics on this subject.

He asserted that when the peak of high prices was passed and every business was charging off its losses and endeavoring to begin anew, the railroads were the only concerns that refused to take their losses along with the rest of us. As a contributory cause of unemployment he cited that the lumber industry in his state, giving employment to thousands, has been almost destroyed on account of freight rates; that it cost as much to ship a carload of lumber as it does to manufacture the lumber and get it ready for shipment.

He gave the following instances of shipments of fruit:

A carload of cantaloupes shipped to Pittsburgh sold for $586.20; freight, $361.16; after deducting drayage, commission, crating, etc., the grower received $38.17.

On a carload shipped to Chicago, which sold for $417.60, the freight, commission, etc., was $371.86, leaving $45.74 for the grower. He cited other cases in which excess rates were as proportionately exorbitant as the freight rates.

The farmers are slowly awakening from their Rip Van Winkle stunt to a realization of the fact that it will be better for them, the workers in the industrial centers, and society at large if the proper means can be devised whereby their products can find their way into the hands of the industrial workers without having all of the profits stick in the hands of the profiteering railroads, commission merchants, warehouse people, and the small army of parasites that do not produce but hog the cream of the land.

This is an economic question so far-reaching in its importance that all should fully realize, and then act. The workers in the industrial centers are dependent for sustenance upon the products of the agricultural districts. Every effort should be made and assistance rendered to the farmers in their co-operative efforts to get their products into the hands of the workers over the heads of and despite the army of parasites who fatten on the misfortune of both. Some may say the farmer would get it all. Suppose he does! What of it? The farmers as a class are the largest class in the country and the more they receive for their produce the more they will have to spend for the things made by the workers in the industrial centers.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

An egg pool formed by three men, controls the egg supply of Chicago and makes a profit of about $30,000 a day, Russell J. Poole, city food expert announced today following an investigation covering two weeks.—Boston Trans., Dec. 1.

At the resumption of the hearing before the Senate Interstate Committee on proposed amendments to the Transportation Act, Frank J. Warne, representing the railroad employes, continued his testimony discussing alleged rebates, discriminations and concessions on the part of the roads. "Since 1912," he said, "fines of more than $1,000,000 had been levied on 70 different roads for violation of the laws for prohibiting such practice."

Another year has passed into the vortex of time, a year fraught with trials, tribulations, and much privation, chiefly due to the very serious period of unemployment. It should be forgotten except for the lessons taught.

While we have not reached the placid waters of normal times the general condition of industry in all branches is better. We have reached the apex of dull times and from all indications conditions will grow slowly but steadily better. Under the heavy handicaps we have had to carry the ebbing year now drawing to a close finds us in a position to warrant greeting the New Year with optimistic thoughts, fresh hope, and renewed courage.

Some of our unions have suffered more than others. Those that set their sails to meet the storm are better prepared to renew the fight with strength and vigor.

In a recent decision of the United States Supreme Court we are told that we have a legal right to peaceful picketing and to organize in non-union plants. We are told, furthermore, that picketing as commonly practiced is illegal, or to quote Chief Justice Taft, "Importunity and dogging become unjustifiable annoyance."

There is no likelihood of any injunction being granted to stay the persistent, dogging, boycotting and blacklisting practiced by the open-shoppers in their campaign to line up manufacturers with their policies under this or any other decision although it is generally known and is the sworn testimony of union concerns that such practice is common.

The whole proposition is up to where it was before, that is it's largely up to the petty judge to say when we become importunate and dogged.

Our only hope of relief from this much abused policy of "government by injunction" is the passage of an Injunction Limitation Bill by Congress, or in the several states, that will forever hamstring the pernicious, unconstitutional procedure. In the meantime, however, we shall continue to organize and continue our onward march toward the goal of our ambitions, even handed justice for all and special privilege for none.

Packing House Company Union Blows Up.

Just a few months ago the press carried the tidings to the world that a plan of "Industrial Relations" had been worked out and had become effective between the packing interests and the packing-house employees. According to the flowery press notices this particular plan of Company Union was the best ever; born in the minds of the workers, inaugurated by the workers and protecting their interests against every objectionable thing from frost bite to sudden death. Under its beneficent reign the workers were to fix their own wage, their hours of labor, working conditions 'n everything."

A few weeks later the same press informed us that under their industrial relations plan the packing-house workers had "Voluntarily" reduced their wages approximately ten per cent. At the time the wage cut was posted officials of the various packing-house workers' unions were outspoken in condemnation of the Company Union, declaring that mostly superintendents and foremen represented the employees in plant conferences and that the rank and file of the workers had no voice in any thing that was done in the way of fixing wages, hours or anything else. Their statements and criticisms received very little space in the press which had so loudly proclaimed the excellency of the industrial relations plan.

Dissatisfaction is proven. A strike is now in progress at the various plants of the packing interests. Packing-house officials declare there is no strike of any importance and that business is going on as usual with a full crew of workers. The Public, whose interests are so carefully safeguarded by big business at all times, is receiving the brand of protection usually handed out by these patriotic open-shoppers. We are forced to pay an increase of from five to twenty cents a pound for packing-house products.

The whole proposition is another illustration of the utter fallacy of the Company Union. None of them have protected the workers' wage, their hours of labor, their working conditions or anything else appertaining to the welfare of labor. They serve as a palliative to sooth the susceptible worker into such a state of non-resistance that he will allow his employer to more readily strengthen the bonds of servitude and bind him more firmly to the non-union shop policy.

There is but one avenue of relief open to the worker today, that of membership in the trade union of his craft in affiliation to the American Federation of Labor. Organized labor has given and will continue to give its membership that degree of protection that is in keeping with its strength and the stronger we make the union the greater the degree of protection.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics, Department of Labor, has issued comparative figures giving the employment and wages paid in the cigar industry during the months of October, 1920, and October, 1921. Reports have been received from 54 cigar factories showing their employment in October, 1920, to have been 16,214 persons, increasing to 16,865 in October, 1921, an increase of 4 per cent. The wages paid in these 54 cigar factories amounted to $344,232 in October, 1920, dropping off to $304,794 in the same month of 1921, a decrease of 11.5 per cent.

The Bureau also gives figures showing a comparison between the employment and wages paid in September and October of this year. In September there were 16,945 persons employed in 55 cigar factories as compared with 17,144 in October, an increase of 1.3 per cent. The wages paid in these 55 cigar factories amounted to $322,910 in September, decreasing to $310,575 in October, a decrease of 3.8 per cent.

The Bureau has the following to say in regard to changes in wage rates and per capita earnings during the period of September 15 to October 15 in the cigar industry:

"When the per capita earnings for October are compared with those of September, a decrease of 4.9 per cent appears."

The following table shows the number of cigar manufacturers, 1914 to 1920, inclusive:

1914.....	16,754
1915.....	15,732
1916.....	14,576
1917.....	13,217
1918.....	11,291
1919.....	11,483
1920.....	11,110

The decline is continuous year after year except that 1919 shows a slight increase over the previous year.

The reduction of factories from 16,754 in 1914 to 11,110 in 1920, a decline of 5,644 in six years, shows the days of the small cigar manufacturer are rapidly diminishing in number. Our industry, like most others, is becoming more and more centralized in the hands of big business and we must take cognizance of this fact, shaping our course accordingly.

The tables shown below give us, first, the amount of leaf tobacco used in the manufacture of cigars during the calendar years 1911-1920, and, second, the number of cigars manufactured during these years:

Years.	Cigars
	Large. Pounds.	Small. Pounds.
1911.....	144,680,920	5,236,325
1912.....	145,781,078	3,909,573
1913.....	158,755,358	4,230,400
1914.....	153,954,271	4,802,186
1915.....	141,854,038	4,594,293
1916.....	154,949,262	4,118,650
1917.....	165,360,912	4,215,037
1918.....	158,345,628	3,331,216
1919.....	162,257,051	3,056,055
1920.....	183,042,903	2,552,099

Years.	Cigars
	Weighting more than 3 pounds per 1,000. Number.	Weighting not more than 3 pounds per 1,000. Number.
1911.....	7,043,605,033	1,213,832,840
1912.....	7,044,257,235	1,055,191,495
1913.....	7,571,507,834	959,409,161
1914.....	7,174,191,944	1,074,699,103
1915.....	6,599,188,078	965,135,187
1916.....	7,042,127,401	890,482,790
1917.....	7,559,890,349	967,228,920
1918.....	7,053,549,402	847,466,421
1919.....	7,072,357,021	713,235,870
1920.....	7,916,758,663	633,222,232

The following comparative data show the number of cigars, by classification, manufactured during the month of October, 1921, as compared with October, 1920, as indicated by the monthly sale of revenue stamps:

	October, 1920.	October, 1921.
Cigars (large)—
Class A.....	152,258,022	205,160,690
Class B.....	203,664,076	167,235,283
Class C.....	326,142,610	248,419,099
Class D.....	16,727,515	11,883,158
Class E.....	6,006,866	3,104,467
Total	704,799,089	635,807,697

We find that all classifications except Class A suffered a reduction over the corresponding month of the previous year. Class A cigars, retailing for 5 cents, show a gain of 52,902,668. The total reduction for the month as compared with the same month of a year ago amounts to 68,991,892.

The following table shows the number of cigars, by classification, manufactured in October, 1921, as compared with September, 1921:

	Oct., 1921.	Sept., 1921.
Class A.....	205,160,690	201,078,775
Class B.....	167,235,283	168,818,445
Class C.....	248,419,099	231,623,592
Class D.....	11,883,158	11,109,720
Class E.....	3,104,467	2,411,297

We find Class A shows an increase of 4,086,915, Class B shows a decrease of 1,583,162, Class C shows an increase of 17,395,507, Class D shows an increase of 787,438 and Class E shows an increase of 693,170.

The increases in Classes A and C and the decrease in Class B, the only class to suffer a decrease, apparently bears out the general impression that the cigar industry is getting back to regular form in so far as retail prices are concerned—that is, 5c, three for 25c, 10c, two for 25c, etc.

There is food for thought in the foregoing figures.

REPORT OF ORGANIZER.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 5, 1921.

Since my last report I have been busy on the job making the different organizations, bringing before them the need of their co-operation and support in calling for union made cigars, urging them to get the dealers with whom they trade to keep union made cigars in their case. Giving them an argument to put up to the dealers as to why they should give union made cigars the preference, as to the ones without the label.

I told the local organizations as to what I had told the retail merchants so he would be in position to meet his argument, which I am sure will help our organization in the drive we are carrying on in this city, making the different factories, giving out circulars, meeting them in person at their homes and explaining to them the dues and benefits of our organization by which they may become members of our organization. I have been assisted on special occasions by P. V. Blake in giving out literature to the girls when they left the factories in the evening. Talking to them in groups, explaining to them what can be accomplished by them through membership in our organization.

I called on the Tonnison Cigar Company, the Sidney G. Cigar Company in reference to our bill of prices and our organization and am looking forward to get good results from these two firms. I expect to have a better report on these firms in the near future.

We are starting a campaign in the daily press calling the smokers' attention to our union made cigars as a Christmas gift. We found this ad to be a good one last year as the firms did not have enough of Christmas goods put up to fill their orders that came to them. They will have more goods this year on account of the shortage last year, which will mean considerable more goods put out during the holidays, due to this ad we are going to run in the papers.

CORRESPONDENCE

Felicitations.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30, 1921.

G. W. Perkins, Pres.,

Cigar Makers' International Union of America.

Greetings:—

Permit me to express to you and through you to the organization the heartiest congratulations and most sincere good wishes for the new year, and to say also that there is every reason to believe that the new year will witness events of the most vital importance for our movement and for our cause generally.

Fraternally yours,
(Signed) SAM. GOMPERS,
President, American Federation of Labor.

From The American Federationist.

It is written that once a great many centuries ago a powerful monarch refused to be convinced when there was written upon the wall of his banquet chamber words which meant: "Weighed in the balance and found wanting." The words were a warning, but Nebuchadnezzar failed to comprehend. History is filled with the records of monarchs who lacked the ability to heed the warning of rising resentment against oppression and cruelty.

These monarchs have passed away and most of the oppressions and cruelties for which they stood have passed with them.

The impounding of men and women in slavery has been abolished.

The right of barons to command the unpaid services of herds of human being has been abolished.

States no more make laws forbidding the increase of wages.

The right to organize is no longer denied by law.

The right of kings to enforce obedience to laws in the making of which there has been no popular voice has been abolished.

But though progress has been great, not all oppression and cruelty has been abolished.

One of the most amazing examples of arbitrary action remaining to mar the democracy of our day is the injunction.

The injunction is an order issued by a judge. It is the modern equivalent of the old royal command. The judge commands and he punishes for disobedience of the command. He lays down the law, fixes the punishment for its violation and then executes the sentence.

The principle that is involved when a judge issues an injunction is exactly the same principle that was involved when a king issued a decree.

It is almost possible to envision the war chariots, the fan-waving court attendants, the mercenary soldiery of the ancient courts of medieval ages.

There is no difference in principle between the issuance of an injunction by a judge in a court room in New York or Washington or Indianapolis and the handing down of a decree in the now demolished courts of Solomon or Nero or Wilhelm.

In each case representative government is absent, absolutism is present and the people are ordered in their conduct by an unauthorized autocrat.

When the Clayton law was enacted it was believed the day of the injunction in industrial disputes was past. That law provided that no more such injunctions should be issued.

The president, in signing the act, declared in effect that certain judges had so conducted themselves in violation of then existing law that it was necessary for them again to be explicitly told where their powers ended and that he was glad to sign a bill that would tell them.

The Clayton Act told the judges where to stop, but they have manifested as little regard for the law of the land as autocrats customarily manifest.

Recently the business of issuing injunctions has been brisk. In the past two months some notably sweeping injunctions have been issued. Judges are getting more ruthless. They are coming to have a more sweeping disregard of the law.

The false position of the injunction judges is clear to all persons who understand the law, but it is proven doubly by the court system itself. Where one judge will grant an injunction another judge, acting in a similar case, will deny an injunction. There is no uniformity of court conduct. This proves that the issuance of an injunction in an industrial dispute is a matter of personal preference with the judge. If he hates labor, if he feels and thinks like an autocrat, if he is irritable, he issues an injunction. So it was with Nero. He had a blue evening and went out and burned Rome.

So flagrant has been the recent violation of law by judges that Artist Baer, the famous congressman-cartoonist, has been moved to express with his pen a very telling sermon on the subject for this Christmas edition.

The wolfish injunction judge, the social poison which the injunction represents and is, and the strong arm of the unions of the workers reaching out in protection of the workers. Mr. Baer has told the story. It isn't a pretty Christmas story, but where the facts of life are hard it is not the business of thoughtful men and women to see only roses and spangles.

The American Federation of Labor has declared that the unlawful injunction must be resisted. That is fundamental doctrine. Men who follow that doctrine will comport themselves in a manner fitting them to the company of the world's champions of freedom. Resistance to tyranny is ever a glorious business. Because of it we have freedom and democracy and opportunity. These things must not perish and to prevent that the injunction must go. The great, vibrant voice of freedom proclaims the death sentence of the unlawful writ of injunction. Judicial tyrants shall not destroy that which freedom's heroes have established.

334-1000

Special to Cigar Makers Official Journal.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 1.—"If the great powers agree to the American program for limitation and reduction of naval armament it will be a magnificent achievement, and one of tremendous importance and significance," declared Samuel Gompers today.

"But," he continued, "if the conference stops with the naval program, it cannot be said to have succeeded. That would be but a beginning of success.

"Reduction of naval power will not end wars. Pruning off proportionate shares of the world's great navies will not get at the things that really cause wars. Relative naval strength will be approximately as it now is, the difference being that each will have less.

"I have no intention of anything except to pay the highest tribute for the American naval proposal. It was a courageous, constructive proposal and its adoption and execution will be a great historic event.

"But it would be idle to think that would solve the problem. Few authorities believe that ships of the line—dreadnaughts, super-dreadnaughts and battle cruisers—would be the chief reliance of any nation in another war. The weapons would be submarines, airplanes, gases and perhaps impending inventions of which we now know nothing.

"Every person who sincerely looks for an end of wars must hope with the deepest fervor that the conference will go beyond naval limitation and strike hard and true at the causes of war.

"To destroy sixty-six ships and to fall on the Far Eastern and Pacific problem would be a transient victory in the shadow of disaster.

"The conference must go on to the deeper questions upon which the issue of continued peace really hangs. It is the duty of the American people to register their conviction and to repeat it over and over again.

"The people of America—particularly the working people—have made known to their representatives in Washington their views, their desires, their demands; they will continue to do so. This is a great, dramatic hour in the history of the world. If the will of the people prevails the hour will end in a great, immeasurable triumph for humanity. If their will does not prevail we shall face tragedy such, I fear, as the world has never known."

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 7, 1921.

We are in receipt of your circular letter asking for our moral support in your fight against the open shop.

This union gladly extends its moral support to your undertakings in this direction and we might say that we at all times demand the Union Label on cigar boxes from which our cigars are taken.

We ask in return that members of your union only patronize theaters employing members of our International Alliance and they will receive greater return for their money and will help us along at the same time.

With best wishes for the welfare of your union, we beg to remain,

THE HAMILTON MOTION PICTURE PROJECTIONISTS' UNION

HUGH SEDGWICK,

Secretary.

Be sure, your sin will find you out if you do not give preference to the union label, shop card and working button.

REFERENDUM VOTE.

NOTICE TO SECRETARIES.

Many requests are received for blank monthly reports about this time. Monthly blanks are mailed from Jan. 13 to 16 to the corresponding secretary, of each union and contain the following supplies for the year:

- 24 Financial statements.
- 12 Label reports.
- 12 State of trade.
- 12 Sick and out of work.
- 2 Officers' reports.
- 10 Supply orders.

Secretaries who do not receive the package within a reasonable time should make inquiries at the post office, and if it is not there, they should notify this office at once so the proper inquiries may be made.

Always refer to the Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140g distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity for complying with the request carefully study section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal will" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

M. Salzer appealed against Union 113 Tacoma, Wash., for enforcing the law in regard to failure to vote at the International election. The appeal was not sustained.

E. F. Quinn appealed against 298 Glens Falls for fining him $25 for selling cigars not bearing the label. Mr. Quinn admits that while waiting to start a factory he had his father, who is a cigarmaker but engaged in another occupation and not working at our trade, make up samples of a brand which he (Quinn) owned and had formerly used on a prior occasion when manufacturing cigars. He admits that these cigars did not bear the union label. The union states that 2,700 of these cigars were made, most of which were sold, and bases its right to fine Mr. Quinn on the Constitution, and shows that the facts are substantially as stated. The appeal was not sustained. However, since there are extenuating circumstances and owing to the fact that the cigars were not made by a non-unionist or a non-union shop engaged in the trade the union is strongly urged to remit the fine and substitute a reprimand.

G. J. Bose appealed against Union 22 Detroit, for suspending him for nonpayment of dues. The appeal was not sustained.

H. Himmelsbach appealed against 6 Syracuse for paying the death benefit of Martin Smith to Jacob Sigel. The appeal was not sustained.

J. C. Mayer appealed against 98 St. Paul for disallowing his claim for sick benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

F. F. Ustruck appealed against 163 Oshkosh, for refusing his claim for $5 sick benefit. The appeal was not sustained.

The Union refunded $22.80 to replace $22.79 illegal sick benefit paid M. C. Coon, who also owes this local $28.02 overdrawn delegates' salary and expense to the Cleveland Convention, and who allowed himself to be suspended still owing this money.

Union No. 202, Portland, Ore.

The accounts here are really in very fair shape. Some of the members at times owe more dues than the constitution permits. This of course is a thing that must not be continued. Sure and certain trouble will follow unless it is stopped at once. Statement as follows:

Financier's balance for March 1, 1918..	$ 657.80

The Secretary has paid since the 1st of November $75.00 death benefit.

Union No. 325, Spokane, Wash.

The books and accounts here are just now in the best condition they have shown for several years. An honest effort has been made, which at last results in success. Good luck to you, Mr. Secretary. The deficiency here, except $1.20 error in dues of a former secretary, is sick benefit paid to members while on the 90-day limit, for which the present Secretary is not responsible. Statement as follows:

Financier's balance for March 1, 1918..	$ 443.26

If this local had vouchers for expense on file the accounts here would be in excellent condition. I believe that Secy.-Treas. Pierson will have them in the future, as he is a capable and clean-minded man. Statement as follows:

Financier's balance for Feb. 1, 1918....	$ 282.68

Union No. 357, Vancouver, B. C.

The books and accounts here are in very nice condition. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Have suggested a little change in entering dates in the ledger where the members are charged with their dues, etc. Our trade in this vicinity is bad. The O. B. U.'s are mostly a thing of the past, except for the bad smell they left. You would hardly believe they ever were alive here. May they never return. Statement as follows:

Union No. 375, Anaconda, Mont.

The books and accounts here are in fine condition. Cash and stamp accounts correct. Ledger correctly and promptly posted. We have been fortunate in having not only willing but also capable young men handling the accounts. Trade conditions here are terribly quiet. The mines and smelters practically closed for more than six months. It is remarkable that the people have lived even as well as they have when almost everybody was idle. Statement as follows:

The ledger here is in nice condition. Cash and stamp accounts now correct. But the day book accounts were not in good order. Only a few vouchers for expense on file. This must not continue. It is necessary to have the vouchers endorsed by whoever receives the money, including salary of any officer. The bank account was verified over the phone. Secy. Rundquist promised me that the funds would be deposited in bank at once. Failure of a previous secretary to properly account for the receipts and expense made necessary the entry due to Union No. 391 on examination, $23.50. Statement as follows:

Union No. 425, Astoria, Ore.

If they had expense vouchers on file continuously here and the members, some of them, more punctual in the payment of dues, the accounts here would look better. The present Secretary, if he continues in office, I am sure, will have this Union's affairs in better shape than they have been for some time. This local is one of those that must meet present conditions. Business is getting better. Make more steady jobs for yourselves and have regular employment. Statement as follows:

At this time I have the cash and stamp accounts correct. Quite a few expense vouchers missing, also a few monthly reports. They have had some real trouble here, but now that we have the accounts correct to date, I believe they will keep them that way. The Secretary is capable, and, I believe, willing. Since Nov. 1st Secy. North has deposited in 1st Nat'l Bank $100.80. He usually has the funds in bank all the while as he deposits union money also his own in an east side bank and then transfers it to the 1st Nat'l Bank at least twice each month, so the union funds are really in bank all the while.

Yours fraternally,

International Financier.

AMENDMENTS ADOPTED

Amendments adopted since the latest edition of the Constitution:

BLUE LABEL.

Section 146. The President of the International Union shall have prepared, printed and registered a trade-mark label, to be known as the Union Label, in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of a box, so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The labels shall be of light blue color, and no more than four inches in length and no more than one inch in width and a label two inches in length and no more than one-half inch in width, the latter size to be used on packages containing ten cigars or less. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The proportion of labels used by the Canadian unions to be printed in Canada by order and under the supervision of the International President. The International President shall have prepared, printed and registered a stogie trade-mark label in perforated sheets of not less than ten, suitable to be pasted on the outside of the box so that the label will be conspicuously displayed. The label shall be light blue color. All labels issued shall be printed in series and numbered consecutively. The wording and size to be the same as the present stogie label.

Amend Section 117 by adding after the word due stamp, on third line, or assessments levied, so as to read:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of one year shall be granted an out of work stamp, which shall be credited to members in lieu of the weekly due stamp and assessments levied, of the denomination and in the class to which said member belongs, providing he or she shall be out of work for at least two weeks. No other change.

In effect May 1, 1921.

Section 61a—Special.

All members engaged in the cigar industry enumerated in Section 61, with the exceptions noted therein, working in any factory not entitled to the use of the label, and which does not pay the regular established bill of prices, may become members under the following conditions:

First—An initiation fee of $1.00, payable in four weekly installments of 25 cents each.

Second—Weekly dues of 30 cents for the first three months of membership, 40 cents for the second three months of membership, 50 cents for the third three months of membership, and regular dues of 60 cents after nine months of membership.

Third—Exemption from all assessments for the first four months of membership. After four months of membership such members shall pay one-half of all local and International assessments, except label assessments, except as hereafter provided.

The benefits of all members initiated under the foregoing provisions shall be:

First—Strike benefit of $8.00 per week for the first sixteen weeks and $4.00 per week thereafter. In the event of an authorized strike, involving members who have been such for three months, a member wishing to draw his card shall be granted a loan amounting to his indebtedness for due stamps and assessments and to $2.00, the same to be charged on his card as a traveling loan. No member accepting this privilege can return to the local and again be placed on the strike list.

Second—In all other respects the laws and rules governing arrearages of dues, suspension from membership, limitation as to time in the payment of benefits, and all other laws governing the members paying sixty-cent dues, shall apply to members enrolled under this special law.

Third—Members enrolling under this special law shall have the privilege of paying sixty-cent weekly dues and all International and local assessments, and be entitled to the full benefits.

Fourth—Any member initiated under Section 61a, securing employment in a factory using the label or which pay the regular scale of prices (or should the factory in which he is employed become entitled to the use of the label, or pay the regular scale of prices), shall automatically advance to the full dues-paying class.

Fifth—Members having paid the full contributing weekly dues prior to the adoption of this amendment, or subsequently thereto, cannot be transferred to come under Section 61a, except as provided in the following paragraph:

Sixth—All former fifteen-cent Class A members now in good standing may have the privilege of transferring to the class of membership provided for in this special law. All former fifteen-cent Class A members who have become suspended may rejoin under the provisions of this special law, without the payment of an initiation fee.

Seventh—All members initiated under the provisions of this special law, at the expiration of nine months, shall be transferred to the full regular dues paying membership and be entitled to all benefits provided for in the constitution, with the constitutional time limits. A member having paid the weekly dues of thirty cents and forty cents and fifty cents and the stipulated assessments, transferring to the full contributing dues paying membership, shall be given credit for time on benefits for one-half of the time he may have paid such dues. For example—a member having contributed the dues specified in Section 61a for nine months shall be credited on time allowance for sick, out of work and death benefits, with nineteen weeks. Fractions of a week shall not be counted.

Eighth—This special law to remain in force until four months after the next convention of the International Union.

Sec. 130. Whenever such General Fund of the International Union shall fall below the sum provided for in Section 179, the Executive Board shall levy an assessment on each member to replenish the same. All members on strike or lockout, if same has been approved by C. M. I. U. of A., shall be exempt from all International assessments levied before or after said strike or lockout has been approved. But these members, beginning immediately after the strike or lockout has ended, shall pay the remaining of any assessments levied after said strike or lockout has been approved.

In effect Dec. 1, 1921.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

(Do not endorse two or more amendments on the same sheet of paper. Send in a separate endorsement for each amendment, as they have to be filed separately.)

The amendment of 500, Tampa, providing for an $8 a week strike benefit for the whole duration of a strike, as published in the October Journal, Received the endorsement of Unions 337, Key West; 150, Sioux City; 44, St. Louis; 353, Brooklyn; 179, Bangor; 514, Tampa; 383, Chicago; 336, Tampa; 266, Memphis; 474, Tampa.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it will not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 462, Tampa, providing that the next convention be held in 1924 instead of 1922, as published in the October Journal, Received the endorsement of Unions 90, New York; 229, Binghamton; 141, New York; 308, Muncie; 218, Binghamton; 301, Akron; 150, Sioux City; 316, McSherrystown; 58, Montreal; 336, Tampa; 168, Oshkosh; 266, Memphis; 81, Peekskill; 474, Tampa.

Not having received the required number of endorsements, it will not be submitted to a vote of local unions.

The amendment of 187, Covington, Ky., as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Amend Section No. 166, page 45: On line 7 after the words manufacturers' license, add the following: Interested financially, holding stocks or bonds in any cigar company. Section to read as follows: No member holding a manufacturer's license, interested financially, holding stocks or bonds in any cigar company shall hold any office either in the International or Local Union. Neither shall they have charge of the granting or distribution of the label.

Received the endorsement of 41, Aurora; 218, Binghamton; 168, Oshkosh; 317, Wilkes-Barre; 172, Davenport; 1, Baltimore; 187, Covington; 88, Dubuque; 118, Peoria; 184, Bay City; 315, St. Cloud; 266, Memphis; 83, Nashville; 394, Sycamore; 301, Akron; 396, Northampton; 160, Milford; 274, Pekin; 144, New York; 257, Lancaster; 247, Blue Island; 381, Watertown; 20, Decatur; 37, Fort Wayne; 294, Duluth; 248, Jacksonville; 206, North Adams.

The amendment of 336, Tampa, as published in the November Journal, as follows:

Strike out all of section 117-118-119-120-121-122-123-124-125-126-127-128-129 and insert the following:

Sec. 117. Any member having paid weekly dues for a period of two years shall be entitled to an out-of-work benefit of $3 per week, and 50 cents for each additional day. No benefit shall be paid for the first one week after a member was discharged from employment or laid off. Members drawing benefit for less than six days shall be stricken off the list. (Sec. 144 provided no sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged insane.)

Sec. 118. Any member receiving benefit for six weeks shall not be entitled to any benefit for seven weeks thereafter, and no member shall receive more than $54 during the period of one year, commencing from July 1 of each year. Any member receiving $54 benefit shall not be entitled to any benefit until after he shall have worked for four weeks, but this four weeks' proviso shall not include members over 50 years of age.

Sec. 119. Any member obtaining employment before receiving six week's benefit, who shall be discharged from employment before eight weeks have elapsed, shall be entitled to the balance of the benefit.

Sec. 120. Any member having received four weeks' strike or sick benefit shall not be entitled to out-of-work benefit for four weeks thereafter; a sick member incapable of doing a day's work shall not be considered out of work. Members shall not be deprived of benefits on legal holidays, except on Sunday and Labor Day. Any member registering immediately preceding and the day following any legal holiday shall be considered registered on such holidays.

Sec. 121. Members shall not be allowed to register from June 1st to Sept. 16th, and from Dec. 16th to Jan. 8th of any year. No member shall be entitled to any benefit from June 1st till Sept. 23d, and from Dec. 16th to Jan. 15th of any year. Members out of work at such time shall obtain a certificate from the Financial Secretary of whom they received the last benefit, which certificate shall be signed and sealed by the Secretary to whom said member has reported during such periods. Any member reporting out of work to the Financial Secretary at least once a week, from June 1st to Sept. 23d of any one year, shall not be subject to suspension, but should such member obtain employment he must pay ten per cent of his weekly earnings until he has established himself within the constitutional limit. Should he remain out of employment until he is entitled to out-of-work benefit, all dues and assessments shall be deducted from said benefit.

Sec. 122. Any member losing his employment through intoxication, or courting his discharge through bad workmanship or otherwise, shall not be entitled to any benefit for eight weeks thereafter, and shall be so recorded in his loan book; inability to hold a job shall not deprive a member of his benefit.

Sec. 123. Each local union shall be provided by the International Union, free of cost, with a book or books suitable for registering the names of the unemployed entitled to the out-of-work benefit. In places where the local unions employ a secretary for his full time the unemployed shall report daily, at the secretary's office, between 9 and 11 o'clock a. m., or between 2 and 4 o'clock p. m., and sign their names in the book. In places where the union has no office, the unemployed shall sign his or her name in the book in the place provided for that purpose, between 9 o'clock a. m. and 4 o'clock p. m., except traveling members, who have a certificate of registration, who shall be granted the privilege of signing the book between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m. Members failing to sign the book shall forfeit their benefit for that day. In cities where the members are unable to reach the secretary's office or place of registration without incurring expense, such union or unions shall be permitted to establish a further place of registration.

Sec. 124. Any traveling member in search of employment arriving in a place where a union is located shall, after reporting to the Financial Secretary, be placed on the out-of-work roll and entitled to the benefit as provided in Sec. 117. Every traveling member must provide himself with a certificate of registration; said certificate shall bear the signature and seal of the Financial Secretary as evidence of registration. Any traveling member registering for six days in any one union shall deposit his card with the union before receiving his benefit.

Sec. 125. Any member engaging in any other occupation, domestic or otherwise, shall not be entitled to any benefits. Any member failing for three consecutive days to register shall forfeit the benefit of previous registration. Any member obtaining employment for two days or longer shall forfeit the benefit of previous registration, providing that such registration was for less than one week, for which no benefit was allowed. Members doing their own domestic work shall not be entitled to any benefit.

Sec. 126. Jurisdiction members unable to report at least every second day to the Financial Secretary shall report at least twice every week in writing, countersigned by the town and shop collector, otherwise no benefit shall be paid. In case of doubt the union may demand additional evidence. But in no case shall a member be entitled to out-of-work benefit if he remains in a place where no union shop exists.

Sec. 127. Any member obtaining or endeavoring to obtain any benefit under false pretenses shall be suspended, and be subject to a fine of from $5 to $25, as the union may deem proper.

Sec. 128. Any member refusing to work in a shop where work is offered him, or who neglects to apply for work in a shop if directed by the Financial Secretary or any officer of the union, or shop collector, shall not be entitled to any benefit until he has secured employment for at least one week. This shall apply to jurisdiction towns within a radius of ten miles. Shop collectors shall immediately report to the Financial Secretary (if known by name) any member refusing to work where work is offered him; failing to so report, he shall be fined $2 for each offense.

Sec. 129. The Financial Secretary of each local union shall report at every regular meeting the names of members having obtained out-of-work benefit, including the cause why each member has lost his employment. Where the unions do not meet weekly the Financial Secretary shall make his report to the Executive Board.

Sec. 130. Any member quitting a job shall not be entitled to the benefit provided for until said member shall have again obtained employment for at least one week.

Sec. 131. Every union shall establish a Labor Bureau for the purpose of designating work to the unemployed.

Sec. 132. It shall be the duty of every shop collector to report to the Financial Secretary such jobs as are open in his factory the same day he receives notice thereof, in order to enable the Secretary to direct the unemployed to the factory. Should this be neglected by either of the above officers, they shall be subject to a fine of not less than one dollar. Any member knowing where a job is open and not reporting the same to the Financial Secretary shall be fined one dollar.

Sec. 133. Any member about to apply for out-of-work benefit shall, after being discharged or laid off, receive from the collector of the shop in which he has been working a certificate stating the cause of the discharge or lay-off, which shall be presented to the Financial Secretary before being allowed to register. These certificates shall be kept on file for inspection by the Finance Committee and International Financier.

Received the endorsement of Unions 108, Lock Haven; 353, Brooklyn; 160, Milford.

Fellow Workers:

Greetings.

Happiness and Success to you for the new year and the years to come.

Some have fallen into the belief that the labor movement can not survive this present crisis. This feeling should not exist. A few have lain down on the job. This ought not be. We are struggling through the inevitable readjustment following the world war. We are in the midst of a period of unemployment. We can not escape either. We can live through both. We will.

We have had severer crises before, much unemployment, and of longer duration. They hurt, but did not destroy us. They won't this time. Real union men and women will take the hurt without flinching. The trade union movement refuses to be destroyed.

Some are discouraged. They should be helped and encouraged. "Gloomy Gus" and "General Fault Finder" are also among us. Shoo them away with optimistic confidence.

Don't let partisan politics, race or religion divide us. There are plenty of partisan political parties where we can divide on political issues. There is only one trade union movement. We can and should all unite in our unions on the undisputed principle of better wages, less hours, and better working conditions. To accomplish these necessary things we must work in harmony in our economic movement. The open shop battle is still on. He who skulks behind or fails to stand true to the trade union movement and its undisputed principles is giving aid and comfort to the enemy. Courage, self-restraint, and faith in our movement will carry us through.

We fully realize your privation, suffering, and the heroic struggle and sacrifice you are making. We sympathize with you. We glory in your steadfast determination to stick.

We pledge you our individual and collective effort and co-operation to make the year 1922 the best ever in achievements.

Cordially and fraternally yours,

G. W. PERKINS, President.

Executive Board, Cigar Makers' International Union.

The struggle for existence economically and politically has its periods of progress of reaction and stagnation. The pendulum of progress and reaction never long remains in the same position. It is always swinging backward and forward.

Always Gaining.

So it is with our trade union movement. It has its normal periods, its period of progress and unfortunately its periods of stagnation and reaction. The battle line is always changing. Following the periods of reaction and stagnation the upward trend always continues beyond the point of vantage it had when the reaction set in. The trade union movement in its upward trend always goes forward with a velocity which carries it to higher peaks numerically and greater strength than ever before.

In the writer's time and recollection in the labor movement the trade union movement of the world did not exceed two million members. We have seen it jump to five million and then recede to four million and then rebound to ten million. This has been the process. Backward and then always forward. Today the combined membership of the trade union movement of the world is nearly fifty million. Such has been the history of the labor movement. History will repeat itself. It will soon go to seventy-five million. It may drop to sixty-five million. It will then go forward to one hundred million.

There is no such thing as the "open shop" among large employers of labor. They do

Organized not practice it even to the extent the press
Capital would have us understand the term, "Individual bargaining."

You find each firm of meat packers, for instance, paying exactly the same price for work of similar kind. There is no manifestation of their much praised American Plan that will allow Mr. A to pay a different price for common labor than does Mr. B, even if Mr. A did as an individual see fit to do so. We find, in fact, that Mr. A pays the scale agreed upon by himself and all other meat packers. This scale is the bill of prices of the packing house bosses' organization. Their "Union's" bill of prices?

We cannot "individually bargain" with a railroad to haul our commodities or our persons to a certain point, no matter how many roads enter there, unless we pay the regular and prescribed tariff. This tariff is their bill of prices and they supposedly enforce it to the letter.

Capital is against collective bargaining as a principle and a practice for the workers. They are a unit in its use in every angle of their business relations with each other. They refuse to deal with the business agent of a union or its regularly appointed representative. They reserve for themselves the right to be represented by counsel at any and all times. They are in fact and in practice a union, maintaining their selling prices, bills of prices, hours of labor and shop conditions.

Despite the abject failure of "Can't Strike" legislation abroad and its very doubtful and apparently barren results

"Can't Strike in this country, we find Legislation." the big business interests of New York clamoring for a bill they say will "protect the interests of the public, the employer and the employee."

The draft of the proposed bill provides for the Court of Industrial Relations, a thing very much in favor among the labor-hating open-shoppers, no doubt from the fact that when workers for cause cease work they can be thrown into jails.

Workers jailed because they exercise the right to quit work under conditions or wages that are not considered fair and just, and compelled by law to give service against their will, thus forced to accept involuntary servitude, are not going to have very much respect for such one-sided legislation, which, to say the least, is unconstitutional.

The workers will resent the heavy hand of involuntary servitude if pressed upon them. We stand for the ideals of equality before the law. This country's government is dedicated to freedom.

Laws that separate the workers from other groups and install the hand of state control into the worker's life can never be popular in this land of the free. Enactment of such legislation will serve to fan the flames of resentment. Any attempt along this line will fail miserably in its purpose of disrupting organized labor.

Unity and Organization.

We may bark at the employer but it does not mean anything. We may denounce the avarice, greed and brutal oppression of non-union manufacturers. But it will require more than talk to accomplish our objective, the protection and advancement of the best interests of the workers. Petty bickering among ourselves won't get us anything except disappointment.

We need organization. We need harmony and united action in unions. Our salvation lies in our own hands and in the hands of those yet unorganized. Organize them! No power on earth can deny justice or long withhold it from the workers if they will organize and properly and wisely use their united power and strength. This is vitally important.

A power misused reacts with injurious effect. We must work out our destiny through our organization and in our own way. The paramount need and urgent necessity now is to organize and use the power gained through organization for good and always on the principle of justice to all and malice toward none. No organization, fraternal, commercial or otherwise, however strong, can long endure unless predicated upon the principle of justice and fair dealing, the more intelligently and skillfully conducted the greater the results.

No cause is more just than the trade union cause. No other movement is more necessary to success and the protection of the masses than the trade union movement. No man or woman has a right to stand in the way of organization. He who does stands in his own best light, and is a stumbling block to the best interests of the toiling masses.

In times of peace prepare against war.

(Written by G. W. Perkins for the American Federationist.)

Industrial waste is the greatest stumbling block to economic progress. Contributory causes are inefficiency, ignorance, greed, selfishness and indifference.

If improved machinery, the helpful inventions in sight, were effectively used for the benefit of mankind, we could be living in the age of plenty for all.

A few are living in the House of Plenty. Frightful industrial waste causes many to live in the House of Want. Many a few jumps ahead of dire want. Others are lock jumps ahead of poverty.

Waste, greed and selfishness are in the saddle. We plunge ahead carelessly indifferent. Labor knows that wonderful inventions and improved machines can be utilized for the benefit of those who live in the House of Want, in dire need and in poverty. This can be done without confiscation.

With improved machinery we produce more than we can consume with the wages received. This causes underconsumption and unemployment.

Inventive genius, capacity and brains are entitled to a just share of what they help to create. Save the waste and they can get it. The masses, the workers, must get their just share. Drones, non-producers, incompetents and watered stock must go.

Production can not carry on to capacity results without right methods. That intended for a blessing to humanity, if not used for all of our people, will destroy civilization and be a curse to mankind. Wasting golden opportunities within our grasp is dissipation of money, wealth and property and is worse than confiscation. Mr. Hoover's committee of experts say that over fifty per cent of inefficiency in industry is due to management, less than twenty-five per cent to labor, the balance to other causes. That there is a more efficient plant of production and distribution is undisputed. It should be utilized. If it is, the cost of production and living will come down. Wages will increase. Profits will be more secure and unemployment a thing of the past.

The constructive Trade Union movement is dedicated to the cause of justice for all with special privileges to none. It will do its share. Its cause is just. It can not fail.

We wonder if the predatory rich, the greedy and profiteering monsters, will wake up before it is too late. We hope so. We think so.

What the workers of all countries want is less of armament and none of bloody, brutal, devastating war.

The amendment of 187, Covington, having received the required number of seconds, will be submitted to popular vote. Since my name has been used without authority in connection with this amendment and since a circular was sent out by someone who had no authority to do so, in which it was implied that I had suggested the amendment, I take this occasion to say that I never suggested this amendment to anybody.

Section 62 reads as follows:

Sec. 62. No manufacturer, employer or foreman, except as provided in Section 61, shall be eligible to become a member of the union, but this action in nowise shall debar members of co-operative factories from membership.

Section 166 reads:

No member holding a manufacturers' license shall hold any office either in the International or in any local union. Neither shall he have charge of the granting or distribution of the label.

The amendment is as follows:

Amend Section No. 166, page 45: On line 7 after the words manufacturers' license, add the following: Interested financially, holding stocks or bonds in any cigar company. Section to read as follows: No member holding a manufacturer's license, interested financially, holding stocks or bonds in any cigar company shall hold any office either in the International or Local Union. Neither shall he have charge of the granting or distribution of the label.

I am not in favor of the amendment.

One union has made the untruthful assertion that Union 4, Cincinnati, sent out a circular urging local unions to second and vote for this amendment, and that I had suggested the amendment, both of which statements are untrue. The facts are that Union 4, Cincinnati, is opposed to the amendment. They have issued a circular recommending its defeat.

The amendment proposed is not a personal matter. It does not personally concern me in any way. I own no stocks or bonds and have no money invested in any cigar company or any cigar co-operative concern, or in any other manufacturing concern of any kind or nature, and never did have any money or thing of value invested in any cigar shop, co-operative or otherwise, or in any other commercial enterprise. However, for five years I have been and am now chairman of a standing committee on co-operation of the American Federation of Labor.

G. W. Perkins,
International President.

The dawn of the new year finds big business preaching optimism and practicing pessimism.

Middle class business expresses hope and keeps one eye on the big fellow who is up in front.

Small business, swayed largely by doubts and fears, steers a course as closely to the shore as possible in the ever-shifting ebb and flow of the business current.

Organized labor feels that, while the way is not yet clear, the worst of the road is behind. We face the future with high hope, relying as we do on the known power of organization. We have stood the acid test in the past. We will stand it in the future. The onslaughts of those whose expressed determination is to destroy us have failed.

Unorganized labor has suffered and has found no haven of relief and no degree of protection afforded by the "company unions" foisted on it by employers who sought to divert their employees' attention from the real road to relief, the bona fide trades union of their particular craft. For them the future holds no ray of hope. As individuals they can not expect to be able to cope with organized capital. However, there is no cloud so dark that it is void of the proverbial silver lining. The brighter side of this cloud of adversity that now seemingly envelopes unorganized labor is ORGANIZATION. This is not a new remedy nor is it any quack palliative, useful for the moment only. It is the old tried and true remedy that has proven itself the bulwark of defense for the workers through past storm and strife. It is the one sure cure for the ills of a sorely man-handled working class.

Blood cannot be extracted from a stone. Nobody knows how to do the impossible. The trade union movement is just what its membership minds to make it. The sooner the membership realizes its responsibility and carefully, judiciously and fully considers any situation that may confront it and then acts wisely in compliance with the plain facts the sooner it will get to the goal of its ambitions. We can not do the impossible or perform miracles, and the sooner we stop trying to do the better, it will be for all concerned. We can always strive for the best. If we do we shall get it.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

W. M. Tippy, secretary of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America, declares that investigations by the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor have revealed that the death rate of children in homes where wages of the father are low averages one out of three, while in the homes of men who are well paid it is one out of twelve.

"Abuse of the American courts of their own power will ultimately destroy public confidence in their integrity," declared President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor in a statement issued today.—New York Times, December 14.

Samuel Untermyer, of New York, in an address before the Building Trades Employers' Association in Boston, yesterday, declared that the increased cost of labor was "more properly an effect than cause" of high living costs, adding that "when the price of everything that labor uses to create the product as artificially controlled it is hardly fair to place upon labor the responsibility for increased costs."—Chicago Tribune, January 5.

Organization as expressed through the trades union is the only barrier between the workers and abject misery. Destroy organization and the old era of long hours, low wages and bestial working conditions will follow as night follows the day. Destroy labor organizations and the foundations of good government will be undermined. All progress starts primarily and rests finally on the welfare of the masses. The welfare of the masses is made secure and progressive only when decent, humane conditions of labor are enjoyed. The justly right working conditions of those who toil are secured only through organization. The worker who refuses to become a part of this organized force for betterment is cheating himself and is mortgaging his posterity to the powers of greed and avarice.

Most of life's shadows result from standing in our own light. You stand in your own light every time you fail to patronize the union label, card and button.

To pass an idea on is to multiply its power. Tell your friends to patronize the union label, card and button.

The union label is not a "cure all" for industrial injustices, but it is the best tonic to prescribe for many of them.

Get the habit of asking for the union label, card and button.

By helping others we help ourselves. Always demand the union label. Look for the shop card and working button.

Be true to your brother trade unionist—patronize his union label, card or button.

The union label, card and button assure better living conditions for the children.

Be particular—demand the union label, shop card and working button.

Safeguard your health—refuse sweatshop products. Demand the union label.

There would be no necessity for an "unfair" list if we all did our share in boosting the union label.

No one is more worthy of contempt than the trade unionist who ignores the union label, card or button when spending money.

Don't leave it to the "clique" to do all the work of the local union, including agitation for the label, card and button, as many minds and hands make the job easier.

Confidence and leadership are necessary in any movement; hence the necessity for you to always demand the union label, shop card and working button.

What you do today will have an effect tomorrow. Remember this when inclined to spend your union-earned money for non-union products.

Harsh criticism of our associates for failure to do their full duty toward the union label, card and button does not always bring the desired result, but setting a good example usually does.

Not what it is, but the human principles it stands for should be our motive for patronage of the union label, shop card and working button.

TRADE NOTES.

The following comparative data of tax paid products as indicated by monthly sales of revenue stamps show the number of cigars manufactured during the month of November as compared with the same month of 1920:

Cigars (large).	Nov., 1920.	Nov., 1921.
Class A, No.	154,273,685	195,534,715
Class B, No.	192,539,495	158,201,200
Class C, No.	295,793,200	245,148,492
Class D, No.	18,147,135	12,398,440
Class E, No.	7,306,500	3,968,411

Total 668,060,015 615,251,258

Analysis of the report shows that there was a total loss for the month as compared with the corresponding month of the previous year amounting to 52,808,757. This loss is distributed over all classifications except Class A, cigars retailing for 5c, which shows a gain of 41,261,030.

* * *

The following table shows the number of cigars, by classification, manufactured in November, 1921, as compared with October, 1921:

	Nov., 1921.	Oct., 1921.
Class A	195,534,715	205,160,690
Class B	158,201,200	167,235,233
Class C	245,148,492	248,419,095
Class D	12,398,440	11,888,158
Class E	3,968,411	3,104,467

Total 615,251,258 635,807,697

Analysis of the above figures shows a total loss of 40,556,469 for the month when compared with the previous month. All classifications show a loss except D and E. Loss and gain by classifications follow: A, loss, 9,625,975; B, loss, 9,034,083; C, loss, 3,260,607; D, gain, 510,282; E, gain, 853,944.

The figures of the Bureau of Internal Revenue show that the total taxes collected on tobacco products in November, 1921, totaled $22,600,996.58, as compared with $19,367,199.91 for November, 1920. Large cigars yielded a revenue of $4,184,799.74 in November of 1921, as compared with $4,847,020.05 in November, 1920. The collections on small cigars amounted to $79,443.38 in November, 1921, as compared with $82,539.75 in the same month of last year.

In the November report of the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics, a decrease is shown of 1.0 per cent in the number employed for that month, and a decrease of 20 per cent in the amount of the payroll, in the cigar industry. When compared with the previous month of October, 1921, there is shown a decrease of 2 per cent in the number employed and a decrease of 7.5 per cent in the amount of payroll.

Curtailed operations caused a decrease of 5.7 per cent in per capita earnings for November as compared with the per capita earnings for October.

E. G. Hall, President, State Federation of Labor.

When the men and women of the labor movement realize the benefits that have come to them through co-operation of union labor then we will grow. But we must come to know first the value of the union label, the working card, the button, etc., and what a valuable weapon it is, handled as it should be by the millions of members and those in sympathy. But as it is now when we buy non-union goods we say: "Mr. Manufacturer, we want you to keep down wages, to grind down labor, and to maintain as poor conditions as possible." When we buy union made goods and employ union members it is just the reverse.

The union label is necessary to tell union made goods from non-union goods.

The store or shop card is necessarily displayed in the store or shop that all may know that the workmen enjoy at least fair conditions.

A working card shown by a workman is a guarantee that he is a member in good standing and deserves to work with, and the assistance of, his fellow trade unionists.

Likewise, the button issued monthly shows the standing of a member; it is the official receipt from the secretary that he is paid for that month.

The union stamp on cooperage, shoes, leather goods, etc., also guarantees fair products.

And last, but not least, if we complain of lack of support for our emblem, have we been as much interested in patronizing sister crafts? Moral: "Do unto others as we would have others do unto us."

State Federation of Labor.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 20, 1921.

Enclosed we are sending you copy for an article which the Central Labor Council and the Building Trades Council of Los Angeles request be printed in your Journal.

We are hopeful that you can give this a prominent place in your publication.

Thanking you in advance, and with best wishes, I am, Fraternally yours,

JOHN S. HORN,
Sec.-Treas. Los Angeles Central Labor Council.
Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 20, 1921.

Four moving picture studios locked out every union mechanic in their employ last July when the latter refused to work a ten-hour day instead of eight and accept a cut in pay ranging from $1 to $3 per day. The committee representing the two councils is sending letters to every national and international union and every central body in the United States and Canada, and to every city throughout the world where there is a labor movement. The following Los Angeles studios are the ones involved: Goldwyn, Lasky-Famous Players, Realart, William Fox and Universal.

Following are the "stars" employed by the four producers:

Goldwyn Studios—Mary Alden, Will Rogers, Helene Chadwick, Richard Dix, Colleen Moore, Pauline Frederick, Tom Moore, James Kirkwood, Ralph Lewis, Howard Davy, Cullen Landis.

Universal Film Co.—Herbert Rawlinson, Priscilla Dean, Harry Carey, Art Acord, Hoot Gibson, Eileen Sedgwick, Gladys Walton, Marie Prevost, Frank Mayo, Miss DuPont.

Famous Players-Lasky, Realart Corp.—Wanda Hawley, Bebe Daniels, Mary Miles Minter, Constance Binney, Theodore Roberts, Monte Blue, Jack Holt, Walter Hires, Conrad Nagle, Lois Wilson, Mildred Harris, May McAvoy, Wallace Reid, Thomas Meighan, Gloria Swanson, Elliott Dexter, Dorothy Dalton, Betty Compson, Ethel Clayton, David Kirkwood, Agnes Ayres, Julia Faye, "Fatty" Arbuckle, Lila Lee.

Wm. Fox Productions—Tom Mix, Barbara Bedford, Eileen Percy, Jack Gilbert, Buck Jones, Dustin Farnum, Wm. Russell, Shirley Mason, Chester Conklin, Al. St. John, Clyde Cook, Harry Debbs.

Every person who reads this article is requested to cut out the above list of producers and "stars" and to consult the list before entering a "movie" picture show. If any one of these names appear on the program in front of the theater or the handbills the Los Angeles trade unionists ask that you do not spend your money on the enemies of labor.

Newark, N. J.

At a meeting of the Executive Board of Union No. 138 of Newark, N. J., held Jan. 3, 1922, I was instructed to have the following letter published in the January issue of the Cigar Makers' Journal, in opposition to the amendment proposed by Union No. 187 of Covington, Ky., to amend Section No. 166, the amendment reading as follows:

"No member holding a manufacturer's license, interested financially, holding stocks or bonds in any cigar company, shall hold office either in the International or Local Union, neither shall they have charge of the granting or distribution of the label.

If this amendment is carried it would mean practically the dissolving of the Newark Union Co-operative Cigar Company. Briefly stated, this company has somewhat over 100 stockholders, of which about 65% are cigar makers and members of Union No. 138. In fact, every officer of Union No. 138 is a stockholder. The other stockholders are members of other unions or the union itself, such as Typographical Union, Hatters' Union, Sheet Metal Workers, Brewery Workers and others.

This corporation was primarily organized for the purpose of selling union label cigars to stores such as confectionery, news stands, office building cigar stands, drug stores, etc., who did not handle union label goods, and whose trade was entirely ignored by our manufacturers for the reason that their orders were small, running from 100 to 300 per week, and who wanted a cigar that was equal to the average, as the union label goods had to compete with the best advertised brands in the market.

In 1921 this co-operative factory manufactured and sold about one million, thirty thousand cigars, of which at least nine hundred thousand went to these small cigar dealers, who did not handle union cigars before.

This corporation is not in competition or hurting our other union manufacturers in any way. They are getting higher prices for their cigars and putting out a high grade class of goods that can compete with the best upon the market, whether union or non-union.

The factory has been employing about seven-teen men in the past year and they have been working steady and two-thirds of the men who would have otherwise been idle are working in this factory at the present time.

Every officer of Union No. 138, including the Executive Board, is a stockholder in this concern and if this amendment will carry they will either have to refuse to hold office or withdraw from the co-operative factory.

This company was not organized for the purpose of profit, but for the purpose of bringing the union label cigar into places where they formerly had not been sold; secondly, to manufacture a cigar with the union label on the box that could compete with the best in the market; thirdly, to give steady employment to cigar makers that otherwise would have been idle if this company had not been organized.

In our opinion this amendment is unfair and unjust, and will in no way benefit the organization at large. It should be voted down by all means, and at least so worded that it would not include strictly co-operative factories.

We may state that the officers and Board of Directors, who are all cigar makers, are not being paid any salary by the co-operative cigar company, neither has the co-operative cigar company paid any dividends up to date, for the reason that it is using what little money it has made to extend its business.

THE EXECUTIVE BOARD OF UNION NO. 138.
Henry F. Hilfers, Secretary.

Union No. 4 of Cincinnati, O., earnestly requests you to read this letter to your members when the vote is taken on the proposed amendment to Section 166 of the International Constitution.

Union No. 4 makes the following reply to the misleading letter forwarded to you by a few dissatisfied members of Union No. 4 who sign themselves Fred Fisher, president, John Koenig, secretary, and what they are officers of is more than we know.

In their letter to you they say they were unable to have this matter considered by Union No. 4, and we say this is untrue, as the matter was up for consideration at the regular meeting of the union held on Nov. 2, 1921, and voted down almost unanimous.

They try to draw a picture to you that Union No. 4 is using their officers and their money in the interest of but one cigar company, which also is untrue.

The facts of the case are as follows: We have a Co-operative Cigar Co. in our city employing 52 cigarmakers and many of our members and a few of the officers we believe have some stock in this company. The Co-operative Co. is run by a board of 5 directors and Union No. 4 has always held that a director of the Co-operative Co. can not hold office in the union, and none of the directors hold any office in the union, but we do contend that there would be no way to find out where a member of the union invests his money or who has stock in this or any other company and no good reason to try to find out who has stock, as we believe it is better for our members to invest their money where union cigarmakers will be employed than to invest in some other industry.

We also call your attention to the unfair method used in mailing the circular to you, several having been returned by local unions to us and we note that they were sent out in the official envelopes of Union No. 33 of Indianapolis of which union one of their number, F. Haas, years ago was secretary, and no doubt this action was taken to make the letter appear to be official.

Union No. 4 has a membership of 905 members and we note they say in their letter that they consist of 21 members, and we ask you in all fairness if you believe 21 members should rule the union and when they can't get control go out and start another organization.

Perhaps your union, not knowing the true situation, has already seconded this amendment, we therefore request that when the amendment goes to popular vote you will vote against the amendment and in this way assist Union No. 4 to retain what they have and uphold majority rule.

Yours fraternally,
FRED G. SCHNABEL, President.
WM. F. LEMKE, Secretary.

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 7.

Another year has been recorded on the calendar of time; 1922 has just been ushered into the arena to play its part in the cycle of the endless chain that paves the way for the onward march of humankind. We should all stand ready to do our "bit" within the course of the ensuing year which will tend to make it more eventful, and more prosperous than the old one that the curtain has lately been rung down on.

The past year was marked with semi-industrial depression in almost every line of business, and in some almost complete stagnation was suffered in industry. Slight fluctuations from time to time seemed to revive a more favorable condition, but in the major part business dragged on slowly and trade lapsed into a state far below the normal standard throughout the country.

Prosperity can only be enjoyed and a state of comfort exist in a land where mine, mill and factories are in operation, and the consumers are profitably employed producing, so that earnings may be circulated to stimulate the pulse of business, and the great waste entailed by the unemployed and the idle class be curtailed by the earning capacity where the dividends are devoted to housing and clothing the workers, who are the producers. It has been charged, and indications point strongly in that direction, that "big business" has systematically manipulated things in the past twelve months to create an industrial depression so that organized labor might be destroyed and the "open shop" established, with the inevitable cut and slash in wages that follows in the wake of their program.

Considerable injury has been done by the insidious propaganda directed by the forces arrayed against organized labor, but the unions refuse to be vanquished and the membership is holding intact with a greater tenacity than ever before, as they now realize the great necessity of organization and the benefit of maintaining it. In sections of the country where the cigar makers have been organized and a strong agitation made for the demand of goods bearing the union label, trade has been better during these times of depression, work more steady, with conditions and wages at a higher standard than in the servile centers where the non-union open shop holds sway.

Fremont, Neb., Dec., 1921.

They have a co-operative general merchandise store here that did over $301,000 business during year 1920, and over $350,000 to date this year. It is the largest concern of the kind I ever saw. Anyone interested in distribution co-operative enterprise will be furnished with any information possible to give by addressing Wm. Feinauer, secretary of Union No. 353, Fremont, Neb., who is manager of this store.

To All Organized Workers:

There are times when the attention of all workers must be called to their duty in behalf of some particular industry which is facing a crisis. Just at the present time we are confronted with the necessity of bestowing our collective support to prevent the disintegration of the Cigarmakers' Union of the state, one of the oldest and foremost groups in the fight for justice. These workers, with the assistance of other organized groups, have time and again prevented the destruction of their organization by its opponents. Today we have occasion to urge organized labor and its friends to respond to a brother's call. We are not requesting financial assistance for the cigar makers. We are appealing to you to fulfill a duty to which we are all pledged.

When Buying Cigars, Be Sure the Box or Package Bears the Union Label.
Cigars as Holiday Presents.

Many men buy cigars regularly. It is their duty always to look for the Blue Union Label. Many men and women about this time of the year purchase cigars as Christmas and New Year's presents. It is the duty of every member of a labor union to urge that these cigars bear the Union Label.

We suggest this letter be read at your meetings and that your families, men and women, and all friends of organized labor, be acquainted with the necessity of looking for the Union Label whenever making a purchase.

Above All, Union Men and Women Should Set the Example for Others.

Your co-operation in this respect will mean:
1. Less child labor in cigar factories. 2. More children in school. 3. More adequate wages for adult men and women. 4. Better and more sanitary work shops. 5. A cleaner product to smoke. 6. Better workmanship. 7. Elimination of sweat shops. 8. A stronger Cigar Makers' Union, and consequently a stronger labor movement.

The workers of the state have uniformly heartily responded to a request for co-operation when appealed to by the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor. We are confident this message will receive the same consideration.

Buy only union made cigars, as you buy other union label products.

THE WISCONSIN CIGAR MAKERS' LABEL CONFERENCE.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 29, 1921.

In the official Journal of the month of November, 1921, appears an amendment, proposed by Local Union No. 187, Covington, Ky., which reads as follows:

Amend Section No. 166, page 45, on line after the words "manufacturer's license," add the following: Interested financially, holding stocks or bonds in any cigar company. Section to read as follows: No member holding a manufacturer's license, interested financially, holding stocks or bonds in any cigar company, shall hold any office either in the International Union or Local Union. Neither shall they have charge of the granting or distribution of the label.

This amendment is chiefly aimed at the co-operative cigar factories, of which there are several of them in existence in this country.

We received a circular letter from Local Union No. 4, Cincinnati, asking of us to support Union No. 15 think it is an insult to their import such an amendment. The members of intelligence to ask for their support. In this same circular letter, on the footnote, it states the following: It is through the suggestion of President Perkins that this amendment is introduced.

Is it the intention of some to kill the spirit of co-operative cigar factories?

Or is it the fear that should the co-operative spirit grow and be a success some questionable officers might lose their jobs?

Why is it that our President Perkins suggested such an amendment?

Are you, Mr. President Perkins, opposed to co-operative enterprises?

What is the real motive behind this move?

Let us have an open statement through the official Journal so the members will know.

By order of Local Union No. 15.

I. SOMMERFELD.

Resolutions adopted by unanimous vote by the Executive Council, American Federation of Labor, at A. F. of L. Headquarters, November 19, 1921.

RESOLVED, That the magnificent proposal for the reduction and limitation of naval armament laid before the International Conference Limitation of Armaments by the American delegation on behalf of the government and the people of the United States be endorsed in most emphatic terms and in relation thereto the following be adopted as expressive of our convictions upon the issues as they stand:

The American delegation spoke for America in proposing the wholesale destruction of warships.

The American delegation spoke for America in proposing the absolute cessation of warship construction for a period of ten years.

America is unitedly in favor of those proposals.

America, we believe, is willing and ready to place its fullest trust in the methods of democracy and in the efficacy and integrity of democracy.

America, we trust, will continue on the inspiring course laid down at the outset by its delegation, for whom Secretary Hughes was the spokesman, and will on every point take the same lofty and advanced position, transcending if possible, the note which was struck on that first memorable day.

We record the position of America's workers, for whom we speak, as being in absolute accord with the utmost degree of disarmament, with the utmost effort to destroy the machinery of war and to make unnecessary and impossible the appetites, the jealousies, the rivalries and the intrigue that lead to war.

And we trust that America will blaze the way even beyond consideration of the armaments of nations and the rivalries of nations and will seek to bring them into some permanent accord which will be organic and definite, to the end that there may be made possible those necessary recurring adjustments and adjudications which are vital to permanent harmony and peace between peoples and nations.

Chicago, Jan. 9, 1922.

Fellow Craftsmen:

Cognizant of the strained relations as existing between the Manufacturers' Association and the union cigar makers of Cuba, the J. A. B. Chicago, urges that all International Union members give to our fellow craftsmen in Cuba the full measure of their moral support.

Cuban cigar manufacturers are making an attempt at this time to break the cigar makers' organization thereby demanding the privilege of seating not less than 4 per cent non-union help. Coupled with this is a demand that certain shop rules and regulations heretofore recognized be abrogated. This would mean at least the entering wedge of disintegration and would lead to a wage cut in the very near future, which is in fact one of the demands, though thinly veiled, at the present time.

We can never forget the loyal support given our International Union during the Tampa strike by these Cuban cigar makers, and it is with a feeling of the deepest sympathy that we now extend to them in their hour of tribulation the hand of craft fellowship.

I am asking you for a small space in the next month's Journal on behalf of the Wisconsin Cigar Makers' Label Conference. You will find enclosed a circular letter that this organization had distributed throughout the state of Wisconsin to the organized workers. In connection with this letter the Wisconsin Cigar Makers' Label Conference had distributed 4,500 window circulars, or better known as holiday posters. We have received very good results throughout our label agitation that we have continued to carry on since this organization has been organized.

On behalf of the Wisconsin Cigar Makers' Label Conference we will more than thank you for a space in the next month's Journal.

Wishing you a happy New Year. I am,

REPORT OF ORGANIZERS

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 6, 1922.

The request of the Frankel Gerds & Co., cigar manufacturers of San Francisco, that a price be arranged by the union so that they could make a La Natividad cigar that could be retailed at 2 for 25c has been granted by Union 238. The firm closed down for the Christmas holidays and the men were informed to return to work Jan. 4th, 1922.

At Sacramento, Calif., the old Johnson Bros. factory that had been a strict union factory for many years was sold to the firm of Samules & Cohen a little over a year ago. The firm moved to Los Angeles and is running a non-union factory. The cigars are now coming into the Sacramento market and an effort is being made to sell them on their past reputation. The agitation committee of Union 238 and myself are engaged in a campaign of agitation for the sale of union made goods and in the last week have addressed the following unions: The Federated Trades Council, Plasterers' Union, Butchers' Union, Molders' Union, Hod Carriers' Union, Building Laborers' Union, Material Teamsters' Union, Laborers' Union, Bricklayers' Union, Machinists' Lodge, Boller-makers' Union, Truck Drivers' Union, Building Trades Council, Carpenters' Union, Plumbers' Union, Engineers' Union, Sheet Metal Workers' Union, Millmen's Union, Piano Workers' Union, and are meeting with considerable success. J. E. FARRELL,
General Organizer.

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 7.

Cincinnati is bearing up in our industry in a manner creditable to the activity of our members there. Agitation is being carried on for the union label, with endeavors being put forth to bring the unorganized into the fold. Trade in fair condition. Dayton is moving on much more slowly and less activity on the part of the members to forge to the front with a demand for home-made union label cigars. Paducah, trade very quiet and the membership small there, which makes the battle harder in combatting the trust goods that flood that section. Clinton, Iowa, trade quiet, but our boys are awake to the necessity of organization and the needs for agitation. The future looks hopeful there for some revival in business. Organized labor of the Tri-City Congress has just dedicated their new labor temple, all shares in it being owned by trades organizations and members of unions.

Decatur just now is feeling the press of dull times; home industry in the trade not as active as it should be; a little more energy on the part of our members in boosting would help greatly to put "pep" into the less active ones of the labor movement and the public in turn would assist in consuming a greater share of union made cigars. Wherever the occasion presented in all cities visited I have addressed all meetings of our union and all organizations available and urged stronger and greater organization of the workers and consistency in patronizing products bearing the union label. Have called attention to non-union trust made cigars and the machine-made Blackstone cigar as unfair to organized labor. Self preservation of the workers demands organization; organize and hold fast to that which is good.

R. S. SEXTON,
General Organizer

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 5, 1922.

On my arrival in York, Pa., I took up work of reaching the unorganized if possible. After a conference with some of the representative men in the union and the labor movement in general, I concluded to send circulars to as many non-union cigar makers as could be reached by addressing them at their homes and also by sending them a copy of the local labor paper with an article on organization. The time being near the holidays and many shops preparing to lay off for the holidays to take stock and inventory, the local representatives of labor thought it inopportune to call a meeting for organization, as they said few would attend just at this time, but possibly would later. I spoke at all the meetings of local unions that could be reached in York and at several meetings in other towns nearby. Visited Lancaster and spoke at several meetings there. In most of the towns the workers looked for a long lay-off and in some cases a reduction in prices. The workers in that belt now realize what an opportunity they lost some two years ago when they did not organize and prepare to resist a reduction when it would come, but accepted the voluntary raises, believing they, the workers, could without united action maintain these prices and that they were going to receive them for ever. The time came shortly after the war when the manufacturers took these raises away from the cigar makers and step by step they reduced them until now they have all the increases taken away and in some cases more, and the cigar maker is working for pre-war prices. Some have hopes that the workers will wake up after the New Year and take on a new resolve to join with their fellow workers in helping to get a fair standard of wages and a regulation of hours that will permit them to make a decent living without working a week and a half in one week for only an existence. Let us hope this spirit will prevail. Trade here is stagnated just after the holidays, but many businesses are looking for a revival shortly after the first of the year and if so no doubt it will help the cigar trade. Hoping this is true, and with best wishes for a prosperous year for 1922, Fraternally yours,

W. A. McCabe, Org.

Hamilton, Jan. 6, 1922.

Dear Sir:

Nov. 6 to Dec. 4 at Montreal; met with considerable encouragement in label and organization campaign started by Union 58. Although general depression still prevails and the unemployment situation is quite serious, good results are expected from the campaign. Since my last report the unsettled condition of the cigar industry has been further aggravated by the renewed activities of those seeking an increase on the duty of raw leaf; but improved business is looked for from the general election held recently, as there is an entire change in the government.

Nov. 6 to 12—Visited cigar stores and distributed advertising matter in the interest of the label. Also visited cigar factories in the interest of organization campaign. Consulted with officers of 58 on local situation. Attended meeting of label committee, who have taken an interest in this work and have appointed Mr. Drolett to assist in campaign.

Nov. 13 to 19—Worked with Mr. Drolett in label agitation along the lines mentioned. Visited cigar factories in a drive for new members. During the week I attended the following meetings. Label committee, Executive Board of 58, Carpenters' local, Printers' local and Trade Council.

Nov. 20 to 26—Addressed meetings of Carpenters, Electrical Workers No. 492, Painters, Shoe Workers, Sheet Metal Workers No. 252, Granite Cutters, mass meeting of Allied Printing Trades, also mass meeting of Boot and Shoe Workers. The latter two organizations are resisting the open shop proposition. Also attended open meeting of Plumbers, Ship Carpenters, Electrical Plant Employees and Carpenters' local. Distributed special organization circulars. Committee was appointed by Union 58 to assist in organization work.

Nov. 27 to Dec. 4—Attended the following meetings: Painters, No. 354; Bakers, Blacksmiths, Longshoremen's union, Musicians, Harbor Employees, Carmen's union, Fur Workers. At all meetings distributed advertising matter in the form of match boxes, score cards, cards and circulars. Meetings were addressed in English and French. I addressed regular and special meetings of Union 58 on the need of co-operation and label agitation. Quite a number of applications for membership were received and this work will be continued after the New Year.

Dec. 5 to Jan. 5 at Hamilton. Devoted time to label agitation, distributing cards and circulars. Called on cigar dealers in the interest of label campaign started by Union 55; also attended executive meeting of Union 55. A committee appointed by Union 55 to assist in label campaign composed of Mr. Brewin and Mr. Crawford. We are covering all meetings and distributing advertising matter. I addressed the following meetings to date: Painters, Printing Pressmen, Shoe Workers No. 236, Carpenters No. 68, Plumbers, Plasterers, Stone Cutters, Building Trades Council, Pattern Makers, Delegates to Trade and Label Council, Steam Operating Engineers, special meeting of Letter Carriers, Maintenance Way Men, Railway Machinists, all meetings of Executive Union 55. At regular meeting of Union 55 spoke on local situation and urged members to take an active part in the label campaign and to put into practice that principle of co-operation if we wish to advance the cause of label.

Hamilton, being an industrial center, has been hit hard by the general depression and the cigar industry is one of the first to feel the effects. However, a change for the better is looked for in the New Year and members of Union 55 should continue on with the label agitation and build up their conditions by boosting for the label, as it is the only protection against the open shop. Manufacturers never were so active as they are at present trying to establish the open shop, which is really a closed shop to union men and women; and they are being encouraged in their work by those members who are indifferent to the propagation of unionism and who believe in letting the "other fellow" do the work. Let our resolution for 1922 be co-operation and sincerity and our motto be, "Boost, boost, boost for the label."

JAS. A. SULLIVAN, Int'l Org.

The conditions in the cigar industry in New York are quiet just now, but expect by the next couple of weeks that shops will resume work and that most of the cigar makers will be back at their tables. Although we have suffered some the past year, yet the general depression in business has allowed the International Union to hold its own fairly well in New York compared to other industries. During the abnormal conditions a great many manufacturers have moved their shops from New York, but according to good information the change had not benefited them much and a good many would welcome a shop in New York again. I have been working steadily with the J. A. B. of New York to retain our footing and can only say at this writing that the outlook for the cigar makers in New York and the International Union looks very bright for 1922.

We have held many conferences in New York with manufacturers and negotiations are pending that we feel will start up shops in New York again that will give employment to our members and make it possible for them to earn a living under union conditions. The J. A. B. of New York has appointed an organization committee to work in harmony with me for a campaign of organization and the local unions are taking that question to their local meetings to get the entire membership interested for a thorough co-operation in this campaign, and as everyone is in harmony for this campaign I feel sure we will get good results. The Women's Trade Union League, as well as the labor press, has promised their co-operation in a campaign for organization and with everything moving in the right direction we hope to increase our membership in New York and make a better condition for the cigar maker.

Trusting that 1922 will be a prosperous year for the cigar makers and the International Union, I remain.

Yours fraternally,
MAURICE SIMONS, Org.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 4, 1922.

Since my last report I have continued my efforts along the line of agitation, visiting the various locals in behalf of our label and the different brand cigars we are opposed to, under the methods by which they are made, due to the reason these people are not organized, therefore are greatly imposed upon by these unfair employers. I was ably assisted by P. V. Blake and a committee from the members from the Polish Federal Union, making personal visits to their homes, meeting them as they came out of the factory and urging them to appoint a committee to meet with us to talk over the conditions that confront them in their everyday life, and by so doing we would be in a position whereby we could show them by coming into our organization that these unfair methods could be greatly rectified, not only in getting them better wages, but far more better working conditions.

In reference to my last report as to the Sidney G. Cigar Company, known as the Manny Blanc firm of Chicago, and also the Tennyson Cigar Company, also of Chicago. I could not come to any agreement with the Sidney G. shop. Mr. Isaacson, manager of this said concern, said he would like to run a union shop but he wanted to have a bill of prices suitable to his own ideas, which is entirely out of the question.

In reference to the Tennyson shop, they are laid off until after the holidays and they seem to be more reasonable to our bill of prices. There has been a committee appointed and I am working in conjunction with this committee. I am looking for favorable results in the near future. I am working hard with this end in view. This local is contemplating on a more aggressive campaign this year than they did in the past. There is a meeting in the near future of the different trades to arrange to meet the coming conditions due to building trades' new contract and also to build up a stronger organization of all crafts.

Yours fraternally,
MICHAEL GAZELLA,
Sub-organizer.

Easton, Pa., Jan. 7, 1922.

A large part of my time has been spent in the Powell & Goldstein, Onelda, N. Y., controversy, this firm having opened non-union factories in Littlestown, Marietta and Hanover. I also met with the International Executive Board in New York City. At this meeting plans were formulated for an intensive campaign of organization, and when I returned to Pennsylvania I worked to arouse a more energetic spirit among the members there. The Executive Board detailed Organizers McCabe and Sontheimer to assist in the work in these districts, and many meetings were addressed and hundreds of circulars issued by the International Executive Board were distributed. Conditions during the holidays were not favorable to organization work, but the campaign will now be taken up with renewed vigor. At present I am working in Easton, Pa., where the cigar makers are on strike against a reduction of wages. Yours fraternally,

J. P. KEENE, Org.

Forward, Onward and Upward in 1922.

The best that American labor can pledge to the cause of progress for the coming year is a continuance of its best effort to promote that cause in every possible manner by every possible constructive effort. Labor is the one force in our social life that is compelled by its very character to strive to the utmost always for progress, freedom, democracy and justice. It would be fortunate if other elements were under similar self-imposed compulsion.

The year through which we have just passed has been a year of concentrated struggle.

Certain employers greeted the year 1921 with the battle cry of destruction. They felt a sense of power without responsibility to the social entity. They felt that the road was clear for the amassing of fabulous wealth and for the re-establishment of industrial dictatorship. Two things were clear in their minds: To reduce wages and to destroy the unions, the voluntary organizations of the workers in order that wages might be permanently held down and in order that working conditions might be determined likewise in arbitrary manner, to the detriment of the workers.

Organized labor stood firm against this destructive movement. It has maintained its position with such tenacity and purpose that wage reduction has made but comparatively trifling headway, while the destruction of the unions has made no progress at all. Labor is as united and as determined as ever—and a great deal more so.

Labor had more than this to contend with, however. The courts contributed their share. Judicial power has been thrown on the side of predatory wealth. Destruction of law by usurped power has continued apace. Injunctions have grown and multiplied.

On the other hand, the propagandists of various political and industrial cure-alls and fantasies have been busy in an attempt to eat at the vitals of our movement. A great, vicious circle of destructive, undemocratic, oppressive influences has sought to the limit of its capacity to destroy the one great constructive force in American industrial life.

Our movement has stood the test with flying colors. No movement less responsive to the needs of the workers, less qualified to serve, less able to resist, could have stood so completely unscarred through such a year of conflict.

Through the year, despite the slanders and attacks, the movement developed a vast amount of constructive thought, contributed constantly in the development of constructive work, gave constantly in service to humanity.

In the midst of an unemployment crisis which need not have been, it was the voice and the counsel of labor that made it possible for the national conference on unemployment to survive and to succeed to such an extent that it is estimated a million and a half of workers have been re-employed.

The world today stands upon the threshold of a ten-year naval holiday, from which it is hoped the world will emerge into everlasting peace. Labor led the way to the present conference, with its record from the beginning of our movement and with its declaration adopted by the Executive Council in May and by the convention in Denver in June calling for such an international conference as the President later determined to call.

These are evidences of labor's temper and spirit and willingness to serve.

There is no intent to draw a bill of particulars. The old year has gone. The efforts of reactionary employers, of hostile newspapers, of courts, of legislatures, of Congress, to harass, to undermine and to destroy, have been unavailing. And even the presidential proposal for judicial tribunals to arbitrarily force labor and all industry under the tyrannical rule of courts, will not succeed.

The conclusion, at the end of the year, is that reaction has tried with all diligence, and has failed to shake the progressive, enlightened, constructive purpose of the great masses of our people.

The conviction is inescapable that progress is in store. Our people understood too well the implications of the proposals of reaction to be deceived. Reaction can not win by logic because the logic of the equation is all against it. It can not win by threats and force because the might of the masses in their determination to go forward is unconquerable and insurmountable.

"Lay on MacDuff," we said a full year ago. MacDuff has laid on with vigor, but with the customary blindness of those who will not see the tide of human affairs and who will not listen to the burden of the human story as it is spoken from the lips of the masses.

Freedom's cause is safe because it is in the keeping of so many.

And so, at the dawn of the New Year—1922—we greet our fellow workers, our fellow citizens. We bid them look forward, we bid them envision the rising sun, we bid them forward, onward and upward toward a better day, a brighter day, a better, richer, fuller life for all mankind.—From the American Federationist.

REPORT OF INTERNATIONAL FINANCIER

St. Joseph, Mo., Jan. 2, 1922.
Since last report I have examined the accounts of the following unions, viz:

No. 93, Omaha, Neb.

The books and accounts here are in very nice order; benefit cards and expense vouchers all on file; cash and stamp accounts correct. Sec'y Huller has deposited $150 in bank since Dec. 1st, leaving $18.45 on hand at date of examination.

Statement as follows:
Financier's balance for June 1, 1917...$ 423.20
Int'l receipts to Dec. 1, 1921.....7,463.05
Total$7,886.25
Int'l expense to Dec. 1, 1921.....7,315.30

Financier's balance for Dec. 1, 1921...$ 570.95
Funds of Union.
Dec. 1, 1921, in Merchants Nat'l Bank$338.80
In possession Sec'y T. J. Huller... 143.05

Total$ 481.85

Deficiency of Union Dec. 1, 1921.....$ 89.10
This is a balance on old deficiency and must be replaced. Section 173 will explain why this must not longer be neglected.

No. 100, Milbank, S. D.

The accounts here are in good condition. Explained to the secretary how to balance each member's dues account in the ledger with every credit given, also how to balance the funds in the day book at the end of each month. Cash and stamp accounts correct; benefit cards and expense vouchers nicely filed. Very nice work.

Statement as follows:
Int'l receipts from organization, March 1919, to Dec. 1, 1921.....$1,785.48
Correction in accounts, due on exam... 2.50

Total$1,787.98
Expense to Dec. 1, 1921.....1,431.28

Financier's balance for Dec. 1, 1921....$ 356.70

Funds of Union.
Dec. 1, 1921, in 1st Nat'l Bank....$353.00
In possession Sec'y E. H. Duesing 3.70

Total$ 356.70
No. 143, Lincoln, Neb.

The books and accounts here are as neat as any I ever saw; benefit cards and expense vouchers all on file; ledger nicely posted; everything in excellent condition so far as the work of the secretary-treasurer is concerned, except that one member received some sick benefit while on the 90-day limit.

Statement as follows:
Financier's balance for June 1, 1917...$ 385.40
Int'l receipts to Dec. 1, 1921.....3,839.05
Expended over percentage in 1917.....8.14
Expended over percentage in 1918.....34.01
Due Int'l Union on examination.....56.00

Total$4,322.60
Expense to Dec. 1, 1921.....3,771.41

Financier's balance for Dec. 1, 1921....$ 551.19

Funds of Union.
Dec. 1, 1921, in Lincoln State Bank$393.50
In possession Sec'y-Treas. John Steiner101.69

Total$ 495.19
Deficiency of Union Dec. 1, 1921.....$ 56.00
This is the illegal sick benefit paid to F. Fink. No. 55274, during Dec., 1920, and Jan. and Feb., 1921. Secretary-treasurer deposited in bank since Dec. 1, $75; in fact "his" money in bank will cover much more than the amount reported in his possession Dec. 1, as he carries a personal bank account.

No. 150, Sioux City, Iowa.

The books and accounts here are now in the best condition I ever found them at No. 150, Sioux City. Cash and stamp accounts correct; benefit cards on file; vouchers and original bills are all on file since Sec'y Martin has had the books. So far as figures are concerned, I did not find any differences since last examination.

Statement as follows:
Financier's balance for July 1, 1917.....$ 98.14
Int'l receipts to Dec. 1, 1921.....6,698.90
Expended over percentage in 1917.....17.74

Total$6,814.78
Int'l expense to Dec. 1, 1921.....6,461.10

Financier's balance for Dec. 1, 1921....$ 363.68

Funds of Union.
At time of examination, in Sioux Nat'l Bank$331.00
In possession Sec'y C. H. Martin 32.68

Total$ 363.68

No. 153, Sioux Falls, S. D.

The accounts here are really in nice condition; cash and stamp accounts correct; benefit cards all on file. There has been a little mistake made here because of not making out expense vouchers for certain expenditures. There should be a real voucher endorsed by whoever receives the money for every item of expense. There has been a nice effort made here to have the accounts correct.

Statement as follows:
Financier's balance for July 1, 1917.....$ 141.96
Int'l receipts to Dec. 1, 1921.....5,221.25

Total$5,363.21
Int'l expense to Dec. 1, 1921.....4,984.87

Financier's balance for Dec. 1, 1921....$ 378.34

Funds of Union.

Dec. 1, 1921, in Minnehaha Nat'l Bank $370.76
In posses. Sec'y John Goebel..... 7.58

Total $ 378.34

No. 177, Council Bluffs, Iowa.
The books and accounts here are at this time in very fair condition. They had a fire here and some of the union property was lost.

Statement as follows:

Financier's balance for July 1, 1917.... $ 102.01
Int'l receipts to Dec. 1, 1921..... 2,375.92
Expended over percentage in 1917..... .17
Due to Int'l Union on examination..... 1.89

Total $2,479.99
Int'l expense to Dec. 1, 1921..... 2,354.98

Financier's balance for Dec. 1, 1921.... $ 125.01

Funds of Union.

Dec. 1, 1921, in State Savings Bank $116.78
In possession Sec'y P. H. Heuermann 8.06

Total $ 124.84

Deficiency of Union Dec. 1, 1921..... $.17
This is the amount expended over percentage in 1917.

No. 276, Plattsmouth, Neb.

If only our trade were as fine as the accounts of Secretary Bajek here at Plattsmouth there would be work for a lot of cigar makers. The accounts here are just as we want them; cash and stamp accounts correct; day book shows the accounts balanced at the end of month; benefit cards and expense vouchers correctly filed; ledger correctly indexed and the funds always in bank to correspond with the monthly report.

Statement as follows:

Financier's balance for June 1, 1917.. $ 119.47
Int'l receipts to Dec. 31, 1921..... 2,197.00

Total $2,316.47
Int'l expense to Dec. 31, 1921 2,179.75

Financier's balance for Dec. 31, 1921.. $ 136.72

Funds of Union.

Dec. 1, 1921, in 1st Nat'l Bank. $125.00
In possession Sec'y-Treas. Mike Bajek 11.75

Total $ 136.75

Surplus same as at date of last exam.. $.03

No. 312, Livingston, Mont.

The books here are accurate; benefit cards and vouchers all on file; stamp account correct; but the funds in bank showed that extreme neglect has been continuous. However, today all the funds of the union are in bank. I am quite sure that after this experience the attention necessary will be given union affairs here.

Statement as follows:

Financier's balance for March 1, 1918.. $ 304.53
Int'l receipts to Dec. 12, 1921..... 3,096.40
Expended over percentage in 1917..... 38.91
Expended over percentage in 1918..... 38.57

Total $3,478.41
Expense to Dec. 12, 1921 2,854.13

Financier's balance for Dec. 12, 1921.... $ 624.28

Funds of Union.

Dec. 12, 1921, in Park Nat'l Bank..... $ 624.28

No. 345, Rapid City, S. D.

The books here are fine; benefit cards all on file; recently treasurer's vouchers for local expense have been omitted. Am promised that they will have them in the future. There was $5 more in bank than was reported; this was corrected when the bank account was verified at time of examination. The stamp and cash accounts are now correct.

Statement as follows:

Receipts from organization, Sept. 1918, to Dec. 1, 1921 $1,114.60

Expended over percentage in 1919..... .41

Total $1,115.01
Expense to Dec. 1, 1921..... 929.52

Financier's balance for Dec. 1, 1921.... $ 185.49

Funds of Union.

Dec. 1, 1921, in 1st Nat'l Bank. $151.78
In possession Sec'y Louis Metzler, Jr. 33.30
Total $ 185.08

Deficiency of Union Dec. 1, 1921..... $.41

This deficiency is the amount expended over percentage in 1919. Sec'y Metzler deposited the $33.30 in his possession on Dec. 3rd.

No. 358, Fremont, Neb.

The books and accounts here are in very nice condition. Some of the members run over the limit in dues and it must stop. Benefit cards and endorsed vouchers on file for all expense.

Statement as follows:

Financier's balance for June 1, 1917.. $ 97.54
Int'l receipts to Dec. 25, 1921..... 1,585.35

Total $1,682.89
Expense to Dec. 25, 1921 1,531.27

Financier's balance for Dec. 25, 1921.... $ 151.62

Funds of Union.

Dec. 27, 1921, in Com. Nat'l Bank. $145.00
In possession Sec'y Wm. Feinuer 6.62

Total $ 151.62

No. 491, Huron, S. D.

The books and accounts here are now in the best condition they ever have been at No. 491. Huron. Cash and stamp accounts correct; benefit cards and expense vouchers filed in the rotation in which the items are entered; ledger nicely posted and funds are at all times promptly deposited.

Statement as follows:

Financier's balance for July 1, 1917.... $ 196.66
Int'l receipts to Dec. 1, 1921..... 5,618.95

Total $5,815.61
Int'l expense to Dec. 1, 1921..... 5,583.31
Financier's balance for Dec. 1, 1921.... $ 292.30

Yours fraternally,

W. A. Campbell,
Int. Financier.

OFFICIAL

EXECUTIVE BOARD.

G. W. PERKINS, President,
Monon Building, Chicago.

SAMUEL GOMPERS, 318 W. 51st St., New York City, First Vice President.

I. M. ORNBURN, 286 York St., Hartford, Conn., Second Vice President.

D. W. KENNEDY, 73 Clifton Ave., Niagara Falls, Ont., Third Vice President.

MANUEL GONZALES, Box 396, Ybor City, Tampa, Fla., Fourth Vice President.

E. G. HALL, 4124 Bryant Ave., S., Minneapolis, Minn., Fifth Vice President.

ALEXANDER RAMSEY, Nevada City, Calif., Sixth Vice President.

CHAS. H. STEVENS, 350 Broadway, Buffalo, N. Y., Seventh Vice President.

GIBSON WEBER, 1710 N. Gratz St., Station C, Philadelphia, Pa., Treasurer.

Always refer to the Constitution when your interests are involved.

When a member changes from the 60c to the 40c list or retires absolutely, all previous cards should be returned to the International Union.

Unions when notifying this office of change in secretary will please at once give the new secretary's address.

Section 140g distinctly and plainly states: "No sick or out-of-work benefit shall be paid to members adjudged to be insane." All amounts so paid are illegal. No dues shall be collected from any insane member.

The International Union will not authorize payment of death benefit except in strict compliance with the law. Several cases have occurred in which there has been no will, no widow, no minor children, and no dependent relatives, but other relatives have stepped in and demanded the death benefit. No such claims have been recognized for the payment of benefits authorized. The International Union furnishes the designation blanks free, and where members refuse or neglect to fill out such designation blanks the responsibility for the non-payment of benefits rests entirely with such members.

Secretaries may use the numbers of deceased and suspended members for new members—except numbers belonging to those owing loan accounts.

In several instances where cards have been stolen from members, secretaries had granted the thieves loans without demanding to see the due books showing their standing. No loans should be granted unless the party has both card and due book in proper condition.

Members out of work are not entitled to the sixteen weeks' privilege unless they notify the secretary weekly before the eighth week. This includes traveling members, who should always carry a certificate and have same signed weekly.

In reporting the death of a member secretaries should send in with such reports the card of the member, if he had one, having previously, however, taken a record of all necessary information thereon for future reference.

Also, as per section 145, give full record of membership, as far as your own records show. If there is a will on file send it to the International office. In order that you may fully understand the necessity for complying with the request carefully study section 141c of the Constitution. Remember that "verbal wills" do not comply with the requirements of the Constitution.

Section 140c of the Constitution first distinctly provides that members may designate the person or persons to whom the death benefit shall be paid. Secondly, it provides that if there is no such designation the death benefit shall be paid to the widow of such deceased member; if there is no widow, then to the minor children of such deceased member, and if there be no widow and no minor children of such deceased member, then to any relative of the deceased member who at the time of his death was dependent for support in whole or in part.

The amendment of Union 312, Livingston, to postpone the May, 1922, convention, was adopted by popular vote. The vote was 4,571 for postponement and 685 against postponement.

DECISIONS OF THE PRESIDENT

J. I. Merrill appealed against 129 Denver for levying a fifty-cent weekly assessment and later on a one-dollar weekly assessment for the unemployed. No facts were given. The union replied that they had levied assessments to assist the unemployed totaling five dollars all told on each member. The appeal was not sustained.

The J. A. B., New York, appealed against 132 Brooklyn, a member of the J. A. B., for refusing to annul the retiring card of H. Mitchell. The J. A. B. shows that Mitchell was employed as foreman in a shop in New York City, formerly union but that is now and has been for some time running strictly non-union, and in which an authorized strike occurred. The decision is that Mr. Mitchell must quit this strike bound shop or forfeit his retiring card.

N. J. Martin appealed against 27 Toronto for refusing to annul the retiring card of Miss Edna Cronin. The appeal was not sustained.

John Arboix appealed against 92 Worcester for finding him guilty of slandering the officers of the union. The appeal was not sustained.

Support Your Cause.

The General Committee on the Limitation of Armament, founded by Samuel Gompers, is fighting for the public interest for the fullest possible degree of limitation of armament, for final disarmament and lasting international peace.
